Six Reds were felled by Barwise, a hefty, nonchalant soldier who wears size 14 boots, with a variety of weapons including two taken from killed Chinese.

Houseboys Help

Ten died under the sights of two Korean houseboys who sayed in a slit trench near Carr and MacDonald, shooting their U.S. Army carbines until they ran out of ammunition.

Eleven were killed by fire from a platoon under Lieut. Mike Levy of Vancouver and from a section led by L. Cpl. Jim Waniandy of Fort McMurray, Alta.

Twenty-seven were ripped to death in the company area by artillery shrapnel and uncounted more died on the forward approaches—still held by the enemy when the Canadians were relieved in the line.

The action was north of Kapyong in the west central sector, when the Canadians occupied a mile-long series of 3,000-foot mountains northwest of the villages of Kail and Cheryong and guarding the vital Seoul-Chunchon road.

The Chinese had struck the South Korean 6th Division with the full weight of their long-expected offensive, and the Koreans in 25 hours had given up 20 miles of good defensive country which the Patricias had helped take during the preceding two weeks.

Furious Battle

Thrown into the line to shore up the breach, the Patricias' stand the night of April 24-25 followed a furious daylight battle on lower ground to the west where the Middlesex Regiment and the Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders first bogged down the enemy advance.

Stalled in the low terrain, the enemy concentrated his attack that night on the hills—and struck the Patricias.

Mills and his men had seen the enemy mass for the attack during the evening. Carr and MacDonald then began a stand that ended in a fight to the death, their position overrun.

The two machine-gunners' initial harassing fire had been so effective down a draw that represented the enemy's easiest avenue of approach that from the beginning of the actual attacks, which later came in wave upon wave, the enemy was determined to take them out.

Terrible Cost

He did, but at a terrible cost.

Waniandy, section leader in a platoon commanded by Sgt. Vern Holligan, St. Catharines, said:

"First of all there was a bugle call. It must have been their forming-up signal. It came from a point about 100 yards from the top on their side of the ridge.

"Then there was a sound like the beating of sticks. Maybe they were hollow bamboo rods slapped against one another. I don't know what they were for.

"That was followed by the blowing of shrill whistles. There were four different tones, one with a vibrating sound something like a tuning fork. That was their signal for the attack.

"They came in with a shout, like a screaming jabber."

Barwise interjected, supported by Pte. Pete Boldt of Simcoe:

"They rushed in shouting 'Canada banzai'. They tell me that's Japanese for 'Bravo Canada.' Maybe they were trying to confuse use."

Waniandy continued:

"By that time they were within 50 feet of us.

"I told the boys to let them come closer before opening up. I knew they would have to be within 15 feet of the top before they could touch us and I didn't want the fellows to empty their magazines too soon.

"When they were close enough we opened with our Brens (light machine-guns) and rifles. We saw them falling all over."

The Chinese attack was supported by mortar fire from the hillside, which the Canadians were unable to get at.

Most of the Canadians' casualties were caused by mortar and grenades. Total cost to the battalion was 10 killed and 21 wounded, including casualties to a company commanded by Major Vince Lilley of Hamilton, which also fought the Chinese to a standstill that night.

Barwise said: "They kept on coming all night in waves. They must have been crazy, or glory-happy."

Overran Post

Shortly after midnight the Chinese overran the Vickers post, manned by Carr and Macdonald.

By then Levy, Holligan and Lieut. John Pearson of Winnipeg, Mills' other platoon commander, had reported their positions "not good" and Mills told the men to get down in their split trenches while he brought down artillery fire. Three regiments of artillery concentrated their fire on his ridgetop for three hours before the attack was broken up.

The Chinese withdrew 100 yards down the slope, leaving their shredded dead behind and not one Canadian casualty caused by the artillery.

Meanwhile Barwise had killed two Chinese with grenades, and then, since he knew the way to the Vickers position, was sent for by Mills.

A platoon under Lieut. Bob Whittaker of Saint John, NB, was going in to attack the Chinese to retrieve the lost Vickers and the Vancouver six-footer briefed its section leaders on the west approaches.

When the attack went in Barwise relieved two dead Chinese of a carbine and a Thompson sub-machine gun, and emptying the magazines, killed an advancing Chinese with each.

Save Weapon

While Whittaker's attack was still forming up to go in, Barwise whipped silently up to the Vickers slit trench, emptied the half-filled belt of ammunition at another group of Chinese, killing one, and then carried the weapon back to the Patricias' line.

His final kill that night was with his own rifle.

Weapons captured by the Canadians during the battle included types produced in China, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Canada — three Canadian Bren light machine-guns.

The Canadians' stand, climax of a "They shall not pass" stand by the whole 27th British Commonwealth Brigade, was credited with blocking the Chinese offensive in the sector.

3 Men Fail To Get Bank Loot

Claremont Money Saved As Torch Runs Out Of Gas

TORONTO, May 12. (CP) — Three bandits with a carefully-laid plan to rob the Bank of Commerce branch at Claremont, 25 miles northeast of here, failed early today when their gas supply for an acetylene torch failed.

Provincial Police said the three were "a matter of minutes" away from a haul that would have amounted to thousands of dollars in cash and securities in safety deposit boxes. They escaped empty handed.

The three intruders left their toreh in the bank. They fled in a blue or black sedan, travelling east.

W. L. Irwin, the bank manager, said he was awakened when the bandits put a ladder to a sunroom window of his apartment over the bank. He and his wife arose to investigate, and were met at gunpoint in their living room.

One Stands Guard

Irwin said the men were masked and wore gloves.

From 2.45 a.m. to 5.15 a.m., one of the three held the couple with his gun while the other two worked on the vault.

They opened a downstairs door of the bank to bring in their acetylene torch and equipment.

Telephone and burglar-alarm wires were cut to prevent warning being given.

Sgt. Gordon Campbell and Constable Gordon Keast of the provincial police stationed at Whitby are investigating, together with two men from the OPP criminal investigation branch in Toronto.

U.S. Explodes A-Bomb In Defence Test

HONOLULU, May 12 (AP). — The United States has exploded another bomb at Eniwetok in the first atomic test emphasizing defence against the A-bomb.

Even the time of the closely-guarded "operation greenhouse" explosion was not definitely known. But presumably it took place Monday or Tuesday in the 200-square-mile proving grounds 2,000 miles west of here.

Its force was thrown against structures built at the Eniwetok proving ground to develop information on construction, design and materials which best can withstand the bomb.

Early speculation that the test might involve a hydrogen bomb was discounted.

First positive word on the latest test came from a Congressman Representative Henry M. Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) He said here that he had attended "a test" at Eniwetok.

Test Finished

Later in Washington a member of the Senate-House atomic committee said "the test has been finished."

This source said May 7 was the target date for the main and final test at Eniwetok. Results had not yet been evaluated.

The Atomic Energy Commission said only that a "test program is under way" at Eniwetok.

Jackson, just before leaving by plane for San Francisco and Seattle, said he would hold a press conference Sunday.

The security rule on atomic experiments is that the AEC makes all initial announcements.

Advance reports by the commission clearly indicated that structural defence against a bomb attack would be a key phase of "operation greenhouse."

The commission said full reports on "design criteria" would be given the American Institute of Architects and the civilian-defence administration.

Raise Rates To 5 Per Cent Under Housing Act Loan

OTTAWA, May 12. (CP)—Interest rates on loans obtained under the Canadian Government's National Housing Act will be increased to five per cent from 4½ per cent. Resources Minister Winters told the Commons Friday that the increase will be authorized through legislation to be introduced later in the session. The increase will not become effective until the legislation is passed. The increase in rates will mean a corresponding increase in the cost of homes built by Canadians who borrow money under the National Housing Act.

Mr. Winters said the increase will amount to an additional charge of 25 cents a month on each $1,000 of loan. Officials of the Crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation estimated that the increase will boost the cost of a $6,000 home to $6,200.

The officials said the 25-cent-a-month figure was based on a blended payment of principal and interest spread over 240 equal monthly instalments covering payments of loans repayable in 20 years.

40,000 Financed

Under the National Housing Act, Canadians can borrow up to $8,500 for home-construction purposes. Seventy-five per cent of the loan is put up by insurance companies or other lending institutions and the remainder by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. In 1950 about 40,000 residential housing units were financed under the Act. The loans totalled approximately $280,000,000.

In explaining the reason for the increase in interest, Mr. Winters said the rates on NHA loans had not been increased in recent months when mortgage and other interest rates had risen.

As a result, "there is a growing unwillingness of lending institutions to participate in National Housing Act loans at the present rate of interest."

Hope Loans Available

It was hoped the lending institutions would make loans "readily available" at the increased interest rate to be provided by the legislation.

A Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation official said "it is anybody's guess" as to what the increase in rates will mean. Insurance companies and others probably would make loans wherever they could obtain the best returns.

Forest Plan Drawn Up With Provinces

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—The first step has been taken toward a complete stock-taking of Canada's forest assets during the next five years.

A general plan for the forest inventory and also for reforestation has been drawn up at a conference here of federal and provincial forestry officials.

Resources Minister Winters reported in a statement on a two-day closed meeting this week of delegations from the 10 provinces and representatives of the Federal government.

The conference was held in connection with the plan announced this month in the Commons by Mr. Winters, promising long-term federal aid for building Canada's forest resources.

The program calls for the federal government to share with the provinces on a 50-50 basis the cost of the forest inventories and to pay 25 per cent of the cost of reforesting crown lands. The expected federal cost is about $1,000,000 a year.

Mr. Winters said he believed there was general agreement in principle on the terms of a draft agreement used as a basis of discussion by the delegates. It was not intended that it would be signed at this conference.

It was agreed that each province would submit plans for the current year covering its proposed forest inventory and reforestation work to the federal government within the next two weeks.

Canada Sends Aid

TORONTO, May 12—(CP)—The Canadian Red Cross Friday voted $5,000 to provide medical supplies for victims of the El Salvador earthquake. Officials said the grant will be administered by the American Red Cross. The quake last week devastated a wide area in the central American Republic, leaving 25,000 homeless.

Not Doing Share Aussies Told

CANBERRA, May 12 (AP). — A charge by The Washington Post that Australia and New Zealand are laggards in the Korean war effort aroused indignation today in the capitals of the two countries. The charge was made on Thursday in a Post editorial.

A high Australian government spokesman said The Post's comments demanding that the two South Pacific countries be nudged into greater contributions in Korea were based on false impressions.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told a press conference that his newly-appointed cabinet held its first meeting Friday to discuss "problems of forces in Korea."

In Wellington, Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland voiced resentment at the editorial and declared New Zealand was one of the first to answer the call for forces in Korea.

Australia recruited about 6,000 men and sent an infantry battalion to the Korean front, along with one air force squadron and three warships. New Zealand sent an artillery regiment of 1,200 men and two warships.

Truman Wins Second Round

WASHINGTON, May 12—(Reuters)—The Truman administration appeared today to have won the second round of the battle of the Generals over the firing of Gen. MacArthur.

The first round was undoubtedly MacArthur's when the dismissed Supreme Far Eastern Commander startled the Senate investigating committees with a number of sensational charges and sweeping generalizations.

But the second round was the administration's, after Defence Secretary Marshall had testified for six gruelling days.

Much of Marshall's testimony was a detailed and documented refutation of MacArthur's charges.

Apart from pointing up alleged errors of fact, Marshall also posed several basic questions on which public opinion is more likely to favor MacArthur's.

Police Given Clean Bill Plan Drive On Bookies

VANCOUVER, May 12. (CP)—With a clean bill of moral health from the police commission, Police Chief Walter Mulligan and his force today stepped up their campaign to get the "higher-ups" in Vancouver's bookmaking racket. At the same time, The Sun said in a front-page story that big-time bookmakers in the United States plan to link Vancouver into a new system of race news communication to "foil the dreaded Kefauver committee.

"Basis of the new system is the flashing of news from US tracks to points in Canada, where it would be carried legally over telegraph lines and then fed back into the US by wire or telephone," The Sun said.

"The US bookmakers are planning the communication system because they fear passage of a US law prohibiting interstate transmission of racing information, life-blood of their multi-million-dollar industry."

Missing Picture Mystery Solved

LONDON, May 12. (Reuters)—The case of the picture that never arrived in Edinburgh, Tex., was solved Friday night by the Foreign Office.

The picture—of Princess Elizabeth and her baby daughter Anne—was promised to Edinburgh as a "thank you" for a bale of cotton sent the princess by the town when the baby was born last year. It was to have been autographed by the princess.

Weeks went by without any sign of the picture. Then a packing case arrived in Edinburgh. Mayor Chester Blodget opened it—and found a handful of shavings.

Cables passed between the British Embassy in Washington and the Foreign Office in London. Everyone was mystified.

Then an official found the picture in a spare room in the Foreign Office building in Whitehall.

It seems the picture was prepared for dispatch and put aside to await a packing case. When the case arrived at the Foreign Office, the lid already was nailed on, and before officials had time to put the picture inside, a zealous assistant had sent it off.

The picture will be sent to Texas by air in a few days.

Police Chief Kills 2 Soldier Prisoners

WARNER-ROBINS, Ga., May 12 (AP)—A Georgia police chief fatally shot two soldier-prisoners Friday night and today found himself the centre of civil-military inquiry into the killings.

Thomas Bragg, chief of police at Hawkinsville, shot the two privates in the presence of his six-year-old son.

The soldiers — whose names were withheld pending notification of kin—were picked up Friday on AWL charges.

Bragg said he was attacked by his prisoners and shot them in self-defence. A coroner's jury agreed.

But Sheriff C. E. Chapman said the soldiers were unarmed and handcuffed together at the time of the shooting. The case was being investigated by military and civil authorities.

Allege Man Trailed Wife To Ottawa, Then Shot Her

HULL, Que., May 12 (CP) — Police today pressed an investigation into the case of a west coast taxi-line operator who, they said, trailed his wife 2,500 miles to the capital, shot her to death with a "brand new" 30-30 rifle and then killed himself.

Police Chief J. A. Robert identified the couple as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knudsen of Prince George, in north central British Columbia, where they operated a small taxi service. He said the case is definitely a murder and suicide.

The bodies were found Friday night in the blood-spattered bathroom of a third-floor room in the Standish Hall Hotel, dine-and-dance night spot, when police responded to an anonymous telephoe report that "someone is dead in room 54." Police said the call did not come from the hotel.

Mrs. Knudsen, about 40, was shot twice, once through the back. Her husband, about 50, died from a shot through the mouth.

Chief Robert said his men are investigating the stories of two men "from the west" with whom, he said, Mrs. Knudsen drove to Ottawa from the coast a few days ago. He did not further identify the men, but said the three registered in separate rooms at the hotel a few blocks down the street from the Standish Hall.

He added that Knudsen flew into Ottawa late Friday and registered at the hotel where the bodies were found.

In the bedroom adjoining the bathroom, detectives found the wrappings and box that had contained the rifle, which Chief Robert said had been "brand new."

Mrs. Knudsen left her hotel room about 11:30 a.m. Friday. That was the last seen of either of the couple until police received the anonymouse tip at 9:30 p.m. No one had heard the fatal shots and hotel employees said they were unaware of the deaths until detectives arrived to investigate.

Reds Will Return Abducted Children

ATHENS, May 12 (CP).—The Greek government said Friday it had been notified that 220 more Greek children abducted by Communist guerrillas and held in Yugoslavia since the Greek Civil War would be returned here on May 18.

Socialists And Reds Stage Street Fights

VIENNA, May 12 — (AP). — Scattered street fights broke out today in Vienna between Socialists and oYung Communists arriving for a three-day Whitsuntide peace rally.

The fights occurred as trains packed with Communist boys and girls arrived from the western provinces.

The Communists were met outside the station by Socialist youths distributing anti-Communist pamphlets.

The Socialists were attacked by the older boys among the Communists as each train pulled in.

Police arrested several Communists who were later released. Several youths were slightly injured.

STRIKE FROM ABOVE—This map highlights the U.S. air strike at the secret Red air base at Smuiju this week, the biggest ation of the Korean war. Iron Out Differences About Red China

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The United States and Britain appear to have ironed out for the time being most of their differences over Communist China, the Japanese peace treaty and Formosa.

Responsible officials here said Friday's statement by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison helped bring the two western powers closer together on these thorny issues than they have been since the Korean fighting started.

Combined with other recent developments, the policy explanations by Morrison and other government spokesmen were accepted by American diplomats as meaning:

Britain is ready to go along with the American idea of tightening economic pressure against the Chinese Communists and other Soviet-bloc countries.

Israel-Syria Report Cease-Fire

TEL AVIV, Israel, May 12. (Reuters)—Reports from the Syrian border today said Syria and Israel have reached a new cease-fire agreement. The report said agreement was reached at an informal meeting of the Syrian-Israeli mixed armistice commission. The cease-fire follows an order from the United Nations security council.

The situation on the border, scene of sporadic fighting since last month, has been tense but quiet since Wednesday morning.

Predicts Marmora As Centre Of Important Iron Industry

MARMORA, May 12 (ENS)—Mines Minister Gemmell Friday night predicted that an important iron ore industry may soon be centred in this area, 25 miles north of Belleville.

Speaking to the local Chamber of Commerce, he said this district's mining future lies in the development of iron, base metals and industrial minerals.

Iron ore deposits were passed over in earlier years because richer deposits were available elsewhere. Talc, graphite, feldspar, mica and corundum are among other minerals present.

Mr. Gemmell said Eastern Ontario is the province's best potential prospecting grounds for the more common industrial minerals. One company is working a large body of vermiculite, a mica-like material important for its insulating qualities. Previously all Canadian requirements came from South Africa and the United States.

Elmer Sandercock, MPP for West Hastings, introduced the speaker who was accompanied by his deputy, Dr. H. C. Rickaby. Also present were Roscoe Robson, MPP for East Hastings; Simon Lake, geologist in charge of Bethlehem Steel operations, and A. Banter, the field engineer; W. Westerick, agent; Dr. Nolan, geologist, and Thomas Parks, field representative, Dominion Gulf Co.; Maurice Tremblay, director of publicity Department of Mines; T. A. Gilmore, secretary to the Minister of Mines; Dr. W. Wahl, consulting engineer; R. Cameron, chief supervisor, and J. Denison, of head office, Dominion Bank; Bruce Robertson, Belleville, geologist for Moore Holdings, Dulu h; Walter Hood, of Building Products, Havelock; R. G. Walsh, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited; and other of well known business connections.

Welcoming the large gathering, president A. F. Fraser gave a brief sketch of the history of the Marmora Chamber whose membership has risen to 70 this year and represents a good cross-section of the community. Reeve V. M. Lynch introduced the out-of-town guests. The thanks was extended by R. E. Bonter, of Marmora.

"Last fall as I visited many of the important mining section of Eastern Ontario," Mr. Gemmell said, "I came to the conclusion that the future of this large portion of the province, minewise, held much promise.

"Although I have no definite information on the results of exploration presently being carried out by the Bethlehem Steel, I feel inclined to say that the results are very interesting and the possibilities are that in the not too distant future an important iron ore industry will be a fact here.

"Other organizations have been carrying out drilling work on other properties in the vicinity of Marmora, and their results, I know, are encouraging.

Future Guaranteed

"Southeastern Ontario and Hastings County in particular is guaranteed a future of great consequence, and by that I mean that in a comparatively short while the contribution of this part of our great province to our aggregate mineral production will invite respect.

"There are few places in Canada where a geologist could find a greater variety of mineral substances than here in Hastings. In fact, Hastings County has been called the 'geologist's garden.' The name Marmora, which graces your beautiful municipality comes from the Latin word for 'marble.' Deloro, the unique metallurgical centre to the north of here, is Spanish for 'gold.' And the origin of the names of many other localities on the map of Hastings County recalls the presence of some mineral whose name no doubt inspired their appellations.

"Although one of the first gold mills in Ontario was erected in Marmora, the fact remains that the mining future of this part of Eastern Ontario lies more in the development of iron, base metals and industrial mineral deposits. This view is amply supported by the interest of mining developers whose attention is centred along these lines.

"There exists one exception to the above statement, and that is the operation of Dominion Magnesium at Haley Station, near Renfrew. But in that case much of the basic material required for the production of the finished product is imported, and therefore I have excluded it from my statement.

"I would like to tell you a few things about what is going on in the field of industrial mineral development in Southeastern Ontario. I have previously told you that this section of the province is well known for its many valuable deposits of industrial minerals such as talc, graphite, feldspar, mica, corundum, apatite, fluorspar, marble and nepheline syenite.

"For many years our entire production of nepheline syenite, talc, graphite and fluorspar, as well as much of the feldspar and mica, had come from this section of the province.

"At the present time there are a number of interesting new developments in the making in Eastern Ontario. The Suzorite Company of Canada are developing a large ore body of vermiculite near Perth and it's the first of its kind to be found in Canada. This vermiculite is a mica-like material which expands on heating to twenty times its original size, and because of its light weight and insulating properties, it has become an important industrial insulation material. Vermiculite is widely used as plaster and concrete aggregate and as horticultural packing as well as for fireproof insulating fill in buildings.

"Previous to this discovery our Canadian requirements were imported from South Africa and the United States. The Suzorite Company has recently disclosed that the ore body under development has a length of nearly two thousand feet, a width of four hundred feet, and that drilling has indicated a depth of at least two hundred feet. More than two million tons of ore have been indicated by preliminary work. An easily available source of vermiculite will be an important asset to the building industry in Ontario and there can be no doubt about that.

"The second promising new outlook in Eastern Ontario is the development of a silica sand industry. Two companies have deposits running into millions of tons under development and are planning to produce glass-grade silica sands. For many years the glass industries situated in Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal have imported silica sand from Illinois and Michigan. In 1949 over one and one-half million dollars worth of this special grade of silica sand was imported into Canada. The development of these new deposits of sandstone near Kingston and Ottawa may well result in Canada being self-sufficient in this important commodity."

In Bancroft Area

"Ortona Mines have recently announced plans to investigate a large new body of nepheline syenite carrying economic quantities of corundum, near Bancroft. Nepheline syenite is used in the manufacture of glass and ceramic products such as table ware, porcelain, enamels, etc. Corundum is an important natural abrasive, one of the strategic minerals in time of war.

"The Black Donald Graphite Company is examining a number of graphite deposits in Eastern Ontario. For many years their mine near Calabogy has been the sole Canadian source of graphite for storage batteries, foundry facings and lubricants.

"Eastern Ontario offers interesting possibilities for the development of a number of little known industrial minerals and is Ontario's best potential prospecting grounds for the more common industrial minerals such as feldspar, mica, fluorspar, talc and a host of others.

"Following the end of hostilities in 1945, Canada's great industrial expansion resulted in an extraordinary demand for raw materials of all types, and especially industrial minerals. And because of repeated requests for information as to possible sources of these minerals in Ontario, the Department of Mines appointed a geologist specializing in industrial minerals to complete a survey of these resources in the province. His work includes the location of deposits, grades and specifications of these minerals, and their marketing.

"In 1939 a program of geological mapping was started in response to the revival of interest in gold occurrences associated with a belt of greenstones and sediments extending easterly from Grimsthorpe township, in this county, to Palmerston township in Frontenac.

"In subsequent years the work has been extended to adjoining parts of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Lanark counties. Altogether, fifteen townships have been examined in the period from 1939 to 1950. Geological reports and accompanying maps on a scale of 1 inch equals one mile, covering this work, have been issued or are in the course of preparation.

"In 1942 and 1943, inventories were made of the mineral occurrences in Haliburton, north Hastings and Renfrew counties in connection with the search for reserves of strategic minerals. Reports and maps representing this area have been issued.

"Special investigations relating to the occurrences of fluorspar, feldspar, silica sand and iron deposits have also been carried out. In 1949 and 1950 examinations were made of anomalies disclosed by aeromagnetic surveys of the area between Marmora and Bancroft in this county. And in November of last year, a class of instruction for prospectors was held here, the first one in a great many years.

"In the period 1939 to 1943, eight geological parties conducted surveys in Southeastern Ontario, and these cost about 25,000 dollars. In the period from 1944 to 1950, under the present administration—and this I must say without showing too much exultation—fifteen parties were placed in the area at a cost of roughly fifty-seven thousand dollars.

"Now, with respect to the aeromagnetic survey which is proving ofsuch immediate importance to the people of Marmora, I would like to tell you a little story. It is a story about two men in my departments at Queen's Park who are directly responsible for all the activity taking place in the area surrounding Marmora, in the exploration for iron ore.

"One of the principals in this story is H. C. Rickaby, Deputy-Minister, Ontario Department of Mines. The other, Dr. M. E. Hurst, is the Provincial Geologist, and a recognized authority on iron ore and its deposition.

"Mr. Rickaby and Dr. Hurst have always held high hopes for the establishment of a sizeable iron-ore industry in this part of Ontario, an industry that would consist of the production of several small operations.

"When they heard of the success of such an industry in northern New York State, they made a trip there and recognized the similarity of our geology here and that of the iron-bearing rocks there. They also found out that by using the flying magnetometer or aero-magnetometer, that the presence of magnetite iron ores lying beneath sedimentary rocks and overburden, was quickly revealed.

"On their return to Toronto, they recommended to the then Minister of Mines, the Honourable Mr. Frost, that the Ontario Government defray the cost of a flying survey over Hastings County. This recommendation was accepted, and the work proceeded with in 1949. Arrangements were made with Ottawa to have special maps prepared, and as a result of their publication, Bethlehem Steel and other organizations went to work."

"Incidentally, I would also like to thank the Federal authorities for the assistance they have given us in this work, and to pay tribute to their decision to expand the aero-magnetic survey to cover a very large section of southeastern Ontario.

And now, with regard to development of the iron ore resources of Hastings county, I would like to predict that the end of the summer will tell the story, that is, that we will be in a position to evaluate the future of that particular industry. As you know, private capital has sponsored a continuation of an aeromagnetic survey over the area lying to the south of Marmora. I am not in a position to enlighten you as to results there, but information should be forthcoming in the near future. To the north of here, much work is being done and by fall, we should all be enlightened as to decisions to be taken by the companies examining those deposits."

Plan To Investigate Paper's Finances

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—The financial set-up of the Daily Turf and Sporting News, described as a bettor's scratch sheet, will be investigated by Ontario's legislative crime probers.

The seven-man crime committee decided Friday, before adjourning to May 21, to ask a Toronto accounting firm to explain the finances of the paper. Earlier the committee heard that the sheet had an average net profit of about $30,000 annually.

The information came from Inspector W. G. Tomlinson, head of the anti-gambling squad of the Ontario Provincial Police. Documents seized at the accounting firm's office by police were read into the record by the inspector.

Included was a mass of correspondence to show the ramifications of an organization which distributes racing information from Chicago. Inspector Tomlinson said that Sam Roher of Toronto, described earlier as the boss of the wire service which sends out racing information, made a yearly net profit of about $15,000 from the Sporting News.

French Assembly Ends Life, June Election

PARIS, May 12 (AP).—A general election in France next month was assured when the French National Assembly voted early today to end its own life on July 4. The vote was 361 to 229.

June 17 is expected to be the date for the general election, the first since Oct. 13, 1946.

This year's balloting normally would have come in the fall. Premier Henri Queuille predicted, however, that if the voting were not held soon the nation virtually would be without a responsible government until the end of the year.

The action of the Assembly was the last of a series of votes of confidence which Queuille had demanded in support of his coalition of middle-of-the-road parties. In the last three weeks, he had asked and received eight other such votes as part of his campaign to change the electoral laws in order to cut down Communist strength and to push up the election date.

Army Surveyors Use Packhorses

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP). — A Canadian army warrant officer who last year ran a lonely 500-mile survey through the heart of much-shunned Headless Valley in the Northwest Territories, will leave Ottawa this month for another jaunt into the lesser-known regions of the North.

WO 1 L. G. McAdam of Ottawa a veteran with the army's survey establishment, and 41 other army men will operate 10 different surveys in the far north in the continuing task of completing the maping of Canada from aerial photographs.

The army field parties will use both packhorses and helicopters and the trip will take about four months.

WO McAdam's particular job will be a 200-mile survey along the Alaska Highway between Fort St. John and Fort Nelson, B. C. He doesn't expect to experience anything out of the ordinary.

In fact, he says, those strange and weird tales supposed to have been brought back from Headless Valley, south of the Nahanni River, by those who had ventured there, are just bunk.

Canada Can't Provide Complete Protection If Atomic War Starts

OTTAWA, May 12. (CP)—Canadians were told Friday that it will not be possible to provide complete protection in the event of an atomic war. Health Minister Martin said in the Commons that it will be impossible, even using all Canada's manpower and resources, to provide "anything like complete protection for the civilian population through civil defence." Moreover, what can be done must fall short of what people might like to see, he said.

Mr. Martin, who recently assumed responsibility for civil defence, made his statements during the fourth day of a debate on the government's $1,879,000,000 defence program for 1951-52. Civil defence expenditures will account for $4,200,000 of the total.

Federal planning, said Mr. Martin, is well advanced. Some hundreds of key instructors have been trained. He stressed the importance of local planning and said arrangements have been worked out with the provinces and the United States for spheres of responsibility.

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC—Lanark) charged that Canada's preparations exist on paper and said the country should be much further advanced in view of authoritative statements that war would bring a rain of atomic bombs on this continent.

Must Do Something

Dr. Blair said the world situation has reached the stage where Canada must do something about protection of the civilian population or wait until something has happened. A major first job was the training of people to handle casualties, a job that would take months.

Joseph Noseworthy (CCF — York South) asked what is being done about communities such as Toronto where a single bomb might destroy a concentration of hospitals.

Mr. Martin said his officials are conscious of that problem. They have consulted with United States experts and transmitted their views to the Ontario authorities.

At another stage of the defence debate, members voted 90 to 35 against a proposal by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that a special committee be established to study the estimates of defence expenditures.

Proper Perspective

Mr. Martin said a proper perspective must be maintained between doing too little and doing too much on civil defence. And above all it must be remembered that for a community there is no hiding place. War would demand of Canadians at home the same steadfast courage Canadians have shown on the battlefield.

There would be conflicting demands for manpower and production and there must therefore be priorities.

"The armed forces must and will come first in time of war. For this reason, plans for civil defence have to be made with constant regard for the claims on our resources that will be made by the army, navy and air force."

Mr. Martin said the federal government will assume responsibility for providing supplies and equipment under 15 main headings. These include co-operation with the United States and the provinces, provision of warning systems, protection against sabotage, research and development, provision of training aids, respirators, supply of sirens for communities of more than 20,000 persons, stock piling of medical supplies and other fields.

OBITUARIES

MRS. WILLIAM FITZPATRICK

Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, Downeyville, died Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, in her 81st year, after an illness of about two weeks.

Widow of the late William Fitzpatrick, who predeceased her about 20 years ago, Mrs. Fitzpatrick was born in Douro township Margaret Leahy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leahy.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick lived in Douro until her marriage and has lived in Downeyville ever since. She was a member of the Catholic Women's League and the Altar Society of St. Luke's Church, Downeyville.

She is survived by two sons, Patrick and Alphonse, both of Downeyville; two daughters, Sister Wilhemina of Peterborough, and Sister Alphonso of Alberta; three brothers, Michael James Leahy of Douro, and Dr. Bartholomew Leahy of St. Paul, Missouri; and two sisters, Sister Loyola of St. Paul, Mo., and Mrs. Frances Dalton of Peterborough.

The body is resting at her former home, the residence of her son, Alphonse Fitzpatrick. The funeral service will be held Monday at 9 a.m. in St. Luke's Church. Burial will be in St. Luke's cemetery.

Pheasant Plans

CALGARY (CP). — Hope that $15,000 would be raised for replenishing the pheasant population in Southern Alberta was expressed by Floyd Mitchell, president of the Calgary Fish and Game Association. The fund has already received $12,000 and 20,000 eggs have been donated by the State of Washington.

Expensive Theft

HOLLYWOOD, May 12 (AP)—A burglar slipped into Mrs. Jane Bergelsen's closet and stole a slip. That did not matter, she told police Friday, but: She had pinned to it a $7,500 diamond, a $17,500 emerald - cut diamond, a wedding band set with 25 diamonds, worth $400. Total loss, she said: $25,400.

Conservatives Gain 103 Seats

LONDON, May 12 (Reuters).—The Conservative Party Friday hailed successes in the England and Wales local government elections as sign it will oust the Socialist government in the general elections expected this year.

Final figures gave the Conservatives a net gain of 103 seats out of a total of 3,407 up for election in 390 boroughs But most of the gains were won at the expense of Independents—still a big force in local government affairs.

Labor nominees had a net loss of three seats.

The Tories were most elated over their success in the industrial city of Leeds, Yorkshire, where they turned a Labor majority of eight into a Conservative majority of 22.

The Conservative Party office said the Leeds victory was a great triumph because the vote there was considered a miniature general election.

Stresses Value Of Advertising

WELSHPOOL, Wales, May 12 (Reuters)—A Welsh-born Canadian newspaper publisher, Senator W. Rupert Davies, stressed the value of newspaper advertising above all other forms of publicity in a speech here Friday.

Senator Davies, who is this year's high sheriff of Montgomeryshire, was speaking at a trade fair here. He was born at Welshpool and has a house in Montgomeryshire where he usually spends some time each year.

"I am a firm believer in the value of newspaper advertising because I know the results it brings," he said. "Advertising is the invitation to people to come in and buy and it is also a guide to them as to how to spend their money wisely.

"No one knows better than I do the restrictions under which the newspapers of Britain are laboring today. These restrictions are particularly hard on weekly newspapers.

"I quite realize that because of these restrictions space in these newspapers is limited. I realize too that regular customers, particularly those that are what we call national advertisers, have to be taken care of."

force a unanimous vote of confidence Friday night.

The Chief asked for the vote after disclosure that Vancouver has a $3,000,000-a-year bookmaking racket, operators "making book" on Canada and US tracks.

Stewart McMorran, assistant city prosecutor, was asked to appear before the commission after he reported earlier to city council that bribery of public officials was "a possibility" when "such large sums of money were involved in bookmaking."

Mr. McMorran, who is seeking wider power in prosecution of gamblers, told the commission yesterday that he had not intended to cast any doubt on the honesty of any member of the force.

Production Cut Canada Forced To Import Eggs

OTTAWA, May 12 — (CP). — Now it's a turnabout in eggs—and poultry, too.

Canada, the great egg and poultry producer, is importing eggs from Holland, Ireland and other countries and poultry from the United States to offset scarcities.

It once was the other way round—but two short years ago. Canada then was a large exporter. But that was before egg contracts with Britain ended.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner outlined the oddity in the Commons Friday. It is true, he told William Bryce (CCF - Selkirk) that eggs and poultry are being imported.

He expressed the belief that Canadian poultrymen and egg producers have "overdone" cutting of their production.

Officials outside the Commons estimated that the current short supply likely will continue through the summer months until next fall. New and increased production then likely will catch up with demand — with plenty left over for exports as well

Cut Flocks

The turn of events began in the latter part of 1949, when the poultry industry heard that Britain, which had been buying eggs from Canada on contract all through the war years, had decided against renewal of the Anglo-Canadian egg contract

Some of the poultrymen dropped out of the business. Flocks were cut. Production dropped. Then came Korea. Prices boomed, consumption zoomed and the poultrymen found themselves with more business than they could handle.

Orders came in from other countries than Britain—the United States, Venezuela. And with beef priced out of the poor man's pocketbook, many in Canada turned to an omelet dinner.

But chicks can't be grown overnight.

Currently, officials estimate, egg production in Canada is running about 15 per cent below 1950. Though the shortage is not severe, they believe Canada could use another 176,000 cases—or about 5,280,000 dozens—to tide her over until next fall, when production is expected to be more than plentiful.

Mrs. M. A. Degen

The funeral for Mrs. M. A. Degen, 57 River Rd., N., who died Wednesday, was held Friday from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. W. S. Crone of the Church of the Open Bible conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were: Maurice Ketcheson, Ronald Davidson, Hubert Panter, James Martin, Russell Williams, Walter Mahaffe. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Republican Parley To Be Held In Chicago

TULSA, Okla., May 12—(AP)—The Republican national committee voted Friday to hold its 1952 presidential nomination convention in Chicago the week of July 7.

The approval of Chicago came after Philadelphia had lost a lengthy fight to bring the convention to that city where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was nominated a second time in 1948.

Have Nicest Legs

LONDON, May 12 (Reuters).—English girls have the nicest legs in the world, an American who should know said yesterday. Tyrone Power, after almost a year in England, said: "I've watched them closely and I say, after travelling in many countries, English girls have the nicest legs in the world."

Toronto Stock Markets Decline During Week

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets were lower this week. The decline was not rapid, but was a result of a gradual slipping of prices all week.

Trading on all markets again was mostly dull. Activity was generally a little greater than it has been for several weeks, but was still fairly well in line with the slow pace of the previous 11 weeks.

Trading on Canadian markets was active at the start of the week and quiet Friday. A week ago Friday the turnover was the biggest it had been in 2½ months. Since then sales have slowly decreased. The New York volume did not follow the same pattern, but picked up a bit as the week progressed. This indicated a tendency—not so uncommon in the last year or so — for Canadian markets in a limited way to strike out on their own without following New York.

After edging ahead for the previous two, Canadian markets started the week on the downgrade. Monday's trading was practically featureless with prices easing quietly.

Almost At Standstill

On Tuesday enough support appeared to hold prices almost at a standstill with little change. A few industrials managed small losses, were generally small except in chemical shares which put on a brilliant display of strength. Prices continued rolling higher Wednesday—this time led by railroads. At the close, though, a softness set in and they ended with only moderate increases. They eased in dull trading Thursday.

On Wednesday prices weakened again, but the decline was so slight that losses barely outnumbered advances. Papers were down the most of any group.

On Thursday the bears took definite command. Losses ranged from fractions to more than $2 as a wide list of issues receded. Papers again sagged the most, but a few steels and several other industrials were among the bigger losers.

Friday prices continued going downward in early trading, but towards the close buyers began returning. Prices ended where they started on an average. Except for a few industrials they stayed in a narrow path.

New York Lower

New York also began the week heading lower Prices drifted downward there most of Monday until late in the session when a rally started that cut many of the losses. Net declines were small.

On Tuesday prices inched upward. Gains, as the previous day's losses, were generally small except in chemical shares which put on a brilliant display of strength. Prices continued rolling higher Wednesday—this time led by railroads. At the close, though, a softness set in and they ended with only moderate increases. They eased in dull trading Thursday.

Friday New York prices suffered their greatest setback since March 28. They were fairly mixed most of the session until the final minutes. Then they dropped sharply with losses at the close up to more than $3.

The week's trading emphasized the caution of investors in their dealings and the reluctance of the market to break away from its slump of the last 12 weeks. Since the market began moving sideways (a term used when it goes neither up nor down) in mid-February there have been intermingled weeks of moderate advance and moderate decline with no real trend being decided. Of note, though, was the recent Toronto Stock Exchange release showing that during April the value of all stocks in that market made a substantial increase on an average. The exchange's industrial index posted an advance of 14.62 points for the month.

Clifford Pollard, chairman of the association's frequency-standardization committee, told the gathering:

Labor Council Severs Auxiliary Connection

FORT WILLIAM, May 12 (CP) —The Fort William Trades and Labor Council Thursday night voted to sever all connection with its women's auxiliary.

The council took this action following a charge by A. W. Godfrey, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada representative, that the women's auxiliary is "nothing more than a peddler of Communist propaganda."

His charge was answered by Mrs. Alvin Johnson, auxiliary delegate, who said the women have done "very commendable work" in the community.

"We are mothers who are against war," Mrs. Johnson said. She is the wife of Alvin L. Johnson, district organizer for the Labor - Progressive party of Canada.

Delegates also voted unanimously, with several abstaining, to adopt the procedure of the Port Arthur Trades and Labor Council in barring from the council Communists and their sympathizers, and anyone else affiliated with any movement detrimental to labor.

Need Foster Homes

TORONTO, May 12 — (CP).— A "desperate" situation evists in Toronto because of the lack of foster homes for children, Director Stewart Sutton of the Children's Aid Society Friday told its annual meeting. Homes must be found for 200 children within the next 10 weeks. Otherwise children will have to sleep on the floor of the overcrowded shelter here, be forced to remain in intolerable home conditions, or further overcrowd the few institutions available.

Lionel Barrymore Completes His Memoirs

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, May 12 (AP). —That master of the growl and rumble, Lionel Barrymore, has completed his memoirs. They reveal him to be as sentimental as any of us.

The reminiscences, under the title "We Barrymores," told to Cameron Shipp, the sage of Glendale who also listened to Billie Burke's remembrances. The book is full of gruff, self-effacing anecdotes, as well as warm recollections of Lionel's fellow workers. This is how he discusses some of them:

John Barrymore: "My brother's real and earnest and life-long ambition was to be a painter. He even....persuaded Maurice (his father) to put money for lessons in the hands of the Art Students' League; but.....trapping Jack Barrymore in a classroom was like tethering a he-fawn in a cell. He broke loose in one day and escaped."

Greta Garbo—her unpretentiousness was so extreme that it amounted almost to a malady. She appeared and disappeared as silently as a wraith....

Real Simplicity

"She has real simplicity, the true simplicity of the genius — only she is so different that her psychology is comparable to the terror of a gun-shy bird dog."

Margaret O'Brien: "I soon realized that Margaret could perform like no youngster I or anybody else had ever seen. When she takes over, you might as well imagine yourself a design on the wallpayer."

Spencer Tracy and Lew Ayres: "Tracy is a master of the art of throwing lines away. The best lines of any author are barely audible, so casual is Spencer. The only other actor who comes anywhere near him in this department is Lew Ayres."

Ethel Barrymore: "In 1949 Ethel celebrated 53 years on the theatre and sound stage and her 70th birthday....On the wireless to what seemed like cosmic applause— and to be like simple justice. My sister, after all, is the champion. She has licked the only unlickable person — time himself."

Jail Three Bishops

VATICAN CITY, May 12 (CP) Three Roman Catholic bishops and a nun have been jailed by the Communists in China, the Vatican reported Friday. They are Bishop Francis Ford, 58, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Bishop Rene Boisguerin, a French prelate, the Rev. Frederick Donaghy, 48, of New Bedford, Mass., and Sister Joan Ryan, another American member of the Maryknoll Mission.

Return To Work

PAMPLONA, Spain, May 12 — (Reuters)—All 4,000 workers on strike in protest against the increasing cost of living returned to work here Friday night. About 100 people held after clashes with the police which accompanied the strike were expected to be released. Stores which closed Thursday reopened and the city was almost back to normal.

WI At Coldsprings Sponsors 3-Act Play

COLDSPRINGS, May 12 (ENS) "She's My Daisy," a three-act comedy, was presented by members of a Young Adult Sunday school class of St. James' Church, Peterborough, Thursday evening, in the township hall.

The cast of 10 did their roles well. Between acts, Donald Ferguson, pianist, who accompanied the group, played popular music.

There was an excellent crowd in attendance. The play was under the auspices of the Coldsprings Women's Institute, with Mrs. Newton McIntosh and committee in charge.

Lunch was served to the entertainers and proceeds of the evening amounted to $53.40.

Equalization Bill

OTTAWA, May 12 — (CP)— Transport Minister Chevrier told the Commons Friday he hopes legislation for country-wide equalization of freight rates will be placed before Parliament at this session. Mr. Chevrier said it is still under consideration and, when finished, will be placed before the Commons, possibly at the present session.

Some Vindication Of Bevan

When Aneurin Bevan resigned from the British Cabinet his action was not entirely the result of a decision to make charges for false teeth and spectacles; his resignation was a protest against the heavy British commitment to re-arm, which he said could not be carried out because the U.S.A. was taking too much of the world's stock of raw materials. He described this action as hoarding, and said that it caused inflation in world markets and forced up the cost of rearmament to Britain. This criticism had been heard before, but the U.S. had paid no attention to it. Bevan's resignation brought about an investigation of the matter by the head of the U.S. office of Defence Mobilization, Mr. Charles E. Wilson, who went to Europe to find out what British and French leaders had to say on the subject. Mr. Wilson had been convinced that shortages were general and that the U.S. could not do anything to control them; but after the conference he had changed his mind, and made a statement which contained these words: "Information which I have gleaned has changed my views . . . There will have to be a reallocation . . . to keep the British rearmament program going."

* * *

It appears to us that this phase of contemporary history reflects great credit upon Aneurin Bevan, who took considerable political risk to make his point, and upon Charles Wilson, who was prepared to change his mind. In the modern world brave men and reasonable men are just as rare as they have always been. So long as we can continue to find them in the public service of the democratic countries we have not too much to fear.

Summer Is Not Yet Here

A few days ago some of the more adventurous Peterborough homeowners removed their storm windows. The more staid and cautious kept theirs on, and now, when the weather has turned chilly again they are chuckling at the precipitate action of their neighbours. Everybody should know that it is not advisable to remove them until May 24. After that one is pretty safe. It was very thoughtful of Queen Victoria to arrange her birthday with such consideration for the convenience of her loyal Canadian subjects, for it is the right time for doing so many things. Certain plants will only flourish if planted on May 24. In many families it is the date of the first migration to the country cottage, though preliminary reconnaissance may have taken place considerably earlier.

The present King was born on December 14, presumably owing to some regrettable error of the stork. This error was rectified by moving the official celebrations to June 6, but Canada clings tenaciously to Queen Victoria's birthday and June 6 is disregarded except by the banks. It is too late then for storm windows and tomato plants.

God-Complex

One of the most striking advances in the last fifty years has been in the field of psychology. Before that period a good deal had been known about the workings of the human mind, from proverbs to treatises on psychology, but this knowledge was unco-ordinated. More than that, the emphasis had always been laid on conscious mental processes; the workings of the unconscious mind, like the submerged part of an iceberg, were scarcely recognized.

The researches of Freud and Jung, together with the work of such men as Havelock Ellis, threw light on these dark recesses. Their pioneering work encountered much opposition at the time, as it necessarily involved lifting the taboo on discussion of sexual matters. In particular, Freud was criticized for making use of cases of marked psychological abnormality to explain the processes of normal minds. It did not occur to his critics that medical science has learnt much concerning the workings of a normal healthy body from the study of diseases.

The influence of the new science of psychology has made itself felt in countless ways—in literature, art, criminology, salesmanship, education and so on. In a popularized half-baked form it permeates our whole modern life. It is impossible to avoid hearing such expressions as "inferiority complex," "Oedipus complex," "schizophrenia" and the like used loosely in conversation, usually incorrectly. Even Hollywood has gone psycho in a big way. Psychiatrists (known to the Army as trick-cyclists, and endowed with the power of pronouncing a soldier unfit for service), are regarded with veneration by the public. We are of the opinion that these men are filling a very useful place in the community and should be given every aid and encouragement.

There are, however, some disquieting features of the current boom in psychiatry. There is still a shortage of men with the necessary training and ability. This should right itself in course of time, but in the meanwhile the field is open to charlatans.

More serious is the air of god-like omniscience which is being assumed by some practitioners of psychiatry. The science is still in its infancy, and by its very nature it is somewhat vague and intangible, leaving much scope for different schools of thought. Dogmatic statements by prominent psychiatrists are swallowed wholesale by a gullible public. The latest of these comes from Dr. George Stevenson of London, Ontario, who is reported as saying that if it had been standard practice for political leaders to be screened by psychiatrists, men like Hitler could never have got into power. He advocates obligatory psychiatric tests for would-be political leaders. Leaving aside the obvious impracticability of the scheme, which would have to apply to all countries if it were to do any good, it displays a monstrous presumption. Even psychiatrists are human—we have met one or two who appeared to be distinctly abnormal themselves—who is to "screen" them? It involves setting up a ruling caste of psychiatrist-kings above the law, incorruptibly honest and resolutely impartial. They would be incapable of taking sides for or against General MacArthur—such matters would be beneath their dignity. Eventually they would have to step in and run the affairs of the country themselves, and I fear that without any training in politics they would make a sorrier mess than ever before.

There is a word in psychology, often applied to Hitler, which neatly characterizes this attitude of presumption—god-complex. Psychiatrists should take heed that their heads are not turned by their present popularity.

A King Explains Himself

Great attention is being paid at present to A King's Story, a book in which H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor gives his side of the dispute which led to his abdication. It will not, of course, be the last word on the subject; we shall be greatly surprised if, during the next fifty years, papers do not come to light in which we shall learn a great deal more of what King Edward VIII thought about his contemporaries.

As matters stand, two men appeal in the book in a curious light. They are Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, formerly Archbishop of Canterbury, and Earl Baldwin, Prime Minister when Edward abdicated. Understandably, the King was out of sympathy with these men, and he says some sharp things about them. But unless facts are greatly distorted in his book—and nothing in it suggests that this is so—these two men wanted to be rid of Edward, because he would not fit easily into the pattern of a biddable, complaisant constitutional monarch. The complex of affairs surrounding his intended marriage formed the excuse for pushing him from the throne; the desire to do so existed before the matter of marriage was raised.

In the life of the late King George V there were incidents when, with great bitterness of heart, he had to swallow his own wishes and keep quiet about matters which were near to his heart. For instance, he wanted to rescue the Czar of Russia, when that monarch, his kinsman, was in danger. The politicians, notably Lloyd George, would not permit it, although at the time the exploit could probably have been carried off without serious consequences. All kings are the servants—not of the people, who wish them well—but of politicians, who are obsessed with the notion that they know what is best for their country in every sphere and at all times. Only a very simple-minded person could find it is his heart to envy a constitutional monarch.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is asserted that air travel is now as safe as horse-and-buggy travel was 40 years ago. Nonsense! Who has ever survived a "tip-over" from a plane?

We read that a game somewhat resembling bridge was played over a thousand years ago. Can this have been the game which our partner was playing last night?

A newly invented trombone slides sideways instead of forward, we are told. Instead of being called the slip-horn we presume that it will be known as the nudge-horn.

Princess Margaret is the object of some criticism because she recently appeared in a strapless evening gown. But a girl with the courage to wear one of those things will have no difficulty in ignoring a few bluenoses.

Insurance statistics show that in the U.S.A. a girl's chances of getting married decreases with every year of schooling she has. Pushed to its logical conclusion this suggests that really clever women never marry, which may give consolation in some quarters.

Diary of a Spring Week

by SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Got into an argument with some people today about geography, and we consulted an Atlas to decide the point. As we did so a man explained that of course the maps in the Atlas gave a very misleading impression of everyth[illegible]cause they were drawn according to Mercator's projection, which was only acceptable as a working hypothesis, and distorted the relations between the land masses. I nodded my head to show that I agreed, but really I haven't any idea what he was talking about. For years people have been telling me that all maps are desperately inaccurate, and that even globes of the world are not much good, and I suppose it must be true. But what's the odds? For any difference that maps make to me, I might just as well be a medieval peasant, believing that the earth is flat, and that if you walk far enough to East or West you will come to the Jumping Off Place. I never go anywhere by map: I am always carted there by rail, or car, or on a boat. I simply trust to the drivers of these vehicles. If the world waited for me to explore it, it would wait till the end of time. Why should I bother with geography so long as the drivers of trains, cars and boats know where places are?

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: In my mail this morning was a letter for my predecessor, who died ten years ago. I wonder how much postage is wasted annually in such fruitless communication. The letter was from a business house, trying to sell something. A man I know is still receiving mail from a financial investment house, forwarded from an address at which he lived twenty-two years ago. I am of the opinion that clever address machines are responsible for such foolishness. If a rheumaticky old man with a steel pen had to address these letters, he would probably notice that some of them never brought any response, and as he would feel in his own old bones that all flesh is grass, he might suspect that the owners of those names were dead. But a shiny, efficient machine feels nothing; it goes right on, addressing a thousand letters an hour, regardless of the fact that men do not last as long as the tin stencils in its maw. This is an example of self-defeating efficiency; or, as the old Hebrew proverb has it, "Too smart is dumb".

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: To the movies tonight and saw a moderately distressing film about the miseries of a young composer who was in love with two girls at once. I could believe that he loved two girls; I could not believe that he ever wrote music. For one thing, he was always shown scribbling down his great opera at the piano. No musician of any standing would dream of doing such a thing; I am not sure that it isn't forbidden by the union. Composers don't want to strum on the piano as they write, any more than I have to utter every word of this Diary aloud, in order to find out what I have said. His attempts to conduct an orchestra were very laughable, as well; it was all too plain that the orchestra was conducting him. Wham! would go the drums, and—just a fraction of a second too late, he would make a whamming gesture with his baton. Tweedle-deedle-dee would go the fiddles, and he would make airy tweedles with his fingers—too late. Watch an orchestra conductor: his swoops whams and tweedles are done before the noise comes, just as you see lightning before the thunder. Funny that the movie people have never noticed this.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Two decent-looking young fellows called at my door this afternoon, hoping to interest me in the Mormon faith. My curiosity about Mormonism was exhausted several years ago, when I endeavoured to read the Book of Mormon upon which it is founded; either I am an unworthy vessel, incapable of understanding this revelation, or it is preposterous nonsense; in either case it is wasted time to talk to me about it further. I have also read "Wife No. 19", by Ann Eliza Young, which is a very good description of life in a polygamous society, although the lady who wrote it flattered herself, because by strict count she was Wife number 27; she divorced the Prophet in 1877. It is interesting by the way, that Brigham Young's wives were, in the main, uncommonly plain women, and of his thirty-one daughters not more than two or three would attract a second glance . . . I parleyed politely with the young Mormons, for I had no wish to seem churlish, and doubtless they thought they were doing something praiseworthy. But door-to-door hawking of religion is basically objectionable to me.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Was in a house today where an archway was closed off by a handsome leather curtain which ran on a track. The owner demonstrated it to me, and as he whizzed it silently back and forth it stuck, and he had a humiliating struggle with it. Was reminded of those folding or sliding doors, which are no longer put in houses, but which always stuck, refused to meet neatly in the middle, and had a nasty way of warping so that they would not budge in any direction. As a child I lived in a house with a pair of these things, and loved the thunderous rolling, punctuated with shrill squeals, when they were moved. And a Sunday school which I attended had ten sets of them, to close off the classrooms; the fingers of the teachers in that abode of sanctity were always pinched and bruised, and some old timers had lost a joint or two.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Received a curious pamphlet this morning from a doctor in West Virginia; it was a reprint of a speech he made before the Section on Diseases of the Chest at the 99th Session of the American Medical Association in 1950, and is called "Shakespeare's Knowledge of Chest Diseases". In this strange work the good physician proves that Shakespeare knew that people had lungs, because he mentions them nineteen times. He also knew that there was such a thing as consumption and asthma, and one of his heroines (Beatrice in "Much Ado About Nothing") suffers from a cold in the head, so we must assume that Shakespeare knew that there was such a disease as a cold. All this seems to amaze the West Virginian doctor, and suggests to him that Shakespeare was a pretty smart fellow. But I can take this information calmly. I am no Shakespeare, but I have long been acquainted with all these facts myself. People who are not poets are often astonished to find that poets know anything at all; they seem to think that poets are born stupid, and get worse as they grow older. But I have long recognized the fact that true poets are among the very few sane people in a mad world.

MIDDLE EASTERN TYPE BOMB

Enter Patient

by DR. G. S. CAMERON

The morning mists still haunt the stony street;
The northern summer air is shrill and cold;
And lo, the Hospital, grey, quiet, old,
Where Life and Death like friendly chafferers meet.
Thro' the loud spaciousness and draughty gloom
A small, strange child — so aged yet so young! —
Her little arm besplinted and beslung,
Precedes me gravely to the waiting-room.
I limp behind, my confidence all gone.
The grey-haired soldier-porter waves me on,
And on I crawl, and still my spirits fail:
A tragic meanness seems so to environ
These corridors and stairs of stone and iron,
Cold, naked, clean — half-workhouse and half-jail.

THE above quotation is from the writing of one of England's poets, William E. Henley, who was a friend of Sir James Lister and his patient in the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary about 1870.

Doctors and people in general might be interested in reading the numerous groups of verses written by Henley descriptive of the surgical section of one of Britain's great hospitals in mid-nineteenth century. It was here, in the chilling atmosphere of these drab, austere wards that Sir James Lister, surgeon, discovered the principle of antisepsis.

SATURDAY: Was talking this evening to one of the few people in Canada who hunts foxes on a horse, and with hounds, in the English fashion. It is not generally known that there is a small but persistent survival of the fox-hunt in this country. But this man told me that Canadian foxes are either stupider than English foxes, or do not realize what is expected of them; the last fox he hunted, he said, ran in a circle of about a hundred yards, rushing directly at the hounds, who ate it as best they could while rolling around on the ground, holding their sides and laughing in their rich, doggy voices. Because of this lack of gumption among foxes, it is usual to drag a sack of some strong-smelling stuff over a good long course, and let the hounds follow that. The question which occurs to me is: would there by any money in training foxes for this highly specialized work? It would be wearing for a man of my temperament to drag a fox on a rope through streams, in and out of holes, and over ploughed fields, but I am willing to try if I can thereafter rent the fox to hunters at a good stiff fee. If they kill my trained fox, of course, I shall expect to be pensioned for life.

The superstitions and empiricisms of the centuries, concerning the cause and treatment of infections, had been shattered by the work of Pasteur in Paris a short time before when he demonstrated the microbic cause of an infection then epidemic among the silkworms of France, and thus laid the foundation for the science of bacteriology. It remained for Lister, however, to proclaim a method of destroying these bacteria.

Having accepted the facts, as proven by Pasteur, it was only natural that a surgeon with the enquiring mind of Lister should seek the practical application of these discoveries in the uncertain field of surgery. His brilliant research in the wards of the old infirmary was finally rewarded by finding a successful method whereby infection and pus could be eliminated in his operative work.

This accomplishment of Lister's opened the way to the almost unlimited advances in the field of surgery and the ultimate control of many of the infections to which human beings were exposed and from which thousands of them died every year. These discoveries proved to be the first steps in placing the practice of medicine on a scientific basis.

To show the changes in medical thinking during the last fifty years as a result of the researchs of Pasteur and Lister, may we mention a case in our own community. Some forty years ago we built the Queen Mary Hospital in which diphtheria, scarlet fever and other infectious, epidemic illnesses might be quarantined. With our present knowledge of these infections we are able to care for them in our new Civic Hospital with complete safety to other patients and to close the Queen Mary.

With the acceptance of the scientific basis for the diagnosis and treatment of disease one of the first changes in the care of the sick was the improvement in our hospitals. Slowly at first, but with accelerated speed as Lister's discoveries were accepted, the old hospitals wer completely refurnished, re-equipped and dedicated to the cure of the sick rather than offering sanctuary to the way-farer when his health failed him.

Nowhere has the development of the modern hospital been more noticeable than in the western world and particularly in our own country. Ask any old timer in Peterborough how the first hospital compares with the New Civic. Our Civic Hospital is unsurpassed in its structure and appointments by that in any other community in the Province.

WITH this new conception of medicine and the hospitalization of the sick better nursing became necessary. Florence Nightingale, whose birthday we celebrate on Sunday, is rightly considered an apostle of modern nursing. While she is associated, in the minds of many, with her pioneer work in the Crimean War where she and her associates revolutionized the hospitals and the medical care of the thousands of wounded soldiers, her permanent contribution to nursing was in her changed approach to hospital nursing. She symbolizes hope and life to the patients instead of the despair and hopelessness of the preceding centuries.

In closing this hurried article may we do so on a happier note. James Lister was raised to the peerage in Great Britain and became a Charter Member of the Order of Merit. Greater still, he is the acknowledged discover of antisepsis. Florence Nightingale is a revered name in nursing and hospital circles. Hospitalization and nurse education in two of London's hospitals—St. Thomas and London University Hospital—were completely changed through her inspiration and teaching. For her great service she too was awarded the Order of Merit.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars. . . . And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: He was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. . . . And the serpent cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ. (Rev. 12: 1, 3, 7-9, 15-17.).

And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and in honour, and power, unto the Lord our God. (Rev. 19: 1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: were passed away; and there was no more sea. . . . And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and be their God. (Rev. 21: 1, 3.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. (Rev. 22: 14.)

Answer To Lower-Priced Milk

(St. Catharines Standard)

Perhaps the answer to lower-priced milk has been found in an extension of the cash and carry system as reported from Toronto. Nearly 300 grocery stores and restaurants are handing it out at 18 cents a quart.

THERE'S ONE CHAP WHO GETS NOTHING OUT OF IT.

While filling my fountain pen at the bank the other day, my thrifty friend General Bagshot (retired), came in to do the same. He asked me what I knew about heron colonies—"heronries" he called them.

"Come down my way, Suh, and I'll show you something."

I took him at his word and arrived at his home at mid-morning. We drove one mile and tramped another through the fields and woods. It was a magnificent May day.

On one side, far below, the edge of a flooded swamp was starred with marsh marigolds. Frogs were singing and a beaver pushed a freshly-cut poplar branch towards his dam. To our right and ahead were the hardwoods, maple, beech and ironwood, their buds bursting green. We stepped over fox holes, crushed clumps of red and white trilliums and stopped to watch a flicker in flight. Our walk finally took us deep into the woods and down a slope to a quiet spot filled with tall dead tree stubs.

Suddenly, the air was filled with harsh croakings and the flappings of large birds in flight as we startled them from their sanctuary. The trees were crowned with clusters of rude twig nests. This was the General's heronry.

From our seat on a fallen log we counted 90 nests and their were more hidden in the foliage. Counting both male and female birds, there would be about 200 of them. They soared above the forest for a few minutes and finally glided back cautiously. For a large bird, some of them with six-foot wing spans, it was interesting to watch their landing agility on small twigs. And for most of us who have only seen solitary herons or pairs of them fishing in shallow lakes and ponds, the sight of 200 herons was something to ponder on.

Where had they come from? Herons winter in the swamps of the southern United States and arrive in the Kawarthas before the ice leaves. There have been smaller heronries quite close to the city, according to the head science master of PCVS, V. R. Henry. But this one is surely the heron harem of them all.

Bird lime has thoroughly killed both nesting trees and undergrowth. Dozens of clumps of twigs lying on the forest floor tell of the wreck of nests by windstorms. It would appear that colonies move (a) as civilization approaches, (b) as frequently-used nesting trees become rotted and unsafe due to their droppings.

One is able to find the occasional hatched egg shells on the ground, pale green and larger than a hen's. They are laid in clutches of threes.

A naturalist-photographer finds the picturing of heron nests both difficult and dangerous. Nesting trees are straight and limbless for about 60 feet and climbing irons are the only equipment for scaling them. The nesting birds are very vicious as fishing guides and woodsmen will verify. A wounded heron, when approached, has been known to split a maple paddles with one blow of its beak and it also uses its powerful wings to beat off an enemy.

The next time you see a heron flapping lazily over the lakes or standing motionless in a bog, don't be fooled by its timidity. In his heronry he is a vicious bird. I wonder if that holds true of that mild clerk who works beside you?

The pickerel season opened this morning. I have heard of no great results from around these [illegible] Ontario, Pickerel Lake and Pickerel River, also in this province. There has been no report on dore (Canadien for pickerel) from Dore Bay, Ont. And in the pike family, were pickings poor at Pike Bay, Ont., Pike Lake, Sask., and Pike River, Que.? Of course no one could be concerned about 'lunge this early in the season except those who live at 'Lunge Lodge, Ont., and game wardens in Roe, Sask., and Roe Lake, B.C.

Are there carp near Carp, Ont., and are perch plentiful at Perch, Ont.? Is the smelt run over at Smelt Brook, N.S., and are the minnows spawning at Minnow Lake, Ont.?

What about trout at Trout Brook, N.B. and N.S., respectively, at Trout Creek and Trout Mills, both in Ontario and Trout Lake, B.C.? Is the bass picture good at Bass Creek, Ont., Bass River and Little Bass River, both in Nova Scotia, and at Bass River, Bass River East and Bass River Point, all in New Brunswick?

Don't ask me the answers? On such precarious things as fishing luck forecasts one should probably commune with the patron saint of fishermen—Saint Peter—at St. Pierre in either New Brunswick or Quebec.

The aim of that worthy body, the Peterborough Jaycees, is "Civic affairs organized for and by young men." Their various worthwhile community projects—tourist booth, clean-up paint-up, get-out-and-vote and self development groups—are well known.

Their counterpart in Prince George, B.C., have made commonwealth affairs their concern. Upon learning that the famous 135-year-old Grenadier Guards, guardians of Buckingham Palace, might have to discard their bearskin busbies for luck of available fur, the Jaycees offered to supply 50 bearskins "just like that." August British Ministry of Supply and the London War Office officials looked down their noses at the rash colonials—the offer was free—and allowed that the offer was a decent sort of thing. In other words, they were willing to examine some samples.

So now in Prince George three distinct groups have been put on the spot; (1) Every member of the Junior Chamber. (2) Every trapper, farmer, logger, prospector and woodsman in Central B.C. (3) Fifty bears.

The Jaycees are defraying all expenses in connection with Operation Busbie and seek only to reap a reward of worldwide publicity for their home town and Canada in general.

Getting back to the Peterborough Jaycees, they are in a bit of a flap about the summer location of their tourist booth. It was mooted that they might share space in the new Bradburn Block, with the development branch of Travel and Publicity. It is hardly likely. I will bet that they set up their portable stand on the Market Square opposite the Empress Hotel. A good site, too.

A SMALL CASTING OF THE CITY'S official coat of arms became this week the official municipal seal of Peterborough. City council passed a bylaw which said: "Therefore, be it enacted . . . that the municipal seal which has been used previous to the passing of this bylaw, and a replica of which appears on this bylaw at this place be no longer used . . ." The new seal, designed in the city's centennial year, becomes official.

Bylaw Makes Coat Of Arms Official Seal

City council adopted by bylaw this week a new municipal seal which is a miniature cast of the coat of arms prepared in the centennial year of 1950 by the College of Arms of England expressly for the corporation of the city of Peterborough.

This action of the council severs a link of municipal formality and official record and sanction with the Peterborough of incorporation a century ago. The bylaw was presented by Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman of the finance committee.

The preamble begins: "Whereas it is required by various sections of the Ontario Municipal Act that documents of the municipality shall bear the seal of the municipality, etc."

Since 1850

Since the incorporation of the town of Peterborough in 1850 and later as a city in 1905, the City of Peterborough has had an official seal.

"And, whereas in 1950 which was the centennial year of Peterborough's establishment as a separate municipality, the council of the corporation of the city of Peterborough decided to have the College of Heralds of England prepare and grant proper Coat of Arms which would, in heraldic design, record the history of the city and corporation of Peterborough . . ."

It further affirms that the College of Heralds granted to the corporation exclusive rights to the use of the Coat of Arms, which the city accepted.

"And whereas it has been decided advisable and proper to use this Coat of Arms as the official seal of the corporation of the City of Peterborough, and to use it on all stationery and documents of the city and its officers . . .

Old One Out

"Therefore, bet it enacted . . . that the municipal seal which has been used previous to the passing of this bylaw, and a replica of which appears on this bylaw at this place be no longer used . . .

"And that after the passing of this bylaw, the official seal shall be the one reproduced here . . .

"That the City Clerk be the official custodian of the municipal seal, and that he be authorized to use this seal only on documents on which the municipal seal is required to be placed . . ."

The imprints of the two seals, the old and the new, are shown in the places that are designated in the text of the bylaw.

Finally it is provided that "after the passing of this bylaw, the letterheads and other official papers of the city bear a reproduction of this official seal."

So, the new seal came into use on Tuesday, May 7, 1951, and becomes the official imprimatur of the corporation of the city of Peterborough as authorized by the council, elected by the people of the corporation.

When the administration staff moves into occupation of the new city hall, probably before the end of this year, it will have new premises, and the corporation will have not only a civic headquarters building, but also a new coat of arms and new official municipal seal.

Councillors Fined For Non-Attendance

By W. J. COTTRELL,
(Marmora Correspondent.)

The oldest book in the possession of Marmora and Lake township council has been owned by it since 1832. It is "British Statutes relating to the province of Upper Canada together with ordinances of the late province of Quebec and the Proclamations of Lord Dorchester and Gov. Simcoe." It was printed in Kingston, U.C., by Francis M. Hill in 1831. On its fly-leaf is written this inscription in large handwriting of artistic merit: "This book belongs to James H. Samson and has been placed in the hands of the township clerk of Marmora for his use during his continuance in office to be by him delivered over immediately after the appointment of his successor. 1832."

In the minutes of the township council for February 6, 1857, is a note that a letter has been received from James Sampson, chairman of Kingston Hospital, asking for help to purchase articles for that institution. The council "regretted in consequence of the depressed state of our funds" that it was not in its power to give any assistance. This may be the same James Sampson who donated the book.

In the 1857 minutes is a motion that £75 of clergy reserve funds be appropriated for books and maps for the schools of the township. An amendment was for the expenditure of fifty pounds and this was carried with Reeve Solomon Johns giving the casting vote. Also at that meeting a letter was read from P. M. Van Houghnet, Minister of Agriculture, Toronto, wishing to know how many emigrants should be provided with employment in this township. It was decided that the clerk give notice to the inhabitants that anyone who wished to have any domestic should state so by applying to N. H. Finlay, at the Iron Works, stating how many and what kind.

FIDELITY

The people who love only once in their lives are really the shallow people. What they call their loyalty, and their fidelity I call either the lethargy of custom or their lack of imagination. Faithfulness is to the emotional life what consistency is to the life of the intellect—simply a comfession of failures. Faithfulness! I must analyse it some day. The passion for property is in it. There are many things that we would throw away if we were not afraid that others might pick them up.
Wilde: The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891)

Clearing and fencing of the new Town Hall was dealt with in two October meetings of that year and on December 3, 1857 "the Town Hall was received as finished according to contract and the treasurer gave the bonds to the contractor, William Blakely.

Use of the hall for other than council meetings was readily sought. Thus on ebruary 2, 1858, Mr. Brown, the Wesleyan minister asked for it for protracted meetings. This was denied and he was granted use for divine service only.

The treasurer, Daniel Grant Bowen, was given sanction to open the Town Hall for divine service to the Church of England, Presbyterians and the Wesleyan Methodists.

At that the penalty of 6s 3d a day was imposed upon councillors refusing or neglecting to act as such at any council meeting unless excused by illness or proper permission to be absent. In 1859 the council decided to have its proceedings printed twice a year by the editor of the Intelligencer (Belleville).

At its January meeting that year the motion was passed that "the fire engine be placed in the care of Mr. Bowen (D. G. Bowen) and that he provide a suction pipe and have her put in working order." Two months later, John Fidler, collector for 1858, was credited £7 10s 0d for the fire engine and £2 15s 0d for a cart and one horse sleigh.

On May 25, 1861, by motion of the council, land of the Marmora Iron Company was taxed at 2s 6d per acre and that of the Gilmour Company at 5s per acre.

1862 Changes

1862 brought changes to the district. William W. Armstrong earliest school principal of the village, of which there is recollection succeeded George Wiggins in the clerkship which the latter had held for several years.

Synchronizing with his appointment that January was the change of money from pounds, shillings and pence to dollars and cents.

One of the first payments in our present currency was that of ten dollars to Henry Nobes for keeping the man who accidentally shot himself on his (Nobes') premises. Applications for licences to keep taverns that year were granted to N. W. McWilliams, Benjamin Johnson and George W. Bleecker as well as a later application by Eli Clairmont.

The amount of taxes on the assessment roll for 1861 was entered as $1,301.92. At the meeting held on Nov. 10, 1862, Reeve James Hamilton laid on the table a circular letter received from the treasurer of the Lancashire Relief Fund asking aid in favor of the suffering people in England. By the end of 1862 it is evident by the minutes of the council up to that year that schools, roads and bridges in the township had been fairly well established.

Progress of Peterborough: LXX

Recall Annual Boat Excursions Big Event For Peterborough People 70 Years Ago

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Seventy years ago nearly every church, club and society held an annual boat excursion, and each summer between May 24 and Labour Day there were 30 to 50 of these, mostly sailing downriver from the town. In some years they were even later; for example, the winter of 1874 was so mild that on Christmas Day Commodore Calcutt ran an excursion down the Otonabee, and people played croquet and other games with their coats off. Dominion Day 1876 was celebrated by an excursion in the new Calcutt steamer "Golden Eye" under Capt. Leon Dion, with "Commodore Calcutt himself on board, as portly and jolly as ever." After numerous stops, the boat reached Harwood at 10.40 a.m., and while 300 passengers entrained for Cobourg, the steamer returned to Peterborough, setting off downriver again at 4 p.m. with another load of passengers. On her return to Peterborough after midnight, the "Golden Eye" was crowded to the boiler-room, but most people thought the money (return fare Peterborough-Cobourg $1) well-spent. On July 12 of that year the same steamer took enthusiastic Orangemen to Harwood whence they journeyed on to Cobourg for the Grand Walk.

Either circuses were bigger or else their advertising was more exaggerated: On July 19, 1876, came the Van Amberg Great Golden Menagerie, Circus and Colosseum, claiming to have 1,500 animals, 250 horses and 150 performers; admission was 40c, and 25c for children under nine years. In June 1880 Forepaugh's Circus "World's Greatest Aggregation" came to town by rail and spent several days on the Stewart-Rink-Bethune-Perry block, harvesting "yokel shekels." There were also exhibitions of local talent; one poster that survives advertised a Dominion Day Pantamorphites Parade on July 1, 1876, "A Collossal Pageant, the Howling Hilarity of the Times, under Command of Generalissimo Ghorcakshlovanoff-marchov," with a parade of cannibals from "the Goar of Emily, the Suburbs of Lakefield, the Caves of Burleigh, and ye Blazers from the Fastnesses of Kavin," as well as comic floats including a steamer, a locomotive, a poultry show, a baby show, a minstrel troupe, and a Grangers Gristmill, the whole affair climaxed by speeches and fireworks at night. Toward the end of a bitter depression, such enterprises revealed the youthful liveliness of the town.

Plays, concerts, balls, lectures and other entertainments were held in Hill's Music Hall (in the old Market Block on Water St.), in Victoria Hall (over stores on George St.) and in Bradburn's Hall (the old George St. Methodist Church). Hill's Hall seated 700 persons, and witnessed such wellknown performers as Joe Murphy, the Holman Opera Company, and the McDowell Company; the last of these introduced "The Private Secretary" and "Charley's Aunt" to Peterborough audiences. In 1876 Thomas Bradburn built a new four-storey brick Market Block on leased land midway on the east side of George between Simcoe and Charlotte Sts. In the high steeple above was installed a large clock (still in use at the corner of Charlotte and George Sts.) "that can be seen from almost any portion of the town and Ashburnham." The ground floor had four stores, two on each side of an Arcade leading through to the Market Square, and above were the Town Council Chamber, the Town Offices and the Police Station. On the top floor, Bradburn's Opera House, "a well-appointed theatre" accommodating 1,000 people, was ceremoniously opened Nov. 13, 1876, with the Ada Gray Company playing "The Adventurers." Prices ranged from 30c for society seats and boxes to 10c in the balcony. Before Christmas 1876, this Opera House was used for a Young Canadians' Ball, an Orange Young Britons' Ball, a Bijou Opera Company comedy, and a Christmas Concert. "Very few places of our size can boast of such a well-appointed amusement hall," boasted the 1883-4 Directory.

To some of the oldsters, the younger generation was "going to the dogs" in their chase after amusement and excitement. The town was scandalized late in December 1876 when "a young blade" drove a party of 14 Peterborough girls to Lakefield and treated them to an oyster supper, after which they danced with the local youths at Purser's Hotel to the music of Dood's orchestra; the name of this young Lothario was kept carefully hidden in the newspaper accounts, although a certain note of envious admiration can be discerned in the editorial scolding.

Bands Compete

The 57th Battalion Band flourished under A. H. Rackett until he resigned in 1872, after which it was led by Fred Walker, then Walter Marshall. In 1874 Finch Miller was brought from England to lead the band, and promptly organized a Fire Brigade Band also in which many of the same men played. The 57th Band had white tunics, red peaked caps and blue trousers with red stripes, while the Fire Brigade Band had Horse Artillery uniforms — blue coats with gold braid, and pillbox hats.

When the Central Exhibition was held in Peterborough in 1875, the new Fire Brigade Band under Miller won first prize, defeating the 57th Band under Professor Hammerschmidt, and the Lindsay 45th Battalion Band. In 1876 the Fire Brigade Band won first prize in a contest held in the drill hall, over bands from Victoria, Durham, Northumberland and Peterborough Counties. In 1877 they were second in a Cobourg contest, and the next year were second at Port Hope and third at Toronto. In 1879 they competed at Toronto with 11 other bands for the amateur championship of Canada, and carried off first prize. Members were: Bandmaster F. Miller, A. Freeman, J. Fraser, J. Miller, A. D. Browne, C. James, W. A. Sanderson, E. Dunford, W. Green, E. McCabe, E Scott, W. Hill, A. Paisley, J. Billington, J. Buller, J. Hill and J. Lasher. The Fire Brigade and 57th Battalion Bands were practically merged at this period, under Bandmaster Miller, who also conducted a small orchestra or concerts, banquets and balls

Dance Halls

In addition to Hill's Hall and Victoria Hall, there was a small dance-hall on the third floor of the "Times" building (formerly Simpson's Saloon) on George St. Here club dances were held weekly in winter, from 8 to 10 p.m. to the music of violin and harp played by a man and woman who toured professionally in summer. Six or seven local musicians usually joined them with cornet, clarinet, etc., to learn their music and gain experience, but only the couple were paid (50c each per evening). The dances were waltzes, gavottes, schottisches and one-steps, with some square dances. As the hall cost only $1 per evening, the cost totalled only about 10c per couple, unless a supper was brought from a restaurant or saloon below, which cost another 25c per person.

We have already noted the number of music schools operating in this decade. Most people were musically minded, and the majority of homes had an organ or piano. At any public gathering, there were plenty of people ready to spring up and give a song or a moral monologue or a comic recitation; in saloons, on street-corners, or at concerts; "barber-shop quartets" twisted their long moustaches nightly over "Sweet Adeline," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," "Mother Machree," and "The Letter Edged In Black." Choir sopranos warbled at home and abroad, music sacred and secular, at the hint of an invitation. On March 30, 1880, a Benefit Entertainment was held in the Orange Hall at the corner of Simcoe and George Sts., where the following gave musical selections: Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. Messrs. F. Miller, J. Miller, Reynolds, Geen, Morris, Brown, Hill, Chowen, Strain and Galletley, also Misses Hamilton, Grundy, Logan and McNeill ('Tickets 15c').

First Phonograph

Two events took place at Bradburn's Opera House in 1878, however, which forecast the modern entertainment media of canned music, canned pictures and canned melodrama. On June 27, 1878, the first Edison phonograph was exhibited to the public in the Opera House, only a year after it was invented. For the first time in history, voices, music and other sounds could be recorded and played later. The first hand-operated machine was very crude, with a vibrating steel needle making grooves on a tinfoil-covered cylinder; when played back, the record scratched out a ghostly imitation of the original sound. Not until 1887 did the gramophone appear with its large horn, spring-wound motor, and records on flat wax discs (and trademark showing a dog listening to "His Master's Voice").

Fresh From Henley Triumph Lou Scholes At Clear Lake

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

In these days of soul-searching to find out what is wrong with our summer resort life in some of its phases it is well to glance back occasionally at the earlier days—let us say, those about the turn of the century.

Was life on and about Kawartha waters richer and more varied then it is today? If so, why?

Out of the limbo of half-forgotten things come reminders of happy days before the onset of the Machine Age and the accelerating horrors of a business civilization. People then had not been bereft of the power to do things for themselves. They had not become slaves of their machines.

Looking back to 1905 we find a touch of color in Stony Lake aquatic sports such as we seldom see in our time.

First Canadian to Win

For it was on August 18, 1904, that Lou F. Scholes, of Toronto, fresh from his victory at Henley as the first Canadian to win the Diamond Sculls brought his shell to Clear Lake and gave an exhibition before a large, admiring crowd.

Other Canadians have since won the Diamonds but it was Scholes who set the pace for high endeavor beyond the parochial field. The enthusiasm with which he was welcomed home to Toronto, July 25, 1904, is seen in fact that 90,000 persons formed two unbroken lines from the wharf to Queen's Park, the greatest crowd in Yonge Street's history. The new amateur champion had been met at Lewiston and had crossed Lake Ontario on the steamer Corona. He was given the freedom of the city in a ceremony on a specially constructed platform in Queen's Park by acting Mayor George Ramsden.

Annual Picnic

Lou Scholes chose Young's Point as a fitting place to give a demonstration of his sculling technique to his fellow-Canadians. The occasion was Rev. Father Phelan's picnic. All roads led to South Beach. Steamers from Lakefield were filled. The crowd watched from the Clear Lake shore, cheering as Scholes drove his shell through the water with the mighty strokes that had carried him across the Henley line to world fame.

With the champion were Mrs. Scholes; his sister; his brother Jack, renowned boxer, and Miss Tozer.

Speakers at the picnic included Hon. J. R. Stratton; R. R. Hall, then federal Liberal candidate; James Kendry; Senator McHugh, Lindsay; Lou Scholes; Rev. Father Phelan and Rev. Father Cohey of Hamilton.

Taking part in a program of water sports were some of the paddling stars of the day. Winners included:

Single canoe: W. Knott, Young's Point; Harry Simpson, Lakefield.

Double canoe: Norman Bell, Peterborough and Harry Simpson; H. and L. Godfrey, Young's Point.

In the canoe upset race, Norm. Bell dembnstrated anew the wizardry which had won for him so many regatta firsts. Harry Simpson finished second.

Since sculling has never persisted as a major Kawartha sport the Lou Scholes exhibition on Clear Lake will hold a certain historic interest in the record of Peterborough district aquatics.

Have Pesticites For Garden Ready When Trouble Starts

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Services

The best way to get ahead of the bugs and diseases which the gardener is bound to encounter this summer is to have the pesticides ready before trouble starts.

Once plans for the garden are completed it is easy to figure what and about how much insecticides and fungicides are needed.

They should be bought at once since certain ingredients may be short because of increased demands. In many instances a combination insecticide and fungicide will prove both more effective and economical.

A new safety-first insecticide that gives long-lasting control of most garden bugs is now available to home owners and backyard gardeners.

Extensive tests have shown that this new insect killer, named methoxychlor, presents virtually no hazard to consumers of the treated crops. As a result, methoxychlor is safe to use even close to harvest of vegetables, fruits and other food plants, according to the manufacturers.

The evidence shows that methoxychlor also has another built-in safety factor. Unlike some other powerful insecticides, it does not burn or stunt plants. This makes it safe for gardeners to apply even on cucumbers, melons, tomatoes and roses.

Black spot is a fungus disease that takes a terrific toll of rose plants before it seriously affects the flowers. That's why many people neglect to take care of it in time. As long as the flowers are good, they don't worry too much about the plant. The following year, however, the plant will have been so weakened that it will fail to produce up to expectations.

The most effective control for it is a fungicide, chemical called ferric dimethyl dithiocarbamate or recently renamed ferbam by a government name - simplifying committee. Commercial florists and farmers have been using it for years on a variety of flowers and on apples, peaches and other fruits.

Cornell University scientists pioneered in testing it on roses and other ornamentals with the result that it is available in eight-ounce packages for the home gardener.

Gardening Questions

Q—What evergreens and flowers could be planted on the north side, which gets some sun?

A—You will get some results from perennials such a bleeding heart, Virginia bluebells, plantain-lily, Japanese anemone, foxglove, lily of the vally, primroses, baneberry; and the following annuals: tuberous begonias, torenia, nicotiana, browallia, pansies and balsam. While rhododendrons, azaleas, and mountain laurel will be happy in strong shade they will bloom but sparsely. Other good shade-tolerant evergreens are leucothoe, mahonia, English yew, Japanese holly and evergreen bittersweet.

Q—Although we set our tomato plants out anywhere from May 30 until the end of the first week in June, fr t is not ripe until late in August. Many of them, although they reach the full size, never ripen at all.

Lay in a stock of insecticides early and be ready to lay down a barrage when plant-killing pests start their summer drive.

A—Tomato plants set out in early June should produce their first fruit in late August and continue until frost. Tomatoes require a fertile, well-drained soil containing ample plant nutrients. Manure worked into the soil when preparing the garden and two side dressings of a complete fertilizer, with an analysis of 10-6-4 or similar, cultivated in during the summer will increase the yield and the size of the fruit. A maximum of sunlight is essential as tomatoes will not mature in the shade.

GOVERNMENT

To be governed is to be watched, inspected, spied upon, directed, law-ridden, regulated, penned up, indoctrinated, preached at, checked, appraised, seized, censured, commanded, by beings who have neither title, nor knowledge, nor virtue. To be governed is to have every operation, every transaction, every movement noted, registered, counted, rated, stamped, measured, numbered, assessed, licensed, refused, authorized, indorsed, admonished, prevented, reformed, redressed, corrected.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Five teams will go this summer in the Toronto Major Viaduct League: Oshawa, Petes, Staffords, Kingsway and Crofton's. The last three are from Toronto, and the cutting down on the number of teams up that way will mean stronger squads. Executive has decided on a 40-game schedule for each team, meaning 20 home games. Each club comes here five time during the schedule, which opens with Petes at Staffords on May 19. Likely a May 24 opener here if Riverside Park is in shape after the floods. Schedule will be out in a few days. Nothing definite so far on playoffs but possibly top four enter them in best-of-five semi-finals, the finals being four-out-of-seven.

We agree with Doug Vaughan of Windsor who writes: "Here it is nigh onto the middle of May and hockey is still going on. Still to be finished is the Alexander Cup series. Only 1,592 die-hards saw Tuesday's game in Toronto between St. Mike's and Valleyfield. Said a disgusted Coach Johnny O'Flaherty of St. Mike's: 'How the heck can we compete against baseball and other sports at a time like this?' Mr. O'Flaherty is right, how can they? The answer, of course, is that they shouldn't be trying. Hockey should have been over a month ago." And that's for sure.

* * * * * *

Dragging Seasons Out

Hockey as played by these Major Series steams is mighty good—as they're all pros. But you can't keep puck interest up a month after the ball season has started in the big leagues And weeks after the Stanley Cup finals are o'er. If the NHL pros are complaining that a 70-game schedule is too long, what about the amateur hockeyists who start just about as soon and go longer, at least the survivors? The CAHA should get wise, as the Canadian Lacrosse Association has done this year, and not kill the goose laying the golden eggs. Don't try to drag out a season too long in hopes of making more money. This year, the CAHA took a financial trimming in playoffs compared to other years.

* * * * * *

Sports here have followed the trend. Though baseball and lacrosse don't start much earlier than some years ago—maybe a week or two Sometimes they run too long, and we've noted that in OASA playdowns when teams were in important series but drawing peanuts because of cold autumn evenings. Hockey begins too soon, starting here in October last year. Only a few years ago, local OHA teams were lucky if they got in a game before Christmas, and they were finished up this way ere the end of March—proceeding in playdowns on artificial ice in other centres. Naturally, we want to see our puck playoffs here, and artificial ice is the answer. But we still think they start their season nearly a month too early.

Lacrosse Opener Monday

Wretched rainy weather yesterday forced postponement of the big lacrosse opening at Miller Bowl—postponed it till Monday night. Same setup entirely, a fathers and sons night with kids in free if accompanied by an adult. A real "meet the players" affair with draw prizes, presentations, peewee exhibition and then the big game between Lou Vitarelli's junior OLA champs and the 1951 edition of the OLA senior "A" Petes—swapping defences and goalies, if the tilt threatens to be one-sided. The grounds were in no shape Friday for the affair or it would have been staged. However, work will be done o'er the week-end, and it's all set for Monday night—unless another all-day downpour interferes.

Walt Murphy advises that the minor lacrossers will be in full swing with practices and games next week. The juveniles drill at 6.30 Monday p.m. in the secondary box, everyone invited. Same applies to the midgets on Tuesday and to the bantams Wednesday. Then, the midgets and juves go together on Thursday. Friday is left open, of course, for the opening senior scrap betwixt Hamilton and the Petes. Peewees have an open workout at 10 a.m. Saturday, and that night sees two exhibition games against Toronto Green Gaels. Midget melee is at seven, followed by the juvenile joust. Harry Wipper will aid when here, but won't be on deck as a full-time PMLA coach till out of McGill the last half of June.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP). — Television demonstrations were given in several centres recently by the state-owned radio service. However, the Government will not introduce a permanent television service until thorough inquiries have determined whether the expense is justifiable at present.

Flyers Given Big Welcome By Home Fans

BARRIE, May 12 (CP), — A roaring welcome Friday greeted Barrie Flyers when this town of 14,000 turned out en masse to applaud the team that brought home its first Dominion hockey trophy.

Mayor Marjorie Hamilton, who proclaimed a public holiday for the occasion, headed the welcoming parade. For coach Happy Emms, stormy petrel of the Ontario Hockey Association, it was fitting climax to a long season and a hard climb to national heights.

Flyers won the Memorial Cup, emblematic of junior hockey supremacy, Tuesday night at Winnipeg by knocking off Winnipeg Monarchs 9-5 to win the best-of-seven final series in four straight games.

A great roar went up at Allandale station as team captain Real Chevrefils held the Memorial Cup high. From there a long parade wound more than a mile to Barrie Arena, where Mayor Hamilton had a kiss for every player.

In Western Garb

The Flyers themselves were decked out in western garb, complete with 10-gallon hats and bright neckerchiefs. Even coach Emms had discarded his stetson for a sombrero.

Business halted while the parade continued. At the arena each player was given a travelling clock, a gift of the town. Defenceman Jimmy Morrison also was given a watch after being voted the team's most popular player by Flyers fans.

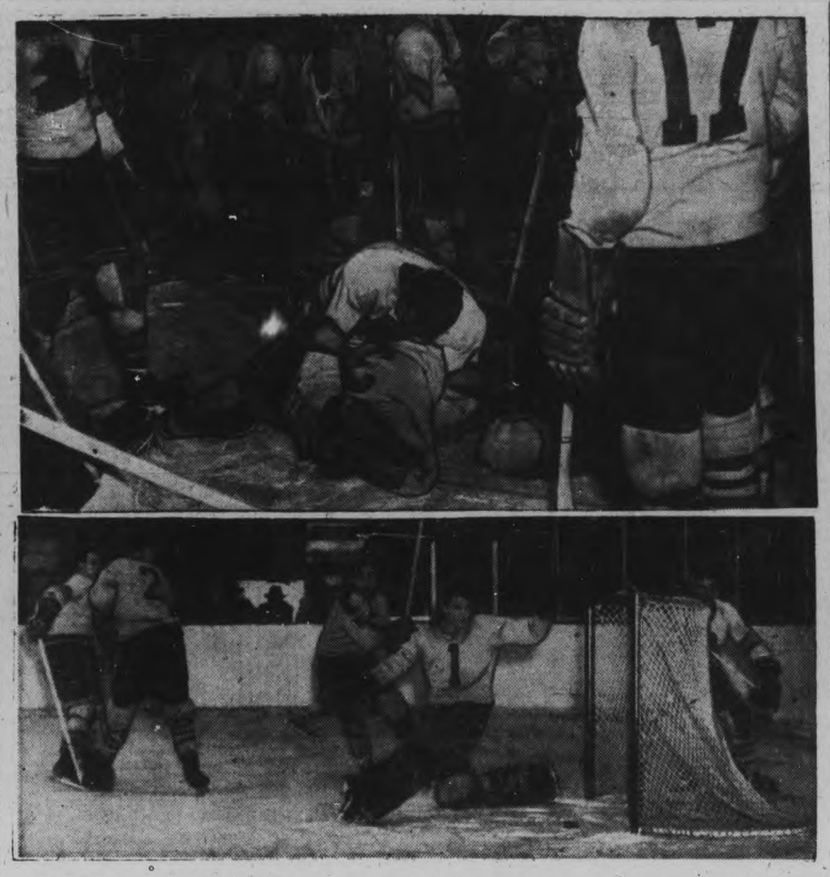
Flyers also were given trophies for winning the OHA and eastern Canada titles, presented by OHA president Jack Roxburgh and George Dudley, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Hints On Sports

By FRED MAYBEE

BATTING

Tonight we are going to offer a few hints that may help your hitting, boys. These will apply whether you play baseball, softball or fastball, inasmuch as the fundamentals of hitting are applicable to all three.



First of all, there is no standard stance at the plate. Many great hitters in baseball have taken a peculiar stand at bat. Heinie Groh, of "bottle bat" fame, Simmons, Cobb and other greats, serve as examples. You must stand in the batter's box of course and you must not step out of it to hit. But just stand and bat in whatever manner is comfortable for you. Never mind the players or fans; you are in there to hit that ball, so make sure you are poised to suit yourself, not others.

Confidence is very important at bat. If you feel you can hit, you will hit. If you have misgivings and falter at the plate, you will never succeed. Meeting the ball is easy if you are confident and keep your eye on the pill from the time it leaves the pitcher's hand. Cultivate a graceful, well-timed swing.

Timing is possibly the greatest single factor in successful hitting, i.e., the ability to swing the bat at the exact instant needed to meet the ball at the right spot. Only practice will enable you to perfect your timing Some hitters are so adept at timing they can place hits to any field. For instance, a right-hander hitting to right field, swings slightly late allowing the bat to hit the ball when it is slightly past the hitter and he thus propels it farther away from his natural field. Conversely, if he swings soon, his bat describes a greater arc and he inevitably hits to dead left field or left-centre.

Hold your bat firmly except to bunt, then hold it loosely and choke up a bit. Also choke bat if you are in a slump until you snap out of it. One final tip: many great hitters were bad ball hitters. If you see one coming you like and can hit—belt it, my boy. But don't make a practice of going after bad balls.

This concludes our little baseball series. Later on, we will run similar short series when space permits. If you have enjoyed this one, we are very happy to know it. Keep trying boys, and you can't miss. This applies to any game.

HOCKEY'S NATURE BOYS made it a rough-and-tumble finale on the Montreal Forum Freeze. Andre Corriveau, Valleyfield whizzer, is getting in a few socks at Pat Wilson, of St. Michaels, No. 3, during the Donnybrook. It was the main bout on the final Forum hockey card, a wild one by the way. Below, Kitoute Joannette of the Braves rounds the net after sending Valleyfield to the front 3-2 in the second period. Crusher Corriveau, left, was in on the play. Frank Sullivan, No. 2; Matt Mesich, centre, and Phil Hughes, goaler, are the St. Michael's players in the action.

Looses Blast At Refereeing

TORONTO, May 10—(CP)—Canada's last hockey series of the season warmed up today with Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty, Toronto St. Michael's coach, unloosing a blast at the refereeing in the Alexander Cup.

O'Flaherty, hipped at the officiating in the fifth game at Montreal Thursday, won by Valleyfield Braves 7-3, said Friday night that he has appealed to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for new officials for tonight's final contest here.

Said O'Flaherty:

"Those referees are terrible, absolutely incompetent. Thursday night's exhibition was simply a disgrace. We've taken the worst of the refereeing all season and I can't keep quiet any longer."

The referees, Hap Shouldice and Stan Pratt, both of Ottawa, had their hands full in the wild contest, separating fighting players and shooing them to the penalty box. Twice, in the first and third periods, the game was held up 15 minutes by spectators thronging onto the ice to join in the scraps.

Name New Executive

The Mercantile Bowling League wound up a successful season with 80 attending the anual banquet held in Club Aragon. The trophy was presented by Mr. J. Whatley to the winning team, Austin Jewellers, and gifts were presented to the retiring executive by Gord Leonard. Those retiring were President Curly Curtain, Secretary Don Penrose and Treasurer Jack Gimblett.

The new executive named was: President, Gord Leonard; vice-president, Jack Gimblett; secretary, Helen Francis; treasurer, Bob Hopkins.

At the dance held afterward, spot dances were won by: Claire McGillen, Mary Behan, Mary Morton, Roy Penrose, Blake Devolin and Irene Leonard. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mesley won the street dance, and Bessie Smith and F. Ronco took the elimination dance.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Walter Cartier, down for nine in each of the first two rounds, made a savage comeback Friday night to whip Eugene (Silent) Hairston on a split 10-round decision. Cartier had the deaf mute New York Negro down for eight at the final bell, but needed three rounds on foul penalties against Hairston to win the fight.

Hairston weighed 161, Cartier 160.

The low blows cost Hairston the decision in a violent brawl witnessed by 4,694 paying $13,291 at Madison Square Garden. Referee Mark Conn said Hairston hit low twice in each of the rounds he lost on fouls—the third, fourth and eighth.

Conn was the only official to vote for Hairston, 5-4-1. Judge Harold Barnes saw it for Cartier 5-4-1 and judge Bill Healy had Cartier on top 6-4. The Associated Press card agreed with Barnes.

Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and challenger Joe Maxim, lightheavy champ, Friday were pronounced in perfect physical condition for their title bout at Chicago May 30.

At Milan, Italy, Russia Friday withdrew from the European amateur boxing championships which begin here Monday.

The Italian organizing committee said no reason was given.

At White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jim Ferrier of San Francisco pulled away to a three-stroke lead at the half-way point of the 72-hole Greenbrier open Friday by finishing with three straight birdies.

At London, American-bred Turco II, owned by New Yorker William Woodward, maintained his position Friday night as 10 to 1 joint favorite, in a bookmakers callover on the Epsom Derby scheduled for May 30.

But the Aga Khan's Fraise du Boise, which was beaten in a race at Chester Thursday, drifted from joint favorite to third choice at 100 to 7.

The new Joint Favorite with Turco II is Chines owned Ki Ming, the big three year old colt that won the 2,000 guineas classic at Newmarket May 2. Ki Ming is owned by London restaurateur Billy Ley On.

At Inglewood, Calif., Citation ran out of the money Friday in the third start of his current comeback as Special Touch won the $15,000 premiere handicap at Hollywood Park.

The Calumet Farm Ace ran fifth in the field of 10, out of the money for the first time in his illustrious career. Citation was beaten about two lengths by the winner.

Willie Shoemaker brought in Special Touch, a filly, for the $11,450 net purse.

It was Citation's third defeat since he resumed racing at Bay Meadows last month.

13 Clubs Enter Tri-County Loop

LINDSAY, May 12.—The Tri-County Baseball League voted to revert back to two groups at a meeting held in Manila Thursday night. The new plan groups together the stronger teams from the larger centres in the east and west sections—Stouffville, Sunderland, Port Perry, Sutton, Lindsay, Cambray, Fenelon Falls, and Bobcaygeon. Entered in the five team central group are: Woodville, Beaverton, Sonya, Little Britain and Valfliet. Bobcaygeon Red Sox were given permission to move into the central loop if they wish.

Eastern teams will play a double schedule and a single series with the western group under the new setup but all teams will be entered in the one group. The schedule will open May 28 and close Aug. 10 Plans are being drawn up for the first annual all-star game in Lindsay or Sunderland between Earl Cook's 1950 champion Stouffville Red Sox and the stars.

Learn Folf From The Stars:

Right Use of Seven Iron Can Rack Up Good Scores

By JIMMY DEMARET
Three-Time Masters Winner

Using a full swing, the seven iron can be best employed from a distance of 140 to 150 yards from the green.

The seven iron is one of the most vital clubs in your bag. A golfer must master it to score well consistently.

The ball is played slightly right centre.

The club is gripped short in the interests of accuracy.

Assuming a slightly-open stance the golfer rivets his eyes on the ball at the point of intended impact.

The weight is evenly distributed.

As the backswing starts, the left arm is kept straight while the right elbow starts to work in toward the body to compensate for the drawing back of that arm.

At the top of the backswing, the right leg bears the brunt of the weight.

The wrists are cocked ready for the downward motion.

In contrast to wood and long-iron shots, the club is brought all the way back. It is stopped at about a 45-degree angle behind the head.

As the downswing is three-fourths completed, the left arm still is rigid, the wrists ready to uncock.

The weight is beginning to shift to the left.

Immediately after contact has been made with the ball the weight is transferred almost entirely to the left side.

At this point, two things have remained constant throughout the entire swing—the straight left arm and the position of the head.

As I stress in the P.G.A. Teachers' Guide, constantly keep in mind that all-important rule of good golf, "Keep your head down" until the ball is on its way.

The swing completed, rotate your head with the shoulders and watch the flight of the ball.

Next: Johnny Palmer on the five iron.

INSIDE STUFF — As the backswing with the seven iron starts, Al Ciuci's left arm is kept straight while the right elbow starts to work in toward the body to compensate for the drawing back of that arm. He is Fresh Meadow's famous teaching professional.

RUSSIA ADVANCES

At Paris, Russia advanced to the finals of the European basketball tournament Friday night by easily beating Bulgaria 72-54. The unbeaten Russians will play Czechoslovakia for the championship today.

Bombers Announce Signing 2 Players

WINNIPEG, May 12 (CP). — Winnipeg Blue Bombers football club Friday announced the signing of halfback Tom Casey and end Joe Aguirre to contracts for the 1951 season. Both were members of last year's Bombers.

Casey formerly played for Hamilton in eastern Canada and for New York Yankees professional club before joining Bombers last year. Aguirre, a former Los Angeles player, will act as assistant coach to George Trafton as well as handle an end position.

The signing of the pair gives Bombers five of their seven imports. They already have signed centre John Brown and tackles Buddy Tinsley and Jim Spavittl. It is expected the club soon will line-up quarterback Jack Jacobs, who has been here for some time.

Chicago White Sox Wallop Cleveland Indians By 12-1

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

"I don't pick anybody to beat the White Sox." That's how Paul Richards, manager of the Chicago White Sox, sized up the American League race on opening day.

So far he's right.

Chicago's freshman manager is proving he can win in the majors as well as in the minors. A manager of the John McGraw school, the driving leader has his White Sox in the thick of the American League pennant race.

Hailed as a developer of pitchers, especially in the case of Detroit's Hal Newhouser, Richards also is gaining recognition as a smart hombre when it comes to trading. He was firmly behind last winter's trade that sent starting pitchers Ray Scarborough and Bill Wight to Boston Red Sox for outfielder Al Zarilla and pitchers Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield.

So far, Richards has come out on top in that deal.

Zarilla plugged a gap in right field and today is tied for the league lead with 18 runs batted in.

Dobson failed to impress until Friday night when he just missed turning in the second no-hit no-run game of the season. Scarborough has only one victory to show and Wight has failed to crash the winner's circle.

Third-place Tie

Dobson, 34-year-old righthander, pitched the Sox into a third-place tie with Cleveland by beating the Indians 12-1 before 17,138 fans at Comiskey Park.

Dobson had a no-hitter until the eighth inning when pinch-hitter Bob Avila broke the spell with a two-out double. The Indians scored in the ninth on two walks and an error on a potential double play ball.

The Sox hammered Early Wynn, Steve Gromek and George Zuverink for 14 hits, wrapping up the decision with a seven-run spree in the seventh off Gromek.

Dobson's feat was the third one-hitter of the season. Con Marrero of Washington performed the trick against Philadelphia last month and Sal Maglie of the New York Giants did it against Pittsburgh last week. Cliff Chambers of Pittsburgh pitched a no-hit no-run victory over Boston last Sunday.

Dizzy Trout turned in his first victory of the season as Detroit Tigers humbled the Browns 7-1 under the lights at St. Louis. Trout scattered four St. Louis hits, fanned seven and walked three. Vic Wertz led the Tiger attack, driving in four runs.

Like Semi-pro

Chicago Cubs treated Chambers like a semi-pro pitcher as they pounded the Pirates 10-4 in the only game played in the National League.

Chambers, making his first start since his no-hitter, yielded three runs on four hits in two innings. The Cubs continued their assault against four relief pitchers, piling up 14 hits. Andy Pafko paced the Chicago drive, banging out his seventh and eighth home runs. Pafko also upped his runs batted in to 22, tops in the majors.

Night games between Philadelphia and New York, St. Louis and Cincinnati and Brooklyn and Boston were postponed because of rain and cold. Boston, New York, Washington and Philadelphia in the American League were idle.

Happy To See Hockey At End

TORONTO, May 12 (CP). — No one in Toronto or district will have the least regret when the big sign at Maple Leaf Gardens proclaiming "hockey tonight" winks out for the last time this season.

Valleyfield Braves meet St. Michael's Monarchs tonight for the Alexander Cup, a major-league ice affair melted into minor league proportions by May weather.

It's the last official game of the season—and it's just as well. If there were any more, probably nobody would pay to see them.

Win, lose or draw, a winner will be declared. Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials, after checking their seed catalogues and farmers' almanacs, decided the series should end pronto. Pointing up their decision was the fact that the season just ending—it opened Sept. 22—has been the longest in 20 years.

To speed Canada's national sport to the sign marked "exit," the CAHA dwarfed an original seven-game series into six by making the last two games count four points each.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

The New York Giants' 11-game losing streak this spring recalls that the New York Yankees ended an eight-game losing streak by beating Boston Red Sox 4-0 at Yankee Stadium, 11 years ago today. Red Ruffing pitched six-hit ball for his second victory of the season against two defeats.

Modern Prophets Of Baal Still Boastful

By WILLIAM GILROY

The noble prophet was Elijah, and the wicked king was Ahab, of the Northern Kingdom of Israel, aided and abetted by his wife, Jezebel, whose name has become a byword for evil womanhood.

With the division of the Jewish people into two kingdoms, following the reign of Solomon, hostility separated those who ought to have been united for their common good and welfare, and for strength against their enemies. Two kings, and prophets in each kingdom, are in the historical record, side by side.

It will help in understanding the history, if one consults the comparative chronological table which will be found in the "helps" to the Bible, now found with various editions of the Bible.

What can be realized, without any helps, is the prevalent evil of the kings and of the times and the appealing and denunciatory voice of the prophets, rebuking idolatry, and endeavoring to lead the people into sincere worship and into sound moral and social ways.

In the Northern Kingdom the great struggle was between Elijah, the prophet of God, and the prophets of Baal, strongly supported by Ahab and Jezebel. It must always be understood that idolatry, as it appears in contrast to the worship of the true God, was not just a matter of idols being symbols of something good, as perhaps they have been with some idolatrous worshippers. The worship of Baal was associated with licentious and immortal practices, as idolatry has usually been.

When the people turned to idolatry, and set up the false altars in the "high places," it meant a moral and social letdown. The sin of idolatry, moreover, was not just a sin against God and the moral law; it was a sin against the purity and integrity of the national life.

The earlier prophets were in a sense isolationists, bent upon keeping Israel free from the corrupting influence of, and contact with, the surrounding pagan nations. The later prophets of the Exile, and after, sounded a rather different note. They had world vision for their times, and they envisioned an Israel so strong in its faith and idealism, that instead of being corrupted by contact with others, it might become a means of enlightenment and blessing to all. See Isaiah 62, and many similar passages.

The story of Elijah is dramatic and full of color. Its continuing significance is in the rich symbolism with which it has filled the religious life. The prophet's faith, his courage and devotion, his depression in the hour of triumph when he ought to have been strong and mindful of the seven thousand faithful—all this is so much like a child under the old home roof.

Many of us zealous for right and truth, but often sorely beset, tend to forget the power of God, and how much of human goodness is still in a world in which modern prophets of Baal are still boastful and defiant.

When there are small children in the family, Dad must take responsibility for planning with them presents for Mother's Day and some special treat. One of the things which might give her the biggest thrill of all would be to surprise her with breakfast in bed! Let her know you appreciate all the thought and work which goes into planning and cooking the family meals, washing up afterwards three times a day, seven days in a week, fifty-two weeks in a year.

Make Mother's Day a real holiday for mother. "Deeds not words"—here is a practical tribute to mother's worth—a demonstration of how much she is loved by everyone in the home. What if you burn the toast or scorch the vegetables?—Mother is having a little "break" away from her usual tasks!

For Parents Only

Mother's Day Plans

By NANCY CLEAVER

On Mother's Day, men and women in every walk of life, boys and girls in all kinds of homes, pay tribute to their mothers. Famous people have written in glowing words of their mother's influence. Benjamin West, the President of the Royal Academy of Arts in London, England, early in the last century, once said "A kiss from my mother made me a painter." Abraham Lincoln, declared "All that I am, or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother." In a recent publication of a poetry anthology edited by James Dalton Morrison, there is a [illegible] anonymous poem "The Blind Child" with the first verse:

"I know what mother's face is like,
Although I cannot see;
It's like the music of a bell:
It's like the roses I can smell—
Yes, these it's like to me."

A tribute to a mother is a very personal thing. It is colored by remembrance of childhood days. Although some people scoff at Mother's Day as a commercial scheme, surely it has its value! In a hurried age when everyone seems to be in a rush, when many people are reticent about expressing their deeper emotions, it is well to have a time to pause and think of the debt which is owed to all mothers.

W. D. Howells once wrote "A man never sees all that his mother has been to him till it's too late to let her know that he sees it." What a pity if this is so! If our mother has passed on to the "Great Beyond," let us recall all that she did for us, on her day. We can observe this occasion by making a special effort to do something she would delight to see us do—attend Divine Worship or help some poor mother who is having a hard struggle to bring up her children.

If we are fortunate enough to have our mothers still with us, Mother's Day is an occasion when we can use our imagination to give a gift which will express our love. Flowers, candy, a book, a picture, something for her to wear or for her home—what a wide variety of presents from which to select one which will give Mother real pleasure.

The Mother's Day cards are very lovely, but try to write in your own words how much you care for her. Take time to mention some special happy childhood memory, the taste of her apple pies, the little smocked dress or the small boy's suit she sewed with loving care. Refer to the time you tumbled out of the tree or fell off the swing and she looked after your bruises. Perhaps there was some long-forgotten incident when you were frightened out of your wits and she restored your courage. Let her know you still remember the days of long ago when you were just

Bogus Bills In Car, Gets One Year

Toronto Man Guilty, Phony $10 Bills Found In District

COBOURG, May 12. (ENS) —Pleading guilty last week to being in possession of forged currency, John Morgan of Toronto appeared in court Friday on a remand for sentence and was given a term of 12 months definite and six indefinite in the reformatory.

Morgan last week was committed for trial along with George Sullivan and Bernard Hawkins on a charge of conspiring to utter forged bank notes.

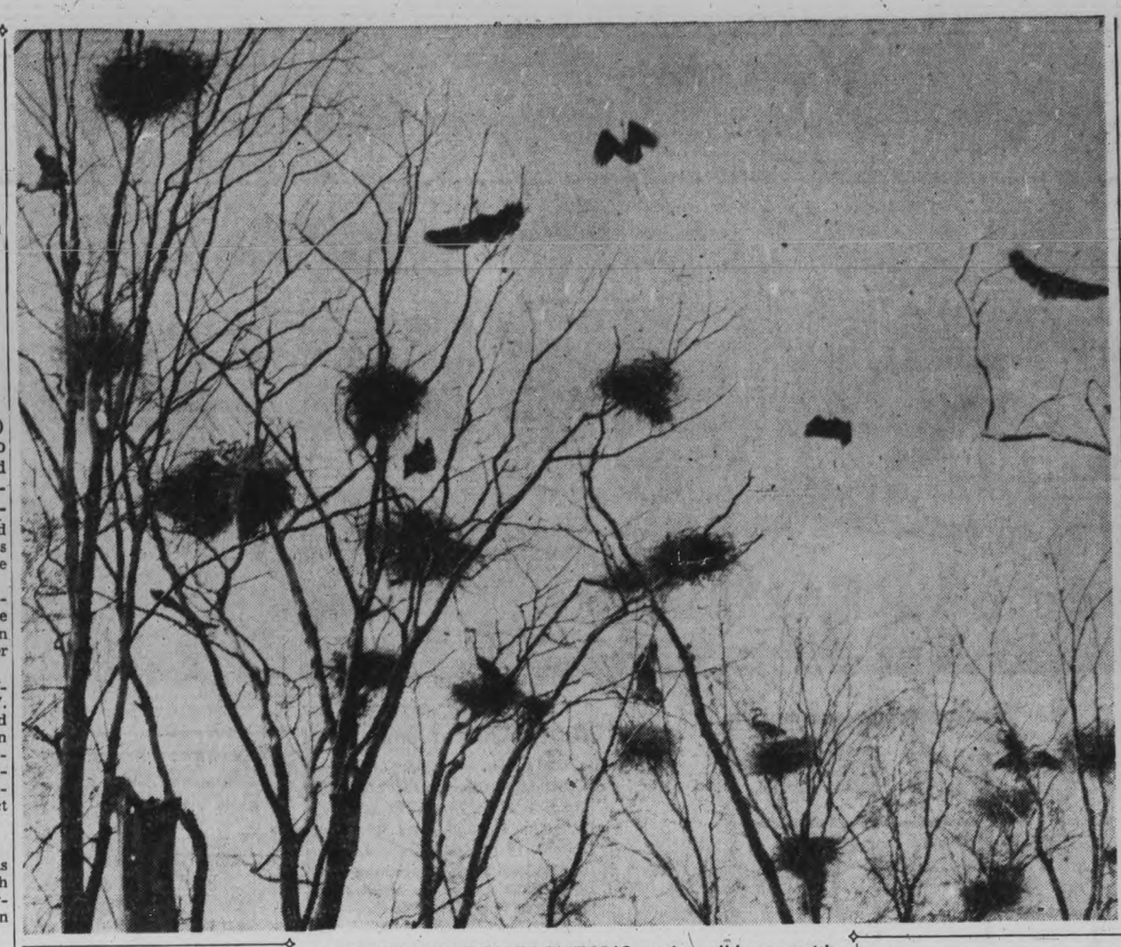
Morgan was arrested near Grafton by provincial constable W. Baluk on April 11. Police found 36 counterfeit ten dollar bills in his possession. The arrest of Morgan, Hawkins and Sullivan followed complaints by service station proprietors in that district of bogus money being passed.

Bills Turn Up

About 15 counterfeit bills turned up in the Peterborough district. Six were found in Peterborough, five in Lindsay, two in Bewdley and one in Bailieboro.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman informed Magistrate R. B. Baxter at Morgan's hearing Friday that Morgan had no record in Canada and there had been no information as to whether or not he had a record in his native country, Australia.

Mr. Deyman pointed out that the fact that he was carrying so much counterfeit currency around showed that it was something that had been planned and not an offence committed on the spur of the moment.



Supplied by Stranger

Defence counsel J. C. M. German told the court that his client had informed him that he was given the money to dispose of as an easy way to make a profit, by a stranger he had met in a beverage room.

"Whoever transferred the counterfeit money to you [illegible] had some confidence in you. I don't imagine they give it out to anybody who comes along. I don't feel that you should be treated as a first offender, nor do I feel I should impose a penitentiary term" said Magistrate R. B. Baxter in passing sentence.

NARROW STRAIT

The Strait of Georgia between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland has an average breadth of 20 miles.

Approval Given For $200,000 Public School

The Department of Education has given its tentative approval for $200,000 to be spent on the new eight-room school in Ashburnham.

Building of the new school will begin in 1952. This go-ahead signal from the Department permits the Peterborough Board of Education to go ahead and get tentative plans drawn up by the architect. The school will be on [illegible] St.

[illegible]on Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee, said the Board is calling for tenders on the four-room addition to Grove school.

Apart from some grading of the grounds and relaying of sidewalks, work is completed at the six-room addition to Prince of Wales school. Frost when cement was green and the spring upheaval damaged the sidewalks there. The addition will be used at the opening of the 1951-52 school year.

New Bus Route Ties City With Upper Ottawa Region

A new area north and west of Peterborough will be opened up to the tourist industry as a result of a new bus route connecting Peterborough and Pembroke. Eric Gill, regional supervisor of the Colonial Coach Lines reported to The Examiner Friday afternoon that this new route termed the Algonquin Route, would start on May 17.

The route runs Toronto to Pembroke through Peterborough. Travelling northwest from Peterborough buses will pass through Lakefield, Burleigh Falls, Apsley, Bancroft, Barry's Bay, Killaloe, and Eganville. This route also connects with Ottawa and North Bay.

The pilot run will take place on May 16.

"Not only do we expect that this new route will open up a tourist area in this district," Mr. Gill said, "but it will be the only through bus route connecting the Algonquin Park area with Toronto. Such communities as Deep River and Chalk River, which previously were comparatively isolated from bus travel will be serviced by this new route."

James Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, was enthusiastic about the new route. "It should do a great deal in bringing tourists and visitors from a new area to Peterborough," he said.

The Colonial Coach Lines hope to make this a daily year-round service. A bus will eave Pembroke at 2 p.m. every day, arrive in Peterborough at 7:20 p.m., and reach Toronto at 10:25 p.m. Going the other way, a bus leaves Toronto at 1:30 p.m. and leaves Peterborough at 4:35 p.m. to arrive in Pembroke at 9:20 p.m.

$70,000 Required For New Temple

Members of the Masonic Order in Peterborough will on Monday commence a drive to raise $70,000 to build additions and renovate the old Hamilton home on Reid St. into a Masonic Temple. Canvassers have been appointed by the three craft lodges, Corinthian, Peterborough and Royal Arthur, and these will commence their canvass following a dinner and open house held on the property on Monday night to which all Masons are invited. Plans call for building a lodge room 58 feet by 38 feet to the west of the present house and the remodelling of the house into the various rooms and other quarters essential for a temple. Under the lodge room will be a dining room the same size as the lodge.

Theft Charge Follows Arrest In City Hall

Terence Low, 33, 710 Water St., wanted to look over the new city hall building on George St. and as a result landed in police court today.

Low told the Constable, Donald Mackay who found him in the half-completed building, that he was just looking through the building.

He was as surprised as officer to find that there were three or four light bulbs in his pockets.

He was charged with theft and the charge was adjourned to next week.

Recruiting Fair Officer Says; 29 Volunteer

Recruiting this week in the Peterborough district for Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade was described as fair today be recruiting officer, Capt. F. J. Frape, Royal Canadian Regiment attached to the 50th Heavy AA Regiment (RF), RCA.

Volunteers for the country's force for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization force rushed the office early Monday and on Tuesday 15 men from the city and district were first to be sent to Kingston.

On Friday Capt. Frape sent seven others to No. 5 Personnel Depot for M-tests and medical examinations to bring the total for the five-day period to 29. Those sent were S. R. Roscoe, J. A. Astles, Michael Bosec, H. T. Harding, R. J. Little, D. M. Little and J. J. Grisdale.

Late Friday afternoon another recruit was interviewed and he, Donald Pinch, 741 Walkerfield Ave, left for Kingston at noon today.

So far, said Capt. Frape, the married men have numbered the same as the single. This is the first drive since the war by the Canadian Army where married men have been included in those eligible to join.

The age limits, he pointed out, also allow for some who have not been able to join before but now can. Previous drives have included only men between the ages of 17 years and 29. This time includes those between 17 and 40 years and up to 45 years if a tradesman.

Most of Peterborough's veteran volunteers were former members of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders or the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment. Others have applied from the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, the RCAF and the RCN.

Besides those sent to Kingston about 20 others have been interviewed by Capt. Frape for the force. Five were former officers during World War Two.

Clear Block To Make Way For Building

Wrecking To Start Monday Morning On Federal Site

The demolition firm of Kinsella & Torpey are going to work on Monday morning on the Charlotte Street reproach to the trim appearance of downtown Peterborough—the buildings that are to be pulled down at the south-east corner of Louis and Charlotte Streets.

The wrecking team of Harry Kinsella and Gus Torpey have been awarded the contract of clearing the lots bought by the Dominion Government for the site of a postal-customs building. Material salvaged in the work and course of removal will be for sale to the public on the property.

The buildings that are about to be razed are on both Louis and Charlotte Streets. Records of possession go back to the early years of Peterborough, and now return to the Crown.

Deeded In 1836

The corner property which was sold by Thomas Lansfield, was apparently a purchase or gift from the Crown to George Buck in 1836. Two years later he sold it to Donald McFarlane, whose will eventually transferred it to Alexander McFarlane, who sold it in 1883 to Thomas Bradburn.

The parcel bought by Thomas Lansfield for his dry cleaning industry was 80 feet by 25 feet. South of it on Louis Street is a terrace, and east of it on Charlotte Street is an ancient roughcast row of what once were stores. The average citizen has dubbed it for years "the eyesore."

The land from which the old roughcast relic with its boarded windows is about to disappear was obtained from the Crown in 1831 by William Oakley. In 1834 he sold it to John Hall.

It then passed into the possession of the Bank of Upper Canada from whom Robert Harper purchased in 1854. That name Harper has been associated with properties on both side of Charlotte St. in that midblock area.

When the one-storey building was put up is not definitely known. At any rate the next owner of the property was Thomas Milburn who deeded it in 1879 to his daughter Jane Milburn Snowden, wife of William Snowden.

Finally in 1899 it was sold to Robert J. Wolstenholme, who finally parted with it to the Crown for $11,000 to become part of the site for the federal government's building.

William Snowden was proprietor for years of the Snowden House on the north side of Charlotte St. It was bought by Braund interests and converted into the Charlbond Apartments.

The sentiments of Mr. Craik's congregation and board were expressed in a testimonial to him by the official board. The testimonial ended with the following words.

Shared Joys, Sorrows

"We are conscious that no minister in the history of St. James Church has so entered into the heart and life of the members as Mr. Craik. He has shared their joy and sorrows and his gracious ministry will live in the hearts of St. James' congregation for years to come."

The testimonial also paid tribute to "his fine work in the pulpit," pastoral work, work in the church school and presbyterial work.

During Mr. Craik's ministry in the city he has been chairman of the Presbytery, chairman of the M&M Fund, chairman of the settlement committee and ap-

4 Homeless Fire Burns Home

Recent Arrivals From France Are Burned Out

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12 — (ENS)—Four persons are homeless as the result of a fire on Friday evening that destroyed a two storey farm home near Menie, about seven miles southeast of Campbellford. The house on the property of Charles Johns was occupied by a French family who came to Canada from France only four months ago. The family operated the farm for Mr. Johns. Cyprien Majeute, his wife and two children aged 11 months and two years have taken up temporary residence with Mr. Johns.

Majeute, who speaks no English, was working in a field near the house when the fire was discovered. He hurried his family from the building and down the road to the home of Mr. Johns where a call was put in to the Campbellford fire department at 7 p.m. The alarm was sounded, but it was decided not to send the town fire fighting equipment because of the advanced state of the flames, the distance from the town, and the lack of available water supply.

Glen Hay, who lives across the road from the Majeute residence, rushed to the fire. He ran into the house to see if anyone was inside and with David Wallace, who also lives nearby removed what furniture they could from the blazing home. They managed to get nearly half the furniture out of the downstairs portion before the flames forced them back.

Charles Johns, who owns the home said it was only partly covered by insurance. Loss is estimated at close to $3,000. No one knew just how the fire started, but it began in a woodshed at the rear of the building and quickly spread throughout the structure. The house was not wired for electricity.

Kinsmen Club Comes To Rescue

Girl 11 Threatened With Loss Of Eye

An 11-year-old girl who is in grave danger of losing one of her eyes will get a chance to go to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester where it is hoped some way may be found to save her eye.

She and her mother will be sent to the Mayo Clinic by the Kinsmen's Club, who Thursday night decided to pay the expenses of the trip to Rochester.

The club's eye clinic was given the authority to do anything else it wanted to help the girl.

Bill Roche, head of the Kinsmen's eye clinic, reported that the girl had a tumor growth in one eye. She has been examined by one Peterborough doctor and three of four doctors of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

All the doctors have advised that the girl have the eye taken out, and soon. The child's parents want desperately to try the Mayo Clinic as a last resort. They heard of a similar case in which the eye of the daughter of one of Toronto's radio announcers was saved at the clinic.

If the eye is left too long without something being done, said Mr. Roche, the sight of the other eye could be affected or the child might die. It depended on whether the tumor grew out or grew inward toward the brain. On which way the tumor is growing the doctors have not been able to agree.

However, the doctors here and in Toronto have decided that nothing can be done for the eye and strongly advise that it be removed. In that case, the child could be supplied with a plastic eye, a thing the club's eye clinic does. Plastic eyes very closely resemble natural eyes.

Members of the club felt strongly that everything they could do, should be done to give the girl a chance to save the eye and grow up normally.

No limit to the amount of money that should be spent on the girl was named. It was left to the discretion of the club's eye clinic and the executive. However, it is known that the price of an adult train fare to Rochester is $160. The fare for the child and her mother and father would probably be $240. It is not known how much treatment at the Mayo Clinic would cost.

Mr. Roche also reported the work done by the club clinic since September 1, 1950. The clinic had treated 61 cases at a cost of $500.50 and supplied plastic eyes for two children at a cost of $40.

The club's purpose is to provide eye care for children whose parents are not able to afford to give their children the treatment and glasses they need.

Spring Tough On Houses, Shortcuts Simplify Repairs

These are times which try men's souls, and test the durability of houses. If you're not a natural handy man about the house, perhaps you had better start learning. Many repairs can be made easily if you know the professional short-cuts. Here are a few guides and suggestions to assist you through your home repairing adventures.

The government encourages homeowners to keep their houses in order. It knows that many neglected repair jobs become large and costly jobs later on, frequently requiring undue amount of critical materials.

On many a maintenance problem you can be your own fixer. Let's start with some simple ones. Repiacing a window glass, for example. The trick here is to insure a tight fit without breaking the glass. The secret lies in "pointing" the glass with glazier's points. Any flat piece of metal will do to help drive them in place, and the simplest of these is a large nut. Lay the flat side against the glass and tap with a hammer. When it comes to pressing the putty into the groove, you can avoid the usual messy job, by making a mould to form the putty in approximately the shape you want it. A piece of corrugated tin, nailed to a board, will make a good mould. You can then roll it into the grooves with a rolling pin or bottle and avoid the finger prints all over the glass.

Don't Pry Window

You can have a better chance of raising a sticking window by prying from the outside. Jimmying it from the inside is almost sure to mar the woodwork. A chisel slipped under the sash, with a small block of wood to spare the sill, should do the trick.

Now, while you can still get screen wire, is a good time to rehabilitate your screen windows. In putting the mouldings on, you will have a good mitre at the corners if you saw the moulding after it is nailed down.

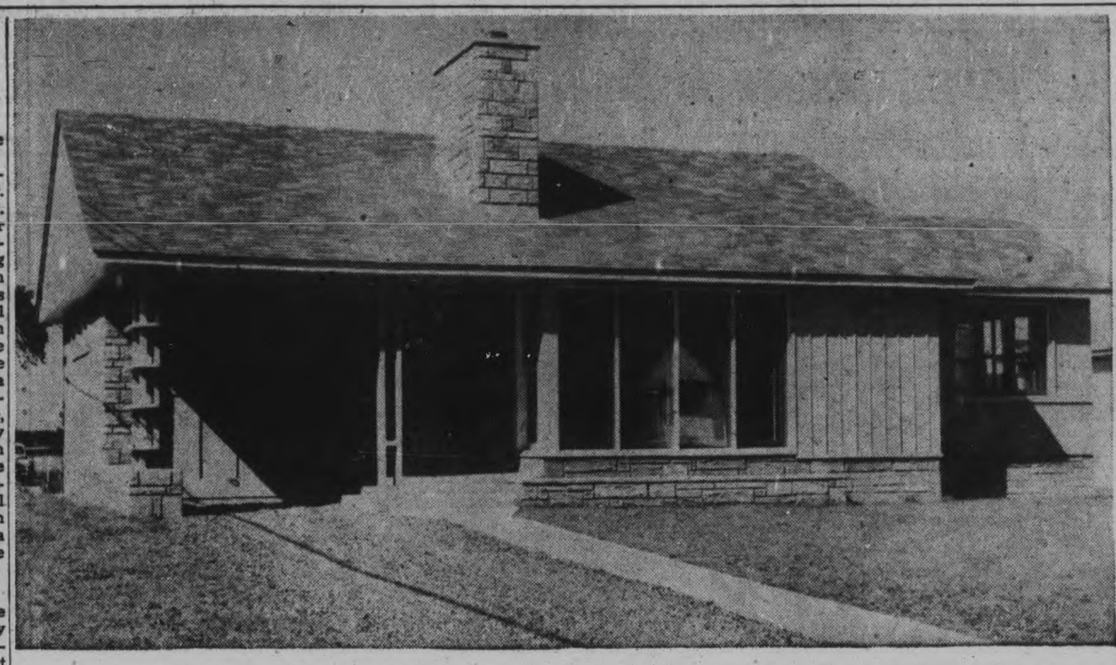
To save oil, and prevent it from dripping on the floor when you apply it to door or screen hinges, dip a pipe cleaner in oil and swab the inside of the hinge after the pin is removed.

Do not expect paint brushes to remain perfectly usuable unless you take care of them between jobs. Do not leave them standing in a can, as the bristles will take on a permanent wave. Soak and clean them in good turpentine or solvent, wrap in paper, and lay them flat when not in use.

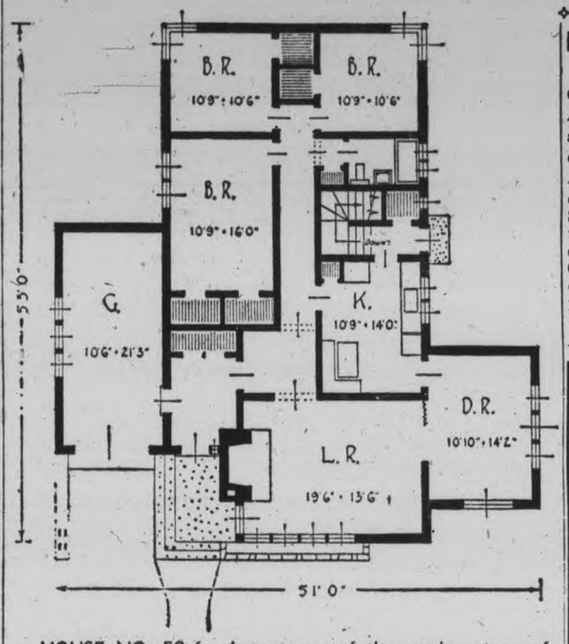
Watch Floor Boards

Give prompt attention to floor boards which warp or become loose at the ends. The end will start to splinter if neglected. The best way to refasten such boards firmly is to use longer nails in the same nail holes.

Unless you are fortunate enough to own a combination storm door and screen door, you probably find that the screw holes which hold the hinges become too large, and the screws work loose. The usual procedure is to insert a match or wooden peg in the hole. A better method is to fill the hole with plastic wood. Sagging storm and screen doors can be strenghened by inserting a dowel through the corner. It is best to use spiral dowels so the glue will not be forced out. A good applicator for paint on screen wire is a block of wood faced with a piece of old carpet.



If the wet weather of the past summer has seemingly permanently swelled a door, you may be able to smooth off the bottom by swinging it back and forth over a piece of sandpaper.



Leaves clutter up gutters, that is unless you take precautions to prevent them. To forestall an annual trip with a ladder each autumn, a protective screen of wide mesh over the downspout opening in the gutter is worth while. Many houses are equipped with a small wire cage at the gutter opening.

Whitewash for Fences

Within the last few years manufacturers have introduced paint which can be used over wallpaper. It is mixed with water, yet will not rub off after it is dry. For those who wish to beautify their basement walls, you can prepare a whitewash that is also satisfying. Being waterproof, it is suitable, too, for stone hedges and fences. Here is the formula: unslaked lime, 2 pecks; common salt, 1 peck; rice flour, 3 pounds; Spanish whiting, ½ pound; glue, 1 pound. Mix the lime with water in a container of at least 10 gallon capacity. Strain the solution and add salt which has been dissolved in warm water. The rice flour should be boiled in water, and the glue soaked in water. Add the flour, glue, whiting and 5 gallons of hot water to the previous mixture. Stir well, then cover and let stand for several days before using. The mixture should be heated and applied hot.

HOUSE NO. 59-6—Acceptance of the modern type of house has gained considerable headway across Canada during the past year. This fine home illustrates the reason for this increased popularity. Facing in a southerly direction, wide eaves have a very important function in its design, shading the living and dining rooms from the direct rays of the hot afternoon sun. There are large window areas on every elevation, climaxed by the floor-to-ceiling living room windows. An important convenience is the combined shelter provided over the main entrance and garage. Walls are of hollow concrete block, insulated in three different materials: stucco, vertical siding and imitation stone—all under a red roof. The basement is full size and can accommodate a large game room, laundry room and work shop.—For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Every Square Foot You Own Should Be Made Use Of

When you bought the lot for your home you paid for every square inch of it. So why not see that it is all put to work as productively as the part where the house stands? In other words, extend your living activities to all you own by making your lot a summer living room.

One of the first requirements is usually a degree of privacy. Fences or hedges can both be used for this purpose; in fact both seem to have their place on the average lot. Garden fences are usually constructed of light members so that the total amount of material is not very expensive, and the home craftsman will usually find real pleasure in building them.

Place Posts in Concrete

Fence posts should be cut about three feet longer than needed so that they may be imbedded in concrete to give the fence rigidity, for a leaning fence is an eyesore. A fence must stand the force of the wind as well as the detrimental effects of the freezing and thawing of winter. A special preservative is available which will assure long life for fence posts.

Designing a section is not enough to insure a good composition of the whole fence. Its entire length should be considered in order to determine the logical length of the sections. It is well to have all the sections of even length. Only when the length of each section is determined can we tell for sure the effect of the design. A section 8 feet long is ideal. Longer sections make the fences weak and when shorter, the design suffers.

Centre of Interest

Like the fireplace in a room, the gateway is the centre of interest in a fence. Your eye just naturally follows the fence to the gateway and then pauses there. Consequently it deserves special consideration. Remember, too, that the gate is, or should be, the only moving part in the fencing scheme and, as such, needs to be particularly well built.

Whenever we have a large wall space, it is possible to add an interesting lattice. It is particularly interesting to have lattices over windows. Generally use wood either ⅜ or ½ inches thick and 1½ to 2 inches wide. The uprights should be placed no farther than 18 inches apart, otherwise they will not be strong enough to support the fence. It is well to have the lattice a few inches above the ground so that the base will not decay. Use galvanized nails throughout to prevent rust streaks from showing and detracting from the effect.

Protect the Post

Be sure to protect all posts by painting with a good wood preservative. Danger spot is at ground level. The science of wood preservation now offers immunity from rot.

Gates and trellises are not only decorative accessories of the garden, but they serve a definite use. They should be well constructed so that they are permanent and remain accurately erect. Remember that although decorative they are accessories and should never be unduly prominent.

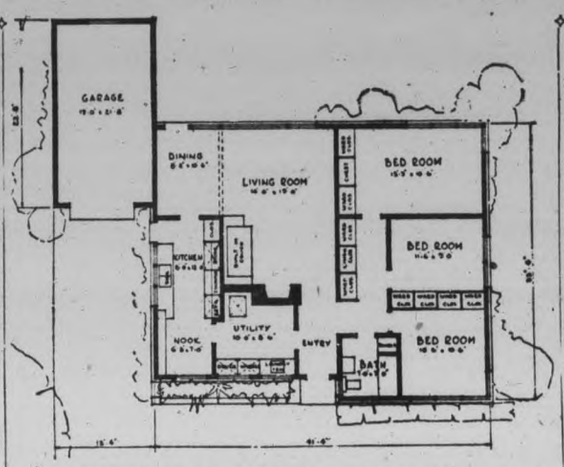
Need Atmosphere In Room As Personality In Person

"What gives a living room atmosphere?" queries an article in Better Homes and Gardens Home Furnishings Ideas. "It is fine furnishings? Is it talented decorating? Is it the feeling of relaxed informality? Atmosphere is all these and more; it can't be translated into a formula."

For atmosphere, the article continues, is to a room what personality is to a person. It is an aura of happiness, independence, and individuality, and you get it by letting your living room express the life you live. Even the safest decorating rules must be tempered with family interests, or the result will be as bare of atmosphere as a department store setup.

The problem often is how to make a cheerless living room charming, how to make a dull, common place interior interesting. Study your family's normal requirements: A comfortable place to sit or work for each one, good lighting for each chair, and desks and tables that will meet the individual needs. Be sure the things you have fit together and belong together. Resolve to discard gradually what is ugly or useless in your furniture.

In these rooms you can lie on the sofas, track the carpets, and not worry about marring the table tops. You find yourself at ease in the rooms' utter friendliness. Here are living rooms with atmosphere.



Important in a room's atmosphere is the furniture grouping. Chairs drawn close together invite you into these rooms. The chairs spell comfort. Tables, lamps, and footstools are handy, too, because the rooms were arranged for livability.

You can bring this same comfort and ease to your living room by grouping furniture close to a natural centre of interest. In your home that interest centre might be a picture window or a lovely old sofa—most likely it's a fireplace.

Plan a friendly circle near the fireplace or window—a spot where you can relax and talk. End tables next to the chairs and a big coffee table in the heart of the circle make the evenings more pleasant. These rooms seem to say, "Come in and make yourself at home."

Books on open shelves can create atmosphere in the proper setting. They seem to say, "Come over and browse behind our brilliant, attractive jackets." A large living room can provide comfortable seating all around the fireplace with a couple of sofas and an easy chair. Here an end table or coffee table can serve each seat.

HOUSE NO. 59-45—The exterior of this lovely home has been designed with simplicity of detail, which is particularly pleasingto the eye. While it leans toward contemporary styling, it would still fit into most any surroundings. The plan has been arranged for the medium-sized family. The kitchen-nook-laundry space, the ample provision for closets and storage, the ease of moving from one area to another are all indicative of family needs. House contains 17,150 cubic feet; the garage, 2,540 feet.—For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

WorkNearCompletion At Smelting Plant

MARMORA, May 12 (ENS)—Work is being rushed on the removal of some of the old buildings at the plant of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, and the erection of new buildings there.

Last fall a considerable section of the silver plant building was torn down and a new modern structure erected.

The old bag house which stood north of the silver plant has now been demolished, thus further changing the old contour of the p'ant. With this old building out of the way, it has been possible to clear the ground for the laying of a new cement floor.

Fort Frances to Get Big Welcome Home

FORT FRANCES, May 11 (CP)—Fort Frances Canadians can expect a big welcome on their return from Owen Sound and the Allan Cup senior hockey final.

Canadians Wednesday night bowed to Owen Sound Mercurys in the final game of the best-of-seven series for the Dominion title.

The Times in a front-page editorial Thursday said:

"Let's give the Canadians an even bigger reception than if they had won the Allan Cup. They deserve it."

The team is expected here either tonight or Saturday morning.

Moisture Said To Be Cause When House Paint Peels

By JIM CHANDLER
Secretary, National Assn. of Real Estate Editors

Written for NEA Service

Paint is peeling off throughout the nation. Warning is the appearance of blisters. Next, the paint film begins curling and falling.

Beneath the surface there is danger of wood rotting unless something is done. This danger and damage is a new phase in home deterioration.

Cause of the trouble, extensive surveys and tests have shown, is moisture. Trapped moisture from kitchen, bath and laundry pushes against the under side of paint layers to meet the pull of the spring sun.

Why is the paint-peeling disease spreading to thousands of more homes each year?

Because more homes in the past decade have been sealed tighter and tighter, to save fuel.

Homebuliding has improved to the point where it has created a new danger. Stifled with layers of insulation board, fluffy insulation, weatherstrip and storm windows, homes cannot breathe.

Moisture spreading inside a home because of occupants bathing, cooking and drying clothes, fails to find easy channels to the dryer air outdoors.

Nature compels moisture to seek dryer air just as it compels water to flow downhill and air to fill a vacuum.

Trapped moisture pushes through walls, penetrating everything except complete-seal moisture barriers. Finally, it may strike the cool inner side of an exterior wall. Here it will condense into water in liquid form. Here it will wait for the sun to pull it through the paint.

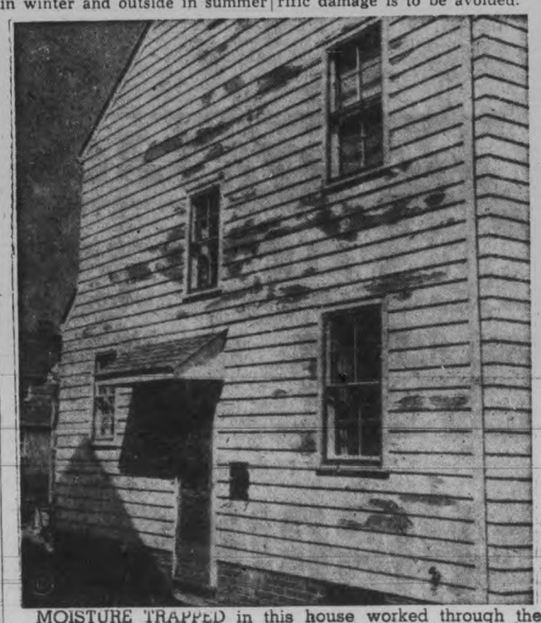
Meanwhile it promotes the rotting of wood.

In trying to keep heat inside in winter and outside in summer we have, in large degree, overlooked the moisture problem we have thus created.

What can be done about it? A great deal.

It is vitally important to keep the moisture danger in mind when you begin building a new house. But if your contractor overlooked the matter, much can be done to permit your home to breathe, while still conserving heat in winter and enjoying insulation against the summer sun.

First let's look at some typical cases of paint peeling. (You can spot them as you drive along almost any street. Look at the sunstruck east, south and west sides of homes.)



One home owner reports: "Our house is four years old. It has been painted three times but the paint has just about all peeled off again."

"We tried three different brands of paint—all good brands—but none would stick. We had old paint burned off and started right from the bare wood, last time. The job didn't hold.

"We were told about moisture being the cause. The last firm we hired refused to risk its reputation by repainting until the moisture was removed from the walls. We had 'breather holes' bored in the walls and aluminum tubes placed in the holes to screen out rain and bugs."

He plans to install an exhaust fan in the laundry room and louvers or other extra ventilation in the attic, to let moisture escape without permitting too much wintertime warmth to escape.

Only recently have research laboratories, paint companies upset by "paint failure" complaints and engineers applied themselves to the moisture menace. Progress must be swift in corrective measures in the next few years if terrific damage is to be avoided.

MOISTURE TRAPPED in this house worked through the walls, condensed into water and caused this scabby peeling of the exterior paint.

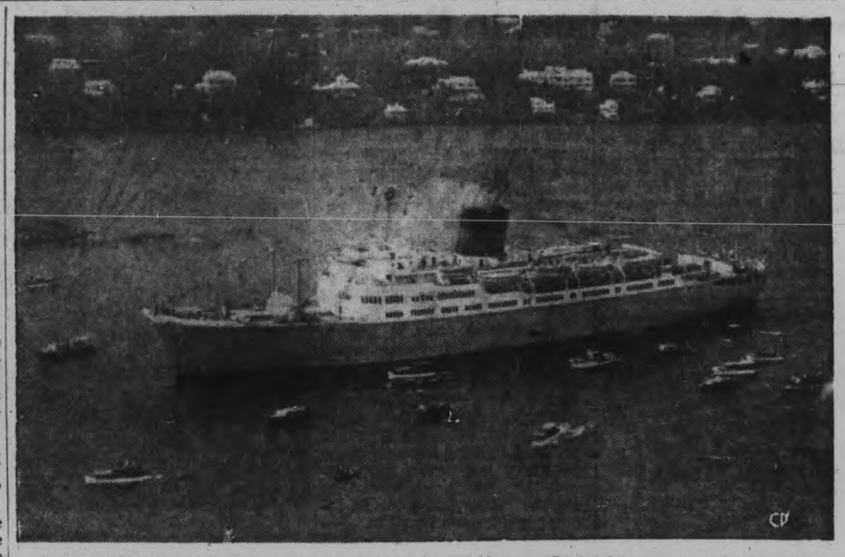
CCF Fighting Divorce Cases In Parliament

OTTAWA, May 12—(CP)—The CCF party Friday night served notice of an all-out drive to force divorce cases out of parliament and into the courts.



For the second night this week, CCF members staged in the Commons a fillibuster against 129 divorce-case bills from Quebec and Newfoundland—usually passed perfunctorily by the Commons—and they told the House the blockade will continue.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said his party wants a "proper court" to handle divorces from the two provinces.

These do not have divorce courts, and the present procedure is for a Senate committee to examine evidence and pass on hundreds of cases each session, with the Senate and Commons granting divorces approved by the committee.

They come before the Commons in the form of "private" bills to which the House devotes an hour two nights a week. Friday night, it spent the hour debating a single bill without passing it. Normally, dozens go through at a time without discussion.

The CCF, which has fought parliament's handling of divorce cases for many years, on previous occasions suggested that if the two provinces would not set up proper courts then parliament should designate the Exchequer Court to handle the divorce actions.

On his maternal side, the infant is a member of the fourth generation to be baptized in this church, of which his mother was a former organist.

Following the service, the infant's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, entertained the immediate relatives at a dinner.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL - PETERBOROUGH

Of all the professions women may choose for their life's vocation, there is none more honourable than the humanitarian role of the modern nurse. It is this army of 'ladies in white' that hospitals honour each year on the birth anniversary of the first of them all, Florence Nightingale, "The Lady with the Lamp".

The quiet efficiency and dignity of the modern hospital are echoes of the soft footsteps of this young woman who, possessed by a burning desire to serve the sick and injured, braved the rigours of the Crimean War, leading a small company of like-minded followers in a battle against suffering and death. The effect of her sacrificial life will never cease to be felt so long as humanity remains a quality of man.

The spotless cleanliness and poignant aroma of antiseptics, so evident in hospitals today, stand out in stark contrast to the almost forgotten days when the sick were thought to be demon-possessed and were cast into "pest houses" to die. The loving care of the "Nightingale" nurse has replaced the crude, unlearned, often superstitious ministrations of her predecessors.

Your hospital is your community's fulfillment of a need for a place where suffering and pain may be replaced by comfort and healing. All possible scientific knowledge and equipment are there to be employed by the skilled hands of doctors and nurses when you or your loved ones are in need. Your mission, as a citizen, is to learn more about your hospital, its problems and its needs. Join with your hospital in honouring our nurses and, above all, give it your sympathetic understanding and active support.

Tells of Bible Mis-Translation

A meeting of Knox Church WA Thursday afternoon opened with a worship service in which the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. M. Lindsay. Subject of the meditation was "The Prodigal Son," led by Miss S. Summers. Prayer was offered by Mrs. R. Hanscom. Mrs. H. Clegg read an interesting article entitled "New light on an old book" which tells of George Lamsa, a Syrian scholar who came to US in 1916, and finding the English language spoken in New York a puzzle, learned that there were as many idioms in English as in his native Aramaic, the language which Christ and His disciples spoke together. So, he discovered that since Aramaic idioms had been translated literally in the Bible they had lost all the original meaning, or had been badly mistranslated. He then started translating the Bible from Aramaic and in 1940 his "Modern New Testament" was published. The story explained that in conversational Aramaic, "in the belly of a fish" means simply "in some kind of trouble," and English speaking people might easily convey the same meaning by the phrase "in a pickle." Lamsa bases his theory on the claim that King James version was translated from Latin and the Latin from Greek and the Greek from Aramaic. Now, working from an Aramaic Bible and ancient scrolls on parchment and skins, he is translating the books of Kings and Chronicles. A short business meeting followed the reading and reports were given by committee conveners.

Huge Crowd At Maytime Dance

A crowd so large that those in charge lost control of admissions as well as registration attended the CYO Maytime Dance Friday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Only the sturdiness of the old Simcoe St. building prevented it from swaying with the dancers for they were using every available bit of space. Visitors from Lindsay, Oshawa and Port Hope swelled the mass representation from city parishes.

It had been planned to give prizes for spot dances and novelties but MC Gerry Armstrong found the problem of picking winners in such a crowd to great. Miss Kay Lucas headed a lunch committee which arranged for a quantity of food to be on hand but the serving had to be done under such difficulty that probably many in the hall were not reached.

The Rev. Ray Garvey of St. Peter's Parish and the Rev. Father Kay of Lindsay were chaperones.

Mr. Gordon Minty entertained the crowd with banjo selections during intermission.

Women's Roles Scarce In U.K. Theatre

TORONTO —(CP)— Barbara Davis, Newmarket, Ont., girl who has been living in England since 1944 when she went overseas with the Navy Show, is back in Canada. She says the Festival of Britain is not providing easy jobs for aspiring young actresses.

Barbara says established stars are preferred because their names are more likely to draw tourists. Girl's roles are scarce, too, because the emphasis is on plays, including many classics, that feature male actors. The supply of actresses also is greater than the demand as lack of work in the British movie industry has sent film people seeking jobs on the stage.

Miss Davis who studied for two years at the Central School of Dramatic Art in Royal Albert Hall, plans to spend the next few months acting with the Straw Hat Players, a summer theatre group that is headed by her producer brothers, Murray and Donald Davis.

The group stages plays at Port Carling and Gravenhurst, Ont., in the heart of the province's Muskoka tourist district.

Barbara will star in the "Winslow Boy" and "Candida," two of the eight shows planned for the season.

She now speaks with a British accent, which, she explains, she didn't just pick up. She took lessons to acquire it after she was told it would be difficult with her dark coloring and un-English voice to get a decent part in Britain.

Use Old Recipes For Tourists

LONDON —(CP)— Using old cookery recipes, several well-known London restaurants plan to regale Festival of Britain visitors with "Old English" dishes.

These are four recipes overseas visitors may sample:

Cornwall's star gazy pie: clean and bone six herring. Place fish in a pie dish lined with fat and breadcrumbs. Season and add eggs beaten in tarragon vinegar. Cover dish with pastry, leaving a centre hole through which the heads stick upwards. Bake for one hour and place a sprig of parsley in the mouth of each fish before serving.

Huntingdon fidgett pie: put a layer of apples in a pie dish, add onions and diced bacon. Season and repeat layers of apples and onions until dish is full. Cover dish with short-crust pastry and cook for two hours.

Oxford's banbury pie: place a layer of apples in a well-greased dish, sprinkle with peel and currants, pour over a little heated butter, add a sprinkle of sugar and flavor of cinnamon. Repeat layers till dish is full and cover with short pastry. Bake for 30 minutes, then glaze with milk and sugar.

Surrey fritters: beat three eggs. Add stale white breadcrumbs till mixture has the consistency of whipped cream and sweeten to taste with castor sugar. Flavor with ntumeg and drop into boiling fat.

Handcraft Guild Hears Z. Temesy At Annual Meeting

Fourth annual meeting of the Peterborough Handcraft Guild was held this week at the Public Library. Speaker was Mr. Zolton Temesy of the PCVS staff whose subject was "Design as it pertains to Crafts."

He began saying "it is a mistaken notion that craft work is all skill and technique. Ability and knowledge are necessary but to be a creative craftsman one must be also a master of design. Design is organization and is not restricted to artists. We use our sense of design even in choosing wearing apparel and accessories. It is important also to be able to discriminate. We have to think of the material and purpose and how these will accept our design."

"Art is the opposite of confusion," he continued. "It is in the simplest things, such as a jug designed for a specific purpose. Decoration of any surface does not exist for itself—if designed properly it becomes part of the whole."

Mr. Temesy pointed out that different materials must be used for different things, for example, a reed basket needs only balance and weaving to make it attractive, with surface decoration of colored reeds interwoven. "Whatever medium is chosen there is a treatment to which it lends itself and the design must follow the dictates of the medium chosen." He advised that the best way to learn is actually working in the materials.

A point to remember in developing a sense of design given by Mr. Temesy is: From the habit of looking for design in things you use and see every day, and analyze it. "We must be able to discriminate and build up our design consciousness to be able to make correct decisions in the use of designs."

President Mrs. R. H. Parker conducted the meeting.

Introduction of further craft work to the local hospital was suggested by Mrs. K. E. Pilkington. It was decided to form a committee to look after this and secure voluntary workers to teach craft work that can be done in bed. She is anxious to have a group to go every other day, instead of on one day a week as at present.

Mr. Alex Sinclair spoke for the Recreation Commission, in praise of the work of the Guild and spoke of appreciation and praise of the zone representatives of the display which has been invited to be shown at Oshawa, either as competitive entries or non-competitive. Interest shown in a display at the Sportsmen's Show was also keen and he advised that he has asked for more space at the Peterborough Exhibition and would like a demonstration. He said teen-age craft groups may be a possibility and spoke of Mrs. J. G. Wharry's good work on the commission.

Outlines of activities during the past year were given by the following Guild conveners: Mrs. J. G. Wharry for Arts and Crafts; Mrs. C. Frisken, Home Arts; Miss E. Robson, Leathercraft; Miss M. Conner, Metalcraft; Mrs. G. A. Reinhardt, Potters; Mrs. K. E. Pilkington, Weavers.

In the election of officers for the coming year, Mrs. R. H. Parker was re-elected president. Vice-president is Mr. E. R. Frost; secretary, Miss Jean Scott, both re-elected, and new treasurer is Mrs. J. Sharpe.

Tea and refreshments were served after the meeting.

Once Cooked For Emperor Woman Now Lures Tourists

KITCHENER—(CP)—A woman who once cooked for the Emperor of Germany is doing her part to lure American tourists to Canada.

Mrs. Augusta Thiem, of Conestogo, six miles from here, is kept busy providing tourists and village residents with the kind of food that melts in your mouth.

She and her husband came from Rominten, Germany, 27 years ago. Rominten then was a village on the royal estate of the late Kaiser Wilhelm, last of the German Monarchs. The whole village fussed and flurried preparing dishes to tempt the Imperial palate when the Kaiser went there for the shooting season, and Mrs. Thiem, then a young girl, was no exception.

Touch of Magnificence

Now she cooks for less distinguished guests, but the food she prepares still has the touch of magnificence. For her guests she whips up delicacies like Wiener Schnitzel, Hassenpfeffer or Sauerbraten. She makes her own Sauerkraut and has a light and adept hand with Strudels.

Mrs. Thiem loves to see people eat and enjoy their food. She puts a platter of fried chicken on the table and if you don't eat it all, she's hurt and insists on reloading your plate. A coffee urn is always on the table and guests are invited to take all they want.

The only trouble with the Thiem establishment is that Conestogo residents are trying to keep her talents a secret. With Mrs. Thiem, they explain, cooking is an art, not a mass-production proposition. Her guests want to keep it that way.

New Discovery F "99"
Eczema, Leg Ulcers, Psoriasis, Boils

Zurich, Switzerland— Eminent scientists have discovered that the lack of certain fatty acids in the diet causes severe disturbances to health. If the highly unsaturated fatty acids are withdrawn from the normal diet, severe injury to the skin results. The modern type of diet and especially the use of refined fats and oils, in which unsaturated fatty acids are almost completely lacking (even butter contains only a minimum trace) have brought about a deficiency in many individuals. A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of work in preparing from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a 99% purity, and therefore called F "99". This new Swiss discovery, F "99", is a two-way treatment (working internally with F "99" capsules and externally with F "99" in ointment), and has proved remarkably effective in cases of unsaturated fatty acid deficiency—Eczema—Boils—Leg Ulcers—Psoriasis and Infantile Eczema. F "99" is already widely used throughout Switzerland and is making rapid progress in cities such as Paris, Rome and Vienna. The first supplies of F "99" were sent to Canada by air but production is now on a larger scale, enabling a wider distribution to be made of the F "99" preparations, and limited quantities are now obtainable from drug stores. F "99" has proved in thousands of cases its tremendous value as the natural remedy.

The F "99" preparations come in ointment and capsules for adults, and ointment and liquid for children. An English translation of an interesting illustrated booklet, describing the remarkable effects of the new Swiss discovery has now been made available for free distribution by druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, write Diva Laboratories Ltd., Dept. PE 156 Bathurst St., Toronto 2B, Ont.

Of Interest to Women

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"It keeps my husband from making a monkey of himself when we get into an argument!"

DOROTHY DIX

Must Adjust Differences For Sake of the Child

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife and I do not seem to make a go of it. She is a church worker. Gives all of her time and thoughts to that. Cannot see anything else.

Dorothy Dix

I like to see shows, go to parties now and then, play cards and do other things with fun in them. Nothing wrong. No excess. My wife has no desire for those things and refuses to go with me. We have talked over our difference in taste a number of times and she says there is nothing that will change her mind. Summing it all up I am not satisfied with my married life and don't see why we should stick together under such conditions. Is there any reason why two persons should live together and be miserable when they could be happy apart? There is one child.

B.M.

ANSWER: Well, there is the child, B.M., and this is a reason for not breaking up your marriage that simply fills the universe and blots out all of the little differences of taste and temper and temparament between you and your wife.

The victims of every divorce are the children. It wrecks a little child to be torn up by the roots from its home, to be deprived of a mother or a father entirely, or else to be made to feel like an unwanted package that is shifted from one parent to another and that has no settled abiding place. Children need permanency in all their relationships. They need the same father and mother, not a couple of steps. They need the same room, the same school, the same children to play with. And they need love and peace between their parents.

Use Common Sense

Certanly I don't think that you have any right to jeopardize your child's whole future became your wife won't go out with you. So meet the situation with philosophy and common sense, and keep your home intact. That is, if you and your wife can keep from quarreling, but if you have to fight every time she goes to prayer meeting and you go to the movies, it is kindness to the child for you to separate. Better no home at all than one that is filled with discord. Better no father or mother than parents who are eternally scrapping.

Any two persons can be happy together who like to do the same things and are interested in the same things and have the same tastes and habits. When, however, after marriage they find out that they differ in tastes, they should save their marriage by compromising and by adapting themselves to each other. We can change our tastes and habits if we will and it is better to do that than it is to break up a home.

Try it and maybe your wife will find out that there is just as much religion in making her husband happy as there is in running the church.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18 years old and my boy friend is 23. My problem seems very important to me. What should a girl do while waiting for a soldier who has been called back to the Army? He has been gone six months, and since then I have been very true to him. I haven't been anywhere except for a couple of dances with both my parents and his. I want to be true to him because he will come home to me when his 21 months are up. Please tell me what I should do to pass the time while waiting for my soldier.—JOAN.

ANSWER: You don't say whether you are working or going to school. Presumably you are doing one or the other. If you are working, why not take some evening course to add to your education, or learn a skill that will surprise your sweetheart when he comes homes? You could take up sewing, cooking or interior decoration, so you will be better equipped to manage your own home.

If you are presently going to school during the day, you could still take one of these courses at night, or perhaps a part-time job would will in your spare hours. Then, of course, there is the letter-writing to your soldier, which must not be neglected. You don't have to look far to find a charitable organization waiting with open arms for volunteer workers. And, if all this sounds like lots of work but very little fun, make new girl friends to keep you company on movie dates.

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there such an animal left in the world as a lady? I haven't seen one for years. Have they become extinct, or has my eyesight grown defective?—DOUBTING THOMAS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Undoubtedly the species is becoming rare, but it is not quite as extinct as the Dodo. Every now and then I meet one. Mostly elderly. But occasionally you meet a young one who neither smokes nor drinks nor tells risque stories, and a most refreshing sight she is.

LITTLE IODINE by JIMMY HATLO

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: (From Mary A. continued from last week) (request for green tomato pickle and preserved green peppers)

Green Tomato Pickle No. 1

Wash one gallon green tomatoes and slice them as thinly as possible. Add to them 10 medium sized onions sliced as thinly as possible, alternating layers of these in a large clean crock. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon mustard seeds between them as you layer them. When all vegetables are in crock pour over them 2 pints spirit vinegar to which you have added ¼ cup salt and 1 cup granulated sugar, stirred until both are dissolved. Cover pickle and let stand in very cool or cold place. This is crisp and tasty, but you must have a cool place to store it.

✧ ✧ ✧

This is richer than above recipe and is packed in jars.

One peck green tomatoes, sliced, 6 onions, sliced, 1 cup salt, 2 quarts vinegar, 1 pound sugar, 2 teaspoons powdered mustard, 2 tablespoons each curry, turmeric, 2 teaspoons each cinnamon, cloves, allspice. Sprinkle the one cup of salt through the sliced tomatoes and onions and let stand overnight. In the morning drain. Add to it a vinegar solution to cover made of one-quarter part vinegar and three-quarters parts water, and let stand 1 hour. Drain and discard liquid. Combine the 2 quarts vinegar with the sugar, spices and bring to a boil. Add vegetables and simmer slowly for 3 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This is delicious and keeps crisp and green all winter if stored in cool dark fruit cellar.

I have recipes for canned red and green peppers (using a vinegar and sugar syrup), and for canned pimientoes in light brine; also for what is known as stuffed mangoes which is green peppers stuffed with a cabbage mixture and pickled in a very hot vinegar mixture. None of these is exactly what you are after. I will give you the canned green pepper using vinegar and sugar and hope our readers will come to our rescue.

Canned Red or Green Peppers

Wash one peck red or green peppers, cut a slice from stem end of each and remove seeds and cords; cut in strips or 1½-inch squares or ribbons working around the peppers using small scissors or very harp paring knife. Cover with boiling water, let tand 2 minutes, drain and plunge into very cold ice water. Let stand 10 minutes, drain and pack rather tightly into pint glass jars that have been sterilized. Boil 1 quart spirit or cider vinegar and 2 cups sugar together for 10 minutes and pour this over the pepper until jars overflow. Put on rubbers, tops and seal at once. Store in cold place. NOTE: Amount of vinegar may be halved and substituted with water and sugar reduced to 1 cup if you are very strict about your sterilizing technique.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Would you kindly send me your calorie chart and any information you have on weight reduction. Since this is for a man could you give calorie count of: apple juice, spaghetti and tomato-cheese, macaroni in milk-cheese, dumplings, cornstarch pudding, raisin tarts, bran muffins. Mrs. Carl K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Calorie chart will be sent as soon as I receive a new supply. All of the foods you mention are very high in calorie count except the apple juice. A reducer should avoid all of the other foods for they contain in order mentioned; 30, 150, 150, 130, 100, 200, 125. (Count based on average servings.)

pointed delegate to the general council.

Many improvements to the church itself have also been accomplished during his ministry. The church auditorium and Sunday school have been re-decorated; a new pipe organ installed; the church basement has been completed and made into a spacious room for junior school and social gatherings and many improvements have been made to the church manse.

Mr. Craik is a graduate of the United Church Theological College, Montreal. During his college course he was assistant minister to the Rev. F. B. Alnuth at the West End Church. Following his ordination at St. Mary's United Church in Middlesex Presbytery he served churches at Walton, Putnam, Corrie, and Goderich. He moved to Peterborough as successor to the Rev. A. E. Moorehouse.

2 Vehicles Damaged

Shunting two vehicles as he pulled out of a parking space on Rubidge St. south of Townsend St., Friday afternoon, Arthur Jones, Norwood, damaged both car and truck.

A truck owned by N. G. Feld, RR 11, Peterborough, was parked immediately in front of Jones and a car owned by Harold Delong, 748 Duffus St., was parked in front of the truck.

Jones pushed the truck ahead into the car, damaging the grill and front bumper of the truck and rear bumper of the car. Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

Tent Caterpillars Tenant District Trees

Chokecherry trees in flower along rural fences are tenanted these days with tents of caterpillars that are an ominous reminder of the defoliating forage of their kindred in the woods of the Stony Lake area a year ago, and previously in the season of 1949.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, recently obtained from the Department of Lands and Forests copies of a booklet entitled "The Forest Tent Caterpillar". This was in response to enquiries from the neighborhood including the shore country of Stony Lake.

Its map indicates that the locality of heaviest infestation extends east and south of Georgian Bay to Lake Simcoe, continuing easterly to a section north of Tweed. Mere perusal of the pamphlet explains that the forest tent caterpillar is often confused with the eastern tent caterpillar that spins it webs in the wild cherry and related trees. So that difference and also relationship is cleared up.

Voracious Species

The forest tent caterpillar is the species so numerous and voracious that it strips trees of their leaves along about the end of May and early June, leaving acres of woodland in some places as bare as in November.

When full grown, the caterpillars enter the pupal stage, surrounding themselves with yellow cocoons from which they emerge as moths. The females then lay their eggs on twigs in a brief life span of five days or more, and in that form the caterpillars are all set for hatching in the following spring.

The Department's booklet mentions that hatching occurs at approximately the same time as the appearance of new foliage on "the trembling aspen and white birch." Other host trees are red oak, sugar maple, yellow birch, basswood, ash and elm.

Ground Control

Ground control may be effective by spraying with DDT, and the same insecticide may be sprayed from the air.

Natural control is more or less by parasites, disease, unfavorable weather and predators such as chickadees, crows, ants, stinkbugs, dragonflies and so on.

Mr. Paterson provides the informative booklet although it hardly rates as a weapon against the caterpillars which have already re-appeared in the central section of the county.

Department of Lands and Forests is deeply concerned with the forest tent caterpillar situation in Ontario, "and is willing to cooperate with summer cottagers, tourist resort operators and other owners of forest land. It will consider proposals which may be made by municipal organizations representing groups of these owners."

Sunday Marked As National Hospital Day

Sunday is National Hospital Day. Officials of Peterborough's two hospitals—Civic and St. Joseph's—are asking citizens to commemorate this day by considering the important role that hospitals play in this community.

The hospitals also will be remembered in city churches during the Sunday morning services.

National Hospital Day was instituted approximately 25 years ago by Mathew Foley, editor of Hospital Management. At that time it was decided to commemorate this day on the nearest Sunday to Florence Nightingale's birthday—May 12.

The role of Peterborough's two hospitals in this community is bound up with their history. Both were opened in the 1890's. Since that time both have developed as first the town and then the city developed.

Greatest Change

The greatest change through the years has taken place in what is now the new Civic Hospital. In 1885, Moira Hall, a spacious private home on Charlotte St. was bought and endowed by Mrs. Charlotte Jane Nicholls for use as a public hospital.

This building soon proved too small and Mrs. Nicholls erected and endowed what was called the Nicholls Hospital at the north end of the city. Last year saw the memorable opening of the new Civic Hospital which was named one of the most modern and well-equipped hospitals for a city of this size in the province.

St. Joseph's hospital has followed a similar development pattern since its opening in 1889, but has remained on the original site. At that time the Most Rev. R. A. O'Connor, bishop of the Diocese of Peterborough, realized the need for another hospital and bought the present site. Two buildings provided the original hospital accommodation.

The following year, the need for additional accommodation was the incentive for the erection of a new hospital building. In 1922 a new wing was added and the erection of another new wing in May of 1950 brought the hospital up to its present fine standards.

These two hospitals have given service to Peterborough for 66 and 62 years. The true estimate of this service can be found in their files and record books. Sunday these years of service will be commemorated.

NEW BARONET — Richard Moon, manager of a Toronto costume company, now is Sir Richard Moon, Bart. He inherited the title — originally created for his grandfather in 1887—on the death of a cousin. Are you in the know?

What does Hippy Hannah aim to be?
☐ A wallflower
☐ A bouncing beauty
☐ An eavesdropper

Which keeps your velvet duds date-worthy?
☐ A steam iron
☐ Cellophane tape
☐ Mothballs

Tuning in on her neighbours? Nay, nay. Just bouncing her way to streamlined beauty. If you're hip-hefty, bump 'em off—10 minutes daily, against the wall. Stirs up circulation; helps trim over-rounded curves. Improving your figure improves your poise. But keeping poised on problem days depends so much on comfort. Choose Kotex. Made to stay soft while you wear it, Kotex gives softness that holds its shape!

Those velvets and velveteens you're strutting in, nowadays, need to be de-wrinkled. De-linted. Never iron velvet; hang your duds in a steam-filled bathroom. Cellophane tape wrapped around your fingers (sticky side out), picks up lint. Date-worthy clothes must have good care. And it makes good sense, on "those" days, to take care that you get Kotex. That safety centre gives extra protection, and the flat pressed ends of Kotex prevent revealing outlines!

3 ABSORBENCIES: Regular, Super, Junior

More women choose KOTEX* than all other sanitary napkins!

*T.M. Reg.

How to prepare for "certain" days?
☐ Circle your calendar
☐ Buy a new belt ☐ Perk up your wardrobe

Before "that" time, be ready! All 3 answers above can help. But to assure extra comfort, buy a new Kotex sanitary belt. Made with soft-stretch elastic—light-weight Kotex belt's non-twisting. Stays flat even after many washings. Dries-pronto! So don't wait... buy a new Kotex belt now. (Why not buy two—for a change?)

P.S. Have you tried Delsey? Delsey* is the new bathroom tissue that's safer because it's softer. A product as superior as Kotex . . . a tissue as soft and absorbent as Kleenex*. (We think that's the nicest compliment there is.)

In this modern age, nickel helps a lad to grow up strong and healthy. Cod liver oil, tooth paste, medicines and toilet preparations are all processed in equipment made of pure nickel or nickel alloys.

Today bicycles are being made stronger, more durable — but lighter in weight — with the help of alloys made strong and tough by the addition of nickel.

In the dairy, the purity of milk is protected by the use of nickel-alloy materials in the pasteurizers, coolers, bottling machines and other equipment.

Nickel is on the job most everywhere

Hundreds of everyday uses for Nickel have been developed by the Nickel industry through a planned program of research. Today a large share of Canada's Nickel production is being diverted from peacetime uses into channels for preparedness. So the Nickel mine facilities, greatly expanded over the past decade, are again being operated at peak capacity. There is actually more Nickel now being delivered by Canada to the free world than in any peacetime year.

Lindsay Plans $900,000 School Addition

LINDSAY, May 12—Plans are going ahead for the extension and renovation of Lindsay Collegiate High School and an addition to Fenelon Falls High School.

The Victoria County District High School Board gave John P. Parkin, Toronto, architect, instructions to proceed with plans for the estimated $900,000 addition to the Lindsay Collegiate and also draw up sketch plans for additions to Fenelon Falls High School.

In addition to the Lindsay school building there will be a home economics department, an industrial shop, perhaps an agriculture department, another gymnasium, and a commercial department.

The Lindsay school when completed will accommodate 710 students. The student body is now slightly over 600.

Plans for the Lindsay collegiate incorporate the sealing off with bricking the third floor of the present building. Architect Parkin claimed that the third floor of the building constituted a serious fire hazard and should be sealed off. The commercial department and an assembly hall now occupies the third floor.

The Fenelon Falls High School is to have rooms for shopwork and home economics, an agriculture laboratory and a 40 x 60 gymnasium added.

Jasper Forman, chairman, reported that at a recent meeting with the Ontario Department of Education, the department agreed to pay a 75 per cent. grant on $800,000 of the Lindsay Collegiate building project. This would mean the Lindsay Board of Education would collect $600,000 for the new school addition.

"Now I've put REGULAR SAVINGS in my budget

We've always been methodical about spending. We've stuck to a detailed budget. But, you know how it is these days. There are so many things you feel you want to spend your money on.

However, my wife and I thought we'd never get round to a methodical savings plan.

When the Mutual Life representative called, we found he understood our money problems better than anybody we've ever talked to.

He showed us that investing in a life insurance policy was a sure way to keep our savings on a regular basis. We took his advice and found it worked out."

"... and I'm mighty thankful for the protection it affords

Now regular Saving is in our budget to stay. The protection it gives is something I'm mighty thankful for, both for the children and myself."

Chinese Expanding Bridgehead Across Choyang

TOKYO, May 14. (AP)—Chinese Communist troops today expanded a threatening bridgehead across the Choyang River on the central Korean front despite the pounding of American guns. These forces northeast of Chunchon may spearhead a second spring offensive by the 500,000-man Red army, expected in about 10 days. Elsewhere along the 100-mile front, United Nations patrols probed No Man's Land with little opposition. However, two sharp clashes broke out on the western front.

One American task force ran into a Chinese ambush and pulled back after a battle. The second prolonged fight began when an armored American outfit ambushed a Chinese patrol.

For the first time in the war, UN forces are getting a small but steady trickle of Chinese deserters, AP correspondent John Randolph reported from this point.

The Reds appeared to be avoiding strong contact while rushing fresh troops into build-up areas on the west and central fronts.

Bad weather screened their movements Monday.

Deepen Penetration

AP correspondent George MacArthur reported the Chinese had deepened their penetration below the Choyang River.

The bridgehead poses a flanking threat to Chunchon, key to rail and road networks, 45 miles north-east of Seoul.

Allied pilots hunting through the rain clouds reported Reds steadily filtering southward. Airmen reported more than two divisions, roughly 15,000 men, were concentrating north of Chunchon.

The other main buildup was on the west central sector, north and north-east of Seoul.

An Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds could strike again any time they wanted. The consensus was that they would in about 10 days.

May Use Planes

There were hints that the new onslaught would be backed by greater fire power—and possibly planes.

A new airfield was discovered at Pyong, 25 miles north-east of Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. B-29 Superforts tore it up with 130 tons of bombs.

Lt.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, the US Fifth Air Force commander, said the Reds "could build up (an air force) fairly rapidly.....We are keeping a watchful eye on them."

A Red patrol surrounded and overrun on the western front was equipped with an unusual number of automatic weapons, Associated Press correspondent John Randolph reported.

Russia Boosting Army Garrisons Since December

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP) — Defence Secretary George Marshall testified today Russia had made "sizeable increases" in its military garrisons near Korea since last December.

Marshall told Senators that while the Russians always have maintained strong forces on their Siberian borders, there has been a recent strengthening.

He had mentioned this in testimony last week but his reference to December pin-pointed the time of the build-up as he had not done before.

Under questioning, Marshall also insisted that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's plan of stepped-up air and sea fighting would not defeat Communist China in Korea.

Doubtful Chance

Chairman Tom Connelly (Dem. Tex.) of the foreign relations group, asked Marshall whether "our air power and navy could win a war against Red China and ....keep them from making an invasion of Korea?"

"I do not think they could," Marshall replied.

MacArthur has testified that only a few more ground troops would be needed in Korea to win a victory there if American bombers were permitted to raid Red China's bases in Manchuria, a naval blockade was clamped on the China coast, and Chinese Nationalist troops were used against the Communists.

As the hearings went into the new week, some members of the enquiry panel indicated they have picked up considerable optimism over the future in Korea.

Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.) told reporters "there seems to be something big in the wind" that will support Marshall's assertion the allies are moving toward success.

And Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) said he has "the definite feeling" the top command has a plan "which makes the outcome look optimistic."

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.) asked "If it is not true that Russia has consistently maintained large numbers of ground forces and air forces and so forth on these borders for a period of many years even before this thing started."

Marshall: "That is correct but I was given the impression or the information that more recently, notably since I think December, there had been sizeable increases in the garrisons in that region."

Question Trio In Bank Holdup

GUELPH, May 14 — (CP). — Three men, arrested on Sunday night when their car stalled a few blocks from the police station, are being questioned in connection with an unsuccessful bank holdup at Claremont early Saturday and a $4,800 safe robbery in Hamilton Sunday.

Police identified the three as Maurice Leblanc 27, Conrad Levessue 26, and Donat Essiembre 31, all of Montreal. They were remanded one week in a brief court appearance today.

Police said they found an unopened wall safe in the trunk of the car and that the men were carrying $4,500 in cash.

An ofifce safe was taken from the Hamilton office of the Canada Bread Company by three men wearing masks. Early Saturday three hood-wearing men failed to crack the safe at the Bank of Commerce branch at Claremont, 15 miles north-east of Oshawa.

Suicide Try Fails Doctor Goes To Prison

SANTA FE, N.M., May 14 (AP) —Dr. Nancy Campbell today was behind the prison bars she sought to avoid by suicide.

Her left wrist was bandaged where she slashed it Saturday in the county jail at Albuquerque in the unsuccessful suicide attempt.

The 44-year-old pediatrician was treated at a hospital, then brought to Santa Fe to start serving the 10-to-15-year sentence for kidnapping Linda Stamm here last November.

"I prefer cremation. This is the best way out," Dr. Campbell said in a note.

Royal Family Fly In Plane Together

LONDON, May 14—(AP)—The King, Queen and Princess Margaret flew together in the same plane Sunday for the first time.

It has been customary for members of the royal family to use separate planes even though bound for the same destination because there would be less danger that several might be killed at the same time.

The royal party flew from London to Aberdeen en route to Balmoral castle for a week's stay.

Three Forest Fires Said Out Of Control

TORONTO, May 14 (CP)—The lands department said three forest fires raged out of control today in the Sudbury district of Northern Ontario. Twenty-two other scattered Ontario blazes, including one that has covered 1,000 acres of old burn north of Blind River, were being held.

The largest of the Sudbury fires covered 300 acres of mixed timber in Falconbridge township, eight miles north of Sudbury.

Devise New Jet Gun-Seat Pilot Bails Out Painlessly

DENVER, May 14 (AP).—Wind broke the leg of a jet pilot as he bailed out at 25,000 feet, and seconds later his face was bruised as he fell through a cloud of ice particles.

But he landed safely with no other injuries.

He was one of seven who have bailed out of crippled jets in the miraculous pilot's seat that is shot out of the cockpit with the pilot still sitting in it. The other six were unhurt and landed safely.

The story of these new devices was told today to the annual meeting of the Aero Medical Association by Cmdr. R. L. Christy Jr. of the United States Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics.

In the seat the pilot's feet are braced on a foot rest. The power of the wind at nearly 600 miles an hour tore one of Pilot X's feet loose, bent his leg around and broke it.

Less than a month ago two jets collided in mid-air. One pilot shot himself out with the gun-seat and landed unhurt. The other chose to jump in the old - fashioned manner. Part of the plane hit his head and killed him. Christy said if that pilot had used the gun he almost certainly would have been alive today.

The commander said the navy now is working on a new one, which will save legs, the pain of ice grinding in a pilot's face, or, it is hoped, any other discomforts. Without giving secret details, he said it is a capsule, with the flier inside.

It will be pressurized just like the plane, and will be easier to shoot out than the gun-seal, it will descend under a 54-foot-diameter parachute so lightly that there won't be any injury on hitting the ground.

Douro House Burns To Ground

Neighbors Unable To Fight Flames, Furniture Saved

The white frame house of Lyle Little burned to the ground in Douro township about two miles east of the north end of the city while the owner and neighbors stood helplessly and watched.

Mr. Little complained bitterly that shortly after one p.m. he had phoned the Peterborough fire department when the fire was just starting, but they had refused to come.

Most of the household furnishings: refrigerator, washing machine, living room, dining room and bedroom furniture were saved.

The fire apparently started near the roof around the chimney. Mr. Little said he had no idea how it began. The kitchen stove fire was out at the time.

There was no water supply at hand for a pumper, but one neighbor said that if the Smith Township fire pumper with its 500-gallon tank had come, it could have put out the flames.

Hard to Stand

"It's a hard thing to stand and watch a man's house burn down," the neighbor said.

The walls of the house fell down in sections, starting with the upper floor. Even while the flames were still eating and crumbling the walls, a farmer from nearby offered Mr. Little and his family of five young children, three rooms as temporary shelter.

The direction of the wind turned the flames enough so that they were not reaching for the barn behind the house.

Family At Home

Mr. Little works in Peterborough most days as a carpenter, but today had stayed at home. The whole family was in the house when the fire started.

Men from nearby farms saw the flames shooting from the roof and ran and drove for help. They carried furniture out until the heat and the flames forced them to stay outside.

Canada Denies Sugar Stockpile

OTTAWA, May 14. (CP)—The Trade Department reported today that the recent Canadian sugar deal with Cuba has stirred world speculation that Canada is going to stockpile sugar. The department flatly denied it.

"Canada is buying no more sugar from the world than the amount to meet current needs," a spokesman said. "We are not stockpiling sugar."

What the sugar deal amounts to, he added, is that Canada will be buying that much less from her traditional commonwealth suppliers.

Under the deal, Canada guarantees Cuba an annual market for 75,000 tons of raw sugar in return for renewal of tariff concessions on Canadian manufactured goods entering the Cuban market.

SPARKS ON A SHINGLE ROOF Sunday afternoon started a fire that burned to the ground the eight-room, $10,000 farmhome of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Chretien, North Monaghan, and their eight children. A bucket brigade formed by neighbors was unable to put out the spectacular blaze but all the contents were saved. The nearby barn was not touched. The blackened walls and the foundations, shown above, are all that remain of the house, located four miles west of Peterborough.

Fainting Premier Fears For Life, Moves To Office

TEHRAN, Iran, May 14 (AP) —Fearing for his life, Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh moved Sunday night into the sanctuary of the Parliament Building. He says he will remain there until his "dream"—nationalization of Iran's huge oil industry—is completed.

Mossadegh fainted and fell from the rostrum Sunday after telling the Majlis (lower house of parliament) of threats on his life by the fanatic secret Moselm sect of Fedayan Islam, whose assassination tactics have made it a power in Iranian politics. Carried to the Parliament dispensary, he recovered a few minutes later.

The jittery, elderly premier was laughed at during his talk by skeptical deputies, many of whom felt he used dramatics characteristic of him to pressure them into quick action.

However, the Majlis speedily acceded to Mossadegh's demand that it elect five members to work jointly with a Senate five-man group on a board to run the giant Anglo - Iranian Oil Company when it is taken over from British control.

Support Premier

All five board members named by the Majlis are known supporters of Mossadegh—making it appear there will be little compromise with Britain.

After Sunday's vote Mossadegh ordered servants to take his bedding to a committee room. He set up his office nearby.

In addition to the threats from Fedayan Islam, which was responsible for Premier Razmara's assassination, the premier said he was endangered by small leftist groups demanding release of their followers from prison. A Government spokesman added later that Mossadegh had accused Anglo-Iranians of having instigated the death threats against him.

2 Ships Collide Reported Afire

NORFOLK, Va., May 14 (AP)— The collier Thomas Tracy and the navy seaplane tender Valcour collided five miles east of Cape Henry today. Atlantic fleet headquarters said, "both ships are burning and their crews are abandoning ship."

Minutes later, however, fleet headquarters reported it had received reports that the crews of both vessels still were aboard and were "getting the fires under control on both ships."

Naval and coast guard ships and planes were dispatched to the area.

Coast guard headquarters at Norfolk reported at 12:15 p.m. EDT that the cutter Cherokee had arrived at the crash scene.

The Valcour sailed from Norfolk today for training operations in the Atlantic. The seaplane tender is 310 feet long.

Six Killed On Way To Dance As Car Slams Into Train

BLENHEIM, May 14, (CP)—Death ended the party Saturday night for six Chatham district youngsters. Their car was rammed broadside by a Chesapeake and Ohio Railway coal freight at a crossing on No. 98 Highway, 1½ miles west of here. Three died instantly, crushed in the front seat of the car; another died beneath the wheels of the freight; the fifth on the way to hospital, and the sixth an hour after admittance to hospital.

Condition of Neil Merritt, 19, brother of one of the dead and only survivor of the crash, was listed as "unchanged" by hospital authorities early today.

Merritt was taken to hospital Saturday night suffering from severe head and internal injuries. He was given blood transfusions and treatment for shock, but little hope is held for his recovery.

Dead are: William Alexander Merritt, 20, Northwood; Kenneth C. Crawford, 18, Chatham; William Green Hughes, 20, Kent Bridge; Rosemary Therrian, 17, Merlin; Marjorie Graham, 15, Merlin, and Mary Doreen Como, 19, Chatham.

Didn't Stop

They were killed when the car police said was driven by William Merritt passed two others halted at the crossing and smashed into the front of the locomotive. The impact welded the car to the engine. It had to be removed by chains anchored to the rails.

The party was on its way to a dance at Rondeau Park, about 16 miles away, when the accident occurred.

Provincial Constable Ross Cushman, in charge of the investigation, quoted two witnesses, Jack Hoskins, 23, and Richard Syer, 20, both of Chatham, driver and passenger in the first car parked before the crossing, as follows:

"When we were approaching the crossing and slowing down, we saw the lights of two or three cars behind us. When we were stopping we saw one coming fast. It pulled out and kept coming."

Syers was quoted as saying to Hoskins, "I wonder if he is going to stop." They were then 30 feet from the crossing. Constable Cushman said the pair told him the car shot past them. "Apparently just before the collision the car shuddered as if the driver had tried to suddenly apply his brakes. Then the car was hit by the engine, which was then part way over the crossing."

Red Indian Squadron May Go To Europe

ODIHAM, Hants, England, May 14 (CP)—Canada's overseas fighter squadron may be moving to the continent soon to carry its intensive preparations for emergency into a new sphere.

Airmen of the RCAF's 421 Red Indian Squadron are looking forward to the possibility of a temporary move to the continent this summer for co-operation exercises with air forces of other Atlantic pact countries, including France, Belgium and Holland.

Right now they are taking advantage of every bit of good flying weather, day and often night, to exercise with the RAF. Their squadron is one of the busiest in fighter command.

"We're not over here on a picnic," says Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Davidson of Vancouver. "We have to make our time count."

Bus Strikers Defy Detroit

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—Detroit's striking streetcar and bus operators today defied the city to attempt to resume transit service without their consent.

Hopes of a settlement in the bitter walkout, which has left 1,000,000 persons without public transportation for 24 days, again were low.

Negotiations were to resume today, however.

The defiance came at a closed mass meeting of 2,000 of the 3,500 strikers Sunday when Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor, declared:

"DSR (department of street railways) vehicles will appear only on the streets of Detroit when they are operated by members of division 26 (the striking local) under union conditions."

The members roared approval.

Last week, the city hinted that it might seek a court injunction to get streetcars and buses rolling again without waiting for an agreement with the union.

Jury Acquits CNR Telegrapher

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., May 14 —(CP)—Telegrapher Alfred John Atherton has been cleared of blame in the Canoe river train wreck in the Rockies of British Columbia which took 21 lives

Atherton, charged with manslaughter following the collision of a Canadian National Railways passenger train and troop train Nov. 21, was acquitted Saturday by a jury which deliberated 40 minutes.

The Crown claimed the 22-year-old youth, a telegrapher for the C.N.R. at the time of the accident, failed to relay a train order correctly—dropping two vital words and thereby bringing on the crash.

Atherton, arrested in Saskatoon, was defended by three lawyers: William Ferry, R. Hall and John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative Member for Parliament for Lake Centre, Saskatchewan.

Troops Cut Short Training By Two Weeks, Morrison Breaks Holiday

British War Office Refuses To Confirm Iranian Destination, But Experts Believe Change Due To Tension

LONDON, May 14. (AP)—Britain told its trouble-shooting 16th Independent Parachute Brigade group today to bring itself to an instant state of readiness. Simultaneously, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison—interrupting his Whitsun holiday on the Isle of Wight—kept in touch with the Foreign Office by phone on the latest developments in Iran. There was speculation that the two events were connected and that Britain is ready to make a strong stand, if necessary, to hold its rich oil concession in Iran.

But this speculation was without official confirmation. A war office spokesman stressed that the parachute brigade is not under sailing orders. He described the alert order to the brigade as routine war office business.

The unit now is assembling at Aldershot, 35 miles from London. It is known as the "Fire Brigade," because it is geared for emergencies.

Ask Stronger Attitude

Some sections of the British press have been demanding a stronger attitude toward Iran. The line taken by these publications is that Iran's oil is so important to Britain and the Atlantic powers that Britain should resist any attempt by Iranian authorities to take over the installations of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, as Iran's Parliament has voted to do.

A few days ago the Economist, a weekly independent journal of opinion, said Morrison has drafted a note to Iran hinting that Britain will resist by force, if necessary.

The recall order cut short by two weeks the training exercises that units of the Parachute Brigade have been taking in North Wales, Kent and Devon. Members on leave also are being concentrated at Aldershot.

Planes Co-operate

The Air Ministry said the Transport Command which provides planes for the parachute troops is co-operating with the War Ofifce in planning for the brigade.

Brig. K. T. Darling commands the brigade, which returned from service with the Rhine Army in Germany. It consists of three parachute battalions together with airborne units of the Royal Engineers and Royal Signals.

3 Thugs Crack Safe Grab $4,500 Loot

HAMILTON, May 14—(CP)— Three masked safecrackers stole an estimated $4,500 Sunday after tying up two employees of the Canada Bread Company here.

They took about $3,000 in cash and $1,500 in cheques after battering open one safe and stealing another, smaller one.

Police found the 70-year-old watchman, Jack Chettle and doughmaker Howard Leeman, 40, bound hand and foot.

UN Committee Bans Goods Going To China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 14 (AP). — The United Nations sanctions committee today voted a world-wide ban on shipments of war goods to Communist China. The vote was 11 to 0, with Egypt abstaining.

The sanctions group, formally known as the additional measures committee, is a 14-country body —including Canada — set up to consider punishment of Red China for her intervention in Korea, the committee's vote is only the first step toward imposition of the world-wide embargo.

Countries voting for the proposed embargo were: The United States, Britain, France, Australia, Canada, Belgium, Brazil, The Philippines, Turkey, Mexico and Venezuela.

Egypt abstained because she has no trade with Communist China and because her delegation is one of the 12 - nation Arab-Asian group which has been attempting to work out a cease-fire with Communist China.

Yugoslavia and Burma, named to the committee, declined to serve.

Already Acting

Sir Gladwin Jebb of Britain told the committee the United Kingdom has been applying restrictions on trade with Communist China for some time. He said the resolution substantially recommends that other states do what "we have been doing."

Following this, the ban must be debated by the political committee of the General Assembly, and then by the assembly in plenary session. The Soviet bloc is expected to fight it in both forums to the last ditch. India, leader of the neutralist group in the UN, also is expected to oppose the embargo as endangering any chance of peace negotiations with Peiping.

All signs point to eventual assembly acceptance, however.

Panama Calls Special Session

PANAMA, Panama, May 14 (AP)—Panama's new government has announced plans to call a special five-day session of the national assembly to balance the budget of this strife-ridden country.

A government spokesman made the announcement as the death toll of the rioting which ousted President Arnulfo Arias climbed to 15.

Police said about half of the 1,024 persons arrested last week had been released, including the wife of the deposed president, Mrs. Ana Matilde Linares de Arias.

Arias now is in jail awaiting trial by the national assembly on charges of violating his oath to support the constitution.

Find 4 More Dogs Poisoned At Weekend

NEWMARKET, May 14 (CP)— Four more dogs were found poisoned at nearby Lake Wilcox during the weekend, bringing the toll of a wave of poisonings to an estimated 44.

Police also reported discovery of a small vial of poison in a backyard.

They said the pet-killer has turned to use of poisoned rabbit bones or chicken bones. Earlier, poisoned meat, biscuits, bread crusts and chewing-gum were used and the victims included dogs, cats and rabbits.

Ask Europe Boost Output Though ECA Record Set

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP). —The Economic Co-operation Administration today reported production records in Western Europe and called for even greater output to meet defence goals.

Industrial output in the Marshall-Plan countries has reached an all-time peak, 38 per cent. higher than in 1938, ECA said in a report to Congress.

The report, covering the last three months of 1950, said agricultural production also established a new record, 10 per cent. higher than pre-war levels.

But the agency cautioned:

"Western Europe's production must be further expanded if defence programs are to be accomplished without materially reducing living standards."

ECA conceded that greater industrial and agricultural production will be difficult in coming months because of rising prices and shortages.

The report said foreign trade now averages 157 per cent. of the 1938 level, whereas imports from the United States and Canada have dropped from an average of $500,000,000 monthly to $300,000,000.

Fire Razes Farm Home, 10 Homeless

100 Neighbors Form Bucket Brigade All Furniture Saved

The two-and-a-half storey farm home of Hector Chretien, North Monaghan, valued at $10,000, was destroyed by fire late Sunday afternoon. Sparks from an overheated furnace are believed to have landed on the shingle roof and touched off the blaze which left the family of 10 homeless.

Though the house could not be saved the family and nearly 100 friends and neighbors managed to get out all the furniture and their personal possessions before it burned to the ground.

A bucket brigade was formed to keep the flames from spreading to the nearby barn, but there was only a slight wind and the barn was not threatened. At times the flames rose to as high as 50 feet but they failed to spread the blaze even to a nearby hedge of trees.

Children Sound Alarm

Mr. Chretien and his eldest son, Hector Jr., were away fishing when the blaze started. Some of the younger children of the family of eight were playing outside when they noticed smoke and flames on the roof.

They rushed inside to tell the others, but though the remaining members of the Chretien family raised ladders to the side of the house they were unable to cope with the spreading fire by throwing buckets of water on it.

Realizing they could not save their home the Chretiens decided to abandon their firefighting attempts and concentrate on saving the contents. They were aided by their North Monaghan neighbors who were attracted by the spectacular blaze.

House Remodelled

The house, two and a half storeys high, was of brick construction and contained eight rooms—five upstairs, two downstairs — and had a side porch. Since the family moved in, it had been remodelled and wired for electricity.

Sunday night most of the family stayed at the home of Mrs. Henry Harvey, also of North Monaghan, who lives near Cairo school.

Homeless are Mr. and Mrs. Chretien, Hector, 20; Lionel, 14; Gerald, 13; Claudette, 10; Giles, 9, and Delores, 7.

Twin girls — Margaret and Olive, 18—board in Peterborough but were visiting their parents Sunday afternoon when the fire broke out.

The house is partly covered by insurance.

Prices Drop Slightly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, May 14 (CP) — Prices weakened slightly as the session progressed on the stock market today.

Industrials slipped a little with only a handful of issues showing any movement. Papers, utilities, agricultures, textiles and refining oils posted a majority of losses. Base metals, golds, coal, construction, foods, banks, refining oils and manufacturing companies were mixed. Price changes were mostly in small fractions.

Base metals dipped fractions. Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Quemont, Falconbridge, Noranda and Golden Manitou were lower.

Western oils tended on the downside as several leaders dropped pennies.

McIntyre stood out with a $2 loss in the otherwise slightly lower senior gold section. Secondary golds showed little change or trading.

REMEMBER — BARGAINS ARE BETTER ABOVE BROCK.

No Super Chinese Soldiers Stone Smashes War Myth

By ARCH MacKENZIE

EDMONTON, May 14. (CP)—Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, PPCLI, said Sunday the concept of the Chinese as a "super soldier" is gone. In a press conference at western command, Col. Stone gave reporters an outline of the Korean fighting in his part of the front, and described Canadian troops as excellent. "We never did meet any top-rate Chinese soldiers, in my opinion," Big Jim Stone told a questioner. "They have a certain lack of interest in living, but they're like everybody else. If you kill enough of them, after a while they quit coming."

Col. Stone said the better troops of earlier in the war had been succeeded by inferior men, presumably because the veterans of the Sino - Japanese war were banged up.

Meet Only Chinese

The Canadians — "Magnificent troops" — had met nothing but Chinese in their battle experience.

"I'm not one to count bodies," Col. Stone said, "but I'd say there were 250 to 300 scattered around our area when the Chinese got tired of trying to come through us in that last heavy action. We held them for 36 hours."

He said of his troops:

"They're the most cheerful bunch of people I've ever met in my life—under any conditions. They certainly are magnficient chaps, happy in mud, rain, cold or heat."

Col. Stone said when he left the front that the Patricias were static behind a screen of US troops, dug in on low hills on the Seoul plains. He said the Chinese would never get them out if they attacked.

Morale Uncertain

Chinese morale might or might not be slipping, he said, emphasizing that all his statements applied only to his section of the front. The Patricias had captured some prisoners recently who had had only one meal in three days.

The Chinese strength lay in defence, he said, and their offensive skill was limited outside of the tremendous advantage they had in manpower.

He declined comment on his ideas of what might result in Korea or on Gen. MacArthur's criticism of US and UN policy.

The UN armies, he said, were ready to attack at any time while the Chinese and North Koreans in their ponderous build-ups had to take a terrific pasting from the air.

Air support was excellent and effective. Canadian equipment was standing up well and the Canadians were being excellently treated by everybody, including the home folk.

He had not seen, he said, any sign of disunity among the various troops who were "all like a bunch of brothers."

Freighter Stuck Hold Little Hope

SYDNEY, N.S., May 14—(CP) —The shipwrecked freighter Dufferin Bell, cradled on jagged rocks, was at the mercy of the sea near here today but her skipper and six officers stayed aboard in the hope she may be saved.

The 2,874-ton sulphur-laden vessel, aground on Cape Breton's east coast since Saturday, was taking water but moderating seas gave hope she may be salvaged.

Capt. Carl Kohler of Lunenburg, N.S., and the ship's officers stayed at their posts. The icebreaker Edward Cornwallis took off the other 30 crew members Sunday night and early today.

None of the crew members was injured and those still aboard are believed in no immediate danger.

Can't Salvage Ship

However, unofficial Halifax sources said it would be almost impossible to salvage either ship or cargo. The Halifax salvage tug Foundation Josephine went to her assistance but had made no attempt to free the vessel, trapped between two jagged rocks in 18 feet of water near Winging Point.

Owned by Picbell, Ltd., of Halifax, the Dufferin Bell was en route from South America to Montreal when she went aground. Only six weeks ago, she ended more than a year's sojourn with the "Mothball Fleet" of Halifax harbor.

Cost 19 Billion Yearly To Help Needy Countries

UNITED NATIONS, NY, May 14. (AP)—Five economists reported to the UN Sunday night it would cost at least $19,000,000,000 a year to help set the world's under-developed countries on their feet. Most of the money, they said, would have to come from the "developed" countries—through private investment, government lending, or inter-governmental gifts.

The survey, ordered by the UN Economic and Social Council, will be discussed during three weeks of meetings, beginning here today, of the council's 18-country economic, employment and development commission.

Their 100-page analysis deals with the double problem of shifting population from agricultural to industrial production and building up national capital.

They called for developed countries to quit commercial practices that hinder development of the poor countries. They called on the rich countries not only to set up banks like the US Export-Import Bank, but to ensure poor-area investments by their nationals against transfer difficulties and by exempting foreign-earned incomes from double taxation.

Purge Backfire Hinted In Red China

HONG KONG, May 14 (AP)— Communist China dropped a hint Sunday that its great purge of suspected Western sympathizers may have backfired, forcing a shift to an individual house-to-house campaign instead of the mass-spectacle methods thus far used.

An editorial in the May 1 edition of the Peiping People's Daily which reached here Sunday, makes it evident that China's "resist-the-US-aid-Korea movement" is not going well. It urged that the movement be carried out in ways different from those employed in the latter part of April.

Observers said it was significant that "the latter part of April" was chosen for special note. In that period, by Red admission, more than 250,000 Chinese saw almost 1,000 counter-revolutionaries executed at Canton, Nanking, Hangchow, and Shanghai. Thousands of others heard the executions described in the broadcasts.

The editorial said that now it is necessary to diminish the amount of large-scale mass activities and guard against convocation of too many meetings."

No Edifying

This sounded like Communist jargon for "public executions" and "public trials," which the masses apparently have not found edifying.

The editorial recommended an important change in the system of "mass education." Instead of herding the people to witness trials and executions, it said, individual groups should carry out "street-to-street, lane-to-lane and door-to-door propaganda activities."

To demonstrate why this change was needed, the newspaper cited "blank spots," where mass indoctrination had not achieved results.

In North China, it said, 20 to 30 per cent of the people are living in "blank" or "weak" areas. In Tientsin, 30 per cent of the factory workers, 50 per cent of the residents and 20 per cent of the students "have not submitted to patriotic education"

Baptize Six At Family Day

MILLBROOK, May 14 (ENS)— A congregation which filled St. Andrew's United Church to capacity attended the "Family Day" service on Sunday morning.

The chancel of the church was banked with marsh marigolds and vases of wild plum blossoms were at either end of the altar table.

A baptismal service was held for six infants with the Rev. T. G. Husser performing the rites. The babies were Larry John William Kellett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kellett; Arnold Douglas Guthrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Guthrie; Janice Elizabeth Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Gibson; Dorothy Alda Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown; Charles Timothy Sedgewick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sedgewick, and Nancy Stella Fallis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fallis.

The children of the Sunday school marched in following the choir in the processional and occupied the front pews. Members of the Sunday school took part in the service. Herbert Patton, Sunday school superintendent, presided.

The scripture lesson was read by Alice Hawkins, and Dorothy Ball gave a Mother's Day story. Children from Miss Jean Burnham's room sang two choruses, "Open my eyes that I may see," and "Peace be still," conducted by James Gay.

In his address Mr. Husser said that father might be the head of the family, but that mother was its heart. He said while father was the chancellor of the exchequer, mother was the minister of the interior. It was on the mother that the whole atmosphere of the home depended.

The Sunday school orchestra, comprising Frances Dawson and Vilda Brown, pianists, Beverley Patton, Gerald Hubbeard and Moc Ingham, violinists, William Smith, trumpeter, and George Ingham, 'cellist played for the hymns.

Miss Estella Hetherington was at the organ for the offertory and postlude and for the anthem sung by the choir.

Gambler's Auction Outdraws Actress

Auctioneer Marvin H. Newman commented on the record turnout for the preview:

"I've never seen anything like it. It beats Jimmy Roosevelt's, Marlene Dietrich's and even Rita Hayworth's. Mickey outdraws them all by the thousands."

He said the turnout for Miss Hayworth's sale was about 3,000.

Jaycees Paint Widow's Hom To Open Clean-Up Week

With paint brushes, lawn mowers, spades, hammers and nails the Peterborough Junior Chamber of Commerce launched National Beautification week Saturday. Sixteen Jaycees hope to have set an example for the two week clean and paint-up campaign by painting the home of Mrs. J. Daley, 946 Ford Ave. a war widow with three children.

The Jaycees worked in teams on the small wartime home beginning at 3:45 p.m. They had completed the work at 6:30 p.m. with the home, the fence and a small woodshed shining with a new coat of paint.

Besides painting the buildings the Jaycees dug the flowers beds in preparation for planting, cut the grass and cleaned up the backyard.

Most of the materials, the paint and the brushes, were donated by Peterborough merchants to open the Jaycees' campaign. A plumbing company presented Mrs. Daley with new eavetroughing which was erected before the painting began.

The workmen attracted a number of children, but the Jaycees were prepared with a clown, Ron Balaam, to entertain them. This device served another purpose by keeping the children away from the scaffolds.

During the campaign the school children in the city will be competing for a Jaycee school award. Charts have been distributed throughout the schools, and for the next two weeks the children's work at home, both inside and outside, will be recorded. An Unwise Generality

Archbishop Desranleau, who is now head of the new Sherbrooke Metropolitan See, returned to his attack on capitalism in an address following his installation. Among other things he declared that Capitalism is equal to Communism as a danger to moral and religious life. The Archbishop has long been a critic of Capitalism, and some of his criticism has been soundly based. The foregoing generality, however, has the quality of inaccuracy common to such generalities. There is truth in it, admittedly but there is also glaring untruth, and it should not be allowed to pass unchallenged.

* * *

Under Capitalism, people are free to follow the religious life of their choice: they have enjoyed that freedom for some time. Under Communism, they are forced to acknowledge or submit to a greater religion, that of the Communist state. We imagine the unhappy people of some conquered European nations could enlighten Archbishop Desranleau regarding the comparative dangers of Capitalism and Communism.

We are aware, of course, that Archbishop Desranleau was not referring to Communism wholly as an international political entity—but we are also aware that many of his hearers will not appreciate that fact.

* * *

In subsequent and more specific criticism it seems to us that Archbishop Desranleau made charges which are rather easily disproved.

He declared that "Capitalism tries under cover of laws to reduce production, diminish agricultural production, centralize money and destroy the production of necessities, and this serves to increase prices and profits."

It would seem that the history of modern Capitalism refutes three of these charges, partially refutes another, leaving only one to stand unchallenged.

Under Capitalism, production in virtually all commodities has increased tremendously. Capitalistic corporations such as Canadian Industries Limited and Imperial Oil consistently spend money on research to increase agricultural production. There is no record of destruction of necessities by Capitalism, but rather the reverse. It is true that prices have increased, but they have also increased in nations under Socialism and Communism.

It is also true that profits have increased—but the important point in this connection is whether or not the rate of profit has increased. Is the percentage of profit in the meat packers revenue dollar as great today as it was in the days of small individual packers? We doubt it very much for today's profit is a fraction of one per cent. The one unchallenged statement is that money is centralized but we have yet to hear of any political system that has wholly decentralized money.

* * *

"It is this Capitalism, well entrenched and well protected by anti-social legislation, which holds national and international power."

That statement sounds as though it came from a citizen of some other and less fortunate country than Canada. This nation is one of the most advanced in the world in the matter of social legislation. Under the Capitalistic system its Government slices off great chunks of profits for redistribution among all citizens who qualify in various ways, and its various governments enact laws which place rigid restraints on Capitalism in many ways.

* * *

Archbishop Desranleau also complains of the cornering and artificial scarcity of such products as flour, milk and potatoes, "Under the eyes of indifferent Governments," and this complaint is thoroughly justified, in our opinion. The prices of these commodities are definitely artificial. Capitalism, however, is not responsible for this; agriculture labour and government must accept the responsibility. Personally, we would rather be inclined to favour return of these commodities to a free competitive market as many enlightened Capitalists advocate but with the high degree of Socialization now prevalent in Canada that seems unlikely.

* * *

There are aspects of Capitalism which contain threats to moral and religious life. Its emphasis on materialism is one, its tendency to develop a love of power is another. But this talk of entrenched power, immense profit through the creation of scarcity and famine, and in general painting Capitalism as a greedy monster exploiting the worker has been long outdated. The trouble is that when it comes from high places there are usually far too many ready to believe.

Festival Week

Tomorrow marks the opening of the Fifth Annual Kiwanis Music Competition Festival to be held in Peterborough. This is one of the events that put Peterborough on the map, culturally speaking. Our famous lift-lock, our flourishing industries, our fine stores, the beauties and sporting attractions of surrounding countryside all have their place; they enrich us in many ways, but we would be poor indeed without such institutions as the Kiwanis Music Festival.

These festivals are an unrivalled training ground for young musical talent, providing an opportunity for friendly rivalry, expert criticism and experience in playing in front of an audience. The general public, too, can for the modest sum of fifty cents be guaranteed a very pleasurable experience, especially in the evening sessions, which have been arranged so as to include the most attractive programmes. The two musical adjudicators, who both hail from England, are both practical musicians of considerable natural gifts and experience. Their comments should be interesting and instructive not only to the competitors but also to the audience. The verse, choral and public-speaking classes adjudicator is a Canadian who has had wide training and experience in this country and also in the United States. It is generally agreed that we are far too sloppy in our speech habits, and this section should provide much food for thought and (we hope) action.

We earnestly hope that the public will support this grand work of the Kiwanis Club by their presence, and so help to ensure its continued existence in the future.

Better Postage Stamps—When?

Three new postage stamps are to be issued in commemoration of the centenary of the transfer of the administration of the postal service to British North America. They are 5 cents purple, 7 cents blue and 15 cents red. We have seen a reproduction of the 7 cents blue, which is as usual dull and amateurish. It purports to be the likeness of an 1851 mail stage-coach passing a hotel in York, while overhead a North Star plane narrowly escapes a mid-air collision with the legend "CANADA" in the top left-hand corner of the stamp. The idea is trite, the drawing is niggling, and the design is dullness incarnate. When one compares this effort with the magnificent series of stamps to be issued in connection with the Festival of Britain it leads us to wonder whether the event commemorated by our own stamps should have taken place at all!

The naturalistic portrayal of landscapes, scenes from history, and so on, is rarely successful on postage stamps. Their tiny area requires very careful marshalling of space and the elimination of detail. Although some stamps have been issued in two colours one colour is more usual, and this rules out many subjects that depend for their main effect on colouring. Shading, however, is widely used.

It is high time that our postal authorities woke up to the importance of well-designed postage stamps, not only for the commemorative issues, but also for the ordinary current stamps, which are very poor. These stamps find their way into every corner of the globe, and are a miserable advertisement for Canada. Almost anything is better than this dead level of dullness and ineptitude which is the keynote of present issues. We have artists with talent and imagination in this country. They should be given an opportunity to put Canada in the forefront of philatelic design.

Solemn Farce

A good deal of the time of each session of parliament is taken up with the reading of private divorce bills from the Province of Quebec. Nine whole pages of Hansard are given up to divorce bills on Tuesday alone. This could have been considerably shortened if the House of Commons were to agree to be nothing more than a rubber stamp; but Mr. Knowles, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre is waging an unusual type of filibuster. Although he feels that parliament's time should not be wasted by these measures he is convinced that if parliament still agrees to deal with these bills it should at least deal with them in a responsible manner and not pass them until it is satisfied that each bill is in the public interest.

The bills have already been approved in the Senate before coming before the House of Commons, but it is contrary to the spirit of parliament for the Commons to act as yes-men to the Senate. Moreover a fuller investigation by the Commons into each individual case is a protest against the present state of affairs brought about by the refusal of the Province of Quebec to set up Divorce Courts.

Tuesday's proceedings were a solemn farce. The sponsor of the bills, Mr. Winkler, M.P. for Lisgar, Manitoba, was unable to answer questions concerning the number of dependents or the nationality of the couples. All these details are of course available to members in reports which are sent round to them from the proceedings of the Senate, but they are not brought up in the Commons. We wish Mr. Knowles success in his crusade. It will take time to induce Quebec to wash its own dirty linen instead of sending it to Ottawa, but in the meanwhile the public should be kept informed of this monstrous waste of its time and money.

Musical Notes

by
PETER PIPER

I WOULD like to preface my remarks with a reminder to the musical public of Peterborough that the annual Kiwanis Musical Festival opens this week in Murray Street Baptist Church. This praiseworthy undertaking has been run at a considerable financial loss, and this loss has been largely due to public apathy. I would strongly urge all music-lovers to attend this festival at least once. If you go once you will certainly go again. The most interesting features have been reserved for the evening sessions, when the greatest number of people can attend. There should be some excellent performances, as there were last year, and the remarks of the adjudicators are an additional attraction. Their wit and wisdom is yours "for a song".

✧ ✧ ✧

BOTH the adjudicators are former cathedral choristers, a fact that reminds one what a nursery of talent the cathedral choir schools of England have been and still are. Long may it remain so. From Purcell down to Sullivan and William Walton these schools have turned out a succession of fine musicians reared in the best traditions of English Cathedral music, which boasts a repertoire second to none. The advantages to a boy desirous of making music his career of being educated in one of these establishments are almost too obvious to mention. There are the daily choir rehearsals and the services in the cathedral, for which only the very best is good enough. The chorister receives also a good general knowledge of music and is encouraged to take up an instrument. If he learns the organ he may even occasionally deputize at the console for some service of subsidiary musical importance. Besides all this he will receive a good general education. Nor are the ordinary healthy outdoor sports neglected, though shouting and cheering is discouraged because of its harmful effects on the boys' voices. The end comes when the boy's voice breaks, and he is for the time being at any rate no further use as a singer. This usually comes round the ages of twelve to fourteen, though some boys occasionally hang on by the skin of their teeth until the age of sixteen or even more. Some of them become lawyers, business men, schoolmasters and so on, their lives permanently enriched by their early training. Some will enter the grotesquely underpaid profession of music, either as church musicians or in other spheres.

✧ ✧ ✧

ENGLISH Church music proper dates from the Reformation. Before that time the services were sung in Latin, and when the new prayer book of 1549 appeared for the first time in English a new type of music was required. Archbishop Cranmer, who was subsequently burned in the reign of Queen Mary, took a personal interest in the provision of music for the new liturgy, and made the suggestion that in setting the canticles "the song should not be full of notes, but, as near as may be, for every syllable a note so that it may be sung distinctly and devoutly". As a result of this injunction composers for the most part wrote simple and straightforward settings without much complexity; but this was by no means universal. Composers doubtless felt cramped by this restriction, which rendered certain interesting types of musical treatment impossible, and from time to time wrote quite elaborate settings Nevertheless Cranmer's remarks continued to have great weight, and though composers have not always kept to the letter of his instructions the spirit has been on the whole obeyed. Owing to this there is a comparative absence of the extremely florid type of church music that had such a vogue on the continent in the Roman Catholic Church until the early part of this century, when there was a strong movement back to plainsong and Palestrina.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE English Cathedral tradition of Church Music is unique in this respect; unlike any other type of English music it has a continuous and vigorous native tradition for four hundred years. During such a long period it has naturally had its ups and downs, but the tradition has always been kept alive. The Elizabethan period is generally acknowledged to have been the Golden Age of English Church Music, with composers such as Byrd, Tallis (the "father of English Church Music", as he is called), Orlando Gibbons, and many other luminaries. The Commonwealth period, which saw the desecration of so many fine churches and cathedrals, was catastrophic for church music. The Puritans had no use for anything but metrical psalms, and whole quantities of priceless music were destroyed, though fortunately a good deal survived. The Restoration was adorned with the peerless genius of Purcell, whose church music, once frowned on by the decorous Victorians as being frivolous, is once again coming into its own.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE eighteenth century in English Church Music is dominated by the figure of a burly naturalized German with an Italianate musical vocabulary—Handel. His advent marks the real beginning of the domination of foreign musical styles in England. Argument still rages on whether his influence was beneficial or not. The folksong school contend that Handel killed English music while Mendelssohn attended the funeral: on the other hand the internationalists argue that English music was in a rotten state in any case when Handel arrived and that his music could not have a bad influence—on the contrary. Whatever may be the correct opinion on this point, and I, for one, am inclined to sit on the fence, the fact remains that for nearly a hundred years English composers were writing in a pseudo-Handelian style with varying degrees of success. In the field of church music the same phenomenum is evident, though here and there traces of originality emerge.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the nineteenth century, after a short period of Mozartian influence, notably in the case of Thomas Attwood, who was Mozart's favourite pupil, Mendelssohn held sway for many years, and anthems and services of a Mendelssohnian cast were the rage. They did their prototype a grave disservice, inasmuch as they were content for the most part to imitate his weakest features, such as his facile sentimentality, his insensitivity to the rhythm of English speech, and his perfunctory part-writing. His better qualities, such as his amazing gift of clarity and neatness, were lesss evident in his imitators. There were exceptions, such as Goss, S. S. Wesley, and others, but on the whole church music became a rather smug little backwater. It was rescued from this by the efforts of men like Stanford, and later Vaughan Williams showed that modern church music could be written which could face comparison with the best of secular music. Bodies like the Royal School of Church Music and St. Michael's College, Tenbury, perform an invaluable service in helping to maintain the standard in these difficult times. They and the diocesan boards of music are ready to give help and advice to parish churches in England. I have purposely restricted these remarks to the Church of England, as the main stream of English Church music is to be found in that body. Excellent progress, however, has been made in the Free Churches, and the old prejudices against the extensive use of music in worship are a thing of the past.

KEEP HIM CONFINED

Harder Work An Inflation Solution

Weekly hours of work are a sacred part of the advance made over the years by the labor movement. This is so well known to Mr. Abbott that the Minister of Finance would never have launched his appeal for longer hours if he was not convinced they were sorely needed. The drive for shorter hours began as a result of a too long work week. It was reinforced by union's desire to spread insufficient employment. It has continued because of labor's desire for longer leisure.

In the conditions existing today, however, there is a strong case for the extension of hours urged by Mr. Abbott at Grand'mere. There is full employment and no sign of its slackening. At the same time the nation is now devoting roughly ten per cent. of its production to defence. Workers in these jobs are producing goods not for normal daily living purposes but for war and destruction. At the same time they continue to make demands on the available supply of consumer goods. They must eat, they must clothe their families. They must have houses and furnaces and refrigerators and the like. They buy goods in the market-place without themselves putting any of these day-to-day goods into it.

The result is one of the many forms which inflation takes. Their buying presses on the supply of goods which has shrunk because of the diversion of workers to defence production. Because of this pressure we bid against each other for the available goods. Up go prices.

Mr. Abbott suggests that we all work ten per cent harder or longer. If we do, he believes, this pressure will largely disappear. Fewer defence workers will be needed to turn out the war goods we need, and more will therefore be available to produce the goods we need for daily living. At the same time, the supply of these goods will be increased by everyone working ten per cent harder. The civilian workers will therefore produce the goods which the defence labour force needs, but to the production of which it is now making no contribution.

There will be misunderstanding perhaps of what Mr. Abbott had in mind. There will be suspicion here and there that an attack is being made on the hard-won gains of labour. But Mr. Abbott is warning us that we had better do it for our own good. If prices keep on rising, the gains we want to preserve will be lost anyway.

Freedom

(The fee payable by an alien for naturalization as a citizen of the United Kingdom went up on April 2 from £10 to £15.—News item.)

Foreign journals, here's an item
For your readers to peruse.
One unlikely to delight 'em,
Nor intended to amuse.
Aliens intent on taking
British nationality,
Former loyalities forsaking,
Now must pay a higher fee.

Fifteen pounds we're now requiring
Where, before, we asked for ten
From the foreigner aspiring
To become a citizen
Of our country, and although it
Is an increase we deplore,
We no longer can forgo it,
When all else is costing more.

Though enhanced, the primal levy
On the man who would reside
In our midst is far from heavy
On his pocket or his pride.
But a warning, and a plain one:
Though it still is cheap to start
As a Briton, to remain one
Costs enough to break one's heart.

—A.C.G. in The Manchester Guardian.

Much Truth In This

(Guelph Mercury)

Back in the good old days a boy could go to a picnic and have a dandy good time on two bits. He would ride the merry-go-round a few times, drink a glass of red lemonade and spend the other dime for a ticket to the minstrel show. But how times have changed! A boy of the same age in these fast-stepping times will spend at least two or three dollars, and blamed if we believe he has as good a time as the boy who took a quarter with him for his day's expenditures at a picnic.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Praise ye the Lord. Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise in the congregation of saints. Let Israel rejoice in him that made him: let the children of Zion be joyful in their King . . . For the Lord taketh pleasure in his people: he will beautify the meek with salvation. (Ps. 149: 1, 2, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Shall mortal man be more just than God? . . . Behold, he put no trust in his servants; and his angels he charged with folly: now much less in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which are crushed before the moth? They are destroyed from morning to evening: they perish for ever without any regarding it. (Job 4: 17, 18-20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2: 22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him.

That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. (Eccl. 3: 14, 15.)

It's An 'I' Dropper

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Everyone knows about the British cockney who is justly famed as an "h" dropper. But we'll wager that there aren't too many people who know about a linotype machine belonging to this newspaper which should be equally famed as an "i" dropper.

Every time this linotype has a cold in its nose and it is asked to set some editorial type it begins dropping the letter "i" all over the composing room. In the throes of its disease it defies its operator, the proof readers and the anguished moans and protestations of writers and editors. Operations may be going along smoothly and suddenly a breeze blows across the machine's nose and —everythng begns to go to peces wthout warnng.

There! See what we mean. 'ts happenng agan. Blast t!

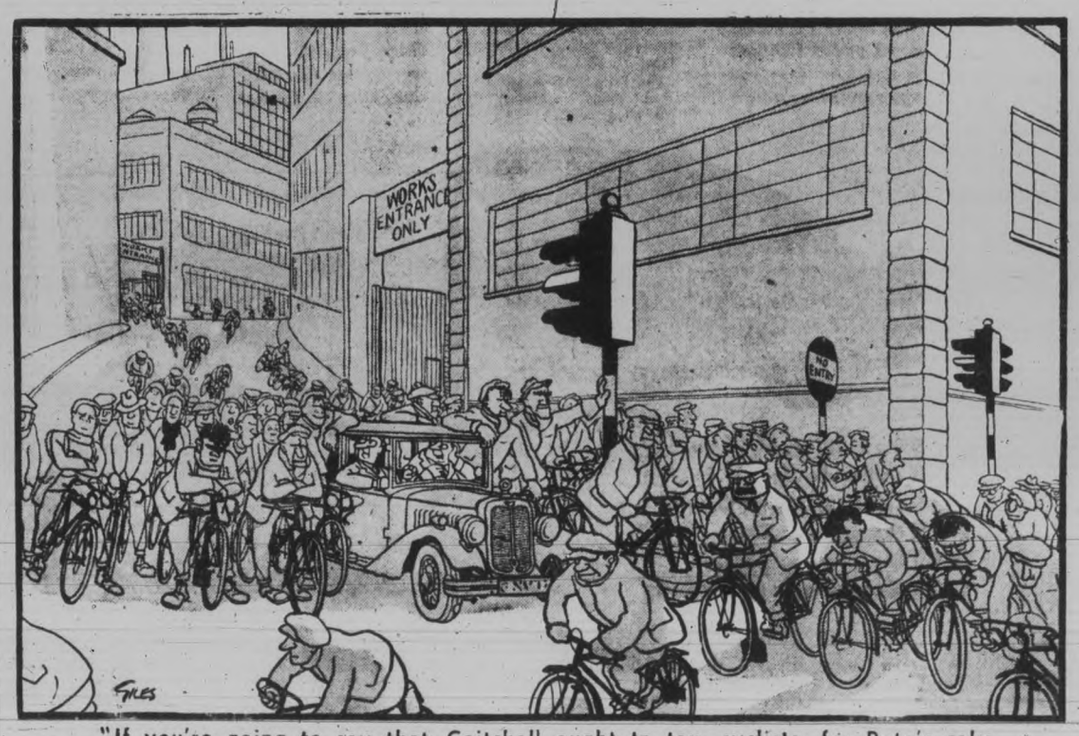
Nomad's Land

(Wall Street Journal)

A real estate agent was trying to interest a young bride in buying a house.

"Why buy a house?" she argued. "I was born in a hospital ward, reared in a boarding school, educated in a college, courted in an automobile, and married in a church. Now I get my meals at a restaurant, live in a hotel apartment, spend my mornings playing golf and my afternoons playing bridge. In the evening we dance or go to the movies; when I'm sick I go to a hospital, and when I die I shall be buried from an undertaker's."

"Then," rejoined the realtor, "I don't suppose you want a house?"



"Well," replied the bride, "We might be interested in a garage with a bedroom attached."

DIDN'T GET IT

After the family had increased to three it was decided to employ a girl as nursemaid.

"My husband is very particular whom we engage," said the mistress to the girl who applied for the job. "Are you faithful. Have you a kind and loving disposition? Will you . . . ."

"Excuse me, madam," said the girl, "but am I to take care of the baby or your husband?"

"If you're going to say that Gaitskell ought to tax cyclists, for Pete's sake keep your engine running."

Mashie Most Effective Club For Shots Around 150 Yards

By JOHNNY PALMER
Former Western Open Champion

Strive for accuracy rather than distance with the five iron, or mashie.

For this reason, the club is not taken as far back as are longer irons and woods.

The mashie is most effective for shots in the neighborhood of 150 yards. It is a medium iron. Other clubs coming under this classification are the four and six irons.

The grip for the normal five-iron shot is the same as the one employed on any other shot. I use the overlapping grip, with the little finger of my right hand entwined between the first and second fingers of my left.

Assuming the proper grip, you should see not more than half of the back of the left hand.

The greatest amount of pressure should be exerted by the left hand.

This centre of control should not be altered throughout the swing.

As I write in the PGA Teachers' Guide, the feet should be slightly closer together than for a long-iron or wood shot.

The ball is centred.

The shaft of the club and your left arm form an almost straight line to your left shoulder.

My weight distribution is such that there is more weight on my left leg than on the right.

At the three-fourths point of the backswing, my wrists have begun to cock, but my left arm still is straight.

The weight has been transferred almost completely to my right leg.

In the follow through, my wight distribution has changed back to my left and, for the first time, my left arm is bent at the elbow.

My eyes have remained on the spot where the ball originally rested, emphasizing the old adage "Keep your head down."

Finish the shot as you would any other, making sure you have completed an arc and are perfectly balanced

Next: Lloyd Mangrum on the two iron.

Pitchers Wayne McLeland and Marlin Stuart were sent to Toledo of the American Association. They are on option to the Mudhens subject to 24-hour recall.

The Tigers must release one other player when ailing Catcher Bob Swift returns to the active list May 27. He underwent an operation shortly before the season opened.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Weather permitting—and it sometimes crosses us up after this pillar is set in type—the lacrosse season will open here tonight at eight of the clock. A big "do" with presentations, introductions, draws, a short peewee exhibition, the Mayor facing off and a game between the junior "B" champs and the 1951 senior "A" Petes. Whole program as planned for last Friday, when rain washed out the evening's entertainment. Kids with parents get in free. Should be a large eve at Miller Bowl for the hefty gutted-stick following in these parts, and most fans are right anxious by now to see the bolstered Petes in action.

Genial Lex Robson is a busy man these days. The Kawartha Golf Club pro is readying everything for the official opening of the season this coming Saturday. Stroke competition with gross and net prizes, and a lively time in the evening afterward. The 18-hole course wintered well and is in good shape now after so much spring rain. Quite a bunch out there Saturday making the rounds on this picturesque links. Lex has a big supply of equipment in his shop, most of it selling at last year's prices—as he laid in a lot then. Quite complete for ladies and men, even including the caddy-carts as well as plenty of top-flight tennis balls for those who go in for the court game.

Ball School A Success

The ball school put on by Alex Sinclair and the Recreation Commission, in conjunction with the Department of Education, here Friday and Saturday was a success. Quite a bunch took in the instruction and films, though the weather was unsuitable for outdoor exercises. Lot of managers, coaches and umpires on deck. Maxie Scheff discussed rules and deportment of umpires in detail and had some keenly-interested local listeners. He emphasized the fact that, while ball is the players' game—and the umpire must not try to steal the show—the ump must be in complete charge of the game at all times.

* * * * * * *

"Keep that game right in the palm of your hand," he said, "and you won't have any trouble. Know your rules and call them fast and in sure fashion. An umpire can make or break a game—and a poor official or ununcertain one will usually ruin it for everyone." He also insisted upon complete honesty. He didn't believe in an ump calling shoulder balls "strikes" just to hurry up a game when the score was very one-sided. "Don't do it," he advised, "as the same pitcher next game will kick then when you call them properly, and the batter, too, loses confidence in you. Always call them just as you see them." Other instructions on all phases of the game were well presented, also.

Diamond Play A-Comin'

Viaduct Baseball League schedule opens this coming Saturday with a double-header in Toronto. Oshawa Merchants, loop champs, play Kingsway Lumber at two, followed by Petes against Staffords. A 40-game schedule for the five clubs, the other one being Crofton's. With just three senior squads in from Toronto (including the North Toronto area) the calibre of ball served up there should be high. Oshawa opens at home on May 24, which is a week from Thursday, and the Petes hope to do likewise, as the waters have receded from Riverside Park. Manager Ed Whitehill will have to select his starting squad this week.

A goodly gallery at King Edward Park on Saturday as Kingston United took a 3-0 soccer win over O'Halloran's. It was a real hard-fought fixture with Ed Woodcock strong in goal against stiff opposition, as his mates labored hard throughout. In the Limestone City, the local UEW crew romped to a 13-0 victory over Kingston Vimy, showing plenty of power on the attack and defensively. Andy Smith paced their attack with six markers, but they all went well. A grudge battle looms on the local horizon when O'Halloran's tackle UE here Saturday aft in Morrow Park, the two Peterborough teams mixing in a league fixture. Commission meets at 7.45 tonight in the "Y".

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

A week from this coming Thursday is May 24, and on that day — weather permitting—bowling greens all over the country are declared officially open for the season, and the local club is no exception. Those of us who look forward to playing this game hope that the weather man will be kind.

About the opening day: We have been advised it will be the same as in former years—a mixed rink tournament, draw from the board at 1.30 o'clock, three sets of good prizes, and this tournament is being held with the compliments of the board of directors. If it's a fine day there should be a record attendance. We'll have more news later.

Urges Licences For British Cats

LONDON—(CP)—A convention of more than 50 animal protection societies is planned by E. Keith Robinson, secretary of Our Dumb Friends' League, to plead a new legal status for Britain's 9,000,000 cats.

Resolutions will be proposed advocating licensing of all cats; a law requiring all cats to wear a collar with the owner's name and address; and equal rights with dogs which cats outnumber by three to one.

Through the collar identification, Mr. Robinson hopes to have all stray cats rounded up and retained for seven days for their owners to claim.

To be exempt from licensing: all working mousers at farms, docks and warehouses.

Kingston Loses To UEW In Soccer Fray

Working fine combination in Kingston on Saturday, the local UEW squad rolled to a 13-0 win over Kingston Army in an Eastern Ontario Football Association fixture. Andy Smith starred all through and accounted for six markers as Goole in the Army net had a busy day and made many good saves, despite the big score.

The half line of Cotton, Smith and Craig pressed from the start to set up goals for the forwards. Before long, Andy Smith counted from George Smith and again from Cotton. Jones saved whenever Kingston threatened and Strong scored from Ward neatly, before Andy Smith—who could do nothing wrong — got rolling again. Cotton sent in another to end the half at 7-0.

Strong got one shortly in the second on an angle drive, and Ward tallied a neat one from Strong for UE. Jones changed places with Holt at right wing, the latter nursing a slight injury. Strong scored another from Jones after Ward's try was stopped. George Smith, Andy Smith and Strong tallied to run up the count with Art Jones having an accurate header to wind it up. The losers tried hard, but lacked experience, while UEW had a strong defence and razzle-dazzle work on the attack. Teams:

UEW — Jones, Mundy, Allen, Cotton, Craig, G. Smith, Holt, Ward, Strong, A. Smith, Halroyd.

Kingston Army—Goole, Gunn, Craig, Long, Royerson, Frame, Grant, Jennex, Stevens, Boyce, Constantine, Ahston, McCally.

Claude Richer, 21-year-old Canadian cross-country ski champion, Saturday night was awarded the Gil O. Julien Memorial Trophy as the outstanding French-speaking athlete of Ontario and Western Quebec for 1950.

Richer, Canada's chief Olympic hope in the ski crosscountry for 1951 and also winner of the Eastern United States cross-country title, now is attending St. Lawrence University at Canton, NY, on a scholarship. His home is at nearby Clarkstown.

The trophy was established in 1948 by the Ottawa newspaper Le Droit in memory of the late Gilbert Ovila Julien, Le Droit sports editor for more than a quarter-century.

County Delight, a flying son of Count Fleet, blazed down the Jamaica stretch Saturday at New York to win the $69,600 Gallant Fox Handicap by a neck over Isidor Bieber's Palestinian.

County Delight had won the $25,000 Dixie Handicap a week ago at Pimlico. The customers made him second choice to Brookmeade Stable's Greek Ship, which got third.

At Paris, favorites captured the first two classics of the French turf season on Saturday. Marcel Boussac's Djelfa took the one-mile Poule d'Essai des Pouliches —for fillies — and Jean Stern's Free Man galloped off with the one-mile Poule d'Essai des Poulains—for colts—at Langchamp.

Each was worth $14,000 to the winner.

Duke Nalon, veteran race driver of Sherman Oaks, Calif., returned Saturday to the Indianapolis motor speedway, where he almost lost his life two years ago, and smashed all qualifying records for the 500-mile race.

His 136.498 mile-an-hour run broke the 10-mile record of 134.343, set last year by Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif. He won the pole position for the May 30 race. A crowd of 50,000 watched the trials.

At Yonkers, NY, the New York State Harness Racing Commission is making an investigation of rumored betting coups at Yonkers Raceway. Drivers Billy Haughton, Eric Wilson, Clarence Powers, Clinton, NY, and Clifford L. Bu[illegible], N. were called for questioning.

The commissioners did not say why they questioned the drivers. They said a report on their findings will be made later.

At Baltimore, the winner of the Kentucky Derby coughed in New York Saturday and blew the stuffing out of a special $50,000 race at Pimlico. Sol Rutchick, trainer of Count Turf, said the colt has a cough and a temperature, and therefore "definitely is out" of the Jubilee Stakes.

A spokesman for the Maryland Jockey Club, which had proposed the Jubilee for May 26 as a showdown for the top four horses in the Derby and next week's Preakness, said the race will not be run if Count Turf is not available.

MONTREAL ALOUETTES untiring search for a football star with a French-Canadian name has finally come to an end with the acquisition of George Valois, sensational fullback with the McGill Redmen last season. Few Fans See Braves Win Alexander Cup

TORONTO, May 14—(CP). — The 1950-1951 hockey season came to a bedraggled end Saturday night.

Valleyfield Braves won the Alexander Cup, Canada's top amateur award. Only 2,787 cared.

The 2,787 looked lost in the 12,000-seat Maple Leaf Gardens as Braves defeated Toronto St. Micnael's Monarchs 4-1 to take the point series in the final game.

The Victory was a sad climax to a booming hockey season that attracted hundreds of thousands this comment:

These teams, the cream of the country's senior hockey outfits, played six games in the finals. Average attendance was in the neighborhood of 3,000 a game—not good for any championship match.

Ran Too Late

Coach Toe Blake of the Braves hit the nail on the head with this comment

"It was just a case of too much hockey. The series should have been wound up weeks ago. Gosh, they are well into baseball and everyone is thinking of golf and other sports."

Braves won the point series 11-4. They took three wins, lost two games, and tied one.

Braves looked like a winning team all the way. They battled through a scoreless first period to score the only goal of the second, and then outscored Monarchs 3-1 in the final.

Don Menzies led the Valleyfield attack with two goals, both of them coming in the last period. Jack Schmidt and Jacques Larivee got singles.

Monarchs made a last-ditch offensive in the dying minutes. They yanked netminder Phil Hughes with less than a minute left in the game. The move backfired. Menzies broke up a Toronto rush at his own blueline and skated just far enough to get a clear shot at the empty nets.

When the final bell went, the Braves leaped over the boards to receive the trophy, presented by George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Braves blew a golden opportunity in the first period when they were awarded a major penalty shot, after Toronto defenceman, Mat Mesich, tripped Georges Bougie in front of the nets.

Andre Corriveau, one of the slickest scorers in the Quebec League, took the shot. He raced in on Hughes, who managed to get a piece of the flying puck, and kicked it to the side.

In Monarchs' dressing room, Coach Johnny O'Flaherty took the defeat philosophically.

He said:

"We just didn't have it. There were two evenly-matched teams —one had to lose. We have no beefs...."

Should Be Left

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 14 (AP).—Brooklyn sent Rex Barney to its Fort Worth farm club in the class-AA Texas League to work on his control. Maybe the Dodgers should leave him here for a while. Barney broke the Texas League record for bases on balls when he gave up 16. Fort Worth lost to Houston 6-2.

Brooks Down Braves 12-6 National League Race Tight

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The closeness of the National League scramble is lending added stature to those managers who predicted an eight-team dogfight.

"Anybody has a chance to grab it all," said Cincinnati's Luke Sewell last March in Florida. Others just about echoed the same thing.

As the league enjoys a day off today, the eight clubs are so bunched up that only 3½ games separates first from last place.

The American League also is shaping up for a tight pennant race with 3½ games between first and sixth place.

In the National, Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants and Cincinnati were chiefly responsible for contracting the standing Sunday.

Brooklyn took over first place from Boston, overcoming the Braves 12-6. Behind 6-0 after two innings, the Dodgers tied it up in the sixth and went ahead for keeps on Carl Furillo's three-run homer. The victory went to Irv Palica, who pitched two-hit shutout ball the last seven innings.

The Giants whipped the defending champion Philadelphia Phils 11-2 and 4-2 to climb past the Whiz Kids into sixth place, only one game away from third. The loss dropped the Phils into seventh place, half a game out of the basement occupied by Cincinnati.

Good Support

Larry Jensen and Sal Maglie went the route for New York and received good support at the plate as Leo Durocher's hitters came up with five home runs two of them by Eddie Stanky.

Cincinnati inflicted the sixth and seventh defeats of their last eight games on the flu-ridden St. Louis Cards, 7-2 and 6-3. Two homers by Outfielder Joe Adcock was all Howie Fox needed to win the opener. Willie (The Knuck) Ramsdell held the Cards in control in the second game to win his first of the season after four losses.

Chicago and Pittsburgh split a twin bill to move past the cards into a tie for third place. Mel Queen pitched a six-hitter and singled in the run that gave the Pirates the 2-1 opener. Johnny Klippstein's six-hit and homers by Hank Sauer and Jack Cusick off Murry Dickson won the second gamt for the Cubs 6-0.

Lose Twin Bill

The Yankees, American Legaue pace-setters, received a double-barrelled jolt when the Athletics thrashed them 5-4 and 9-6 in Philadelphia. First-baseman Ferris Fain of the A's batted in two runs with a single, double and triple in the opener. He also rapped out three hits and drove in three runs in the second game.

Homers by Vern Stephens and Ted Williams made it easy for Mel Parnell to register his third victory for Boston Red Sox over Washington, 10-1. But the second-place Senators picked up some ground to trail the Yankees by 1½ games.

Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit wound up in a three-way tie for third. The Indians whipped the White Sox 11-2 in the first game as Bob Feller hurled an eight-hitter for his fourth victory without a loss. Al Rosen hit a grand-slam homer for the Indians. A triple play by the White Sox took some of the sting off the one-sided defeat.

The second Cleveland-Chicago game ended in a 4-4 tie. The Indians tallied three runs in the top of the 10th. At this point by prior agreement, the game was called to allow the teams to catch a train. Thus the score reverted to the end of nine innings.

Ned Garver gave up 11 Detroit hits but went the distance to chalk up his fourth win as St. Louis Browns defeated Detroit 13-10 in the opener. Ted Gray fanned nine as the Tigers came back to win the nightcap 5-3. Ray Coleman collected six hits for the Browns during the twin bill while Detroit's Vic Wertz slammed two four-baggers.

Rochester Takes Twin Bill

By the Associated Press.

The defending champion Rochester Red Wings are beginning to assert themselves in the International League pennant race.

Off to a poor start, the Wings are zooming in high gear with six straight victories in eight out of their last nine starts.

The Wings took both ends of a double-header from Syracuse Chiefs Sunday 4-2 and 5-0, to move into third place, 1½ games behind the secondplace Chiefs, and five in back of the leading Montreal Royals.

Bob Habenicht, a recent acquisition from the Cards, posted his third victory without a loss in the opener. Home runs by Charley Kress and Hal Rice featured the triumph.

Johnny Yuhas blanked the Chiefs on eight hits in the finale and fanned eight. Bud Hardin's three-run single in the second was the big blow for the Wings.

Dump Leafs

The Royals swept a pair of games from Toronto Maple Leafs 8-2 and 4-0 behind the excellent pitching of Bob Alexander and Bud Podbielan. Alexander limited the Leafs to four hits, three by Lew Morton. Podbielan restricted the Leafs to two singles.

Springfield and Baltimore divided a double-header. The Orioles won the opener 1-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Karl Drews. Spec Padget held Baltimore to two hits in the windup.

Buffalo Bisons and Ottawa Giants also split a twin bill. The Bisons won the opener 7-2 behind Rudy Minarcin. Ottawa grabbed the nightcap 4-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Charley Eisenmann and Alex Konikowski. Frank Carswell singled for the only Buffalo hit in the second.

2,000 People Stage Welcome For Braves

VALLEYFIELD, Que., May 14 (CP).—More than 2,000 persons Sunday jammed around the station here to welcome home Valleyfield Braves, new Canadian senior hockey champions.

A roar went up from the crowd when the train pulled in and bands struck up lively tunes.

The team, which won the Alexander Cup in Toronto Saturday by downing St. Michael's 4-1 to take the total-point final series 11-5, was paraded to city hall for a civic welcome.

Public manifestations will be held during the week.

Remember When—

The honor was in recognition of his gallant but unsuccessful attempts to win the America's Cup with his great yachts. Sir Thomas died later the same year, 1931.

Evelyn Goldrick, 17, of Strathroy, Gerald Austrin Frank of Bryon, Ont., and Douglas Wood, 17, of London, Ont., were found dead Sunday in a car parked near London. They apparent died of carbon monoxide fumes.

Hit Hydro Pole

Alex Bohram, age 57, and Albert Wilhelm, age 39, both from Maryhill, Ont., were killed Saturday when the car in which they were driving left the road and crashed into a hydro pole near Owen Sound, Ont.

A Port Elgin youth, Rawson Stoddard, 21, died Saturday of injuries received when the car in which he was a passenger crashed into the rear of an army tank-transporter, near Owen Sound.

Two-year-old Jackie Maksymchuk of St. Catharines was burned fatally Sunday when his nightgown caught fire.

Meda Beauchamp, 18, was fatally injured Sunday when an old automobile in which she was riding developed a violent "shimmy" veered out of control and upset on a Hull, Que., street.

Joseph Roland Charron, 19, of Ste. Therese, Que., was fatally injured Sunday when he was hurled into a ditch on a highway near his home by a vehicle that failed to stop.

Killed On Motorcycle

Earlier Sunday, at almost the same spot, Jean Berchman Leclerc, 19, of St. Jerome, Que., lost his life when an automobile struck the motorcycle he was riding.

A resident of West Chazy, N.Y., Raymond Joubert, 32, was killed Saturday when a train struck his car at a level crossing near Henrysburg, Que.

Marcel Monette, 27, of Valleyfield, Que., fell into the St. Lawrence River Sunday, became entangled in his own fishing line and was drowned.

Bertram Blackwood, 52, died Saturday when he fell from a pier at Brookfield, Nfld., as he was landing from a small boat.

Neglects Mother Red Told Off

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP). — Pravda told off a Soviet industrial executive in no uncertain terms Sunday for neglecting his aged mother.

The paper, organ of the Communist party, told Alexei Vorobiev that Soviet society would not tolerate his unwillingness to assist his mother or interest himself in her fate. Vorobiev is chief engineer at Moscow's business machine factory.

Pravda declared that by going to court recently in an effort to prove he could not afford 200 rubles ($50 at the official rate) a month for his mother's support, Vorobiev had been guilty of a disgraceful action.

The paper condemned him further for not visiting her in hospital when she was ill and for otherwise ignoring her existence.

It said Vorobiev evidently had forgotten that in such cases such attitudes cease to be a personal matter and become public problems.

4-Day School For Rural Enumerators

21 Men and Women To Enumerate Rural Part of Riding

A four-day school for the 21 men and women who have been appointed to take the census in the rural area of the federal riding of Peterborough West begins Tuesday morning in the Harley Building, George St.

That section of the riding comprises the townships of Galway and Cavendish, Ennismore, Harvey, Smith, North Monaghan, Otonabee and Douro.

The general scope of the duties and authority of the canvassers will be explained by Roy Brown, rural supervisor. A. J. McClellan, census commissioner for Peterborough West, will open the sessions, and then turn the class over to Mr. Brown.

Mrs. M. McCartney, 341 Charlotte St., has been appointed supervisor in the city. Three days have been allotted to her class which assembles next Monday, May 21, continuing to May 23.

Eighteen supervisors of the district recently received a week's training in Belleville. They have been appointed for the federal electoral ridings of Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Hastings South. Instructions were given by a representative of the Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

"The officials of the census-taking are sworn to secrecy," Mr. McClellan said today. "The public is given full assurance that the information that is obtained in the census is not available to any other department of the government. It is entirely confidential.

Farmers have been receiving mailed schedules of the questions which are submitted to them, and they are asked to fill then in beforehand as a means of saving time in this work. Their co-operation will be greatly appreciated because it will be a facility to the census-takers."

The local classes are being held in the agents' room of the Norwich Life Insurance Society which is providing accommodation without charge to the government.

The taking of the census begins throughout the nation on June 1. In Peterborough West the canvass should be completed in two or three weeks in the city and in three to four weeks in the country.

A VIOLENT EXPLOSION on Saturday afternoon completely wrecked the brick, tarpaper and wood, lean-to kitchen of an unoccupied house at 197 Dublin St. Nearby houses were shaken and the sound of the blast could be heard for five blocks. Leonard Wall, 27-year-old CGE clerk, (Inset), struck a match when he entered the gas-filled basement. He was blown back up the basement stairway into the kitchen and emerged badly burned. Today he is reported better but still in a critical condition. A view of the wrecked kitchen is shown above. Included in the debris are bricks, window frames, the caved-in roof, sink and plumbing fixtures ripped from the wall to the right, and partly buried kitchen furniture. Wall would probably have been killed outright had he been in the kitchen.

Blast Rocks Brick House Collapsing Kitchen Critically Burning One Man

Leonard R. Wall, 27, of 197 Division St., a clerk in the switchgear department of the CGE, is lying critically burned in Civic Hospital, victim of a freak propane-gas explosion that Saturday afternoon demolished the kitchen of a Dublin St. house and blew him back upstairs from the basement into the kitchen. The blast collapsed the brick-walled kitchen entirely, blew off storm windows at the front of the house, and rocked neighboring homes. It could be heard four or five blocks away.

A brother-in-law, Donald Oke of Toronto, was standing in the dining room of the house but was uninjured.

Firemen and utilities commission workmen have established the fact that the cause of the explosion was propane gas that had seeped into the basement of the unoccupied house from a defective branch feed line.

Stored In Basement

Wall and his brother-in-law walked into the Dublin St. house about 4 p.m. Saturday to pick up a couple of rocking chairs that had been stored in the basement. The house, recently rented to Mrs. Olive Laporte, is part of the estate of the late George Wall, Leonard's father.

Mrs. Laporte had not been living there since early last week, though some of her furniture and possessions are still in the house. The electricity had been turned off so Mr. Wall lit a match when he descended the cellar stairs to find the chairs.

The flame from the match ignited the propane gas that had accumulated in the basement. With a roar the explosion tore up through the floorboards of the basement, lifted the tarpaper and wood roof of the lean-to kitchen several feet in the air, and crumbled the brick walls.

Hurled 40 Feet

Some of the bricks were hurled 40 feet away. Storm windows were blown off the second storey front room and glass was scattered in a wide arc around the building.

The house shook violently and upset some of the furnishings in the other rooms. Some plaster was cracked in the dining room and windows broken, but there was little other serious damage.

The main brunt of the explosion was borne by the lean-to kitchen. It was completely wrecked. Apart from the demolished brick walls and the caved-in roof the flooring is torn up and the ice box and water heater are ruined.

A sink was torn from the wall, either by the force of the blast, or by the falling debris. Ironically enough, a light mirror dangling on a string above the sink, is still intact and sways with each gust of wind that strikes the now exposed kitchen.

Mr. Oke, who had been in the front of the house, tried the front door after the blast but the explosion had jarred it tight. He got out through a broken dining room window and went to the assistance of his brother-in-law.

Crawling From Under Debris

When he got to the kitchen the debris had settled and he saw Mr. Wall crawling, badly burned and dazed, from the pile of bricks, plaster and shattered wooden framework. Neighbors and passersby, attracted by the explosion, arrived to lend what assistance they could.

Mr. Wall's new suit had to be cut from him when he reached hospital. He sustained first, second and third degree burns, with the worst of the burns being around his mouth, nose and hands. But his legs were also injured.

He remained perfectly conscious and climbed into the stretcher by himself.

Dr. Leslie J. Calvert, attending physician, said today that his patient was "improving, and doing fine." He is not yet allowed visitors, though his wife, Eleanor, visited him Sunday.

Firemen and police arrived shortly after the explosion and the firemen extinguished a small fire that started in the wood of the basement ceiling.

At first the cause of the blast was a bit of a mystery. The propane gas line to the house was capped and a test indicated no leakage there. Sunday night however, well over 24 hours after the accident, Assistant Fire Chief Virgil Carr investigated and found a strong smell of gas.

Leakage is blamed on a broken branch line servicing 197 and 199 Dublin Sts. The individual lines are capped in both houses.

Ohio Men Buy Club Whitesands

Said to be the fifth largest real estate deal in resort property in Ontario, Club Whitesands has been purchased by a group of Americans from Akron, O., headed by H. A. Bradley of that city. The purchase price ran into six figures.

The original and former owners, the Robson brothers of Oshawa, ran the establishment as a private club. The new group will change this and operate it strictly on resort lines. Management as heretofor will be under "Tex" Leonard, who is already filling bookings.

It was not announced by the new owners whether improvements were anticipated in the near future. Being a strictly new plant, very little is required for the present. There was some discussion about a road to the resort that might pass around the northeast end of Lake Catchacoma; but nothing definite has been arrived at.

WRONG WIFE

He hadn't bought the medicine his wife had ordered and as he crossed the dark street to his car, where she was waiting for him, he was worried about whether he would be sent back with what he did buy.

He climbed into the car and without looking pushed the bottle in front of his wife for her to see.

He heard a gasp and looked. Wrong wife! Apologizing, he crawled back out and went to his own car. His wife had seen it all.

Fishermen Have Field Day At Bobcaygeon

Excellent fishing conditions and fine weather brought fishermen to all the fast-running streams in the Kawarthas from Friday midnight until late Sunday. From all reports they had a field day. The village of Bobcaygeon stole the show.

Gift shop operator Doug Andrews said he was so busy waiting on customers, and so were all other village merchants, that they were the only people who failed to put a line in the water. Fishermen overflowed the four hotels, the motel, cabin camps and cottages. Some put up tents and a great many slept in the rear end of trucks. Mr. Andrews thought the great majority came from Toronto but there were many Americans among them. The village dam was crowded with anglers day and night and in the evening campfires dotted the Bobcaygeon River banks. And there were some splendid catches.

Closer to Peterborough city fishermen crowded to Burleigh and the dams at Young's Point, the canal, dam and powerhouse at Lakefield and every dam along the Otonabee. Campbelltown, down river attracted the usual large crowds. And Campbellford, Hastings and Trent River were also favorite spots.

Caught 47 Fish

Tom Lawlor of South Beach Hotel reported that Dave Webber of Toronto and eight of his fishing pals from London, Windsor and half a dozen western Ontario centres snagged a total of 47 fish and five undersized muskies which they were loath to return to the water. Noel Rishor and his son took eight pickerel in an hour of anchored fishing on Clear Lake.

The usual throng crowded the dam at the Lower Locks and it was observed by some that a few did not heed the bag limits. One man was noted having over 60 fish and was still fishing.

Conservation officers were run off their feet and got little if any sleep.

Minnows seem to have been the best lure and bait suppliers were sold out of their wares early on Sunday. At least, there were a few six and seven pounders taken on the Canal at Lakefield using minnows for bait. This was in the slack water away from dam spillways.

BETTER PROSPECTS

A south-west wind blew the week-end's chilly air into oblivion today as far as Peterborough residents were concerned. Coldest during the night was 35 degrees, and Sunday's high was 58. Temperatures are expected to be about 73 today and Tuesday, with the sun still shining on Tuesday.

McColl Quits, Buys Logs Cut By County

Reforestation Head Resigns Post, Bids $7,250 For Logs

John McColl, chairman of the county reforestation committee, resigned his office today and at the same time put in a bid of $7,250 for the logs that were cut this past winter in the county forest area.

County council, which met for a special session this morning to decide what to do with the timber from the 4,600-acre forest area, accepted Mr. McColl's bid. And it rescinded a previous motion appointing him supervisor of the cutting operations there.

Mr. McColl estimated that the winter's cutting amounted to 125,000 board feet (log measure), and he disagreed with fellow committee members and Warden Peter Pearson on the ultimate price it would fetch.

Five Bids Received

Five bids for the timber ranged between $5,000-$7,000. Members of the county council thought this top figure should be accepted, but Mr. McColl, who had been put in sole charge of the cutting and marketing of the timber, disagreed.

Finally he said that he would be willing to pay more than the top figure himself.

The special session was called for today to consider the final disposition of the timber. After Mr. McColl resigned his bid was accepted.

Mr. McColl owns a sawmill and he expects to start sawing the timber right away.

Several members of council said they thought he had done an excellent job this winter in supervising the cutting at the county forest.

Fire In House Work Of Firebug

Arson was blamed by provincial police for a minor fire in the north half of a River Rd. duplex Saturday afternoon. Tenants are Mr. and Mrs. James English and M. G. Cook.

The fire was set in two places —the basement and a bedroom at the rear of the house. In the basement, the matress of a folding bed was burned and in the bedroom, an ironing cloth.

Entrance was gained by forcing a cellar window after removing the screen.

Some paint thinner had been splashed on a blanket and a linen box in the bedroom. Straw from a packing box was used to set the mattress ablaze.

Two neighbors, Ken Sheeran, who lives in the south half of the house, and Jack Lee, who lives across the road, entered the side door of the house and stamped out the smouldering ironing cloth. They took the mattress outside.

Provincial constables T. H. Armstrong and George Rose investigated.

Broke Windows Into Offices

Two men were charged in police court today with wilfully smashing windows in the doors of offices at 387½ George St. sometime Sunday morning.

One, Gerard Clancy, 23, Oshawa, pleaded guilty. The other, Ernest Darling, 25, 178 Stewart St., pleaded not guilty. Darling was put on $200 bail. His trial is to be held next Monday.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, decided to wait until Darling's trial before sentencing Clancy.

Constable Dennis Traynor giving evidence against Clancy, said that at 8.45 a.m. he was called to an apartment at 387½ George St. On the second floor he saw a number of windows in office doors broken.

One window of the Personal Finance office will cost $11.35 to replace and $35 to have it relettered. It will take $6.25 to replace the office door window of Dr. E. M. Crough. No estimate of the cost of lettering the new window was given.

The door leading to the women's wash room had been broken open. It will cost about $5 to replace the lock. The lock had also been broken on the apartment where Clancy was arrested.

Constable Traynor said the people who occupied the apartment had asked Clancy to leave, but he had refused. They called police.

FIVE-POUNDER

Twelve-year-old Bryan Fitzgerald, 146 James St., caught himself a five-pound pickerel in Gannon's Narrows on Sunday. He was fishing with his father and uncle. The fish was caught about 5 p.m., and two smaller pickerel were taken by the party.

Fled Rumania, Now Works On CGE Course

Paul Laptew's memories are never too far away. They are memories of a journey from Bucharest to Peterborough; a journey through the Iron Curtain.

Today, Paul is a member of the test course at the CGE in Peterborough. Not too long ago, he was a mechanical engineer in Rumania, his homeland. His views were not those of the present Government, and he left by an illegal route.

During the war Paul was a student at the Polytechnique in Bucharest. In 1948, he graduated from that university as a mechanical engineer.

Paul saw his country squeezed between Germany and Russia; he saw the Russians take power and turn Rumania into a satellite of the USSR. Freedom vanished in that turbulent post-war period.

Because of his views, Paul decided to leave Rumania. His aging parents agreed with him and helped him to that difficult decision. Then, the journey through the Iron Curtain began.

First, Paul entered Hungary illegally, and went from there to Austria. His destination in Austria was Vienna, and he experienced a thrill of freedom in a city without the shadow of fear that covered Bucharest.

Once in the Allied zone of Vienna, he was employed as an interpreter by the American occupation forces. From Vienna, he got in touch with a cousin who owns a farm near Kingston. Last year, Paul arrived there.

After six months on the farm, Paul came to Peterborough last week and started on the test course.

Paul's feeling about his adopted land is in these words:

"No one who has not been deprived of his freedom can realize what a wonderful thing it is to walk about the streets without identity papers; to seek employment where one chooses; and to criticize those things with which one does not agree."

Rescue Three From Rapids At Buckhorn

Pickerel Fishermen Upset In Channel When Boat Swamped

A near-drowning occurred during the opening of the pickerel fishing season Saturday at Buckhorn when three men were thrown into the swirling waters as their boat turned over.

Rupert Lucas, Toronto radio announcer, and Roy Walkey, also of Toronto, were fishing in the channel with Glen Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Hall of Buckhorn, as guide. The anchor was thrown over the side and the boat weighed down until the water lapped over the edge, eventually upsetting the craft.

Fishermen along the rapids went to the rescue. John Shearer of Buckhorn pulled from the shore with a boat while Neil Windover, fishing in the same rapids, rushed after the men who drifted about 100 yards before being rescued.

Charles Jones of Buckhorn lost his fishing equipment when he started out after the trio. The fishing line became tangled with his boat and gradually ran out until the rod and reel were dragged into the water. The line broke, leaving the equipment on the bottom.

A Peterborough fisherman who was on the scene properly began a raffle on a fish landing net to raise funds to replace Jones' rod and reel. With the Toronto fishermen donating about half the money raised, a rod and reel were presented later to Mr. Jones.

GUEST SPEAKER

Rabbi J. Mayer was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club today. He was acompanied by Rotarian E. L. Sackville, who introduced him, Rotarian Charles Allen and Rev. A. A. Mathews.

Size Of Dinner Sets Mark Trend To Smaller Families

Within the retailing experience of Herbert S. Routley, the China dinner set in its reduction from twelve to eight individual services reflects the decline of the family.

Both standards perhaps allowed for accident and distressing breakage, and perhaps the margin of sufficiency is broader for eight places at the table than it was for 12 when Charles B. Routley opened his store on George St. in 1881.

At any rate the dinner set of 68 to 78 pieces, as compared with the ampler 96 or 100 or more, carries a suggestion of retreat from a former fullness of family life, and of other significances of social change. If that expansive aspect has receded, and the big house has been modified to the ranch and bungalow types, the beauty of Royal Doulton for instance, and its felicity remain. The craftsmen of Staffordshire are still doing their part to preserve that heritage of refinement in the home and in its hospitality.

Business Moves

Transfer of the Routley business, specializing in China, wall paper and paints, to the new Bradburn Centennial building on Charlotte St., recalls its long connection with merchandising in Peterborough. The late C. B. Routley came as a young man from Kingston in 1881, occupying a store that was the south half of the present Grafton and Co. building. Stetham's hardware was to the north of it. The Grafton firm had not yet extended to the old Peterborough of 70 years ago. When they did, they prospered, and expansion forced the Routley removal to the premises now owned by Vern Selkirk.

Sons in Store

Mr. Routley's two sons, William C. who died a year ago in Toronto, and Herbert S. Routley, learned the business on George St. Years ago their father purchased the wall paper stock of Staunton Company in Toronto when they decided to dispose of their retail outlet. C. B. Routley opened a store on Queen St., and eventually W. C. Routley took charge of it, bought it, and moved into Yonge St. He established and expanded that business, and remained its proprietor until he died.

When C. B. Routley died in 1940 at the age of 86, he was succeeded by his son, H. S. Routley, continuing business connections in Canada, the United States, Great Britain and on the continent which his father had made through many years of buying. Those contacts included several visits to manufacturing firms in Europe.

The Routley account is third on the list of Watson and Foster Company, Montreal, wall paper manufacturers, indicating the many years of that connection.

It was noted recently as a coincident in the business development of downtown Peterborough that the late Thomas Bradburn built the terrace on Charlotte St., now the site of the Centennial building of Bradburn Securities Ltd., in 1881, the year C. B. Routley left Kingston to open a store here.

The terrace opposite the CNR station square was torn down last year, and the ground cleared for the new stores and offices building.

"If public response to our reopening this week is an evidence of what we may expect, our removal to Charlotte St. should be more than satisfactory," Mr. Routley said today. "After all, Peterborough has been growing rapidly in population. We were close to the corner of George and Charlotte Sts., but left hand turns were forbidden there, parking is a problem, and I know we are getting away from those conditions in our new store."

Controversial Associate To Back Up MacArthur

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, May 14 — (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's top controversial association is going back to the United States with fire in his eye.

He is Maj.-Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, the general's intelligence officer in two wars.

The 59-year-old Willoughby requested retirement after 40 years of army service. He says he will leave here late this month, expecting to join MacArthur.

He will be prepared to fight for the intelligence program of the last decade which has brought frequent criticism to himself and his chief.

Willoughby may be a key witness on a basic point in the present controversy over the Korean war: Did MacArthur tell President Truman the Chinese would not attack, and if so, why?

In effect, this was Willoughby's explanation to Tokyo correspondents after the first Chinese surprise attack:

Own Brand of Color

Intelligence authorities knew the Chinese were massed in reinforced strength along the Yalu and were sifting into North Korea. But whether they actually would enter the war was a political decision, known only in Peiping and the Kremlin, which military intelligence could not anticipate.

Whatever his future role in the controversy, Willoughby will flavor it with his own brand of color and expressive crispness.

He is a legend around Tokyo, a man violently supported and strongly opposed. He is one of the few remaining "Bataan Boys" who escaped Corregidor with MacArthur.

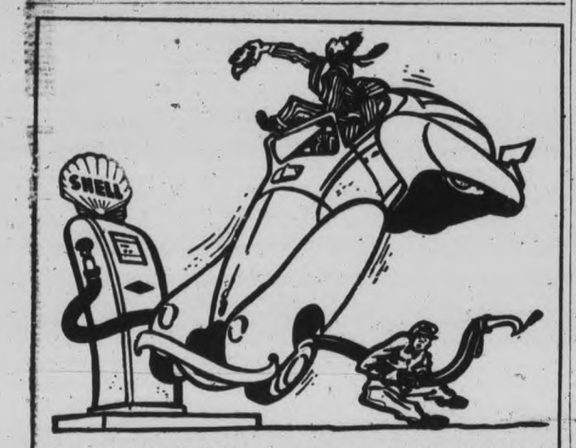
Willoughby is the most flamboyant officer MacArthur has kept around him all these years. Yet, when with his chief, Willoughby changes from a drill-master to a respectful second lieutenant.

Shared Views

Willoughby consistently has shared strongly and openly MacArthur's views that a decisive struggle began with the Soviet Union for Asia as soon as peace was declared in 1945.

In Tokyo, the general administers the larger military section at headquarters. Its activities range from intelligence observation of the Japanese to propaganda and psychological warfare in Korea.

It was considered inevitable here that he would be replaced after MacArthur's removal. Willoughby said he requested retirement.



DOUBLE-TROUBLE FOR REDS—While P-51 Mustangs drop napalm bombs on Chinese Communist troops from the air, a machine-gun crew of the 25th Division rakes them from the ground. This action was north of Seoul.

Say Jews Leave Baghdad Every 2 Minutes In Exodus

By FRED ZUSY

BAGHDAD, May 14—(AP)—The airport of Baghdad is the departure point for one of the strangest and most tragic movements of Jews in history.

A Jew leaves Baghdad by air on the average of one every two minutes. This is the peak of a great exodus which began slowly about a year ago.

These Jews, descendants of Israelites, are flying home to the new Israel some 500 miles away.

Nearly 75,000 have made the westward journey. More than 50,000 left since January when the transfer was speeded up.

The exodus began when the Iraq Government announced it would permit Jews to migrate to Israel—if they dropped their Iraq nationality. Iraq and Israel are still in a technical state of war.

The Jews see no future here for their children. Many believe the Arab-Jew conflict generated by formation of Israel will make normal living impossible here for a long time to come.

Even the 15,000 remaining in Baghdad have doubts about the future. Some Nationalist politicians have been peddling the slogan: "Nationalize oil and denationalize all the Jews." Newspapers have urged openly that Iraq be purged of all Jews.

A recent government "freeze order" on Jewish property closed all Jewish shops and stopped all Jewish trade. Some shops have reopened but business is still at a standstill.

The current exodus is chiefly of poor Jews. Some wealthy Jews read the handwriting on the wall several years back and left the country, getting their money out with them. Others with big property interest are remaining.

Today Jews waiting to leave are living for the most part from the money obtained by sale of their household belongings. They are permitted to take only personal clothing.

Iraq authorities don't permit relatives to see them off for fear of last-minute attempts to smuggle jewels or gold.

Randolph Scott Gets Kissed In Latest Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 14 (AP)—Podner, you'd never guess what happens to that there Randolph Scott in his latest movie show. He gets kissed!

Not by his hoss, either. That's what happens to other movie cowpokes. This wrangler Scott is defyin' the old no-sparkin' tradition. He's even gettin' smacked by two gals—Joan Leslie and Ellen Drew.

You might blame the whole thing on that new-fangled television. Or so sez Harry Joe Brown, the feller who's producing the new Scott flicker, "Man in the Saddle."

Pit Shots and Plots, Too

"With so many westerns on television," the man sez, "we have to give the public something more than a routine western. We have to give them a strong plot."

This feller Brown started making shoot-'em-ups after the First World War and has 'em pegged to a system now.

"Western picture fans—and that includes just about everybody—have rigid requirements for what they see," he sez. "They want action. If you don't give them action often enough, they get restless.

"People can't figure out why such fine pictures as 'The Ox-Bow Incident' and 'The Gunfighter' don't make money at the box office. It's because they don't have action. Make a psychological western and you're in trouble."

Don't Laugh, Podner

Film fans don't like any joshin' of their westerns, either, he sez.

"You can have comedy in a western," he sez, "but you can't kid the whole works. People take their western seriously. 'Ticket to Tomahawk' and 'Fancy Pants' didn't come up to expectations. People will laugh in a western, but they won't laugh at a western."

Mebbe you're a-wonderin' why I'm a-writin' like this today. Been seein' too dad-blamed many westerns on TV, I reckon.

Hi-yo, video!

FIRST BALLOT

The ballot was introduced in British North America in 1856 when New Brunswick used it for municipal elections.

IMPEACHMENT of President Arnulfo Arias (right), sparked a revolution in Panama, as Vice-President Alcibiades Arosemena (left) was named his successor. National police under Panama's strong man, Col. Jose Antonio Remon, battled supporters of Arias who had barricaded himself in the presidential palace. Later he surrendered and was placed in prison. Twelve persons were killed and several wounded in the early hours of action. The man in centre is not identified. This picture was taken on Nov. 29, 1949, when Arias was sworn in as president.

C. L. Kellogg 32 Years On Trent Canal

CAMPBELLFORD, May 14—(ENS)—The personnel of the Trent Canal System, Campbellford Division and representatives from head office in Peterborough met in the CWL Hall on Thursday evening, to do honor to C. L. Kellogg, division superintendent, and Mrs. Kellogg.

A very pleasant evening was spent playing cards, community singing and reminiscing by the forty odd people present. James McGrath and Charles Hurst representing T. J. Ryan of Peterborough brought greetings from the head office and gave a short resume of Mr. Kellogg's service while an employee of the Trent Canal, Department of Transport.

Mr. Kellogg started as lockmaster at Lock No. 15 in 1919 and was there for about five years, being transferred to Lock No. 13 about 1925. He continued as lockmaster and damkeeper until 1931, when he was appointed superintendent of the Campbellford division and continued as such until his retirement in April of this year.

L. H. Jones spoke on behalf of the local staff and asked Mr. Kellogg to accept a gift as a token of their esteem.

Walter Scott presented Mrs. Kellogg with a lovely plant.

Mr. Kellogg thanked all those assembled, and spoke of his service and also of several of those who saw service with him. Mrs. Kellogg also thanked everyone for their kindness.

Refreshments were then served under the direction of the ladies.

JAMES A. VANCE of Woodstock, congratulates Ira P. Macnab of Halifax who succeeds him as president of the Engineering Institute of Canada. Mr. Macnab was elected as the Institute held its 65th annual meeting in Montreal.

Believes Unhappy People Most Successful On Job

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, May 14 —(AP)—Are you unhappy? Restless?

Then buck up—it could be an advantage, helping you to be a success in your job, says Jack Klein, an authority on job counselling.

People have inborn tendencies to be happy or unhappy, he believes. Many successful people are the unhappy type. They become happy by finding jobs that absorb their talents, drives and ambitions. But they must have a capacity for work.

Klein is head of the Klein Institute for aptitude testing here, one of the organizations being called upon more and more by industry, business and government for advice on fitting people into the right jobs.

Out of his experience, particularly in psychological testing, Klein offers some advice on how to succeed in your job.

You Hire Family

A pleasant family life is important, for "you never hire a man, you hire a family." Quarrels and bickering and incompatibility can drain a man's energy and distract him from his work.

How well a man can perform in various kinds of jobs is partly determined by how he feels toward his family, and how much he needs his wife and family for stimulation, Klein says.

"If he leans on his wife and family, he finds it hard to hold a job that requires travel or long hours of work. If he is a creative worker, then a model marriage might actually interfere with his career, unless his wife can stimulate him to stay at his job.

Likely Successful

"If he's the kind of man who is slightly unhappy but well-married, and if he likes to work, he can channel his energies into his job and will very likely become successful."

Among other psychological rules for getting ahead in your job:

"Be smart by not appearing to be smart. Young men especially trip themselves by talking too much and showing off their knowledge.

"Never betray a confidence.

"Listen to the other fellow when he's talking. Don't interrupt, and don't supply the words he was going to say."

Say Doukhobor Arsonists Set Prison Fire

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., May 14 (CP)—The News-Herald today quoted an unidentified police officer as saying imprisoned Doukhobor arsonists set a fire Sunday at the federal penitentiary here.

The News-Herald quoted him as saying:

"We had to use our billies when they (the Doukhobors) really got out of hand.

"It was almost what you would call a riot.

"The Douks set the fire, and they are apparently expecting some kind of outside demonstration. . ."

The fire was reported to have destroyed one of the buildings housing the Doukhobors.

Say Barge Folk On Seine Find River Better Home

By PHILIP CLARKE

ABOARD THE BARGE ST. HONORINE, Seine River (AP)—This is the life!

No morning rush hour. No taxis to dodge. No telephone, time clocks or crowded lunch counters.

Just toot the whistle, crank up the engine and away we go down the Seine River from Paris to the sea.

"Our home is the river," says the St. Honorine's captain, Paul Ozanne, a lean, pipe-puffing man who has lived 36 of his 49 years on river boats. "On shore, I feel like a fish out of water."

Ozanne, like other bargemen, never seems to tire of travelling the same river route year after year. "Everything changes with the seasons—the trees, the skies even the people living along the shores. Like the nudist colony along the rivr at Villennes. It's a sure sign of spring when the nudists appear."

100,000 on Barges

About 100,000 Frenchmen—seamen and their families—live on the 12,000 or so barges which ply 6,000 miles of navigable river and canals carrying everything from apples to coal.

The barges range from little 300 tonners towed by tugs in strings of six to 900-ton oil tankers like this St. Honorine. There are wine tankers, too!

The correspondent joined the St. Honorine and her happy-go-lucky family of eight for a three-day voyage down the meandering Seine from Paris to Le Havre.

The St. Honorine is a 150 feet long, slim and snub-nosed. She rides high in the water now because her tanks are empty. Ful' of fuel oil on the way back, she'l' skim along low as an alligator.

Life Unhurried

Life aboard is unhurried. Suzanne, pretty young wife of First Mate Roger Deboos, has plenty of time to hang out the family wash.

Curly-haired Marie Claude, the Deboos' four-year-old daughter, romps about the deck with Mickey a fuzzy-faced dog.

There are three cabins with bunk beds, a table and a few chairs, a radio and a kitchen stove and sink.

Captain Ozanne knows every bend in the Seine. He often steers with one hand, holding a newspaper with the other. He slows the barge while passing houseboats or fishing boats. "Don't want the waves to rock them," he explains.

The St. Honorine at sundown nestles beside other barges at one of France's 538 river ports. The men and women go ashore, often taking their bicycles with them. The men drink wine and talk shop in favorite taverns. The women buy bread and other provisions.

Many Own Barges

A little more than half of the barge captains own their own barges. The remainder are operated by companies.

Captains draw about 20,000 francs ($57) a month, ordinary seamen about 15,000 francs. They have no rent to pay and all utilities are taken care of aboard the company-owned barges.

Barge operators bid against one another for cargoes at various semi-official exchanges. In an average year, barges transport about 43,000,000 tons of freight compared to some 140,000,000 tons by rail. Paris, more than 100 miles from the sea, is France's biggest port.

Girl Orators Tie In Contest

OMEMEE, May 14 (ENS)—The Omemee High School held its annual oratorical contest Wednesday. Competition was so close that in two of the divisions—junior girls and senior girls—that four girls tied for first place.

In the senior girls' competition, Marion Zufelt, speaking on "Gypsy Smith," and Joan Whitmore, whose subject was "Wallace Havelock Robb, the Badman of Canadian Poetry," took first place edging Grace Sibley, who spoke on Joseph Stalin.

Phyllis Nelson (The Story of Mathematics) and Orma Brooks (Alcohol) tied in the junior section.

Winner of the boys' senior division was Tom Morrissey speaking on "John A. MacDonald." Bill Mahood, speaking on "Canadian Pioneers," placed second.

Bruce Wellman won the junior boys' competition with his speech on "Wet Water for Fighting Fires." Neil Skuce (The Korean War) placed second.

Dorothy Connelly, president of the student body, presided. Judges were high school teachers Mrs. Butler, Miss Blair, and Miss Lamb from the pjublic school.

Several musical numbers were also heard. Lower School students sang unaccompanied under the direction of Orma Brooks. The middle school choruses also sang two selections accompanied by Jack Brown.

Orma Brooks and Jean Zufelt sang a duet, accompanied by Joan Whitmore, who also accompanied Dorothy Connell's solo. Joan Whitmore and Jack Brown played a piano duet and Joan Whitmore played a piano solo.

Prevent Sale Crown Lands

LONDON, Ont. May 14 (CP)—The Ontario Recreation Association may seek legislation to "resecure to the Crown the remaining holdings of the Canada Land Company" in Ontario.

The resolution was presented at a business meeting of the assocaton to be held Sunday, the third day of the sixth annual conference.

The resolution sprang from a proposal by delegate Wilfred Langan of Peterborough.

Mr. Langan called on the association to go on record publicly urging the provincial government to prevent sale of Crown lands bordering the lakes of Ontario for three years during which a survey of the recreational potentialities of the areas could be made.

"Until one year ago," Mr. Langan said, "no such facilities could be found within 150 miles of Peterborough. It was impossible to find a spot on which to hold a picnic."

Tariff Views Mixed For U.S. Firms

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

United States observers appear about as unsure as observers elsewhere concerning the manner in which Torquay tariff reductions will work out.

They do seem to feel that the United States has made more concessions than she has received. To this reaction of most outside countries would be that the United States should make the most concessions in view of the high barriers she erected around herself between the two world wars and in view of the high total of her exports.

Even though she has gone a long way in lowering her tariffs, outside observers think she can go a long way yet, and that it would be in her own broad interests to do so, as well as in the interests of other countries and the whole cause of freer international trade and increased world prosperity.

Different Viewpoint

However, each individual American industry may be expected to see the situation from its own point of view.

Sam Dawson of The Associated Press has the following to say on American reaction:

"The defence program and critical shortages of many materials appear to have taken a good deal of the curse off the tariff concessions the United States is granting. At least, the first cries of pain from American industry aren't as loud this time (as on occasions of previous tariff cuts).

"American consumers can hope for lower prices on a large number of foreign items they buy—some foods, wines, Canadian whisky, many metals, chemicals, china, clocks.

"But here, too, wohld scarcities, world price inflation, and U.S. price control policies may cut down the benefits to American consumers. It may turn out that they will go on paying just as much as ever, if not more.

"American manufacturers of many of the 1,325 import items covered in the Torquay tariff cuts aren't going to be happy about the increased foreign competition..."

Adam And Fallen Man Lesson SermonSubject

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous." (Romans 5:19).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Genesis 1, 26, 27, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", included the following. "In divine Science, man is the true image of God."

Muskoka Ships File Bankruptcy Papers

TORONTO, May 14 (CP)—Muskoka Lakes Line, Ltd., filed bankruptcy papers here Friday, saying it could not finance structural changes in its five ships on the Muskoka lakes.

Certain changes in ship construction were among safety measures ordered for Canada's inland shipping in an order-in-council passed following the burning of the lake cruiser Noronic at Toronto Sept. 17, 1949, with the loss of 119 lives.

VancouverGroup To Open Drama Festival

By KAY REX

LONDON, Ont., May 14 (CP)—In keen anticipation of a week of lively theatre, Londoners settled down today to watch the Dominion Drama Festival take the boards.

Canada's top amateur theatre talent made busy last-minute preparations — boning up on lines, laying out wardrobes and sets, checking lighting effects and attending to the hundred other details that make a play.

The public's interest in the affair was illustrated in the case of the Vancouver Repertory Theatre which opens the competition tonight with its production of Thomas Job's "Therese."

At least six spectators from Vancouver accompanied the cast of eight and director Christine Chanter when they arrived Sunday. As many as 300 outsiders—actors and actresses as well as just plain theatre-goers—are slated to attend the opening.

In addition, a group of four has been sent by the Newfoundland Little Theatre to study the festival with a view to entering next year. These are Christopher Frere and Mrs. Elsie Homer, both of Cornerbrook, Allan Vannan, St. John's, and Mrs. Neala Griffin, Grand Falls.

Bear Invitation

Finally, 15 persons are scheduled to arrive today from Saint John, N.B., bearing an invitation for the 1952 festival to visit that city.

The festival's honorary chairman, D. Parke Jamieson of Sarnia, said other groups from points without entries in the festival will be on hand, seeking drama tips from Adjudicator Jose Ruben's criticism.

The New York theatre director at a press conference Sunday lauded the current Little Theatre movement as "a school not only to train the actor but also the public."

He felt amateur theatre was the "salvation" of the modern stage.

Scene of this 12th national drama competition and the first in London since 1947 will be the Grand Theatre, home of London Little Theatre, one of the strongest amateur groups in Canada. It boasts a membership of 10,000.

Most visitors will be doing more than just seeing the eight productions competing for the Bessborough Trophy.

A three-day Canada theatre conference will open Tuesday under the chairmanship of Dorothy Somerset of Vancouver. This is scheduled to bring out discussions on all phases of theatre craft.

Relieved of Job

BERLIN, May 14 (AP)—Gustav Sobottka, coal boss in East Germany's ministry of heavy industry, has been relieved of his job for "reasons of health," the Soviet-licensed news agency, ADN reported Saturday.

STYMIES REDS—A New York City longshoreman emits a lusty "Bronx cheer" as he surveys crates intended for shipment to Moscow. Fifteen home-bound members of the Soviets' UN delegation and the embassy staff liked the products of capitalism well enough to go on a last-minute shopping spree. They ended up with 18 crates of washing machines, refrigerators, television sets and other capitalistic gadgets. But the stuff remained on the pier when the liner America shoved off because longshoremen refused to handle it.

Special Mass For Workers

VATICAN CITY, May 14 (Reuters)—The Pope celebrated mass Sunday in St. Peter's basilica for about 30,000 Roman Catholic workers of 10 countries and called on them to cling to the three principles of catholic social doctrine—truth, justice and Christian love.

The special mass commemorated the 60th anniversary of the papal encylical "Rerum Novarum" which dealt with working-class conditions. It was published by Pope Leo XIII May 15, 1891.

"Here on the tomb of St. Peter you are expressing the solemn promise to let yourselves be guided by these three fundamental values and to strive towards the ends which the Pope indicates for your good," the Pope said.

He asked: "Are you ready to make this promise?"

A whispering "yes" filled the basilica, and the Pope continued:

"To work united as you are in your Roman Catholic faith for the holy ideals and for your companions is your second solemn promise. Are you ready to do that?"

The workers — from Canada, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, West Germany, Colombia, Ireland and Austria—gave assent.

Correspondent's Body Discovered In Fjord

OSLO, Norway, May 14 (CP)—The body of Lyford Moore, American Broadcasting Company correspondent missing for five months, was found in Oslo fjord Sunday and police sought to determine the cause of his death.

A medical expert said the body showed no signs of death by violence, but that a further investigation is being made.

The 40-year-old Moore, a native of Detroit, last was seen alive Dec. 10. Four days later the American embassy announced he had vanished and asked Oslo police to conduct a search.

Moore, chief of the ABC bureau in Berlin, came to Norway early in December with a party of United States air force men to obtain Christmas trees for American airmen in North Africa.

Canadian Jews Hear Story Of Refugees In Israel

TORONTO — (CP) — Shimon Hacohen has the rough hands of a dirt farmer, which he is, but when he talks his mild grey eyes light up and impeccable, but accented English pours out in a flood.

Hacohen, writer, poet, agricultural scientist and dirt farmer, is in Canada to tell Canadian Jews how they can help people become self-supporting citizens of Israel. He and his family are typical intellectual leaders who have a burning zeal for Israel's freedom.

His father was Mordecai Hillel Hacohen, the famous Hebrew writer. His brother is mayor Haifa, Israel's major port and his nephew was chief of staff of Israel's army during the war with the Arabs.

Fought for Britain

Hacohen, himself, was with Haganah—a militia leader—during the bad 20's and 30's. Twice he fought for Britain, winning decorations, a command visit to Buckingham Palace and a private audience with the King and Queen.

He enlisted with Allied forces in 1914 and at 16 was the youngest sergeant in the British Army and the subject of many newspaper and magazine articles.

When war came again in 1939 he enlisted with the Royal Engineers. As a captain, he was captured in Greece during the historic retreat to Crete.

Almost a Legend

When freedom came, Hacohen had become almost a legend as a Jew who bearded Hitler and deliberately courted death. Letters and sketches sent home and which where published in Palestine, earned him a transfer to the infamous Straff camp for punishment of unruly British officers.

Hacohen today lives in the community of his youth, Benyamin, near the Mediterranean, where he farms 24 acres of productive land and is manager of a local co-operative.

But for the next six weeks his address will be Canada. He is here to tell Canadians about Jewish refugees, of which 1,000 arrive in Israel every day, without money and homeless.

There are 320,000 anti-Communist Jews in Romania alone for whom Israel is paying $300 each so they won't be deported to Siberia. There are 55,000 Jews in Iraq and more in Iran, Hungary and Russia.

"I'm in Canada to tell Canadians about them," says Hacohen. "We must have money to help an unbalanced economy caused by the doubling of our population in three years. Israel can succeed and will succeed because democracy must prevail in the Middle East."

Glasgow Woman Chimney Sweep

GLASGOW (CP).—Miss Violet Anderson here has an unusual occupation. She's Glasgow's only woman chimney sweep, one of the few in Britain.

A former shorthand clerk and typist, she decided to become a chimney sweep a few months ago. With her savings of $1,500 she bought a small motor truck and a chimney-sweeping outfit. With a male assistant, she now does about 20 chimneys a day.

And she applies the feminine touch. Before leaving a house where she has swept the chimney, she sprays the room with scent to remove the odor of soot.

Province Needs 6,000 Nurses Ease Shortage

LONDON, Ont., May 14 (CP).—Ontario Health Minister Phillips said here Saturday that Ontario urgently needs at least another 4,000 hospital beds and about 6,000 trained nurses.

Faced with the twin shortage, he said he felt it is the duty of governments on all levels, federal, provincial and municipal, to pay grants to aid in hospital construction.

He pledged Provincial Government co-operation for federal and municipal governments and any voluntary organization seeking to add to the province's hospital and health facilities.

His promise was made when he opened a 63-bed addition to War Memorial Children's Hospital. He termed the $485,000 T-shaped wing "a great contribution for the benefit of all Western Ontario."

Aided By Patients

Dr. Phillips was assisted in the simple ceremony of snipping a white silk ribbon across the main hallway by two small and obviously thrilled patients, 7-year-old Sheila Ryan and 5-year-old Clayton White.

The cabinet minister said 12,000 hospital beds, or the equivalent space in hospital facilities, had been constructed in the province in the past few years. There still remains, he said, an urgent shortage of at least another 4,000 beds.

With the great need for hospital beds is coupled, he said, the almost crippling shortage of nurses. Ontario is 38 per cent. short of its nursing requirements at the moment. There are 19,000 registered nurses in the province, but only 10,000 of them are nursing. Of 2,800 nurses who graduated in 1949 and 1950, 25 per cent. did not even register for active nursing. Others married within a short time of registering and were lost to the profession.

"I have been asked to pass legislation making it compulsory for nurses to go into active nursing for two or three years after graduation, but I can assure you I am leaving that to the next minister of health in Ontario," he said.

City Rally of Girls' Aux. And Presentation of Badges

A new venture for the Girls' Auxiliary of Peterborough was a city-wide rally held Saturday at St. John's Anglican Church with the groups from All Saints' and St. Luke's churches taking part. Thirty girls were present, and their leaders, with St. John's leader Mrs. T. H. Flyod in charge. All members of the Anglican clergy in the city visited the girls and took brief parts in the program. Ladies of the senior Auxiliary were also present.

Following Corporate Communion at eleven o'clock, served by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, the girls had a box lunch and then a recreation period.

Presentation of badges to those passing the recent written examinations featured the afternoon meeting which marks close of the GA activities until fall. Miss Phyllis Napier of Hamilton, graduate of the Anglican Women's Training College, who will shortly take up GA work in a western Canada diocese, gave the badges and explained the meaning of each.

First presentation was a GA pin to Barbara Hutchinson of All Saints who was promoted from JA to GA.

Dorcas chevrons were given to Josie Hendren of St. John's, Margaret Patterson, All Saints and Eleanor Biddle of St. Luke's, all of whom passed with honors their second year examinations.

Nursing badges went to the following St. John's girls, Margaret Dobson, Josie Hendren, Jean Smith, Norma Valois, Lois Moore, Phyllis Willshaw, and Carol Caldwell.

Mission study chevrons went to Josie Hendren (honors), Carol Fausett, Phyllis Willshaw and Norma Valois of St. Johns.

Mission study badges went to the following: Evelyn James and Elizabeth Lowry, honors, Carol Caldwell, Shirley Caldwell, Joan A. Smith, Margaret Dobson, Lois Moore, all of St. John's; Margaret Patterson, Barbara Hutchinson, Shirley Foy, Betty McCausland (honors), all of All Saints'; Beverly Pollock and Eleanor Watson, honors, Eleanor Biddle, Marilyn Vint, Diane Pearse, Lois Biddle and Velma Weavers, all of St. Luke's.

St. Luke's girls winning Dorcas badges, all with honors, were Marilyn Vint, Beverly Pollock, Eleanor Watson, Diane Pearse, Velma Weavers and Lois Biddle. Dorcas badges went to Barbara Hutchinson, Shirley Foy and Betty FcCausland (honors) all of All Saints'.

Following the opening prayers led by Phyllis Willshaw, Margaret Dobson read a scripture lesson. The Rev. W. J. Gilling read the collect for Whit Sunday and offered prayer.

Miss Napier told the girls the purpose of the GA is "To train ourselves to serve God and use the gifts he has given us in His service. We are the instruments God needs to work with." She said there are opportunities for the girls to be nurses, teachers, office workers, cooks, laundresses or supervisors.

"There are many people in the world suffering because the Christian church is not fulfilling its purpose," declared Miss Napier. "The purpose is: Putting Service Before Self."

Vocal duets were contributed by Betty McCausland and Barbara Hutchinson of All Saints', accompanied by leader Miss Isabel Connolly, and Marilyn Vint and Beverley Pollock of St. Luke's who were accompanied by Eleanor Watson.

Two films shown were "River of Canada" in color and "The man who forgot God", a religious feature.

The closing benediction was said by the Rev. Maurice Poole, new rector of All Saints' Church.

French Housewife Finds Rising Costs Budget Curb

PARIS (AP).—Ever-increasing prices have flattened most French family pocketbooks, just as in other countries.

The rapidly-mounting cost of living caused the recent wave of strikes in France. The Government granted wage increases, then started raising prices to meet the boosts. The end is not yet in sight.

When the average French housewife goes shopping she finds such changes in prices as these:

A pound of ham now is 650 francs, compared with 500 francs only last fall. (There are 350 francs to the U.S. dollar at the official rate.)

A bar of laundry soap is up from 59 francs to 86.

A quart of cooking oil, 269 francs last autumn, costs 322.

A pound of butter is 385 francs, compared with 350.

The daily newspaper costs 12 francs instead of eight, and a ride on the subway now requires 20 franc fare, against 15 previously.

Prices like these add up to an increase of 12.5 per cent. in the cost of living here between August, 1950, and last March. These were the compilations of the national committee on collective bargaining. Premier Henri Queuille's own figures were just a shade lower.

Everything Up

Since the Government is the largest employer in France, it had to find some place to get the money to pay the wage increases, but it all means a headache for the housewife.

Now she pays 10 per cent. more for electricity, five per cent. more for gas, seven to eight per cent. more for coal, 20 per cent. more for the phone.

She will also have to pay eventually for a 10.5 per cent. rise in railway freight rates, a boost of up to 18 per cent. for industrial coal and increased steel prices.

It's not all the Government's fault, of course. France has to import large quantities of raw materials for her manufacturers, and raw materials are going up too, reflecting the rise in world prices.

Coalman Clean With Nylon Sacks

LONDON (CP).— Housewives in East London couldn't believe it.

The coalman was clean and his sacks were white.

The explanation, as given by a nylon company spokesman:

"We have been experimenting with nylon coal sacks for some time. They are lighter, more supple and much stronger than the usual sacks and they can be hosed down for cleaning purposes."

Nylon overalls will be widely used, the spokesman predicted.

Production of nylon stockings will not be affected because a coarse type of nylon is used.

Myrl McMullen Is Bride Of Harry Hubble, Toronto

Baskets of spring flowers banked with ferns at the altar of St. James United Church Saturday afternoon were the setting for the lovely weding of Miss Myrl Maude McMullen (Reg. The bride is daughter of Mrs. James C. McMullen and the late Mr. McMullen of Peterborough and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble of Havelock.

Mrs. John Knox of Norwood was the soloist and sang O Perfect Love before the ceremony and Because during signing of the register. The music was played by organist Mrs. Charles Renaud.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law Mr. Earl Westman, the bride was traditionally gowned in white slipper satin with long train and wore a fingertip veil of French illusion with juliet cap caught with bridal wreath. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Stella Wilkinson was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Earl Westman and Miss Georgina Hubble, sisters of the bride and groom. Their gowns were similarly styled of faille taffeta in springtime shades of green, orchid and yellow. They wore matching headdresses and carried cascades of Johannahill roses.

Mr. William Hubble of Toronto was groomsman and ushers were Lloyd Brisbin of Toronto and Earl McMillan of Peterborough.

The reception was held at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother received wearing a two-piece dress of navy silk faille with grey accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who was wearing navy faille with lace trim and yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The guests were from Smith Falls, Havelock and Toronto.

When leaving later on a trip to the United States the bride was wearing a grey pic and pic suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubble will live at 10 Bradley Ave., Toronto.

Hunter-Smith

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Lakefield United Church parsonage Saturday of Florence Ethel Smith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sloan, 68 Aylmer St., Peterborough, to Lewis Alexander Hunter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hunter, RR 4, Lakefield, the Rev. W. Tonge officiating.

The bride wore a turquoise suit with pink accessories, mink furs and a corsage of pink orchids. She was attended by Miss Hazel Wilson of Peterborough who wore a grey suit with pink accessories, furs and a corsage of orchids.

Mr. Robert Hunter was groomsman for his brother.

A reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a navy dress with corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the groom's mother wearing teal blue with pink carnation corsage.

The bride and groom left by motor to western and Northern Ontario, and on return will live on the groom's farm near Lakefield.

DOROTHY DIX

Devoted Husband A Jewel Whether He Dances Or Not

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I often read your column and hope you can help with my problem. I'm happily married to a devoted husband and have two lovely children. But there is one thing that makes me unhappy. I love to dance but my husband doesn't dance and never bothered to learn. I've been trying to teach him myself, but he doesn't take much interest; he says it simply isn't in him. I've known other people who felt the same way but they have learned and today are good dancers. At a party, other couples are dancing and there we are just looking on. I do dance, sometimes with other men—but it's my husband I want to be dancing with. I've tried to get him to go to dancing school but he keeps saying maybe later on he'll go. Could you suggest a good way to have my husband learn to dance? I don't think I'm asking too much, do you? V. T. H.

ANSWER: Little lady of the dancing feet, I think your days for tripping the light fantastic are over, and you'd best put your dancing shoes away in mothballs with the rest of your girlhood mementoes. If your husband hasn't been interested in dancing to this late date, nothing will arouse his enthusiasm now.

After all, is it such a sad deficiency as you make it? Isn't it a comfort to have him come home at night and tuck his feet under the family hearth, rather than to be off dancing with the office glamor girl? A devoted husband is a jewel to treasure, and you would be very foolish to jeopardize his devotion by nagging too much about his lack of dancing talent. Sitting on the side-lines and watching other couples go whirling by is small enough sacrifice to make for an otherwise happy married life.

Make One Effort

You might make one last effort to give him twinkle toes by getting a group of friends together to take dancing lessons for a lark. If you could make it an evening out, with dinner, and the lessons almost a casual part of the picture, he might be interested. But don't try his patience too far!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been married nine years and have two children. We were very happy until five years ago, when a girl fell in love with him and began pursuing him and doing everything in her power to break up our home. In order to avoid trouble and save our happiness we moved to another city and everything was serene until a few weeks ago, when I found letters from her to him, begging him to let her come to him and saying she could not live without him, etc. When I showed these letters to my husband he said he loved this girl and is only living with me as he feels he is under obligation to me and the children. He is devoted to the kiddies and is a good father and husband. What must I do? Take the children and leave, or stand it for their sake?
A BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE

ANSWER: Stand pat and fight for your home. Don't let this conscienceless girl drive you out of it and take your husband away from you. Remember that the odds are all in your favor and that you have the heavy artillery on your side.

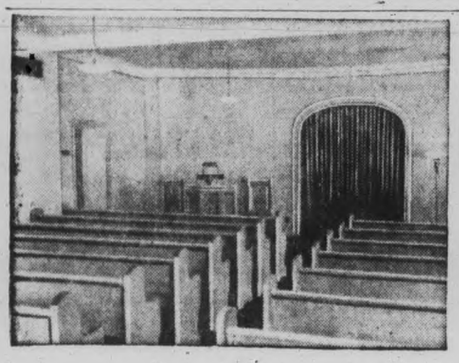
To begin with, you are backed up by all the powers of society and convention. Men dread being mixed up in a scandal and they know it doesn't do their business standing any good for them to forsake their lawful wives and children for some adventuress. Then you have the man's sense of duty and obligation. He is used to sticking to his bargains and is not apt to welch on his marriage contract. And most important of all, you have a father's love for his children. Every man knows that he loses his children if he divorces their mother even more than if they had died because he loses their love and respect.

With all of these trump cards in her hand the wife could nearly always win out if she played the game skillfully enough.

I think a wife makes a great mistake when she breaks up her home because of her husband's first little flirtation. He is just playing hookey and he will come back, humbled and chastened, if she doesn't make too much fuss over it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Last summer during summer school my roommate and myself both got married secretly. Last winter we four lived together in perfect peace, harmony and companionship. Our husbands are still passionately fond of us and we can hardly bear to hurt them, but we have met two doctors who have made ardent love to us. Shall we stick to our former marriages, or shall we try the altar again?
SUE AND RUBY



✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: With the barnyard type of morals that you seem to possess, why clutter up the courts with your marital affairs, or desecrate the altar by taking vows that have no significance to you? Evidently you have no understanding of the obligations of marriage.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Acclaim MarylandFishStew One of Most Delicate Dishes

Maybe I have an audience that is too polite to complain or criticize but I haven't heard a murmur about the fish I have been dishing up to you.

Does that mean you could stand a little more?

I have a Maryland Fish Stew I am aching to share, for it is one of those homely dishes for which Maryland is famous.

I know a well-to-do doctor who drives through Maryland (far off his route) when going to Florida each winter, just to sit down to a steaming bowl of this stew.

Of course I had to meddle with it when he brought the recipe back to me, and now this version is Emem's—for I have doctored it up to my liking.

✧ ✧ ✧

Maryland Fish Stew

Guaranteed to reduce the meat bill.

One-half pound fat salt pork, 2 pounds of white fleshed fish of some kind—haddock, rock cod, flounder are all good — 8 raw potatoes, 4 medium-sized raw onions sliced thin, salt and pepper, 4 tablespoons chopped parsley, 5 cups tomato juice.

In many coast kitchens in Maryand this is made in an iron pot but your Dutch oven or any heavy pot serves just as well. Fry out the chopped salt pork, until crisp. Remove the crisped pork, drain on absorbent paper, and reserve in a hot place. Cut the fish in 4-inch strips and place a layer in the fat in the kettle, then add layer of potatoes, then onion, and continue until kettle is three-quarters full. Sprinkle a little salt and pepper between each layer. Pour tomato juice over to cover. Simmer slowly until potatoes are tender. If liquid cooks down too quickly add more. Serve with the crisp pieces of salt pork on top of stew in large dinner plate size soup bowls.

NOTE: Traditionally this is served with poached eggs on top of it but it contains plenty of protein and serves from 6 to 8 people, and since we are trying to save money, I'll leave out the eggs. Besides I don't fancy the combination.

✧ ✧ ✧

Inlanders' Salmon Souffle

Of course anybody knows what to do with fresh salmon—but do you know how to make a 1 pound can of salmon into a company dish?

From now on you do if you can read:

Make a white sauce by melting 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, add 2½ tablespoons flour and when blended pour in 1 cup milk made up of ½ milk and ½ evaporated milk. Stir until thick. To it add 1 16-oz. can salmon (pink is good but red is better), 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper and paprika. Mix well. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour into very well greased casserole. I pour it into a medium-sized oval one from which it turns out in a lovely mould. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes or until when you insert a knife it comes out clean.

Of course you realize that this souffle has to be served at once. We put a big bunch of parsley spread out on our silver platter, turn the salmon souffle out onto the centre of it, surround it with lemon wedges and slices of tomato. The accompanying vegetables could be casserole of tomatoes, or creamed spinach, or rice cooked in tomato juice.

Vagrant Guilty, Jailed 10 Days

Peterborough's most persistent vagrant, Ray Brown, no fixed address, was sent to jail today for the next 10 days when he was found guilty in police court of being a vagrant.

"If you come back here before the first of July on a similar charge, I'll tell you you're going to Guelph," Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, told Brown.

The magistrate commented that Brown had been before him on many other vagrancy charges in the last two years.

Sergeant Gordon Puffer testified that the week before last when he was in charge of the night shift, Brown came in for lodging every night some time between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. He said he warned Brown twice that if he came back, he would be held as a vagrant.

The next week Brown came in at nearly 5 a.m. and the sergeant charged him with vagrancy.

Brown said he was working nights in a pool room uutil midnight. Asked why he didn't get a place to stay if he were working, Brown said his employer "don't give me my money at night."

Brown said he had been told he could go out and work on a farm. Asked by the magistrate when he was given the offer, Brown said he wasn't sure.

"That was last summer, wasn't it?" the magistrate asked. Brown had given the same story the last time he was up on a charge of vagrancy.

Driver of the stopped car was Charles Hulcio of Oshawa. Constable Victor McConnell reported that Little's brakes were poor and he had been drinking.

About $20 damage was done to the trunk door of Hulcio's car.

Millbrook Names Fire Dept. Chief

MILLBROOK, May 14—(ENS)—Douglas Sheppard was appointed fire chief of the Millbrook Volunteer Fire Department at a recent meeting of the Millbrook council. The appointment took the form of a bylaw—bylaw 779 which was moved by Councillors B. L. Richards and J. H. Raper, and adopted.

A motion by Councillors Richards and Raper that the clerk be instructed to have a bylaw prepared regulating the sale of firecrackers and forbid any setting off of fireworks within the municipality except in a supervised display or exhibition authorized by permit was also passed.

This motion arose from a report given by Fire Chief Douglas. He said that several instances had been brought to his attention were burnt-out fire-crackers and matches had been found in places where serious fires might have developed.

A motion by Councillors Raper and Weldon Coulter that the Millbrook Agricultural Society be given a grant of $50 was passed.

Trent River News

HASTINGS, May 14—(ENS)—The body of 22-year-old Walter Fry, the Oshawa youth who drowned in the Trent River six weeks ago, was recovered Sunday afternoon by two Toronto fishermen.

It was found floating in the river just west of Hastings, about two miles downstream from where the drowning occurred.

Coroner Dr. W. W. Baker of Campbellford said there would be no inquest.

Lost On April 1

Fry fell into the river April 1 while trying out a newly-bought outboard motor. He was tinkering with the motor while standing up in the boat, and it is believed he lost his balance and fell in.

The drowning was in full view of his family and a friend.

Fry was wearing a heavy air force suit and rubber boots and their added weight helped prevent him from reaching the overturned boat which was being rapidly propelled downstream by the swift current and strong wind.

He sank from view as his sister and father, Alfred Fry of Mothersill Drive, Oshawa, started out to rescue him in a rowboat.

The accident took place almost directly in front of the Fry family cottage.

Found Body

Victor and William Burgess of First Ave., Toronto, discovered the body 2 p.m. Sunday while they were pickerel fishing. They brought it ashore and notified OPP Constable Don Erskine of Campbellford.

Constable Erskine has been dragging for the body intermittently during the six-week period. It was taken to the McConnel and Warner funeral home, Norwood.

MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW PRACTICE MODERATION TODAY

Army OC Lauds Courage Of War Reporter

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, May 14 —(AP)— A lanky, eager war correspondent drifted out of the Korean dusk one night and asked permission to accompany an American outfit preparing for an attack.

The battalion commander tried ta talk him out of it, because it was April 23, the second night of the heavy Chinese offensive on the western front.

But John Randolph, Associated Press war correspondent, went along anyway.

The next day many American and Canadian newspapers carried his graphic account of the fight put up by Company B, 1st battalion of the US Seventh Infantry Regiment.

Rest of Story

Today the rest of the story came out.

Randolph has been cited for "his courageous actions under fire on behalf of my men" by the battalion commander, Lt.-Col. Fred C. Weyand.

The Americans were under constance fire from automatic weapons, mortars and artillery, Weyand said in a letter to The Associated Press. Several men in the lead platoon fell in the open.

"With complete disregard for his own safety Randoph moved forward to carry these wounded men to less-exposed positions where they could receive medical attention. All in all, I believe he made four such trips.

"Several men in this battalion undoubtedly owe their lives to his efforts to get them immediate medical attention."

Weyand says his combat veterans recently saw clippings of Randolph's story.

"Although his account was completely factual, his modesty apparently forbade mention of his own contributions. I am taking action through army channels to secure official recognition of his courageous actions under fire on behalf of my men. I thought however, that you would be personally interested in knowing the type of man that you have working for you."

Lt.-Col. Sir Horace Robertson administrative commander of the Commowealth Forces in Japan and Korea, told them before they sailed:

"You have given a great account of yourselves.

"You were hastily grabbed from Hong Kong when the going was rough and you came here with almost nothing. But you came through in spite of all difficulties with great credit to your regiment and to the British Commenwealth."

Choral Society Presents Spring Concert

The Peterborough Choral Society, assisted by the Searles Trio, presented their spring concert at the Collegiate Saturday night.

Well-known classics and lighter music from comparatively modern composers gave the program listening variety.

Selections by the Searles Trio were not only enjoyable in themselves but added interest and variation to the evening's entertainment. They played Trio No. 4 in D Minor (first movement) by Mendelssohn, Frasquita Serenade by Franz Lehar, Canzonetta by Godard, Syncopation by Kriesler, They Didn't Believe Me by Jerome Kern, Sweet Genevieve by Tucker and Bolero by Ferdenand Arboz. The members of this group are Cecil Searles, violin; Gabriel Tatrallyay and Mrs. Olive Searles, piano.

The audience seemed to particularly enjoy the solo numbers. These included: "None But the Lonely Heart," Tschaikowsky, sung by Peggy Hornell; "Sylvia," Speaks, by Bernard Hogg; "Tarantelle," Popper, a cello solo by Gabriel Tatrallyay, and "The Russian Nightingale," Alabieff, sung by JoAnne Chamberlain. June and Gwen Kilborne sang an enjoyable duet, "April Showers," by Silvers.

The chorus numbers were conducted by William Sims, conductor of the Choral Society. Mrs. Olive Searles was accompanist for the evening.

Chest X-Ray Required For Employment

A chest X-ray to ensure that you are free from tuberculosis is now just about a condition of employment if you want to work in Peterborough industry.

The Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association, sponsors of the pre-employment X-ray project, say that it is a double protection: for the employee himself and his fellow workers.

Nearly all industry, employing some 11,000 people, has agreed to the plan. A few heads of industry, employing not more than a few hundred people, have not yet agreed. But this is because they are out of town or somehow have not been contacted yet.

People who start work at one of the industries included in the plan will be sent either to St. Joseph's or Civic for their X-ray. A report will be made within 24 hours.

The X-rays are $1 each and are paid for by the industry.

Nearly 100 per cent of the employees of local industry were X-rayed recently by the mobile clinic.

The association future plans include the pre-employment X-raying of food handlers, teachers, retailers and other groups who daily meet large numbers of the public.

Charles H. Elliott, vice-president of the association, singled out Drs. W. M. McCutcheon and K. W. Milne, hospital radiologists, for the extra work they have done in taking the X-rays and developing them.

Peace Rumors Buzz Among US Senators In House Hearing

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Unconfirmed talk of possible enemy peace feelers in Korea spread among congressmen today as Gen. Omar N. Bradley carried on the administration's military reply to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Before Bradley's scheduled appearance (at 10 a.m. EDT in the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's ouster, Senator John J. Sparkman Dem.-Ala.) told a reporter the feeling is growing among senators that the Chinese Communists may give some early sign of willingness to negotiate.

Defence Secretary George C. Marshall, who completed yesterday about 28 hours of testimony spread over seven days, declined to discuss peace probabilities. But other senators who heard his testimony have indicated they think Marshall must have some reason for what they regard as relative optimism on his part.

Sparkman said he thinks Marshall made it clear there isn't too wide an area of difference between MacArthur and the administration, but that the difference is vital.

"MacArthur is proceeding on the theory that Red China is a government in its own right and can make its own decisions," the Alabama Senator said. "Gen. Marshall and the administration leaders believe that what Red China does is dictated by the Kremlin."

On the question of possible peace feelers, Sparkman made it clear he has no knowledge of any specific move.

Red Losses

But he said some members of the two committees are so impressed with Marshall's recital of American success in decimating the Communist troops that they believe the Reds will be forced to seek an early truce.

"We just have the feeling that the Chinese Reds can't go on much longer under the losses they have been sustaining," he said.

Marshall testified as civilian defence secretary and left a lot of military questions for Bradley to answer on behalf of the joint chiefs.

Marshall wound up his testimony yesterday by telling the committees that as far as he knows every responsible United States military leader—including Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—favors the President's plan to fight a limited war in Korea.

This was in line with what some Senators said was the administration's strategy to bring the military leaders before the committees and have them voice opposition—one by one — to the MacArthur proposals.

Administration Senators said they hope in this way to overcome the tremendous impact they conceded MacArthur made on the American people by his address to Congress and subsequent testimony.

Price Controls Can't Touch Can. Newsprint

WASHINGTON, May 15 (CP)—Officials of the office of price stabilization said yesterday Canadian newsprint used in the United States is not subject to price controls.

The officials made the statement when asked to comment on a letter Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem., Colo.) wrote to Price Director Michael V. Di Salle.

Johnson disclosed Sunday he had asked Di Salle to head off a reported plan by manufacturers to boost newsprint prices by $9 a ton "to a proposed price of $115 in New York and $125 a ton in the mid-west." Johnson said he learned of this proposed price increase from what he considered "good authority."

10 Per Cent Increase

Johnson asserted this would be about a 10-per-cent increase and added that the price of newsprint has been raised about $50 a ton during the last five years.

He called on Di Salle to head off such a price increase by invoking price controls. Di Salle said he had referred the letter to OPS newsprint experts and had no immediate comment.

But other OPS officials said that from 80 to 85 per cent of the newsprint used in the US comes from Canada and most of it is sold directly to American consumers on contract terms. OPS said only a negligible percentage of the Canadian paper is handled through dealers in the US.

(After Johnson's statement two Canadian manufacturers said they have no immediate plans to increase newsprint prices. They are Price Brothers and Company Limited and Consolidated Paper Corporation of Montreal.)

Brigade Vets To Get Benefits

OTTAWA, May 15 — (CP). — Veterans Minister Lapointe said last night the government intends to ensure that veterans of the special force get the same benefits as those of the Second World War.

He told the Commons a departmental committee now is studying the veterans' charter of the Second World War to determine which sections of that charter, partcularly those dealing with rehabilitation, should apply to special force veterans.

He introduced legislation, later given first reading, to grant at this time the benefits of the Pensions Act, post-discharge medical treatment, out-of-work payments and assurance of re-establishment in pre-service employment.

Some sections required special study, he said.

For example, there was the question of whether a veteran of the Second World War who re-enlisted in the special force should be able to get additional benefits under the Veterans Land Act, assuming he already had taken advantage of veterans land privileges. That also applied to other rehabilitation sections of the charter.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) said many men already had been discharged from the special force and had been unable to obtain veterans charter benefits.

Planes Search Tundra For Missing Aircraft

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., May 15 —(CP)—At least 25 aircraft from Atlantic coast bases swept over the gloomy tundrad of Labrador today, searching for an RCAF Dakota missing since yesterday with four aboard.

The plane—due at this navigational base early last night on a hop from Goose Bay, Labrador—vanished without a trace. An all-night search by 12 aircraft was fruitless.

Air Force officials said the morning part of the search was confined mostly from Goose Bay to the Labrador shoreline and was gradually being extended to the sea.

The air force witheld the names of those missing—all members of the RCAF—pending notification of next of kin. Eleven planes resumed the search this morning.

Fanatics Try To Burn Israel Parliament

JERUSALEM, May 15. (CP)—Religious fanatics tried to set fire to the Israel parliament while the house was in session yesterday, it was disclosed today.

Police believed the extremists belonged to an organization called Brit Hakanaim.

Police said the arson attempt was uncovered while the Knesseth (parliament) was debating a "work and rest" bill which provides 47 hours work and a day and half rest each week.

This has caused some criticism in religious quarters who demand that the Sabbath should be made a compulsory rest day in Israel.

Police said they had arrested 35 youthful suspects and had confiscated an arsenal of explosives and small arms.

Some of those detained are former members of the extreme Nationalist "Stern group," dissolved by the government in 1948.

Supersonic Airplanes Soon Too Fast For Eye To See

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

DENVER, May 15 (AP)—Airplanes are verging on a speed zone too fast for the human eye.

Supersonic planes of the future, it was explained to the Aero Medical Association today, will travel about half a mile before the pilot of another plane even recognizes what they are. And if yo are on the ground, they will come that much closer before you can even scream.

Nerve Message

This report on visual problems of supersonic flight was made by Dr. Richard A. Byrnes, of the United States Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Tex. The delay in seeing, he said, is in the human eye itself, the time it takes nerves to register an image at the back of an eye and for that image to be transmitted to the brain.

If, he said, a supersonic plane comes into view travelling at 1,800 miles an hour, it will go about one-fifth of a mile before it is even seen. That is because the eye and brain take between three-hundredths to three-tenths of a second to see at all.

And this leads to the shocking fact that if two came out of the clouds, head on, at 500 feet apart, the pilots wouldn't even see anything before they collided.

Need Electronic Eyes

If they emerged at 3,000 feet the pilots would know there was something in front of them, but would surely collide, possibly without recognizing what they were hitting.

If they emerged four miles apart they would have just four seconds in which to see, think and dodge.

Human eyes, said Dr. Byrnes, will not be enough. Electronic eyes and brains will have to take over in flying these planes.

Reds Cross Rivers, No Attack Yet

Steady Rains Bog UN Tanks Chinese Massing

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, May 15. (AP)—Chinese Communist troops were reported tonight to be crossing two rivers on the rainy central Korean front around Chunchon in front of strong United States positions.

An American officer, however, said flatly that the expected Chinese offensive had not begun, a pooled field dispatch reported.

The dispatch said unknown numbers of Chinese Reds crossed the Pukhan River, southwest of Chunchon and reached high ground just south of the river.

Other Communists have crossed the Choyang, northeast of Chunchon, and moved to the southeast of that ruined city, where clashes with American troops were reported.

The American officer said he did not expect a Chinese offensive to start tonight but predicted probing attacks at various points in the Chunchon area. Chunchon is 45 miles northeast if Seoul.

But spearheads of this gathering Red force were as much as 12 miles south of Parallel 38, the old political boundary between North and South Korea.

United Nations patrols spotted Communists in units of 500 or 600 slogging through the hills east of Kapyong. The U.S. Eighth Army did not indicate how close they were to U.N. lines.

Clashes elsewhere on the rain-swept battle line were between groups of 100 or 200.

An Allied officer said well-protected U.N. positions and restless patrols probably would insure about 24 hours warning before the Chinese hit in strength.

Attack Next Week

A central front briefing officer said the weather probably would speed up the expected Red offensive about two days. The strike generally is expected next week.

B-29s, out Tuesday despite heavy weather, bombed the Sariwon supply centre, above the western front, by radar.

On the western front 10 Allied soldiers—eight Americans and two Turks—returned to their own lines after being released by Chinese. They were taken prisoner April 25 in the Red's first Spring offensive. AP correspondent John Randolph said all told of comparatively good treatment by their captors. They said they were told never again to fight the Chinese, and released.

Rain washed out most fighting Tuesday.

Heavy artillery was directed on Red forces of undetermined size 15 miles east of Chunchon. But a tank-led patrol entered Chunchon again without finding trace of the Reds. Chunchon is about five miles northeast of the Kapyong penetration.

In two sectors the Reds rapidly built up assault forces capable of striking over the soggy ground.

Some UN officers said the Chinese finally have massed enough strength to force a military decision in Korea. Others said they never could supply a sustained offensive. But all agreed the steady pelting rain favored the Communists.

FIFTH ANNUAL KIWANIS FESTIVAL got under way today in Murray Street Baptist Church and will continue until May 22. Death Toll 7 In Ship's Hull

NORFOLK, Va., May 15—(CP)—The U.S. Navy today announced that the toll of yesterday's collision between the seaplane tender Valcour and the collier Thomas Tracy stands at two known dead, seven missing and presumed dead and 19 in hospital.

The list was revised downward from last night's announcement of 11 known dead because that was based on "an estimate" that nine bodies were in the engine-room of the fire-ravaged Valcour.

A total of 190 men were accounted for. Two bodies have been recovered.

The navy today postponed attempts to enter four compartments of the Valcour because of high octane gasoline fumes.

The Valcour had 70,000 gallons of gasoline aboard when she collided with the collier some five miles east of Cape Henry.

A gaping hole in the bow and evidence of severe fire damage was found aboard the Tracy when she docked late yesterday under her own power at Newport News, Va. But there were no serious injuries to crew members.

The navy said the two ships were headed in the same direction and the Valcour had passed the collier when a steering and power failure jammed the rudder. The tender cut across in front of the Tracy and was rammed.

A 2,400-ton vessel, the Valcour is 330 feet long. The Tracy, operated by the M. and J. Tracy Company, of New York, is 424 feet long and displaces 6,643 tons.

Mine In Furnace Cause Of Blast

SOREL, Que., May 15—(CP)—The RCMP said today that a mine thrown into a furnace with scrap iron caused the explosion that rocked the munitions plant of Sorel Industries Limited late yesterday.

Company officials said the explosion blew a piece of steel two feet in diameter through a roof 100 feet above the furnace. However, there were no injuries.

Plant Manager Guy Guevremont said there was nothing unusual about the explosion as similar accidents had happened during the Second World War when munitions had been accidentally mixed up with scrap and fed to the blast furnaces.

The Sorel plant is located 50 miles down the St. Lawrence river from Montreal.

Power Cut Off For 30 Minutes

When a fuse blew out in a transformer line at the rear of the Examiner at 1.15 p.m. today; the power supply was suspended for half an hour, and may cause some little delay in press time.

"If it had happened a few minutes earlier we would have been here on the jump," said Harry Beatty of the Utilities Commission staff. "As it was the crew had gone out to the head of High St., and we had to send for them."

US Not Set For Showdown With Russia Says Bradley

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley testified today the United States is not ready for a "showdown" with Russia and should not risk world conflict by adopting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals. Making plain he considers Russia to be the United States' real foe, Bradley said MacArthur's proposals for direct blows at Communist China "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told Senators he knows some critics are "impatient" with the US government's plan to fight a limited war in Korea and are calling for a "showdown" with the Soviet Union. Bradley then added:

Crisis Undesirable

"From a purely military viewpoint, this is not desirable. We are not in the best military position to seek a showdown, even if it were the nation's desire to forfeit the chances for peace by precipitating a total war."

Appearing before two Senate committees investigating MacArthur's dismissal from his Far Eastern commands, Bradley also said:

1. The joint chiefs—top military planners of the army, navy and air force — believe MacArthur's proposal would increase "the risk of global war.".

2. That they are in a better position than MacArthur to assess the risk of general war and to judge of the United States' military resources.

Nothing would "delight" the Kremlin more than for the U.S. to adopt MacArthur's strategy and carry the fighting to China, Bradley said.

Bradley said it was "just not so" that President Truman, State Secretary Dean Acheson and Defence Secretary George Marshall "have a policy all their own."

Sentenced To Hang Man Ordered Freed

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (AP)—David Almeida, convicted of slaying a policeman and sentenced to die in the electric chair, was ordered freed today by district court.

Judge George A. Welsh issued a writ of habeas corpus forbidding the state to electrocute Almeida for the slaying of Patrolman Cecil Ingling. Welsh ruled that Almeida's trial and conviction was "null and void."

The writ, if it is sustained by higher federal courts, leaves the state with a choice of letting Almeida go free or bringing him to trial again.

Welsh ruled that the state deliberately suppressed evidence that Ingling was killed by a shot fired by another policeman during an attempt to halt a holdup in January, 1947.

1,700 New Canadians

HALIFAX, May 15 — (CP) — More than 1,700 new Canadians arrived at this port yesterday from Europe. It was one of the biggest "immigrant days" this year. The liner Washington brought 400, the Stockholm 180, and the Anna Salen 1,200.

15 Bones Broken In Child's Body

VICTORIA, B.C., May 15 (CP)—A pathologist testified yesterday that post-mortem examination of a 3½-year-old girl disclosed 15 broken bones, evidence of scurvy and nearly 100 abrasions, contusions and bruises.

The testimony was given at the trial of Mrs. Ellen Hill, of Port Renfrew, B.C., on three charges of causing grievous bodily harm to her daughter, June Elizabeth Hill.

Dr. D. B. Roxburgh said pneumonia was the cause of the child's death March 6, but that the broken bones were "fractures usually produced by direct violence."

The girl suffered 11 broken ribs and fractures to both arms and collarbones.

RCMP Constable W. G. Lambert testified previously that Mrs. Hill had admitted to him that she lost her temper, picked up a piece of wood in the kitchen and beat the child.

He said he was told by William Hill, the woman's common-law husband, that the child had died following a fall from her crib.

High School Teachers Resign In Ft. William

FORT WILLIAM, May 15 (CP). —More than half of the teachers on the staff of Fort William's two secondary schools have resigned their jobs in support of their demands for more pay, it was learned Monday from the office of Fort William Board of Education.

So far, 33 teachers from the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School have quit, a Board of Education spokesman disclosed. There are 39 teachers on the staffs.

1,500 Poles Questioned After Four Killed In Riot

NEW YORK, May. 15—(AP)—The New York Times in a dispatch from Paris says today more than 1,500 Poles have been reported questioned by security police in Stettin in the last month as participants in a riot following the fatal shooting of five Poles April 9 by a Russian major.

Mob Kills Four

The dispatch says an enraged mob, which gathered after the shooting, was reported to have slain four Polish police because they made no attempt to capture the unidentified Russian officer.

The Polish press has omitted any mention of the incident, which has fanned anti-Russian sentiments in the Baltic port to the highest pitch since the Second World War, the dispatch says.

The Times story gives this account:

The Russian major, arguing with two Poles on the street, suddenly pulled a pistol and shot both of them. He then ran wildly down the street, killing a doctor and a woman.

The major then hid in a cellar and later shot a Polish militiaman who appeared on the scene.

Demanded Arrest

A crowd of Poles, attracted by the shots, demanded police go in and get the major. When the police failed to do so, a riot flared and four police were killed.

Finally, another Russian officer and squad men appeared on the scene and escorted the major away.

The next day all the dead were buried without their next of kin being notified.

The same day a Soviet inquiry reportedly investigated the incident and since then the security police have been making their arrests.

Mill Loss Set At $10,000 Flames Jump 3,000 Yards Race Through Pine Woods

Flying Spark From Mill Steam Engine Believed Cause; Whole Village Turns Out To Fight Flames; None Hurt

By Staff Reporter

APSLEY, May 15.—A flying spark from a steam engine caused an Apsley sawmill, owned by Hugh McColl, to burn to the ground by noon today at an estimated loss of $10,000. The flames then spread east through the underbrush and leaped over a 3,000-yard interval to break out in the dry pine woods. For several hours they spread out of control and burned out several hundred acres, but by 1:00 p.m. district forestry headquarters at Apsley reported the bush fire under control.

Nobody was injured.

All available villagers joined the firefighting force, and they were joined by pupils from the Apsley school. About 20 bushmen were trucked in from Bancroft, 19 miles northeast of the village.

At the height of the blaze there were about 200 people fighting it.

Not Insured

The two-storey planing mill where the fire started is not insured. Destroyed with the mill was a quantity of beehive foundation forms, boat building forms, a new chick brooder stove, milling tools and belting.

Source of the blaze was an old-fashioned steam-driven engine, the power unit for running the planer. A spark is believed to have jumped from the engine into a nearby pile of sawdust and shavings and started the blaze.

The flames were first seen by Bill McColl, brother of Hugh McColl, the owner. He was cycling along the highway when he saw the outbreak and shouted to his sister-in-law that the mill, only 200 yards from the family home, was on fire.

Owner Away

Mrs. McColl relayed the news to her son Leslie who was operating the mill while his father was away at Gilmour, 60 miles northeast of Apsley, setting up a second family sawmill.

Spearhead of the firefighting force was District Forester Dan Whitmore. He took charge of the villagers and together with Rangers James Scott and Kenneth Hall, planned the strategy for nipping off the bush fire before it could run too far out of control.

They were assisted by two other rangers, Deputy-Chief William Everett and William Wilson.

Mobile Pumpers

The main firefighting equipment was two gasoline-driven mobile pumpers, one belonging to the Department of Lands and Forests and the other to the village itself. Four thousand feet of hose were laid to combat the blaze.

Bad luck has dogged the McColls recently. A few years ago their home was burned out north of Apsley, and of late Mrs. McColl has been in bad health.

Fire wardens feared at first that the strong west wind that caused the flames to spread east into the pine bush might remain out of control. But the blaze was well in hand by 1 p.m. The first alarm was turned in at 10:30 a.m.

1,600 Acres Burn Out Of Cor Near Sudbury

TORONTO, May 15 — (CP) — A 1,600-acre forest fire burned out of control today in the Sudbury district, one of two forest blazes in Northern Ontario not yet checked.

The fire, on the north shore of Lake Wanapitei, 24 miles northeast of Sudbury, had spread from 650 acres which it covered yesterday. An RCAF helicopter is helping fight it

Two Arrested

Two bush workers, Robert Kay, a 25-year-old Indian from Saskatchewan and Juel Benard, 24, of Sudbury, were remanded for one week on a joint charge of lighting a fire in the bush and failing to extinguish it.

Bail for each was set at $200.

Both were employed by the Poupure Lumber Co., about 30 miles northwest of here, over whose land the Sudbudy district's largest bush and forest fire, some 1,500 acres in extent, now is raging. One of the men was said to have lighted a fire to dry out his socks. The fire spread into slash and eventually into a full size blaze.

The second fire out of control is also in the Sudbury area—covering 500 acres in Falconbridge township, 12 miles north of Sudbury. Three bulldozers are working on its edges to cut fire breaks.

A total of 33 other fires in Ontario, six of which were reported yesterday, are under con-

Charge 10 Planned Coup

KARACHI, Pakistan, May 15—(Reuters) — Ten high ranking Army and Air Force officers were arrested today and charged with plotting to overthrow the government and set up a military dictatorship patterned on Communist lines.

The 10 bring to 14 the total number of persons now awaiting trial on the plot charges, first revealed in March.

Among those arrested was Air Commodore M. K. Janjua, personnel director of the Air Force and its highest Pakistani officer. He was suspended from the service in March.

The March arrests included the Chief of the General Staff, Maj. Gen. Akbar Khan, his wife, two brigadiers and the editor of the Pakistan Times, Faiz Ahmed Faiz.

A special three-man tribunal was set up to try all the accused. The trials, due soon, will be secret.

Youths Ride 52 Hours On Teeter-Totter

SEATTLE, May 15 — (AP). — The teeter-totter craze at Washing colleges continues to set marks.

The third pair in eight days has terminated a marathon stint of two days and upwards riding the boards.

Bob Brachtenbach and Dick Priest of Yakima, at the University of Washington, called it quits yesterday after 52 hours and 5 minutes.

The previous mark was 50 hours and 31 minutes, set Saturday night by two Seattle University students.

Eight days ago, a pair at Washington State College started the craze, teetering 49 hours and 10 minutes.

Trade Representatives Meet In Ottawa Allocate Scarce Products

Clutterbuck Says UK Will Pay In Dollars For Canadian Metals, Goods; Britain Will Start To Repay 1946 Loan

OTTAWA, May 15. (CP)—Britain will emphasize to Canada next week that her defence effort may be injured if she cannot continue to get more scarce raw materials from this country. The problem of allocating scarce materials, of which Canada is a big world supplier, will be high on the agenda of the fifth session of the Canada-United Kingdom continuing trade committee. The session opens for three days here May 21. Deliberations will not be made public.

Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, will preside. He said in an interview that getting sufficient materials is Britain's biggest headache in her drive to build a three-year $14,000,000,000 defence program.

He made clear that Britain is prepared to pay in dollars for increased supplies of Canadian metals and other strategic items.

He also made clear that Britain is prepared to hand over to Canada next Dec. 31 $38,000,000 as the first instalment on the repayment of the $1,185,000,000 Canadian loan made to Britain in 1946.

The loan bears two per cent interest and is to be repaid on annual payments extending over the next 50 years.

Delegates.

Other top UK representatives at the meeting will be Sir John Woods, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade; Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the Ministry of Food, and R. W. B. Clarke, a senior official of the British treasury.

Canadian government representatives likely will be Deputy Trade Minister Fred Bull; Deputy Agriculture Minister Gordon Taggart and either Deputy Finance Minister W. C. Clark or J. J. Deutsch, the finance department's director of international economic relations.

Canadian officials at the meeting likely will emphasize the need for cutting the rigid control the British government exercises over ts trade.

The policy has tended to cut Canada's exports to Britain from about $700,000,000 in 1949 to less than $500,000,000 in 1950. The committee has no power but to make recommendations to the two governments.

US Loans Planes For RCAF Pupils

OTTAWA, May 15 (CP).—The United States has come through with an assist to make possible Canada's goal of turning out 3,000 Canadian and Allied fliers a year.

An Air Force spokesman said last night the U.S. Air Force has loaned the RCAF "roughly 100" Harvard training planes for use in Canada's new $64,500,000 air training scheme.

The planes, which began arriving at Trenton, Ont., last week, are to be kept between a year and two years and then returned to the U.S. Air Force. By that time this country's production of Harvard trainers will have increased to meet its needs.

Claxton Forecast

Defence Minister Claxton announced in the Commons in March that to meet the need of the large number of additional aircraft for a plan to boost air training six-fold it would be necessary probably to both buy and borrow planes from the United States.

Canada has offered to train 1,100 Atlantic Pact airmen a year in addition to the 150 and 200 now here. The plan—to cost $64,500,000 in the next 12 months — means there will be six times as many airmen in training in Canada as at present.

It is to become a small-scale equivalent of the wartime British Commonwealth air training scheme which turned out 131,000 fliers in five years.

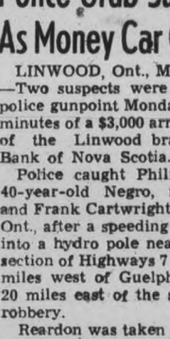
During the Second World War, Canada got assistance from the United States with the loan of American tanks for training purposes. There has been no similar lend-lease arrangement in peacetime.

Police Grab Suspects As Money Car Crashes

LINWOOD, Ont., May 15 (CP).—Two suspects were arrested at police gunpoint Monday within 30 minutes of a $3,000 armed robbery of the Linwood branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Police caught Philip Reardon, 40-year-old Negro, no address, and Frank Cartwright, of London, Ont., after a speeding car crashed into a hydro pole near the intersection of Highways 7 and 86, four miles west of Guelph and about 20 miles east of the scene of the robbery.

Reardon was taken to the county jail in Guelph and Cartwright was held under police guard in Guelph hospital with minor injuries suffered in the crash.



Police said the wrecked car was "loaded with money."

Pilot Lands Plane In Brighton Field

BELLEVILLE, May 15 (CP).—A pilot from a Toronto RCAF station successfully brought his aircraft down in a farmer's field 5½ miles north of Brighton Monday after his engine failed him.

FO D. A. G. Smiley brought his Harvard aircraft down near Billey Lake with only slight damage. He was not injured. Smiley was on a routine training flight, alone, from Downsview RCAF station to St. Hubert airport near Montreal, when his engine conked out.

Additional Help Requested By City Clerk

Engagement of an additional girl for his office work, as recently proposed to the council by City Clerk Outram, was referred Monday by the finance committee to the special salary committee.

Ald. E. C. Braund's motion was seconded by Ald. P. J. Anglesey.

Ald. H. T. Rehill said that it would be only a few months until the administrative staff moved into the new city hall.

"I think we should wait until we move in, and find out what staff is necessary, instead of making any new appointment now," Ald. Rehill said.

That suggestion followed upon the query by Ald. A. B. Burrows as to what staff needs would develop in the transfer to the new offices.

Mr. Outram told the committee that temporary help last year had cost $1,188, and would likely have to be engaged again in this year's work. It would cost only a little more, he said, to employ a full time girl.

Ald. Braund said this question should go to the special salary committee for their consideration and recommendation.

Mr. Outram explained that many of his duties were of statutory requirement, that they had to be done in specified times.

As an example he mentioned the certification of the tax rolls. Although they were prepared on a new machine, they had to be "checked" by a girl of his staff, a detail that required six weeks of her time. Mr. Outram said he had to satisfy himself that this statement was correct.

With additional full-time help the current "picture of affairs" would be more definitely shown; tax collections could be followed more quickly; and statements generally could be obtained more promptly.

A few errors had been found in the "check" of the tax roll.

Ald. J. A. Dewart remarked that the present week at the city offices was 35 hours. Mr. Outram said that was just half an hour less than previously. The staff then had worked from 9 to 5 o'clock, with an hour and a half for lunch, and from 9 to 12 on Saturdays.

For the advantage of the Saturday off duty which went into effect last year, the hours were now from 8.30 to 5 o'clock.

Ald. Dewart said he had understood that the installation of a new machine for clerical facility last year would provide for the saving of time.

To that Mr. Outram replied that the machine did facilitate certain work, but that he was still responsible for the correctness of statements, such as the tax roll, and that before certifying it, he could be certain only by checking.

Johnston Wants To Cut Profits

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Economic stabilizer Eric Johnston today asked for powers to enforce a national crackdown on spiraling profits — ranging from the barnyard to the union bargaining room and industrial price sheets.

He told the Senate Banking Committee in prepared testimony that "unless we have a stabilized economy, unless we hold inflation in check, we cannot mount the defence effort we need."

Johnston called for removal of one price ceiling—the $10,000 limit on fines which can be assessed against violators of the defence production act. Economic mobilization authority stems from this act.

Africa Offers Cheaper Butter

VANCOUVER, May 15 (CP).—Packers here reported Monday that South Africa is offering 1,000,000 pounds of butter at more than 10 cents a pound below present Canadian prices.

The South African butter has been offered at 50 cents a pound in solid lots, laid down in Canada, but federal controls prohibit purchase by Canadian dealers.

In Ottawa a Government dairy official said the South African butter offer may not be the bargain it appears.

If duty is still to be paid on it the price would be increased approximately to the present Canadian wholesale floor price. Costs of transportation from whatever port it is laid down in Canada to the buying centres in other parts of Canada would boost the butter price further.

Rita Hayworth Asks Fund Of $3,000,000

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP). — Rita Hayworth has decided to divorce Aly Khan, her lawyer said Monday, and will ask a $3,000,000 trust fund for their daughter, Yasmin.

The lawyer, Bartley Crum, said Aly Khan has indicated he will not stand in the way of the movie redhead.

Miss Hayworth went to Lake Tahoe, Nev., a few days ago to establish residence. At the time, she was quoted as saying she did not know whether to seek a separation or a divorce.

Now, Crum said, she had decided to sever all ties with the son of the fabulously wealthy Aga Khan.

Crum said Miss Hayworth went ahead despite a pleading letter in which Aly Khan begged her to think things over. Aly said he has no other woman in his heart, the lawyer added, and suggested they remain separated without taking the matter to court.

Yasmin will be raised a Moslem, the attorney said, because Rita promised that when she was married two years ago and again when the child was born, Dec. 28, 1949.

Refuse Request For Chip Wagon

The application of Norman O'Malley of Oshawa for a permit to operate a potato chips wagon here was turned down by the finance committee of the council Monday.

Mayor Swanston suggested that it might aid the council in its decisions on any other applications of that kind if the question was referred to the ratepayers at the municipal elections. Ald. Norman Graham seconded his motion, but they agreed to withdraw it "temporarily" as requested by the majority of the committee.

The committee accepted the report of the special traffic committee which provided the information recently quoted by its member, Mr. Lawrie Mitchell. The special committee did not make any recommendation to the council.

It referred to the petition for a bus service on Morrow and Lansdowne Streets, east of Lock St., and showed the number of automobiles owned in that area. On that count, the bus company concludued that there was already ample means of transport in the section from which the petition bad been forwarded.

City Clerk Outram was instructed to send that part of the special committee's report to the petitioner heading the list.

Stock Prices Drop $5 Share

NEW YORK, May 15—(AP)—Prices broke as much as $5 a share in a selling rush on the Stock Exchange today.

There was no immediate explanation for the fall. Some brokers said it possibly was the result of an accumulation of adverse economic and political news.

The selling drive ended in about 30 minutes.

Hardest hit were oils, rails, steels and motors.

Eisenhower Looks Closely At Atlantic Pact Troops

By JAMES M. LONG

UDINE, Italy, May 15 (AP)—When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reviews troops, he looks behind the ears.

News reels of him walking down the neat lines of European forces for his Atlantic pact army may look like he just smiles, salutes and shakes hands.

That's only because you can't hear what is being said. The general is after information. Every few steps of the way he asks pointed questions to get it.

The questions popped through a succession of reviews of hill-country infantry, plumed Bersaglieri, white-clad alpine troops, new armored units and an air fighter squadron along Italy's northeast frontier.

Own Radios?

At one base an armored regiment interested him. "Is Italy making her own radio sets for these tanks?" he asked.

When Eisenhower inspected the Ariete battering ram armored brigade, one of Italy's crack units, it had its 100 tanks and armored cars drawn up. When he reached the end of the line he turned to the commander and said:

"There's just one thing I'd like. Could you please have this whole line move forward 50 yards."

The line rumbled forward. They went 50 yards, then on, and still on.

"What command did you give them?"

"I told them to advance—about 50 yards."

"That looks more like 150 yards to me," Eisenhower mused and walked up to look closer. There, in front of the tanks, was a little ditch marking the new line.

"Oh," said Eisenhower. "Now I see why," he grinned.

The energetic Atlantic Pact commander drives himself hard. In three days in northeast Italy he inspected every kind of military force in the area and most of the military posts.

Canada, States Still Friends Says Pearson

OTTAWA, May 15 (CP)—Canada and her big neighbor to the south still are on the best of terms, External Affairs Minister Pearson assured the Commons last night.

That was his reply to a request by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that the minister bring "out into the open" any reasons for recent criticism of the United States in her relationships with this country.

Mr. Pearson said there apparently has been some misunderstanding of a recent speech in Toronto, where he said Canada will not be content to be an echo to the US on Foreign policy.

He had not, as Mr. Drew suggested, spoken from a "personal pique." When he spoke as minister for external affairs, he spoke as a Canadian, anxious that Canada's voice be not misunderstood and that Canada stand on her own feet while marching in step with her neighbors, especially the US.

"Our relations with the United States," said Mr. Pearson, "continue to be on a good and friendly basis."

Mistake To Bomb

Completing a lengthy foreign-policy debate, Mr. Pearson also reiterated his belief that the United Nations would be "profoundly mistaken" if it adopted a policy of bombing Red bases in Manchuria, blockading the Chinese mainland and using Chinese Nationalist forces in Korea.

Such a move would not end the war in Korea and, indeed, might lead to unlimited action—the entry of Russia directly into the Korean conflict and the unleashing of a third world war.

While he did not refer directly to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, he recalled that some in Canada and the United States have advocated the adoption of such strategy.

He said he sees no indication that the Chinese Reds are ready to negotiate a peaceful settlement, but, at the same time, he does not believe they will continue indefinitely to accept heavy casualties without realizing that it is not China, but Russia that is being saved by the Korean aggression.

Mr. Drew urged that Canada discontinue what he described as unwarranted attacks on the United Kingdom and the United States and resume her role as interpreter between this continent and Europe.

Observing that there has been criticism in Canada and elsewhere of the current hearings before the US senate armed services and foreign-relations committee, Mr. Drew said they had demonstrated to Moscow that in a democracy free men and women were not afraid of free speech.

Cutting Trees On Boulevard Termed Act Of Vandalism

COBOURG, May 15—(ENS)—Council Monday night decided to turn the matter of tree cutting on the boulevarde of L. S. Carde on William Street, to the solicitor for action. Mr. Carde told the council that he had been visited by Councillor Jack Erskine in regard to six trees cut down on the boulevards and Mr. Carde informed council that he had not intended to go over the head of council or the town engineer but had cut the trees down while under the impression that if he bore the expense himself that such was all that was necessary.

Mr. Carde acquired property on William Street on No. 2 Highway and operates a car dealer agency and plans to build a service station.

"This is a most extraordinary letter," declared Councillor Alan Field. "An act of vandalism was committed last Saturday. I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw it. This town has been known for the beauty of its streets. He says he didn't know he had to get permission. I think that the town should take action in the magistrate's court or civil action. Mr. Willmott (town solicitor) is unable to act in this matter so I would suggest that the town retain Mr. Harvey Brent and turn it over to him for action. For years we have been getting requests to have trees cut down and I venture to say that there has been little inspection on the town's part before they were cut down. But in this case, we should make an example," said Councillor Field.

The motion carried without further comment.

A letter from the counties health unit suggested that it might be in order for the council to pass a by-law regulating the operation of storage facilities for dead animals pending removal to processing plants. Council later in the evening passed this by-law, one of the provisions being that a permit would first have to be obtained before one could be established and after that it had to conform to a lengthy list of regulations.

Site For School

Second reading was given to a by-law to authorize the issue of debentures for $10,000 to purchase a site for the east end public school. Second reading was also given to a by-law to borrow up to $10,000 pending the sale of these debentures. These two by-laws go on to the Department for approval. Another by-law appointed Robin Mallory to the parks board.

Deputy - Reeve George Galbraith was critical of a letter from the Chamber of Commerce asking that the Chamber of Commerce be allowed to look into the market by-law before it was passed.

"Do they take us for dumbbells? Can't we draft our own by-laws?" asked the deputy-reeve.

Councillor Field pointed out that Chamber of Commerce was looking after the interests of its merchant members and council accordingly decided to grant the request.

Rabbi Speaker At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, May 15 — Campbellford Rotary club heard an address at the Monday noon luncheon by Rabbi J. Mayer of the Peterborough synagogue. He was introduced by E. L. Sackville of Peterborough who told a little of the life of the speaker. Rabbi Mayer was imprisoned in a German prison camp during the war, and saw his synagogue burned by the Nazi regime. After he was liberated by the invading allied armies he went to England where he later received a call to the synagogue in Peterborough.

Rabbi Mayer said he works for the cause of "interconfessional collaboration." He spoke on the fundamentals and essentials of Judaism. "What is hateful to you, do not do to your fellows." This is the essential principle of Jewish teaching.

There are three main branches of Judaism today. These are the orthodox, the conservative and the liberal Jews. The type depends on the distance from the original religion the congregation or individual has wandered. The Hebrew tongue is now being abandoned.

Rabbi Mayer outlined the development of the synagogue, and said it was the chief pillar of Jewish custom today, teaching the observance of the Sabbath and dietary laws. By these two factors, family life and religious life are welded together and the wisdom of the centuries incorporated into the life of the Jews.

Intermarriage is not tolerated in the Jewish faith, without conversion, and even not then encouraged, said the speaker.

Charles Allen of Peterborough was a guest along with Rotarian Sackville at the meeting, as was the Rev. A. A. Mathews, also of Peterborough. A number of members of the Campbellford Kinsmen club were on hand to hear the speaker.

N. Alex MacColl, past president of the local club, thanked Rabbi Mayer.

Red and White Pine Trees Planted By Normal Students

Perhaps some distant day, students of the 1951 class of Peterborough Normal School may return to the Harry Blewett farm on the Chemong Road, and see the red and white pine trees they planted on a rather steep hillside on a sunny afternoon in the May just prior to their final examinations.

Their planting of trees Monday was only one active detail of an objective field lesson in phases of conservation and land use which they had studied in the classroom. The student teachers, nearly 130 girls and boys, had begun this practical course, which is directly related to agriculutre, from the maps and texts prepared by several experts of the Ontario Agricultural College five or six years ago.

They had been instructed in the reading of togographical maps, contour plowing as a methods of checking erosion, planting and care of wood lots, something of crop rotations. From the maps they had made replicas of physical features of farm land, They had reviewd the cropping programs which had been laid down for the Blewett farm, back in 1946, 47, 48. Diagrams of the strip farming and other crop allocations in those years are probably still shown in colors on a blackboard. All this is more than theory of an energetic conservation program.

Monday afternoon this classroom knowledge was tested and amplified. And incidentally considerable spade work was done in setting out young pines on the south slope of the hill.

Students and staff motored to the rear of the farm, east of the hill, and the boys and girls were equipped with topograph outlines, indicating levels and heights of the land, and also with compasses. They were divided into groups and were left to find their way about the place, with map and compass to identify the details of the planning they had studied, and correlat the actual land use with the recommended design.

This work in agriculture at the Normal is defintely compassed within the theory and practice of conservation. Unded the principalship of Mr. Leo Copp, assisted by Mr. F. B. Smitheram and Mr. Quirt McKinney, it is taught with an enthusiam that has manifestly been communiacted to the students. And, incidentally, in the field work Monday, it had the hearty co-operation of the owner of the farm, Mr. Harry Blewett.

Stressed in this study is the saving of the top soil by prevention of erosion. Even with the strip farming, some minor evidence of the effect of rain and snow melting on one of the slopes was noted.

Natural growth in the hardwood bush on the hill by exclusion of cattle was evident. Related topics were also tilth and fertility. An original map indicating fences that have been removed afforded interesting contrast with the present longer sweeps of two present fields.

As for the actual planting of trees that was a chore in which Mr. Blewett and Wm. A. Anderson helped in its direction. Each student was expected to plant ten trees. Possibly they did not reach the total of 1,200. At any rate some of the students are going back later this week to expand that investment in the use of the hill, which by the way is practically integrated into the general planning of the farm.

The significance of the planning and utility job done on the Blewett farm was briefly reviewed and discussed by Frank C. Paterson, agriculutral representative, and also his assistant, Robert E. Bell.

OIL MAKES A COUNTRY STRONG

THE ROUGHNECKS ARE MOVING ON!

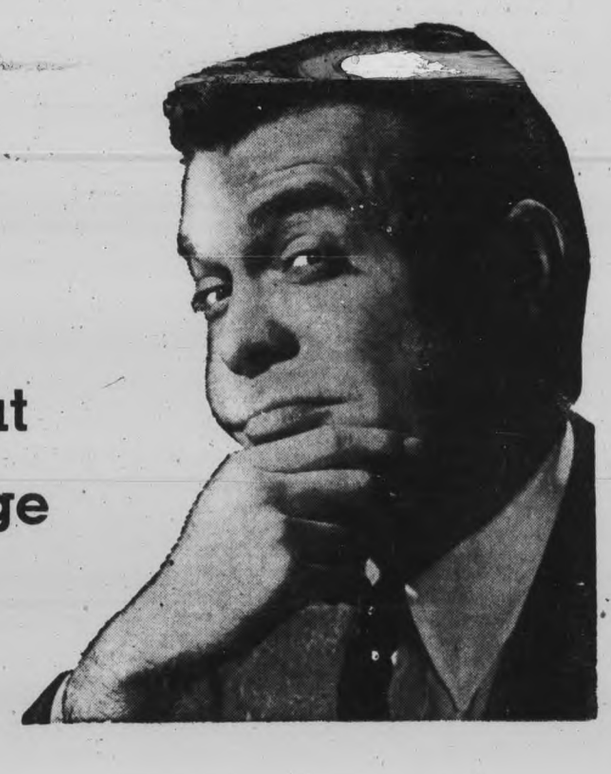
In the language of the oil fields, "roughnecks" are the men of the drilling crews who probe deep in the earth for oil. You'll find them in any oil field doing the hard tedious work that goes into the drilling of every well.

But roughnecks like it best when the going is toughest and most exciting—when they move on to search for oil where it has never been found. In Alberta the odds are against them, only one wildcat well in 20 is likely to be successful.

Working against these odds, roughnecks' drills have tapped more than a billion barrels of new oil in Alberta since 1947, bringing new prosperity and new security to all Canada. In fact Canadians now produce one in every three barrels they use—but we still must depend on foreign countries for the other two. To be self-sufficient we must have three times our present reserves.

The roughnecks keep moving on in the unending search for oil. As they succeed they benefit and strengthen the entire nation.

About Canada's Oil



Before discovering the Leduc field in 1947, Imperial drilled 133 exploratory wells in western Canada—all dry—over a period of almost 30 years.

The cost of an exploratory well varies from about $100,000 to more than $1 million.

It is estimated the oil industry will spend $200 millions on exploration and development in the prairies this year.

The 'Limited War' Argument Continues

The great debate as to whether the war in Korea should be limited or unrestricted continues at Washington, and it affects the capitals and peoples of all nations with fighting forces in Korea. The argument goes on with the qualification that large scale aerial attacks from Manchurian bases would be answered in kind, but beyond that it centres chiefly on the possibility of Russian intervention, if the Korean war is widened and Communist China and Manchuria attacked, without provocation from air power now based in Manchuria. Supporters of General MacArthur doubt that Russia would intervene; administration supporters are convinced Russia would intervene, and that a third world war would follow.

* * *

In weighing these arguments, two factors should receive thorough consideration, in our opinion. One is the example of the war waged in Greece; the other is the opinion of George F. Kennan regarding the likelihood of Russian intervention if the Korean war is widened. Mr. Kennan's name may not be widely known in Canada, but his opinion should be. He was a United States State Department counsellor before his resignation last summer, and is rated as the leading U.S. expert on the Soviet Union. And he was the man who alone opposed virtually all of official Washington, as well as General MacArthur, at the time of the Inchon landings. Repeatedly, and without qualification, he warned that Chinese or Soviet intervention was inevitable if United Nations forces advanced from the narrow neck of Korea to the Manchurian border.

* * *

The cost of disregarding these warnings cannot be estimated but it is tragically high and more than sufficient to justify ascertaining and weighing, what Mr. Kennan thinks now about the possibility of Russian intervention. He is reported to believe that aerial attacks on Manchuria would force "a most solemn decision" on the Kremlin, and he considers it inconceivable that this decision would be against intervention. The least serious retaliation he would expect would be an answer in kind, cloaked or not, from Manchurian bases. This, in turn, would mean intensified aerial attacks by United Nations forces, extended to cover Siberian supply bases for Manchurian fields. A world war would then not be far off, nor would it be if Russia bombed U.N. installations in Japan, mentioned by Mr. Kennan as an alternative.

* * *

The war in Greece expounds a lesson applicable to Korea. Allied forces there were required to limit the conflict. Allied leaders knew the attacking Communists had sanctuaries in neighbouring states, yet they doggedly continued the fighting on Greek terrain. One of the sanctuary states was Yugoslavia, and it might be pertinent to speculate on what might have happened had the Allies then attacked that country from the air. Had they done so, it would almost certainly remain Russia's strongest bastion in eastern Europe today, instead of being an ally of the west, however doubtful.

* * *

Mr. Kennan may be as wrong now as he was right before. The fact that there is now majority support for his opinion may mean as little as the majority opposition at the time of Inchon. Yet we think there is mounting conviction among the peoples of the west that the policy of limited war in Korea offers the best hope of avoiding a dreaded third world conflict.

Guilt By Parallel

Impartial observers, in the United States and elsewhere, no doubt feel that imputation of guilt by association, now a common practice in the United States, has been carried to an extreme that made it an almost vicious practice. Men and women there have been publicly charged with "un-American" activities merely because they had once given their names to a "Friends of Russia" society or had knitted sweaters for the Russians. Such charges sound absurd, and they are absurd, but being accused of being a Communist, no matter how absurd the grounds, is a serious matter in the present temper of the United States.

Now, however, Senator McCarran of Nevada has announced a theory that makes guilt by association seem somewhat feeble in comparison. Senator McCarran, a Democrat, is head of the Congressional Judiciary Sub-Committee on Un-American Activities. He may exercise the Congressional power to summon and question witnesses. Furthermore, chairmen of legislative committees and sub-committees have managed in the past to exercise unusual control over legislation coming before them. And Senator McCarran has now announced that his sub-committee is examining certain criticisms of General MacArthur for evidences of guilt by parallel—i.e., if the criticism parallels that from Russian or Chinese Communist sources, there must be an investigation to determine whether or not there are links between the critics.

Senator McCarran's purpose is quite clear. He mentioned the names of three men who had been critical of the General—Secretary of State Dean Acheson, John Carter Vincent and Owen Lattimore—and the names serve to emphasize his sworn enmity of the State Department. He is one of the leaders of the Democratic faction determined to depose Mr. Acheson. This new theory of guilt by parallel, the recent dramatic seizure of the files of the Institute of Pacific Relations, along with other incidents, indicate clearly that Senator McCarran's committee is going to devote itself to reviving the outrageous and now disproved charges made by Senator McCarthy last year.

The ugliest aspect of the situation is that fear of Communism has bred a disposition in many to accept these theories of guilt as necessary and proper. Although more marked in the United States than in any other country, that disposition exists elsewhere as well, and every effort should be made to prevent its spread.

Prize Cartoon?

Every year we are interested in the award of the Pulitzer prizes, which are given for distinguished writing and journalism in the U.S.A. This year we have been surprised by the award given for what is supposedly the year's best cartoon, drawn by Reginald W. Manning and appearing in the Arizona Republic.

The cartoon is called Hats. At the top of the panel appears a hat-rack upon which hang six silk hats; this section is labelled "Lake Success." At the foot of the panel appears a small cross, upon which hangs an American soldier's helmet; this is labelled "Korea." Unless we have completely mistaken the intention of the cartoon, some ironical suggestion is intended that the delegates at Lake Success are a worthless and effete group (in cartoons a top hat has for some reason become a symbol of pompous folly) and that the fighting men in Korea are in some sense underprized.

If this is really the best newspaper cartoon to appear in the U.S.A. during the past year, we are greatly surprised and disappointed. It seems to us that it is founded upon a falsehood: the men at Lake Success are doing their level best to keep the world on an even keel, and some of them—we could name a few Canadians—have lost their health and even their lives in that nerve-wracking struggle. As for the soldiers in Korea, who has forgotten them, and who undervalues them? We do not know of anyone who does not honour them as the first truly international police force, trying to restore peace under conditions of great difficulty and danger. The cartoon Hats, in our opinion, is a cheap sneer at U.N., unredeemed by any artistic merit.

To comment on world affairs through the medium of cartoons is surely the most difficult of all the journalistic crafts. The artist must have unusual shrewdness, imagination and talent as a draughtsman. If these qualities are to be found in Hats we have missed them.

Vive La Cuisine d'Ontario

The tourists have already started to trickle through, and they will have to be fed. Officials have already told hotel and restaurant proprietors to pull up their socks. What the American tourist does not want is a slavish imitation of a few standardized American dishes, so we are told. We are equally sure that he does not want beaver in maple syrup on the grounds that it is typically Canadian. What he wants is good food, plenty of it, prepared with taste and imagination and pleasantly served—not thrown at him.

The raw materials of our restaurant meals are usually excellent, though lacking in variety. The sanitary conditions of the kitchens are excellent for the most part, and there is generally a multiplicity of gadgets. In spite of this, though, the cooking is as a whole lacking in imagination, in that quality of the unexpected, unless one frequents Chinese establishments. It is too mass-produced.

The serving of food also could be much improved. Too often the food is slung at the customer with a take-it-or-leave-it air. The food should be laid out attractively. Nothing is more calculated to spoil one's appetite than a mess of food slopped carelessly on to a plate.

Finally there are great numbers of people who hold that no memorable meal is complete without wine or good ale. However well-meaning provincial legislation may be on the subject of liquor the present system imposes a grave handicap on the Ontario restaurateur in comparison with his competitor in the States of Quebec, and may prove a far from negligible factor in drawing off tourists from this province.

The American Scene

From KENNETH HARRIS

THE Battle of the Generals still dominates the American scene. For three days General MacArthur laid down a heavy barrage of headlines and now General Marshall, Secretary of Defence, is answering with the Administration's counterfire. MacArthur's advantage in opening the battle being balanced by Marshall's knowing where MacArthur has located his guns. It is too soon to report accurately how the battle is going, but if I may take on the role of war correspondent for a moment I would say that on the most important part of MacArthur's front General Marshall has badly mauled the lines.

General MacArthur's statement that the Joint Chiefs of Staff supported his plan to extend the Korean war to the Chinese mainland, made in his speech to Congress, came like a sudden Panzer attack on the American people's confidence in their Government and had been making good ground ever since. But now the New York "Herald Tribune", leading organ of the Republican Party, says editorially that subsequent testimony before the Senate Committee makes it clear that in making the claim, General MacArthur "misrepresented" and "distorted" the Joint Chiefs' opinion. The guns will roar on for days—at the present rate of questioning General Marshall will testify several days more before Secretary of State Dean Acheson, General Bradley and the three Services Chiefs are called. But in the opinion of your "war" correspondent the most important shot has been fired already.

REALLY the important question is not whether President Truman's Administration will come out victorious from this battle, but what price is to be paid for the victory. President Truman remains in office anyway till the end of 1952 and the worst that could happen to him would be Congressional refusal to vote him money in the meantime—unlikely in view of the fact that adoption of the MacArthur policy wholely or in part would mean more, not less, expenditure. A price is already being paid by the American people as General Marshall has pointed out: the Soviet Union is getting a magnificent glimpse into American foreign and military policy and the few deletions of figures and facts from the accounts of the hearings do not conceal from Russian eyes the outline of the American view of the general situation. Marshall also emphasized the bad effects of this kind of public discussion on the morale of the soldiers fighting in Korea. The Administration too, is paying a price: though it can knock down promises made by MacArthur it cannot make promises in exchange. It can only say in effect "We think we are doing the right thing." The possibility remains that the Administration, to retain a grip on American public opinion, may adopt some of those MacArthur policies which it thinks the public wants, even though its judgement is against them.

WE have seen a great drive in the United Nations to get U.N. sanction for an economic blockade of China. Shall we see the Nationalist troops on Formosa used against China—not necessarily implying an attempt to restore the Chiang Kai-shek government? Only a very bold man would commit himself to answer that question now. I cannot forget the statement of Senator Paul Douglas, one of most independent and liberal of Democrat Senators, when asked last autumn if he thought the Chinese on Formosa should be used against the Communist Chinese. His answer in effect was that in a war against aggression America should get and use allies where and when she could.

On the last day of General MacArthur's questioning by the Senate Committee I went up to the Senate myself. I've never seen anything like it. The hearings are held in the state caucus room—in secret—and the door is barred by several policemen. Inside stenographers take down the dialogue in relays, each tapping on machines about half the size of a portable typewriter which record soundlessly in shorthand symbols. After taking about five pages the stenographer hurries from the caucus room, fights his way past the policeman, reporters, and photographers who stand around the doors—waiting for some glimpse of what is going on inside, or for some Senator to come out and tip them off what's happening — and goes to the room where stencils are cut. Meanwhile Admiral Davies, the censor, scans the stencil and cuts out anything he thinks dangerous to security. (I caught a glimpse of him working the other day, and he looked pretty harassed.) The stuff is then rushed off a printing machine, and copies, still wet, are thrust into the envelopes each bearing the name of the newspaper or news agency covering the job. An official then hurries with them to the press room, almost immediately below the secret chamber, where the busiest, sharpest, hottest bunch of shirt-sleeved journalists you ever saw, leap from their typewriters and tele-transmitters, and fall upon him like wolves. For a moment the thudding of the machines, the telephone bells, and the clicking of the typewriters drops to a murmur as their operators hastily read what MacArthur or the Senator has just said. Then they swarm back to their seats, and the roar of the news machine breaks out on its next rumble around the world. With this going on every twenty minutes or so for nine hours without a break, and the next day's papers carrying column after column of verbatim reportage, you can understand why American readers had to turn to the short editorial pieces and comments to find what the devil it was all about.

THREE weeks ago I was standing on the steps of the Senate when I saw a handsome energetic-looking young man—in a neat dark suit and with a smart white collar—talking to a fellow-journalist. I had noticed him before, so when he moved off I asked the journalist which Senator he was. "He's not a Senator," he said. "He's a journalist."

A few days ago when I stood in the Senate lobby the same man went by. "You know", I said to a friend, "I thought that chap was a Senator." "Well, so he is," said my friend. I was just about to argue, when it dawned on me that the man in the dark suit was Blair Moody, the Detroit News correspondent in Washington who a fortnight ago was appointed by the Governor of Michigan to serve for the remainder of the late Senator Vandenber's term.

Moody is a remarkable man in many ways. For instance he is the first man who ever descended right down from the press gallery—in which he served for 18 years—onto the floor of the Senate, and is, I'd guess, the youngest and fittest looking man for his age in American politics. At 49 he looks and sounds about 35, which may be due to the fact that though very fond of company, and a keen dancer, he never takes a drink.

✧ ✧ ✧

MORE important Moody is a keen and uncompromising internationalist in the Vandenberg tradition. An admirer of most of Roosevelt's policies, and a friend of his, to get the best picture of him you need only know that Vandenberg and Paul Hoffman, the Marshall Plan chief, formed with him an intimate and influential trio. He travelled with the latter on his latest visits to Europe, and knew it earlier as a war correspondent. Though no rhetorical speechmaker in the Vandenberg tradition, he speaks and writes boldly and forcefully. He is far more popular than a man of his liberal views on home and foreign affairs could be expected to be—Hoffman and Vandenberg were Republicans, he is a Democrat. Those men of both parties who are trying to get the maximum of generosity and sanity into American policy know they have got not just an ally but a hard-working missionary as well.

MR. Ben Gurion has made his first visit as Prime Minister of Israel to Washington, and as expected his visit was a success. Talking to people here one feels there are many reasons for this, some general—there are five million Jews in the United States, and American foreign policy has been sympathetic to Israel—and some personal—he is respected (and so—making allowance for his youth—is his ambassador, Abba Eban) by connoisseurs in statesmen.

In discussing American-Israeli relations, however, perhaps people underestimate the great and not altogether conscious bond that links the two peoples, and to some extent overcomes the anti-Semitism in some parts of America—the fact that Israel, like America, is a State that didn't just happen but began deliberately at a point in history and had to work up. Many Americans feel an individual sympathy with those Jews who went to Israel to try to build a new life for themselves. After all, there are more than 12 million Americans who left their countries of birth to do the same over here.

MICHAEL DISALLE, America's price controller—whose regulations to get meat prices down 18 per cent. by October have raised cheers from housewives and thunder from meat lobbyists in Congress—was previously mayor of Toledo, Ohio.

When ex-King Michael of Rumania visited the city, fat and friendly, but extremely shrewd, little "Mike" showed him around. The ex-King commented on the number of ord[illegible] he addressed the mayor as "Mike".

"If more people had called you 'Mike', said Disalle agreeably, "You'd still be running Rumania."

✧ ✧ ✧

I HAD lunch the other day with an enterprising young farmer from Oregon on the West coast, a smallish American State—not much bigger than England and Wales put together. I told him how impressed I was with the American's ingenuity in being able to make it rain by dropping dry ice on the clouds.

"Oh, we've got beyond that", he said testily, as though I had congratulated him on being able to use a knife and fork. "We do it all from the ground now."

And so they do—mobile smoke generators fume up silver iodide particles into the atmosphere, he told me, and when they get high enough ice crystals form upon them. The crystals become snowflakes, fall into warmer air, melt, and become rain. "I'll bet you don't do that in Britain," he said, and I agreed.

I've just finished addressing a letter to him containing clippings reporting the damage done to Britain's crops by rain this season on which, with some relish, I have written in large letters "What would you do, chum?"

My regret is that I did not do this when the matter cropped up, but I did not have the clippings with me and I did not know he was expecting me to pay for his lunch.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lord, what is man, that thou takest knowledge of him! or the son of man, that thou makest account of him! Man is like to vanity: his days are as a shadow that passeth away....

Rid me, and deliver me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood: that our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth: that our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of a palace....

Happy is that people, that is in such a case: yea, happy is that people, whose God is the Lord. (Ps. 144: 3, 4, 11, 12, 15.)

As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. (I Cor. 15: 48-50.)

Letters To The Editor

HARDLY CONFUSED

Sir: Would you be kind enough to publish this correction of a news item appearing in the Examiner on Saturday, May 12th.

The item stated that I had been "confused by traffic" at the corner of Hawley St. and Monaghan Rd.

The truth is—I started to pass a car, which was proceeding ahead of me at a slow pace, when the lady driver, without signalling her intention to do so, began making a left turn in front of me. To avoid a collision with her car, I turned into the ditch on the left-hand side of the road, damaging my car extensively.

The lady driver of the other car was Mrs. Harold Andrew, wife of Constable Andrew, who investigated.

It is my sincere hope that this explanation will dispel in the minds of your readers the impression that I am of insufficient intellect to be driving a car at all.

WILLIAM K. HIGGINS.

A CITIZENS' COUNCIL?

Sir: At the citizens' meeting being held on Wednesday evening in the Loyal True Blue Hall "See Coming Events", it should be an opportune time to elect a Citizens' Council.

The council could deal with such questions as the Ward System at our municipal elections, and doing away with the undemocratic way as it is. You must vote for four or your ballot is void.

Our City Council should be pleased to be able to call on a Citizens' Council for guidance, as may happen again when passing by-laws such as in a recent case, where one was quashed and citizens were inconvenienced and lost money.

I believe another bylaw will soon be tested and an agreement also, as to their legality.

We have had members sitting in our council who disagree on important matters and tell those citizens who ask them why they supported such resolutions, that they disagreed.

Why do not such members resign their seat and when there is a contest to fill the vacancy, run again, when the ballots as east will show, if they are vindicated?

Yours sincerely,
MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

FIRST JOB FOR SHAWCROSS

Baseball Found As Thrilling As Old Ladies' Croquet Play

By JACK SCOTT

So here we are in the baseball season again and here I am perched in the bleachers once more, grimly determined to love the silly game.

Somehow it never works. For—let's face it!—baseball, as a professional sport, is just about as exciting as a croquet match at the old ladies' home.

You always expect it to be so much more than it ever is. It's a grand feeling to be up in the stands with a bag of peanuts in hand, feeling the contagious excitement of the crowd, admiring the early summer evening palling over the People's Credit-Jewellers sign in the left field.

The players trot out in to the field. You pop a goober in your mouth and settle down for a contest. And from then on, nine times out of ten, you wonder why you didn't stay home and play canasta or maybe a fast game of crokinole.

This, of course, is not true for the "fans." In every Canadian city there is a stubborn breed absolutely determined to be lovers of baseball.

Each year they painstakingly learn the names and batting averages of the obscure transients who, having failed to make good in their native states and unable to get jobs as physical culture instructors, are banished to the wilds of Canada to ply their trade. Never did mediocrity earn such loyalty.

In any "home" team, however incompetent, these aficionados are able to find their favorites for the season and even to indicate some mild joy in their nightly exploits and the endless in-breeding "series" which wind up the season.

Good for them. It's a sure enough pleasant way to spend an evening, as I say. But when they start to confuse the familiar fetish with stirring sport I must confess to feeling that somebody is wrong and I just hope it isn't me. Me, I am the guy who starts yawning at the fourth inning and wishing I'd gone to see Betty Grable instead.

Boring

I have given this matter a good deal of thought and decided that baseball, by its very nature, is doomed to induce ennui from the "Play Ball!" onward.

The perfect game in baseball—the equivalent to the hole in one in golf—is the contest in which nothing at all happens except that four men alternate at playing catch all night.

Indeed, it is hard to say which is the more boring: the well-played game or the badly-played game. When it is played half-and-half by the brand of refugee ballplayer we get in Canada it is an almost perfect anaesthetic.

It is a game, moreover, in which all the odds are cunningly stacked against anything exciting happening. Eight reasonably alert gents are poised on the balls of their feet constantly waiting to stop anything lively from taking place and about all you conhope for is an error. On the other hand, if it is an error it is considered lousy baseball. That's the way it is.

Tedious

This kind of thing can be well nigh interminable. Only last week for example, a professional ball game in Victoria went for 23 innings, in which 194 men came up to the plate in the course of four of the most tedious hours in the history of organized sport.

The poor fellows would probably be there yet, might play on until their old age pension cheques arrived had not sheer lethargy settled in.

Ah, but the "fan" is willing to put up with this for those fleeting precious moments of action. I figure conservatively that in the average ball game there is a total of about four minutes of excitement and this seems enough to satisfy the regular customer.

The sparsity of genuinely moving moments in the game is a fact well-known to ball players themselves. A great deal of "chatter" and stage-craft, such as disputing umpire's rules, are utilized to give the affair at least a feeling of vitality. A ball game heard from outside the park sounds great.

It is well to note, too, that baseball worshippers treasure these rare moments like gold nuggets and will go clean back to the days of Abner Doubleday to discuss an entertaining incident which may have taken as much as 90 seconds.

It seems odd to me that baseball ever managed to get a real grip in this country at the expense of two summer sports that make baseball seem no more sprightly than tiddly-winks.

One of these is outdoor lacrosse, a game demanding skill, courage and brains magnificently satisfying to the spectator whether his interest be cleverness or carnage.

The other is cricket. Oh, I know, we've made a great thing of ridiculing cricket in this country. There's hardly a columnist who hasn't milked a few tiny laughs with the tea-and-crumpets aspect of the game or his inability to understand what was going on, although, in fact, any 11-year-old schoolboy can learn the game in ten minutes.

Taken either as a spectator or participant sport cricket has more in a minute than baseball has in an hour for it commands the services of all players, the ball is in play most of the time and there is always a situation under development.

If I were a promoter I would take either of these sports and popularize them as baseball has been popularized. There is no reason in the world why a man shouldn't have his peanuts and hot dogs at a cricket match, no reason why the game shouldn't be professionalized for the enjoyment of we non-athletic types on our night out.

Meantime, I am always ready to be convinced that baseball is really a man's game and doubtless will be perched up on the boards again before the season runs out.

Blind Planning Campaign Against Use of Means Test

A nation-wide campaign against the Means Test for the blind is expected to be the most important outcome of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Council of the Blind convention held in Kingston last week.

Sparking campaign plans was Mrs. Sadie B. Bending, national president of the CCB, who addressed a banquet meeting at the two-day convention.

The president hinted that in the fall machinery would be set in motion to effect pressure on the Canadian government. It will be pressure designed to bring about elimination of the means test for the blind. Failing this the nation's blind will seek a hoist in the ceiling on earnings for the sightless.

At present a single blind man may earn only $720 a year without fear of pension deductions. A married man may earn $1,200. All blind persons over 21 are eligible for the pension providing their salary does not exceed the ceiling.

Incorporated in the attack on existing legislation will be an outright demand for a separate blind persons act, free from the existing Old Age Pensions Act.

Mrs. Bending later explained the form this campaign will take. The campaign itself will be introduced by a nation-wide educational drive. The aid of every organization and prominent citizen will be sought. People will be asked to approach their representatives in parliament. Finally the issue will be taken to Paul Martin, Minister of Health.

The gathering of approximately 48 delegates was given civic greetings by Ald. John Cunningham in the absence of Mayor C. A. Curtis.

Other speakers included the Rev. A. M. Laverty, padre of Queen's University; P. I. Timmins of Kingston, district field secretary; Col. S. M. Polson, vice-chairman of the CNIB advisory board for the district; Mrs. J. T. Patterson, vice-chairman of the Ontario division, CCB; Dr. M. C. McBroon, representing the Kiwanis Club; Mrs. Andrew McLean, president of the Lions' Ladies' Club; Mrs. J. S. McGall, chairman of the district advisory board, CNIB; A. W. Sparks, superintendent of field services, Ontario division, CNIB; William Fryers, president of the Lions Club, and Mrs. F. Ludlow, municipal regent, IODE.

Host organization for the convention was the Kingston Friendship Club.

The SIU said they won the vote by a majority of 98 per cent.

"Headache?.. take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Two-Iron Built For Distance, Mangrum Tells How To Get It

By LLOYD MANGRUM
Former US Open Champion

Playing a two iron, the player should remember that he is striving for distance, and the club he is using has been constructed to aid him in every way.

The two iron is one of the nearest things to a wood in its class. The shaft is long so a maximum amount of power can be generated. The face of the club is almost vertical so that distance rather than altitude will be achieved.

I utilize the same grip that I employ when hitting a wood. My left hand is the one that is really holding the club. My right is held rather lightly on the club, used more as a steadying influence.

Assuming my stance, the weight is evenly divided on the feet. My right shoulder is slightly lower than my left.

Addressing the ball, I bend slightly from the waist. Here is the first basic difference in the form used for hitting a long iron as compared with one used for hitting a wood. This is made necessary by the difference in the length of the clubs. My knees are slightly bent to aid in adjusting my height to the length of the club.

Up to the start of the backswing, my left arm is still straight, but my right arm is bent slightly at the elbow. The major portion of my weight has now been transferred to my right leg, the left being relaxed and bent slightly forward and to the right. It is now my left shoulder that is low, the right having been automatically raised higher as the club head ascended.

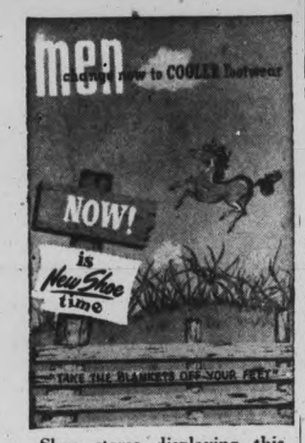
AT TOP—At the top of the backswing, Lloyd Mangrum's two iron is perfectly horizontal across the top of his head.

I start generating power at the top of the backswing. My wrists are completely cocked. My left arm is pointing upward at about a 350-degree angle with just a slight bend at the elbow. The club is perfectly horizontal across the top of my head.



I hesitate slightly before starting the downward stroke. My weight is now resting almost entirely on my right leg. The left is still relaxed, bent visibly at the knee, and has moved decidedly to the right.

At the start of the follow through, my weight has shifted so that a major portion of it is resting mainly on my left leg, but equalized balanced is maintained. My right shoulder has dropped, thereby enabling my right arm to be almost straight, only a slight bend being visible at the elbow.

At three-fourths of the follow through, the weight distribution on my left leg is more pronounced. The right leg is still relaxed. My legs are almost the exact reverse of what they were at the top of the backswing.

The clubhead has now been elevated higher into the air, following a natural pendulum path and forming a perfect arc.

OHA Major Series May Have Six Teams

NIAGARA FALLS, May 15 (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association major series may be a six-team league next season.

A meeting of interested parties Monday discovered that Niagara Falls, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie might enter the league, joining Kitchener - Waterloo, Hamilton and Toronto.

The meeting laid ground work for a final meeting in Toronto May 31.

Such cities as Kingston and Syracuse, N.Y., it was learned, will definitely not consider entering next season.

Alerted Upsets Advance Preakness Bid

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, May 15—(AP)—The advance Preakness situation is more uncertain than ever today, fouled up by a colt that Calumet Farm sold last fall for $10,000.

Alerted, a son of Calumet's great sire Bull Lea, kicked things into the air for Saturday's Diamond Jubilee running of the race classic by winning Monday's prep.

He won it by a neck, but it was a neck over Brookmeade stable's Bold which had been threatening to establish himself as a Preakness favorite.

It was a contest strictly between them as King Ranch's Sonic, the only other Preakness eligible to come out for the warm-up, started poorly and never got up close.

Alerted, bought by Frank Stout's Hampton Stable from Calumet, had shown before he might be a comer. Twice this season he was barely whipped by Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetoire, one of the probable Preakness starters.

Arcaro Takes Over

Jockey Sam Boulmetis asked Alerted a couple of times to go ahead of Bold, but it wasn't until they had sped past a mile that he made it. Joe Culmore was Bold's jockey in the prep, but Eddie Arcaro will be aboard Saturday.

The $7,500 prep was Alerted's fifth first this year. He's shown track versatility by winning at Hialeah, Gulfstream, Laurel and now Pimlico.

In the Preakness, he'll be shooting for $75,000 and more for his owner from Malden, Mass.

Alerted, trained by former steeplechase rider Jim Penrod, ran the mile and 3/16 in 1:43 3/5, a second and ¾ off the Pimlico record

Adults In UK StrongOnBetting

LONDON, May 15— (Reuters)—Three adults in every four in Britain bet on horses, dogs or football games, government statistics revealed today.

An official report said betting in Britain is an "almost universal habit."

Statisticians who questioned a cross-section of average men and women found 44 per cent bet on major horse races and 39 per cent took part in football pools. Only 4.1 per cent had a flutter on the dogs.

Horse race betting took an estimated £1,060,000 ($400,000,000) to £1,100,000 ($574,000,000) a year, while annual stakes on football pools totalled $140,000,000.

The football pools—in which competitors try to forecast weekly results—were the little man's pleasure. The regular pools enthusiast staked between $11 and $14 a year, but the regular horse race bettor wagered $112 or more.

Harness Racing Gets New Security Bureau

YONKERS, N.Y., May 15 (AP).—William H. Cane, president of Yonkers Raceway, announced on Monday night the organization of the Harness Racing Security Bureau to "guarantee the integrity of trotting."

Cane said the bureau will be comprised of experienced investigators, headed by Jerry O'Grady, assistant to the president of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency.

This new security bureau will ferret out and investigate all misconduct on the part of trainers, drivers, owners and all other personnel connected with harness racing and every aspect of the sport, Cane said.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

There's a bit of gambling blood in most of us—that's why car raffles are so popular. And who wouldn't pay a buck for a chance on a real "dream house"? Especially if the money raised was going toward the Memorial Community Centre fund. Goodness knows, we need action on that oft-postponed project, and it's a fact that more money will be needed under present costs to erect a worthwhile building. An energetic committee could put this house raffle over here, just as it is being done in Kitchener. Though, one would first have to check into the chances of obtaining the building equipment — once our Centre site is selected.

* * * * * *

In 1946, Kitchener citizens voted $450,000 for a municipal auditorium. Under subsequent provincial legislation, the city council put up another $450,900. (By the way, the new $1,250,000 auditorium there opens on May 24, so it's now an accomplished fact. Anyway, 'twas found they didn't have enough money so the committee got busy and picked up more donations. Then they decided to raffle a "dream house" — and the plan to raise $200,000 is going over in a big way. Lady volunteers of 12 service clubs are selling the tickets, the plan having been cleared through the Attorney-General's Department. The winning stub will be drawn on May 24, and someone will have a honey of a home.

* * * * * *

Quick, A Ticket, Please!

This house as it stands is worth $48,500. It is a three-bedroom, two-bathroom, radiant-heated home. Every room is furnished, and 'tis said the kitchen-laundry combination is tops. Shelves are stocked with food and a deep-freeze locker in the cellar is jammed with frozen foods, including steaks! Oh, yes, there's also a new car in the garage. Besides this big prize, there are 25 consolation prizes worth $2,000. As for the arena-auditorium, there are seats for 6,300 and standing room for 1,200 for hockey, with another 2,500 seats on the hockey cushion for musical programs, etc. The building has ample parking space around it, and is a real credit to Kitchener-Waterloo, a place of 44,000 citizens. Can't Peterborough do something similar, even on a lesser scale?

* * * * * *

Not too big a crowd on deck last evening for the lacrosse exhibition, many fans no doubt waiting for the OLA senior opener Friday at Miller Bowl. It's Hamilton Tigers vs. the Petes that night. The Mayor and council took in the "do", and 'twas rather interesting. Peewees played, OLA-ers were introduced, Mrs. J. Post was presented with a bouquet, and a raft of prizes were drawn. Then the exhibition betwixt the juniors and seniors was keen enough, the Petes just winning 8-7. While goalies were swapped the last half, and four or five of the regular Petes were not in the lineup, nevertheless the juniors showed plenty of size, savvy and hustle. They'll be strong in junior OLA play this season.

* * * * * *

But Some Will Get Axe

Moon Wootton started in the senior cage, with Ross Powliss—husky Indian—and Mick Magee on defence. They had Curly Mason at centre, with Nit O'Hearn and Ike Hildebrand on wings, and young Joe Whitnell as rover. Subs included: Andy Milne, Lally Lalonde, Jerry Fitzgerald, Dutch Pammett, Bob Thorpe, Harry Wipper, Dootch Vitarelli, Don Ashbee and Al Beavis. Some of these chaps won't be in the lineup Friday, probably, as room will have to be made for Arn Dugan, Em Creighton, Russ Slater, Fred Hildebrand and playing coach Don Crowe. But there's a lot of lacrosse talent in the list mentioned, and the Petes will be potent this senior "A" schedule.

* * * * * *

Jerry Creasy, ace southpaw of Oshawa Merchants, is reported seeking a release to play elsewhere. Five other American ballsters, Walsh, Wood, Napolitano, Delaurentis and Rowland, will be back with the Viaduct Loop champs again. Coach Mike Mellis also is seriously considering Bud Harrison, with Petes last summer ,and he has such other material as Kitchen, Harper, Cook, Barnes, McMullen, Hanna and Michael. And a few more possible ones like Wes Keeler, a softballer, ex-juniors like Bill Smith and Art Clemence, and maybe one or two more. The Merchants will be strong again. They play in Toronto on Saturday in the first game of a twin bill opener, the Petes seeing action in the nightcap.

LACROSSE SEASON OPENS—Canada's national summer game started its season in Miller Bowl on Monday evening when the senior Petes defeated the local junior OLA champions 8-7 before several hundreds fans. In the top picture Mrs. John Post—considered the No. 1 lacrosse follower here—is shown being presented with a dozen roses by Terry Davis, club mascot and peewee star, on behalf of the junior team. Below is an action shot with goalie Bill Nicholls of the juniors about to stop a shot from Ike Hildebrand, as Brian Robinson rushes to the rescue.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Seniors Take 8-7 Tilt Over Juniors

The lacrosse season started here last night before several hundred fans in Miller Bowl as the senior Petes defeated the local OLA juniors 8-7. Goalies were traded for the last half of the tilt, and the Petes were minus Arn Dugan, Fred Hildebrand, Em Creighton, Russ Slater and Don Crowe, though the latter acting in a coaching capacity. Red Creighton refereed the game by himself.

A peewee exhibition preceded the juniors-seniors fray and later peewee star Terry Davis made a club presentation of a dozen roses to Mrs. J. Post, No. 1 lacrosse fan. Mayor Max Swanston and most of the city council attended. A large number of prizes were drawn for at half-time. The players were introduced to fans.

A Close Tussle

The main game was an interesting and close affair, with Lou Vitarelli's juniors showing much promise. The seniors drew the only two penalties, though there was some fairly stiff checking in the clean contest. The score was 3-1 for the Petes in the first quarter, 5-2 at the half, and 6-5 for the seniors going into the even fourth frame.

Ike Hildebrand scored first from Powliss, Vitarelli adding another from Pammett, and Wipper tallying on Fitzgerald's pass, before Batley counted for the Filter-Queens. Powliss hit the net to open the second with Mason's pass, Morrison scored for the juniors and O'Hearn tallied one more. Ashbee got the only senior marker in the third, from Fitzgerald, as Batley, Brian Robinson and Lew Nicholls counted for the younger fellows, Groves helping on one. Whitnell hit it in the fourth from Ashbee, and Thorpe got another. Heffernan scored a pair for the juniors, O'Reilly aiding on one. The teams:

Juniors: W. Nicholls, Groves, L. Nicholls, Powell, Shearer, Wyatt, G. Robinson, B. Robinson, Burns, Morrison, Heffernan, Batley, Farley, Fitzgerald and O'Reilly.

Seniors: Wootton, Powliss, Magee, O'Hearn, I. Hildebrand, Whitnell, Mason, Milne, Lalonde, Fitzgerald, Pammett, Thorpe, Wipper, Vitarelli, Ashbee and Beavis.

Indians Can't Beat Lopat Bow 11-4 In Latest Loss

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Lopez knows now how Lou Boudreau felt every time he saw Ed Lopat out on the mound pitching against his Cleveland Indians.

Twice this season Lopez, who succeeded Boudreau as the new Tribe manager, has looked on helplessly as the crafty New York Yankee southpaw lefthander with the "nothing" ball tied his boys into knots.

"How does he do it?" Lopez asked before Monday night's Cleveland-New York game. "I just can't figure out why he beats us so regularly. He's no better than lots of pitchers in the league."

Some 2½ hours later, Lopat had added another to his long string of victories over the Indians, his favorite people. The score was 11-4, and Lopez still was groping for the answer.

Steady Eddie surrendered only six hits, but two of them were home runs. Other balls were hit hard and far. But always there was a Yankee to get in front of them.

Everything Wrong

On the other hand, everything the Indians did went wrong. In the first inning, Sam Chapman played a looper by Gil McDougald into an inside-the-park homer. Later Mickey Mantle got a double on a routine "single." In the seventh, Joe Dimaggio scored from first on a wild pitch, a wild throw by catcher Jim Hegan and another errant heave by centrefielder Larry Doby. That all happened in one sequence.

A crowd of 66,265 paid fans, largest of the major-league season, saw the Yankees do some lusty swatting against loser Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia. McDougald rapped in four runs with a double besides his homer. Hank Bauer homered and Gerry Coleman hit a base-clearing double.

Since coming to the big leagues, Lopat has whipped the Indians 30 times. They have beaten him only six times. Monday night's triumph was his 11th straight over the Indians and sixth victory of the season against no defeats—tops in the majors.

In a day game Boston Red Sox edged the Washington Senators 5-4 in 11 innings. Fred Hatfield scored the winning run from third base with two out when leftfielder Gil Coan dropped Matt Batts' easy fly ball.

All other American League clubs and the entire National League were idle.

Big Ball Clubs In Rush To Pare Teams

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP). — Major league baseball clubs sharpened their butcher knives and trading wits today in a rush to get within the 25-player roster limit before Wednesday's midnight deadline.

Half of the 16 teams already are down to the required size, but the other half have some slick finagling to do in the next couple of days. Chief of these are the world champion New York Yankees, with three surplus men, and the St. Louis Cardinals, with four.

The Yankees are reported anxious to pull a 3-for-1 or 4-for-1 deal to land the Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw pitcher Bobby Shantz or first baseman Ferris Fain. So far the A's aren't nibbling.

The Yanks and Cards figured in Monday's biggest manoeuvres with the aging and flu-plagued Cardinals coming out of the shuffle with the best-looking hand.

Goes To Cardinals

New York sent veteran third baseman Billy Johnson to the Cardinals for a reported $15,000 in cash and first baseman Don Bollweg.

The latter was excess baggage at the moment and so the world champions quickly ordered him to their Kansas City farm.

Plugging some more holes, the Cardinals also called back Vernal (Nippy) Jones, good-hitting veteran first baseman, from Rochester and sent the Red Wings third baseman Don Richmond.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the Pittsburgh Pirates also have 28 on their rosters, while the Philadelphia Phillies and Cleveland Indians have 27. The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers have to unload one player.

Clubs already within the limit are Cincinnati; Boston and Chicago in the National League, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and Detroit and Washington in the American.

Jack Gair To Coach Hamilton Tigers

HAMILTON, May 15 (CP). — Jack Gair will coach Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series, it was announced Monday.

Gair, coach of last season's club, had previously decided to stick to the playing end of the game. He yielded, however, to pressure from players and team officials.

Merv McKenzie will be assistant coach and most of last year's team will be back, including Alvin Doyle, Jack Dorney, Alex Edmunds, Bob Grainger, Tommy Love, Elmer Lee and George Masters.

Doug Favell, who stepped into the goaltending breach for Owen Sound in last year's Minto Cup final, will be back.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Rochester Edges Springfield In 4-2 Triumph

Jack Faszholz, a 24-year-old righthander, is a better pitcher in his sophomore year for Rochester Red Wings than he was in his rookie season.

Faszholz won only five games and lost three and pitched five complete games for Rochester's 1950 champions. Today he is only one victory and one complete game away from matching that output.

The lanky hurler turned in his fourth victory without a loss Monday night as the red hot Wings defeated Springfield Cubs 4-2 for their seventh straight victory.

Faszholz blanked the Cubs after the first inning and permitted seven hits all told. Ed Mierkowicz drove in two runs with a homer and rookie Bud Hardin singled in the other two runs.

The victory moved the third place Wings to within a half game of the runner-up Syracuse Chiefs and to within four of the pacesetting Montreal Royals.

Nose Out Royals

Ottawa Giants nosed out the Royals 3-2, scoring all of their runs in the seventh inning on a pair of triples by Lorenzo Cabera and Bill Gardner. Pitcher Ray Moore socked a two-run homer for the Royals in the eighth.

Baltimore trounced the Chiefs 11-6. The Orioles sewed it up with seven runs in the fourth inning. Bill Glynn drove in four runs on a homer and two singles.

Toronto Maple Leafs downed the Buffalo Bisons 6-2. Bud Heslet cracked two home runs and Johnny Ostrowski and Les Fleming one each to pace the Toronto attack.

Defence Orders Will Be Small

OTTAWA, May 15 — (CP) — Production Minister Howe indicated Monday night that, at the moment, Canada can expect no large defence orders either from the United States or Europe.

The United States, he said, has for many items sufficient plant capacity to more than take care of its own needs.

Europe lacks dollars.

Economic production, he told a joint dinner meeting of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association and the Society of Automotive Engineers, "can be achieved only if we produce as well for the United States or for our overseas allies."

Barring an all-out shooting war, Mr. Howe added in a speech prepared for delivery, demand for Canadian-made defence equipment will not be as great as in the Second World War, "and we must think in terms of, say, vehicle production at the rate of about five a day, rather than the hundreds a day we produced last time.'

Newsprint Supplies To Exceed 1950 Quota

ST. CATHARINES, May 15—(CP)—Newsprint supplies to Canadian newspapers in 1951 will equal, and possibly exceed, last year's deliveries, Arthur A. Schmon, president and general manager of the Ontario Paper Company, Ltd., said Monday.

Mr. Schmon, addressing the Canadian Circulation Managers' Association convention, said Canadian publishers have fared better than other publisher groups in comparable countries.

Co-ops' Surplus

"OSLO—(CP)— The Norwegian League of Cooperatives reports its 1,150 affiliates showed a net surplus of more than 2,000,000 kroner, roughtly $300,000 on operations in 1950. Total sales were about $21,150,000.

Study Housing

HALIFAX (CP).—A committee has been appointed to study a $1,000,000 plan for slum clearance and public housing in Halifax. The plan includes building of 112 apartments with the federal government paying 75 per cent and the city 25 per cent of the cost.

Mistook Elk For Deer, Appeal Fails

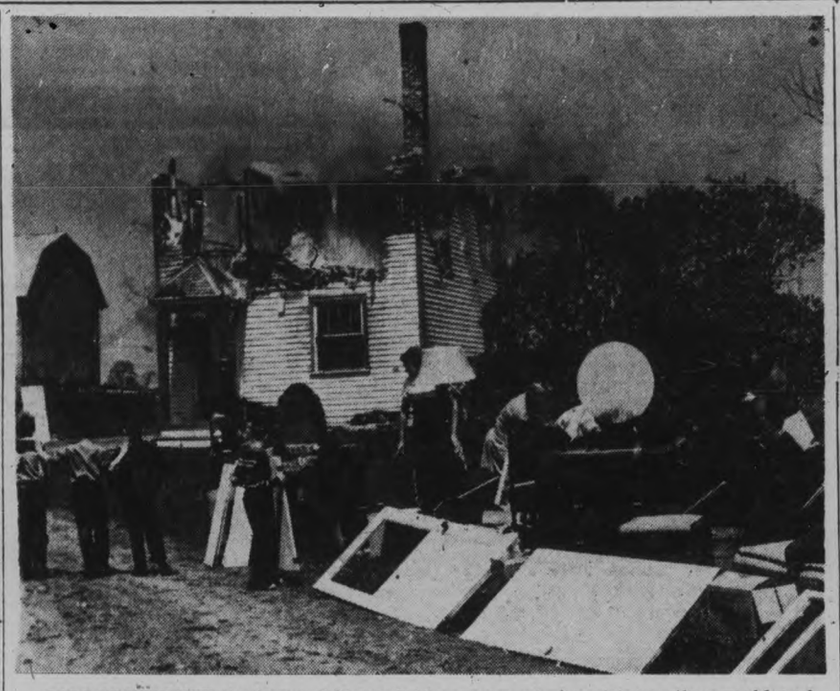
Judge of Opinion Very Unfortunate Charge Was Pressed

Judge S. L. Smoke Monday turned down an appeal by Herb Payne, Romane St., against a conviction of illegally shooting an elk last November.

Payne said he mistook the elk for a deer, pumped one shot into the animal's head as it was falling, and followed it with a second shot to put it out of its pain. The shooting took place four miles south of Apsley.

Though he dismissed the appeal against the magistrate's conviction, Judge Smoke agreed with Payne that the shooting had been a mistake, not a deliberate attempt to contravene the law.

Payne reported the shooting to the game warden himself.



Payne testified that the elk had been shot several times previously and when he first saw it falling it might well have been its death wound. His first shot was when he mistook it for a deer, but his second was to put the elk out of its misery.

"I think it is very unfortunate that this case was pressed in view of the circumstances," said Judge Smoke.

The judge pointed out that Payne had reported the matter himself and it was upon his own evidence that the charge was based and prosecuted.

"I'm quite satisfied . . . that the accused did not intend in any way to contravene the law," said the judge.

Payne was fined $50 and costs at the original trial.

Failed To Signal Left Hand Turn

Roy Baker of Belmont township was today found guilty of failing to signal a left hand turn on Highway 7 near Havelock and fined $10 and $20.35 costs.

Baker was involved in an accident April 14 with a car driven by Roland King, who lives two miles south of Havelock. King testified he was driving east on Highway 7 behind Baker's car.

When he pulled ahead to pass Baker's auto, said King, the car in front swung to the left. The driver made no signal. The cars collided and both ended up on the north side of the road.

Baker testified he looked in his rear vision mirror, saw no car behind, and pulled to the left. He argued that King crossed a solid white line on a curve to try and pass.

Magistrate W. R. Philp pointed out that the negligence of one party did not excuse the person charged with the offence.

Average Wage At Hospital Said $36 Week

"I think the people of Peterborough would be interested to hear this," was the comment of William Triggs, Local 293, UPWA (CIO-CCL) after he heard a spokesman say that the average weekly wage for Civic hospital employees was $36.

The spokesman was William Yates, Branch 19 of the National Organization of Civic, Utility and Electrical workers.

Mr. Yates on Monday night was soliciting the help of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) so the hospital union can become certified and conclude a collective bargaining agreement with the Board of Governors.

The union claims about 90 of 120 eligible workers. This includes kitchen and laundry help, ward aides, male and female cleaners, male orderlies, cafeteria help and maintenance men.

Mr. Yates, a male orderly, said his own salary was $37 a week and it was insufficient for him to live on. One member of the bargaining unit, a married man with children, takes home $31 a week, he said.

Until two months ago the average wage was $31, said Mr. Yates, then when union activities began the Board of Governors granted a $5 a raise.

He charged that the Board say they do not mind the employees forming a union but they nevertheless refuse to bargain with Branch 19.

By unanimous vote the council agreed that the executive committee of the labor council should attend the hospital board meeting on Thursday night to support the hospital employees.

MAY EXTEND CANCER DRIVE

The $10,250 objective of the Peterborough branch, Canadian Cancer Society, in the city and county was not reached in April. Only $2,511 was subscribed — $34.81 collected by county school pupils and $66.32 by city pupils. Contributions of $1,809.87 were handed in directly by the general public. Because the response has not been up to expectations the local branch may decide at a meeting this Thursday night to extend the deadline.

Navigation Opens On Trent Locks and Bridges Manned

Navigation along the Trent Canal which stretches from Trenton on the Bay of Quinte to Port Severn on Georgian Bay officially opened today. Charles Hurst, Trent Canal department engineer, said today that men are now located on all bridges and locks along the chain of lakes and rivers. During the winter only men employed were those at locks where dams regulate the water levels.

All the buoys have been placed but in many cases will have to be re-painted before the tourist season opens.

The first boat cruised up the Otonabee today from Rice Lake but swift water above the lower locks on Highway 7 forced the craft to dock there.

Mr. Hurst warned Peterborough boatsmen to stay away from the area immediately above the locks as the high water has prevented the placing of navigation booms. The dangerous currents might section had made the Water St. cient power over the dam.

The flow in the Otonabee river recorded at the Auburn dam is still above the summer rate. On Saturday and Sunday the water was flowing at 6,000 cubic feet per second. A week ago the flow was 9,000 cfs. During the navigation season the department attempts to keep the flow between 1,000 cfs. and 2000 cfs.

Lake levels Monday were slightly above the summer level but well below the flood peak reached in April. At Bobcaygeon the water is now at summer level 9.4 feet, a foot below the flood peak. Rice, Stony and Buckhorn lakes all are slightly above the summer level and a foot or more below their peaks. Scugog lake is six inches above normal.

By the end of this week all the levels are expected to be at the summer height.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FINED $10

Joseph Bryan, 40, of Chemong, was today fined $10 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. R Philp to being drunk May 12.

WIPER NOT WORKING

Darrell Henry, Smith township, pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of driving on Highway 28 when his windshield wiper was not operating. Magistrate W. R. Philp fined him $3 and $2.50 costs.

CATCHES 1951 RECORD FISH

The lower locks 1951 pickerel record was set at noon today at six pounds two ounces. The fish measuring 26 inches in length was caught by Bob Fickling, 108 Montgomery St., on a fly rod with a fly and minnow bait. The trout line tested only six pounds.

ALTERNATIVE DELEGATES

Dave Hatherly and Orville Martin, two regular delegates from Local 599, IUE (CIO-CCL) to the Peterborough and District Labor Council were absent in Toronto Monday on contract negotiations. Their places were taken by alternative delegates Trudy Robertson and Phyllis Heath. Walter Dinesen was the sole regular.

FIRE OUT WITH POP

Several bottles of ginger ale were used recently by a Peterborough distributor to extinguish a fire in the motor of his truck. While driving along the highway the battery cable worked loose and the battery fell across the motor and a small fire began. The quick-thinking driver grabbed several bottles of ginger ale, shook them well and doused the fire with a fine spray.

OFL DELEGATE

William Yates, president of Branch 19, National Organization of Civic, Utility and Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL) Monday night was elected to attend the special conference of the Ontario Federation of Labor. He will represent the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL). The conference will discuss political action among CCL unions on a provincial scale.

Take More Care Selecting Men

Four Peterborough and district men were sent to No. 5 Personnel Depot, Kingston, today for further examination for Canada's 27th Infantry Briagde which is earmarked for Atlantic Pact service in Europe. This group brought the total number of recruits from Peterborough since the office opened at the armouries a week ago to 37.

Interviewed Monday and today were J. F. Allen, O. J. Mack, L. J. Hicks and H. A. Flagler. Recruiting officer, Capt. Frank Frape, Royal Canadian Regiment and now attached to the 50th HAA Regiment (RF), RCA, sent these men to Kingston for M-tests and medical examination.

On Monday only volunteer, E. J. Fickling, left for Kingston while three left Saturday, Charles McConnell, D. A. Pinch and W. K. Pacey.

Although Peterborough recruiting officers report the response fair, official figures for Canada indicate that the army isn't getting recruits as fast for the new brigade as last summer for the 25th Brigade now in Korea.

This is due it is said to the army's own "make haste-slowly" policy based on the experience of enlisting the special force in haste and later having to discharge between 10 and 15 per cent of the men.

Seven Days In Jail

Charged with being drunk in control of a car on May 8, Ben Taylor, 27, of Curve Lake, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

Evidence was that Taylor was found in a drunken condition behind the wheel of a car parked on Stewart St. His car was ordered impounded for three months.

Meters Success

VANCOUVER (CP). — Use of 30-minute parking meters has proven so successful in a trial period that the city traffic engineer is recommending their use be extended to other streets. He suggested such busy arteries as Granville and Hastings Etreet.

Guild Men Blame Newspapers

Canadian Newspapers Sharply Criticized For Guild Action

The Canadian Press was sharply criticized Monday night at the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) for not concluding a contract with the newsmen on its staff.

Ben Rose, secretary of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO-CCL), told the labor council that the 90-odd member newspapers (including the Examiner) who run the co-operative newsgathering agency were the ones responsible for this decision.

The upshot of Mr. Rose's talk was that the labor council decided to write a letter to the Examiner management asking them to agree to a favorable contract being signed between CP and its editorial staff of 95 across Canada.

The Guild was certified as the bargaining agent for CP editorial employees said Mr. Rose, but it was unable to get a contract.

"The Peterborough Examiner bears its share of the guilt."

He said CP had claimed that unionization would result in bias and "interference with the purity of the news stream." He also charged that neither CP nor the member newspapers will print the "important facts."

"That's why we're taking this matter straight to the local labor councils," he said.

Mr. Rose said it would be the same people who built up the newsgathering agency successfully that would be taking out union cards.

"What makes management so sure these people, because they had a union card, would now be biased?" he asked.

Reserves Judgment In Highway Charge

Judgment was reserved a week by Magistrate W. R. Philp today in a charge of failure to signal a left-hand turn against Frank Couvert, Leahy's Lane.

The charge arose out of an accident March 17, when a car driven by Ivan Calder, Warsaw, went into the north ditch on the Warsaw road, west of Leahy's Lane.

Calder told the court today he was driving east on the Warsaw road and pulled up to pass the Couvert car, when Couvert turned left without signalling. Calder said that rather than hit Couvert's car, he drove into the ditch.

Couvert testified he looked in his rear view mirror, saw the car (Calder's) a good distance behind and turned left safely into Leahy's Lane. As soon as he heard a crash, he stopped. Couvert told the court he made no signal, as he thought he had plenty of time to turn.

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley said the rear of Couvert's car was nine feet from the north edge of the Warsaw road. Marks on the north shoulder of the road indicated the Calder car had travelled 20 feet along the shoulder before going into the ditch.

Meanest Thieves

VANCOUVER—(CP)—Officials here say the meanest thieves in town are those who have pilfered hundreds of golf balls from the driving range at Exhibition Park. In one four-week period 585 balls were lost, and they're increasing in price.

Ald. Braund Is Made 'Goat' In Transfer Of Market Site

Mayor M. J. Swanston repeated to the Examiner today, and with more deliberateness than in his impromptu remarks at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last week, his reference to the market and its change of location.

"I said that it was most unfortunate to Ald. Ernie Braund that he was chairman of the property committee of this year's council when the planning of a change in the market location came to a climax," His Worship said.

"I don't mind repeating it, Ald. Braund is a comparatively new member of the council, and in his committee he has inherited more or less the market project as it has been taking shape over a period of years.

To my personal knowledge in the council this market question has been in discussion from time to time for the last seven or eight years, and it goes well beyond that.

I have been told that some people have been accusing Ald. Braund of an ulterior purpose in whatever his committee has done to promote this year the final stage of moving the market. Ald. Braund is just one member of the council, and that is the council of 1951, and the council itself has been talking about the market for quite a long time.

I felt that it was only fair to make this defense of Ald. Braund when the opportunity offered itself the other evening.

I would like to say also that I appreciated the moderate, sensible tone of the statement of Reeve Rick Stewart of Otonabee at that meeting. Furthermore, there is no member of the council who wishes to close the market, but on the other hand there is a strong feeling that we should not leave that valuable central space for use only one day in the week. It is like having only one week of Exhibition at Morrow Park for agricultural purposes in the whole year.

Nobody can say Peterborough city council has been unfriendly to our market farmers. When James Dutton as an alderman undertook to plan improvements, which the council has authorized him to do, only a handful of farmers turned out at a dinner at the Empress to which they had been invited as the city's guests."

Mayor Swanston said the record of the council was friendly, that it wished to continue to be so, but there were also financial interests of the taxpayers to be considered.

HELP FELLOW BIRD

The desire to help sick and injured people isn't found in people alone. On the weekend southend residents saw two robins rushing to help another which had been hit by a car on Lansdowne St. and was left badly hurt on the road. The two birds, one grasping the injured bird's beak and the other its wing, dragged it to the side of the road where it died.—D.G.

Music Festival Opens With Class Of 26

President Gordon C. Hancock opened the fifth annual Peterborough Kiwanis Club music competition festival at Murray St. Baptist church this morning.

Following his welcome to the contestants, both of Peterborough and from other centres, Mr. Hancock introduced the adjudicator for the morning's session—John Clement, FRCO.

Mr. Clement and Gordon Thorne, BA, Mus. Bac., FRCO, LHAM, both from England, will be adjudicating the music classes of the festival.

In addition to extensive study in vocal, choral and instrumental music, Mr. Clement was an organist, choirmaster, conductor and composer during a colorful musical career in his own country.

First Class

Sally Spearin placed first in the opening class 129—piano solo under nine years, with 81 marks. Second place went to Franklin Montgomery with 80 marks and Donna Boorman and William Bately tied for third place, with 79 marks. All four winners are from Peterborough.

All the 26 contestants received more than 70 marks.

In his general remarks of criticism, Mr. Clement paid tribute to the well prepared work, which was shown by an absence of wrong notes. His main criticisms were lack of time and expression.

He explained that Sally Spearin (first) was the only contestant to recognize all the marks of expression in the music with the result her playing was marked by excellent contrast. She also had a firm touch.

James Langcaster of Toronto with 82 marks was awarded first place in class 68—boy's solo under 11 years with 12 contestants. Second place went to Larry Marshall of Manilla with 80 marks and John Mark of Oakwood and Brian A. Dunford of Peterborough tied for third place with 79 marks.

First place award in class 60—girl's solo under nine years, went to Nancy Ann Harding of Oakwood with 80 marks. Susan Perry of Port Hope placed second with 79 marks and Jean Hore of Little Britain and June Bird of Port Hope, tied with 78 marks for third place. There were eight contestants.

Name Jas. Humphries To Forest Committee

Reeve James Humphries, Asphodel, was elected Monday afternoon to finish the unexpired portion of John McColl's term as chairman of the county reforestation committee.

Mr. McColl this past winter was in charge of cutting and marketing timber in the 4,600-acre county forest, north of Norwood in Dummer and Belmont-Methuen.

He cut an estimated 125,000 board feet (log measure) of timber. Bids on the logs ranged from $5,000 to $7,000. None of these were high enough in his opinion and he submitted his own bid of $7,250.

After his resignation Monday morning county council accepted his bid.

His term of office as chairman of the committee would not have expired till 1953.

Seek Cribbage Title

Cribbage teams from Peterborough and district will meet Friday night at the Peterborough Legion hall in the Walker trophy play and the district championship. The Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion at present hold the trophy.

Although host club, the Lakefield branch is unable to accommodate the large tournament and the Branch 52 quarters will be used. Teams will consist of 12 men and each man will play eight individual games, total, points to decide the championship.

All teams wishing to enter are asked to contact Cy Hopkins, 383 Water St., not later than May 16, or phone 2-3963.

County Council On Record Opposing Moving Of Farmers' Market Site

Peterborough county council Monday afternoon went on record as being opposed to the moving of the present market site until such time as a satisfactory permanent alternative site can be found. Copies of this resolution will be forwarded to Mayor Max Swanston and City Clerk E. A. Outram. This decision was arrived at after council heard F. D. Kerr, KC, country solicitor, give a brief history of the market south of Simcoe St., from 1832 to the present day.

Norman Moncrief, North Monaghan market gardener, and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, Stony Lake, both asked the county council to take a firm stand against shifting the site.

Mrs. Hamilton said she had been interested in the market for about 10 years and she felt the producers deserve "an up-to-date ground-floor covered market." In a local survey that she conducted she said she found the majority of merchants in favor of the present market.

She singled out Mayor Swanston and Alderman Ernest C. Braund as against it.

Mrs. Hamilton had an answer for the argument that the Simcoe St. market caused over-congestion of motor traffic downtown:

"Every place is crowded so far as parking is concerned," she said. "I notice though that the city was able to enlarge the streets for the 'beer joints'; now they want to shove our best farm people down where the stock are."

She described the site opposite the George St. wharf as "not a decent place for a pig much less a human being."

County Double-Crossed

Before leaving the council chamber Mrs. Hamilton warned that "somebody has double-crossed the county." She advocated that they bring in an outside solicitor to take up the case and above all—"keep fighting."

Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee thought that the growth of motor traffic and the general congestion had made the Simcoe St. site no longer suitable. He suggested that the council work with the city to get another site.

"I'm sure we could move to another place and make a much better place of it," he said.

Mr. Kerr pointed out that the original order in council in 1832 (18 years before the town of Peterborough was incorporated) set aside crown land as a market site forever. Members of the town council, not the council itself, were named trustees after the incorpation in 1850, said Mr. Kerr.

In 1908 all city real estate was to be handled by the City Trust. And in 1948 the property of the City Trust became vested in the city council.

"What was once a public trust now seems to have become a piece of private property," observed Mr. Kerr. "The council may feel, as the largest representative of the farming community, that the city has a moral obligation if not a legal one."

"It looks to me as though the city has pulled a fast one," said Reeve Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther.

Reeve Willard G. Waterman, North Monaghan, thought the best solution lay in co-operation with the city.

"If the producers could get a good floor and a suitable building they might be doing a better business than now."

Reeve W. C. Grant, Lakefield, said it was a rural rather than an urban problem, but he personally felt that the city had acted in a high-handed manner.

"The law may have been satisfied," he said, "but all other demands haven't."

Several members suggested that this market-site question would be a good one for the new city-county public relations committee to work on.

Attend Opening Of City Hall

Mayor Swanston received in his mail at the city hall this morning from Mayor-elect G. R. Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, tentative acceptance of this city's invitation to attend the formal opening of the new city hall towards the end of the year.

"All circumstances permitting, I shall be very pleased indeed to accept your invitation," Mayor Chamberlain wrote. "I feel that I should take advantage of this opportunity, and in behalf of our citizens I extend to you all our very warm appreciation of the goodwill shown to us by your people."

The mayor of Peterborough is elected from within the council. The retiring mayor is His Worship H. R. Horrell, JP, whose term expires on May 21.

"I have accepted an invitation from the council to succeed him," Mayor-Elect Chamberlain wrote. "I appreciate very much the honor which your city has extended to me to represent the City of Peterborough, England, and to attend the opening of your new City Hall."

OTTAWA, May 15 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday that within the next few days he will make a statement of government policy on a request that a declaration of human rights be embodied in the constitution.

The request was made to the cabinet recently by representatives of a number of groups of organizations. In the Commons Monday M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, asked whether the government intends to comply with the request.

Mr. St. Laurent said he could make no statement at this stage of policy, but hoped to do so within a few days.

Motion For Injunction Adjourned In Oshawa

TORONTO, May 15—(CP)—A motion by two Oshawa farmers and a florist for an injunction to stop the city of Oshawa from polluting a stream running through their land was adjourned in court Monday without a date being set.

The plaintiffs, Lyman A. Gifford, Hiram Gifford and James Wannop, are asking $60,000 damages. In their claim they stated that a city sewer was constructed in 1949 running into the stream and has made the water unfit for their cattle.

The adjournment was suggested by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson after hearing an affidavit from Wesley Dempsey, Oshawa city engineer, stating that repairs had been made this week to a sewage disposal plant and that no further pollution would take place.

Million Auto Workers To Get 6-Cent Raise

DETROIT, May 15 — (AP) — Nearly 1,000,000 CIO automobile workers will get raises of six or seven cents an hour starting June 1, it appeared Monday.

Management and union spokesmen said the cost of living went up enough during the three-month period ended April 15 to give them an additional two or three cents.

In addition to this boost under escalator clauses in scores of auto industry contracts, virtually all the workers would get a guaranteed four-cent "annual improvement factor" for the first of the month. This is to compensate for technological advances and has no relation to the cost of living.

Sees Many Layoffs As Material Shortage

OTTAWA, May 15—(CP)—A prominent Canadian industrialist said Monday night that many plants in Canada will have to lay off workers in the months ahead because of a shortage of materials and other factors.

J. C. Armeer of Toronto, vice-president of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, termed this scarcity of production materials as a "danger which exists to Canada's industrial economy" in the switch-over from civilian to defence production.

Historic Montreal Building Bonaventure Station To Go

MONTREAL, May 15 (CP). — Bonaventure Station on downtown Chaboillez Square, one of Montreal's historic landmarks, soon will be demolished by wrecking crews.

Despite the fact the site was always considered a temporary location, the first station was built in 1847 and it remained a railway terminal for more than 100 years.

The new Central Station, built by Canadian National Railways in 1949, is to be renamed "Bonaventure," a free translation of which is "God Speed."

Before the first station was built, difficulties of all sorts were encountered. The land was marshy and rails disappeared in the ground as soon as a train passed over them.

But the land was crown land and as the saying went in those days: "It is good for nothing but to build a railway on."

Chaboillez Square where the first station was erected is another familiar landmark and old Irish residents of the district, unable to pick up the difficult French pronounciation, still refer to the square as "Chablee Square."

Notary's Name

The square took its name from Notary Louis Chaboillez, descendant of a family that for many years was in the fur trade.

In 1887, the original station building was demolished and an imposing turreted structure was raised at a cost of $300,000. Due to the proximity of Bonaventure Street, the station became known as Bonaventure Station. The name became official in 1864.

A fire in 1883 damaged the tower. In 1916 the structure was razed, later to be rebuilt, this time, however, without the towers.

In its long history, Bonaventure was the scene of many stirring happenings.

Great Tragedy

In June, 1864, more than 100 bodies were brought to the station following a wreck on the Grand Trunk at nearby Beloeil. The train, loaded with German immigrants, plunged through an open bridge into the Richelieu River.

In 1866, the first troops left the station to fight the Fenians at the Canadian border. Two years later, in 1868, a second contingent of troops left. This time it was Canadian Zouaves off to defend Pope Pius IX against the invasion of Garibaldi.

In the old days, Bonaventure was practically the centre of the city. Today, it is but a shabby old building, soon to be pulled down to permit widening of Windsor Street.

Doomed To Jail

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—John Maragon, 59, onetime Kansas City shoeshine boy who climbed to high White House circles, was all but doomed to jail Monday by a Supreme Court decision. The High Court refused to upset Maragon's conviction for lying in 1949 to a Senate sub-committee investigating "five percenters" — men who sought government contracts for a commission. Maragon, who worked for a time as a State Department employee, faces a sentence of eight months to two years.

Flexible Controls

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Chairman George W. Taylor of the 18-man wage stabilization board told Congress Monday wage controls should be flexible enough to avoid any slow-down in the United States defence production program. He said it is up to the 18-man wage board to decide whether a general wage policy change is due. The present policy imposes a 10-per-cent ceiling on wage increases above the levels of January, 1950.

Strapless Gown Excites Many Comments

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP). —Prince Albert women take the view that if you have the figure, you can wear strapless gowns.

Local women were asked about strapless formal gowns as a result of prominence given news dispatches telling how Princess Margaret had worn one publicly for the first time in London.

Alderman Marion Sherman of Prince Albert said she thought the style "most flattering to some women." Girls out of their teens with well proportioned figures were most becoming when wearing this style.

The alderman suggested that those purchasing such a gown select one with proper construction which, she said, is most essential to both the wearer and the garment.

Must Have Figure

Mrs. E. T. Martin said: "The figure must permit the wearing of the gown which will both flatter the wearer and the garment."

"They are certainly not built for strenuous dancing," was the comment of Mrs. F. Prasse, Jr., a young matron who has worn such a gown on occasions.

"You have to remain a lady if you wear one. It is an extreme style which most women wear nowadays, but it is not as controversial a subject as the 'plunging neckline.'"

Miss Agnes Campbell, superintendent of nurses at the Prince Albert Sanatorium, felt that strapless gowns were only a "timely fashion" and would be replaced by other styles.

"If girls or women can wear them without a feeling of being undressed, I think it is quite alright," said Miss Campbell.

McComb-Pryke

CAMPBELLFORD, May 15 — (ENS))— Spring flowers the setting at Christ Church, Saturday for the marriage solemnized by the Rev. John McKibbin of Jean Lydia Pryke, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pryke to Bruce Everett McComb, son of Mrs. Malvin McComb and the late Mr. Melvin McComb.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper satin gown with lace trim and a slight train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a satin headdress and she carried red roses.

Jean Prye, sister of the bride, was matron of honour, wearing petal tone pink brocade, her headdress was braided pink net with shoulder length veil and she carried a nosegay of pink gladiolis and white sweet peas. Katherine Ann Pryke, niece of the bride, was flower girl in blue taffetta with matching bonnet and wrist bands. She carried a nosegry of yellow gladioli and pink sweet peas.

William McComb, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and ushers were Ronald Pryke and Clint McComb.

Miss Bernice Stuart sang "Through the Years" and "Always", accompanied by the organist, Mr. Wm. H. Shaw, during the singing of the register.

A reception was held at her home, the bride's mother receiving in navy crepe and white accessories, wearing a corsage of red roses, assisted by the groom's mother, wearing navy silk and matching accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

The couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls and U.S.A.

For travelling, the bride was a lilac suit, white topcoat and an orchid with white accessories and black shoes and purse.

They will live in Campbellford.

Speaker Sees Christianity As Only Control of Atom

Product of a highly scientific and a well cultivated mind was the address on nuclear energy by Mr. J. L. McKeever of Peterborough, given at the University Women's Club meeting Monday evening. His purpose was to provide a basic knowledge of the subject for the women so they need not shun reading matter or conversations dealing with the atomic energy force. This he accomplished to the extent of arousing them to seek information, evidenced by their questioning at the conclusion. A number of husbands took the opportunity to sit in on this meeting for furtherance of their own ideas.

Mr. McKeever said nuclear energy is affecting all lives, whether it is known or not, as a curse or a blessing, depending on the use. (The popular term "atomic energy" was first used by President Truman when he announced the first atom bomb dropped on Japan, he said.)

Putting forth his own ideas of the possibilities for future use of this force, Mr. McKeever began to sermonize. "Christianity is the only hope for peaceful control of nuclear energy," he said. "It is the only common denominator where people of the world can work together."

No Defence

"Many fatuous persons believe a defence against the atom bomb will be perfected, but scientists are of the opinion there is no defence," the speaker stated. Illustrating, he said, one atom bomb is as effective as a 100-plane raid using the latest type incendiary bomb, and how much easier for the defenders to decimate the 100 planes than to shoot down the one plane.

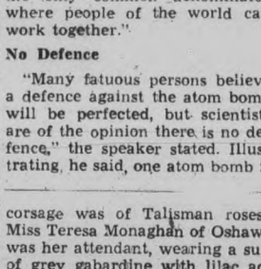
"Pandora's box—modern version" was added to the title of the address, and Mr. McKeever likened the discovery of nuclear energy to the Greek myth where opening of the box let loose all ills of the world and only Hope was left inside. He said people of today call themselves Christians, but are actually only hangers-on to the Christian principles practised by their ancestors. They take Christianity as the aviator does his parachute — hoping he will never have to use it. "It is time to use our parachutes. Without hope and faith in God our outlook is a return of the dark ages."

An extraordinary fact brought out by Mr. McKeever is that there were flashes of insight into the atom 2,500 years ago, and there was then the same conception of the structure of matter as today. Two thousand years ago the idea was of atoms with various numbers of hooks. Discovery of the periodic table used today, a grouping of the properties of elements, was in 1869. The present concept of the composition of the atom came in 1912.

Content of Atom

By diagrams the speaker made clear to his unscientific listeners the contents of an atom and how re-arrangement of the nuclear content releases energy. Weight-determining and electrically charged heavy core of the atom is called the proton and revolving in the surrounding space is a negative electron. Uncharged, or neutral, particles in the space are called neutrons and are mainly responsible for nuclear energy. These attack the atom, breaking it up and producing more neutrons, which again attack, and this continuous process releases heat. When there is a difference in the number of neutrons and protons there is an isotrope which is coming into use industrially and medically.

In spite of popular theory, Mr. McKeever believes the by-product of the nuclear energy will be heat as a fuel only. He expects it will first be used as a power to drive a submarine, and due to present conditions, the experiment may be made much sooner than the five to 50 years estimated. The steps taken by Chicago scientists in building up the "pile" which resulted in discovery of nuclear energy were described.



Briefly referring to the hydrogen bomb which is made by building up rather than breaking down, he said scientists calculations show it will not be more than two to 10 times as powerful as the atomic bomb.

Mr. McKeever, a senior engineer at CGE, was introduced by Mrs. Ross Thompson, and Mrs. J. R. Henderson expressed appreciation of the club.

President Mrs. J. E. Watters presided, and following the address held a business meeting at which nominations for a new slate of officers were received

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Homemade Hand Lotions Designed to Soften Skin

DEAR MARY MOORE: I am an everyday reader of your column, —they are wonderful. I would like to have a recipe printed for hand lotion. Thanking you, Mrs. W. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

Now how did Mrs. W. C. ever guess I was a homegrown expert and authority on hand lotions?

My brother and I claim we have tried every known hand lotion—for between us we have the two pairs of hands in the world that chap most readily. If the temperature drops a few degrees—chapped hands. If we work in the garden and actually handle the earth—chapped hands. When we dry our hands it takes us twice as long as regular folks to make sure no moisture is left on our skin. When my brother goes away to a convention or on a trip he always returns laden with samples and purchases. Invariably a bottle or tube or jar of a brand new hand lotion—guaranteed to work miracles—is with him.

Some work. Others—I suspect—were a mistake and should have been hair tonic.

So, we think we've tried them all. However, as I type on this cool May morning (at 7 a.m.) my hands are a little rough—so Mrs. W. C. will have to use her own judgment about the two hand lotions I am recommending. I used the first one on my hands last night. Most folks find it excellent.

✧ ✧ ✧

Glycerine Cream

Take this to your druggist to make up. Spermaceti, 4 dr.; white wax, 1 dr.; oil of almonds, 2 troy ounces; glycerin, 1 troy ounce; perfume. Melt the spermaceti, wax and oil together. When cooling stir in the glycerine and perfume. Stir very well, pour into bottle and cork it. Shake well.

✧ ✧ ✧

Balsam Glycerine Hand Lotion

The directions with this begin: "This is designed to whiten and soften the skin, remove chaps, chillblains, roughness, irritations from common causes"—and—doubtless—warts!

Pure white wax 1 ounce, spermaceti 2 ounces, oil of almonds 9 ounces. Melt these over a very moderate heat in a glazed earthenware vessel (I stood mine over a pot of boiling water), then add 3 ounces best glycerine, balsam of Peru one-half ounce. Then stir constantly until nearly cold. Pour into small pots and put on caps. I used old cold cream jars.

If you do not like balsam perfume 12 or 15 drops of attar or rose may be employed. I used the balsam of Peru—sounds so cosmopolitan—but if you get so expert at making this you plan to give it away in fancy jars for Christmas presents—then use the attar of roses.

Well-Women Clinic In Montreal Successful Plan

MONTREAL — (CP) — Legend has it that the Chinese paid their physicians to keep them well. When a patient became ill the payments stopped—therefore the doctor saw to it that his patients were kept healthy.

The well-women clinic of the Royal Victoria Hospital is a modern example of this ancient practice.

Dr. N. W. Philpott, obstetrician and gynaecologist-in-chief of the hospital, says it is much easier to keep people well than to cure them after they are sick.

The clinic, organized for only 2½ years, is dedicated to the task of keeping women well.

2,000 Attended

In the last year more than 2,000 women attended the clinic. Among them only 12 cancer cases were discovered and the same number of cases of tuberculosis.

In addition to a physical check-up by a surgeon, gynaecologist, and specialist in internal medicine, the patient receives X-rays, blood tests, urinalysis, and cancer tests.

The clinic was intended at first for non-paying cases only, but the demand being so high for this type of check-up the clinic now admits housewives from the lower and moderate-income brackets.

Fees range from nothing to $12.

The well-women clinic does not treat patients. Every woman is asked for the name of her doctor, and when examination and tests are completed, reports are sent to him.

Asks Picture Sets To Aid Pupils

LONDON — (CP) — Brenda Rawnsley, an attractive, 33-year-old with a definite sales flair, will visit Vancouver and Toronto in June to promote Canadian interest in educational lithographs.

The Canadian visit will be part of a 33-day tour that will include Egypt, the Malay States, Australia, New Zealand, Honolulu and the United States.

In Britain, Brenda supplies sets of lithographs to schools and other educational institutions on a sort of lending-library basis. Sets of pictures are exchanged among the schools. Since 1945 more than 50,000 prints have been supplied to some 700 schools.

Contemporary artists who have done special work for the lithographs include Picasso, Matisse, Dufy, Henry Moore and John Nash. A special set of lithographs is being published for the Festival of Britain.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"Doormats! Now I know the wife finished housecleaning today!"

DOROTHY DIX

You're Better Off At Home If Job Not Necessary

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: At 32 I have a wonderful husband and an 11-year-old daughter. After years of financial struggle and misunderstanding each other my husband and I have arrived at almost perfect harmony. It took us twelve years to do so, but we have achieved it at last and I feel that it is worth holding on to. My problem is this: I want to go back to work but my husband does not want me to. I am studying typing and business English at home and planning to go to night school to take shorthand in the hope that he will change his mind by the time I finish. All the past years I couldn't consider myself, for my mother and father had to be taken care of, then the baby. Now I find myself needing a change and dissatisfied with my life. Shall I continue to go on as before disregarding my own desires, or shall I keep on trying to get my husband to consent to my going back to business?

MRS. W. I.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You say that you and your husband have achieved a harmonious married life and you feel that that is worth holding on to. So do I. It is the best thing that can come to any woman and the one who even contemplates risking it is so foolhardy that she needs a guardian. All of your domestic machinery is running smoothly now. Don't wreck it by throwing a monkey-wrench into it. Don't even cause friction by arguing with your husband about going into business.

It's Not Necessary

For the woman who has to be wage-carner as well as wife and mother because of necessity, I have only the most profound respect, but I think it is a great mistake for a woman to work outside of the home if she has a husband able and willing to support the family.

Try to see your husband's point of view. Try to realize that it means one thing to a man to come home to a smiling, rested wife who is ready to talk to him and amuse him, who has all the lights lit and a good dinner smoking on the table, and another thing to come home to a dark house and wait for a wife to come home from work with some delicatessen stuff in a bag.

And don't feel that because your daughter is 11 years old you have done your duty by her and she no longer needs your care. At that age she needs you a housand times more than she did when she was a baby. Then you could hire a nurse to take care of her, but no synthetic mother can take the place of a real mother to an adolescent girl.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a widow 29 years old and have met a man 12 years older, whom I like very much. He is handsome, a good worker and kind-hearted. Women are greatly attracted to him. He is good to me, but he drinks considerably. He tells me he can't help it. When he isn't drinking, he is everything a woman would want, when he is drinking there is no co-operation from him, and he wants everyone to do exactly as he wishes. My heart aches when he is like this for he has a wonderful mother who wants him to stop drinking so we can get married. I'm so upset about the situation I am just about sick. Is there a way for me to help him?

LETTIE

ANSWER: You do have something to be upset about, Lettie, but not nearly as much as you'll have if you go ahead and marry this gay Lothario. Your letter doesn't show any indication that he wants to reform, and unless he does, the case is well nigh hopeless.

If he wants to cure himself of drinking, there are agencies which will be glad to help him, but if he's satisfied with the way he's living, better drop him quick. I'm sure you can meet some nice young man who will be a much better matrimonial risk, and if you don't, believe me, single blessedness is preferable to the miserable existence you'd eke out as a drunkard's wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are always hearing so much about parents who slave and sacrifice for their children that it makes my husband and me feel that we are very unworthy parents. We have not worked our fingers to the bones, neither have we foregone pleasures nor made any particular sacrifices. Have we neglected our son because we have not denied ourselves everything to heap luxuris on him?

MRS. J. E. B.

ANSWER: I think you have been ideal parents because you have simply taken parenthood in your stride instead of making a chore of it, and you and your child have been the better and the happier for it.

I have always contended that children should do thir share of the work and bear their share of the burdens of making a home. It makes them understand and appreciate their parents and sympathize with them, and it makes them value their home because they have a responsibility in keeping it up. The sacrificial parents do nothing but make their children selfish and no-account.

Demand Grows For Marcasite

LONDON—(CP) — The latest fashion trend, jewellers report, is a rapidly-increasing demand for marcasite. Lovely when hand-set in silver, the dull gleam of this "stone" has a charm which enhances almost any outfit and it blends with a wide range of colors.

All forms of marcasite jewellery —twin clips, sprays, earrings, necklets, bracelets and so on — are included in the new vogue. Especially favored are the graceful matching sets which consist of two or more pieces with the same motif, often highlighted by pearls.

In one delicate floral set the spray brooch, with its three pearl-centred flower heads and slender silver stalks, is teamed with earrings which are an exact replica of the spray in miniature.

In other sets, pearly studded marcasite necklets are matched with slim marcasite and pearl bracelets, usually in link design. These sets, which are also available without pearl decoration, can be worn with marcasite earrings in stud and pendant style.

Marcasite is also used to adorn a new range of hand-painted miniatures which bid fair to rival the cameo in popularity. They are framed in gilt or silver, either plain or set with marcahite or pearls.

Pearls themselves are as fashionable as ever. The vogue for velvet—the perfect foil to the soft sheen of the gems—has given the pearl choker a new lease of life.

Canon C. R. Spooner Roseneath Preacher

ROSENEATH, May 15—(ENS)—"Homes are a primary cell from which all our social life is built," said Canon C. R. Spencer, Port Hope, as special speakers at St. James Anglican church on Sunday morning. The subject of Canon Spencer's address was "A Christian Family."

Robert Ross, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winkworth, was baptized at this service by Canon Spencer; the godparents were the infant's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken.

New Problems In Switch To Defence Work

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Several recent statements emphasize the difficulties and even dangers contained in the delicate task of changing from full peacetime to part-armament production.

In Detroit, Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, was quoted Monday as saying that railroad officials are concerned over a sharp drop in railway traffic.

Also, over the weekend, the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, stated from Ottawa that Canada's defence production may not keep all factories busy.

From across the border a Chicago story in Wall Street Journal says that small companies looking for defence sub-contracts in the United States are making the painful discovery that there is plenty of competition for these jobs. It adds that "shrinking demand for civilian goods" is encouraging the search for defence work.

The foregoing comments and many like them, come almost in a rush following a period in which the bulk of comment has been on the threat of inflation and the likelihood of a fully-occupied economy.

Defence Orders Slow

There are several factors:

For one thing, defence orders are relatively slow in coming. Some industrialists think they are too slow, though Herbert H. Rogge, president of Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd., commented recently: "An excellent job is being done in an organizational way and we expect that significant orders will be placed shortly."

However, there are other plants which scarcely fit into the present defence program; which may be in a position to kep turning out needed civilian goods, and yet not be able to get the required raw materials.

Then there are the discouragements which have been placed on civilian buying: increased income taxes, higher down payments curtailed credit at the budget speech, some observers felt that restriction on civilian buying had gone too far.

The government, of course, is aware of all these factors.

Its present policy seems to be based broadly on the proposition that a certain amount of production must be switched to defence; that in this situation there is or will be more money to buy goods than there will be goods to buy; and that over-buying must not be allowed to force prices up.

At the same time, as someone observed recently, control by fiscal policies is in large degree a matter of trial and error, and one would gather from government statements that it is ready to reverse certain measures if it turns out that they are "too successful" in stopping buying.

We still seem to be in for a difficult period of pulling and hauling as between defence and civilian needs.

Cobourg League Drops Juveniles

COBOURG, May 15—Cobourg Town Softball League dropped the juvenile softball team from the league schedule here Sunday when it was pointed out that the same club would be playing baseball and there was a grave danger of conflicting dates. Huff Motors from Port Hope will be the other team to come in thus filling out the league proper.

Announcement of the league's umpire staff was made with Dick Turpin, Bill Medhurst, Johnny Clement, A. W. Brown and Junior Butler as the men in blue for this year.

Opening week of the schedule finds the fellowing games: May 21—Legion vs Wilson May 22—Mathew vs Huff. May 23—CGE vs Baltimore.

Family Day Service

CAVAN, May 15—(ENS)—The Ebenezer United Church held a christian family and baptismal service on Sunday afternoon. The Rev James Hampson of Bethany was in charge of the service and took for his subject, The story of Ruth and her faithfulness to her mother-in-law, Naomi.

Four children were baptized: Elizabeth Joan and Morris Ivan Henry, children of Mr. and Mrs. Morris McGee; David Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stewart, and Sylvia Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stuart.

GOLF SHOT—A backhander by Paul Corteau of Valleyfield Braves seemed headed for the net but went wide, luckily for Toronto St. Michael's goalie Phil Hughes. Braves went on to win the game, 4-1, and the Alexander Cup. That's Monarchs' Matt Mesich on the left, helping put Corteau off-balance.

Veterans Ask Pension At 65 Without Test

Resolutions in connection with the Veterans' Land Act, pensions and discharge lapel pins were passed by district F, Provincial Command, Canadian Legion, over the week-end. Legion branches from the area, Ajax to Belleville to Bancroft, sent delegates to the annual meeting, which was held at the Madoc Armouries.

The resolutions were drawn up at zone F-5's annual meeting a month ago for presentation at the district meeting. The first asks that the Veterans' Land Act be amended so that the 10 per cent. paid down out of soldiers' credits when purchasing land will be refunded after a definite period of time.

The branches want the veterans to receive the old-age pension at 65 years without a means test.

The third resolution deals with the rgissuing of discharge pins for World War II veterans. This covers the reissuing of pins with the veteran's name and number on the back, similar to the discharge pins of World War I.

All the resolutions passed will be submitted at the Provincial Command annual meeting in August.

F. P. Burke, president of Branch 52, was elected deputy district commander. Cobourg's Mayor John D. Burnett was elected as commander to succeed Frank Treadgold of Whitby. Sports officer for the district is Edward Rollings of Cobourg. They will assume their duties after the Provincial Command's annual meeting.

Two presentations were made, the first a past district commander's badge to George Gimblett, Branch 52, and the second a brief case and purse to Frank Grant, district secretary and president of the Oshawa branch. Mr. Grant is retiring as secretary and his successor will be appointed by the district commander.

Branch 52's delegation included F. P. Burke, Harold Yelland, George Gimblett and Hurrell Dodds. From the Lakefield branch were Cy Hopkins, Zone F5 commander, Walter Chappell, president, George Wannamaker, and Merton Stewart.

New Zealanders Still Fuming

WELLINGTON, May 15 — (AP) —New Zealand's record in Korea "is definitely not one which deserve reproaches by our American friends," Frederick Doidge, Minister of External Affairs, said Monday.

He was commenting on the second editorial published by the Washington (D. C.) Post dubbing New Zealand and Australia "laggards" in their Korean aid.

New Zealanders are steaming about the editorials, feeling that they have hurt relations with the United States.

In his statement, Doidge said:

"The Post might more properly have directed its attention to the real laggards— those members of the United Nations who have contributed nothing . . ."

During the last 10 days, 1,200 men have volunteered as reinforcements for New Zealand's artillery unit in Korea.

The big day—May 19—official golf opening day—will see the first divots raised at 1:00 p.m. Medal play competition at 50c per, it will be, to start off the annual opening field day.

All members are urged to bring their friends and prospective members out to enjoy the privileges of the club (no green fees will be levied).

Bob Hope Given Starring Role

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 15 (AP).—Comedian Bob Hope today was assigned the opening day starring role in the British Amateur Golf championship which opens Monday at Royal Porthcawl, Wales.

The staid Royal and Ancient Golf Club, which controls amateur championship, cast one eye at the huge crowd that showed up last year to watch Hope's buddy, Bing Crosby, and decided to put on Hope at 9.54 a.m. (4.54 a.m. EST) which means a big gallery regardless of the weather.

Hope will meet Charles C. Fox, 41-year-old paint manufacturer from Brough Yorkshire, England.

Fox, co-holder of the Yorkshire foursome title, said he was "delighted at my luck. I wanted to play a member of the American Walker Cup team or somebody like Hope. I understand he is a good golfer."

Crosby drew a first-day crowd a year ago that paid £3,000 pounds ($8,400) to see him play in pouring rain. Without Crosby, R. and A officials admitted privately the first day gate would have been about one-tenth of that.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., current British amateur champion drew a first round match against Maj. Ian Keelan, Scotsman, stationed at Mombasa, Kenya.

Adjudicator Gives Subdued Praise To Vancouver

By KAY REX.

LONDON, May 15 — (CP). — Vancouver Repertory Players served up some heavy drama here Monday night that pleased a Dominion Drama Festival audience and won some praise from Adjudicator Jose Ruben.

The full-length play, "Therese" by Thomas Job, was the first performance in the week-long contest in which groups from across Canada compete for national acting awards.

Tonight a 30-year-old French-language troupe, Les Compagnons de Notre-Dame of Three Rivers, Que., will try its luck with "Ma Petite Ville" (Our Town). It was written by the American dramatist, Thornton Wilder, and translated into the French by Yvon Theriault, a Three Rivers newspaperman.

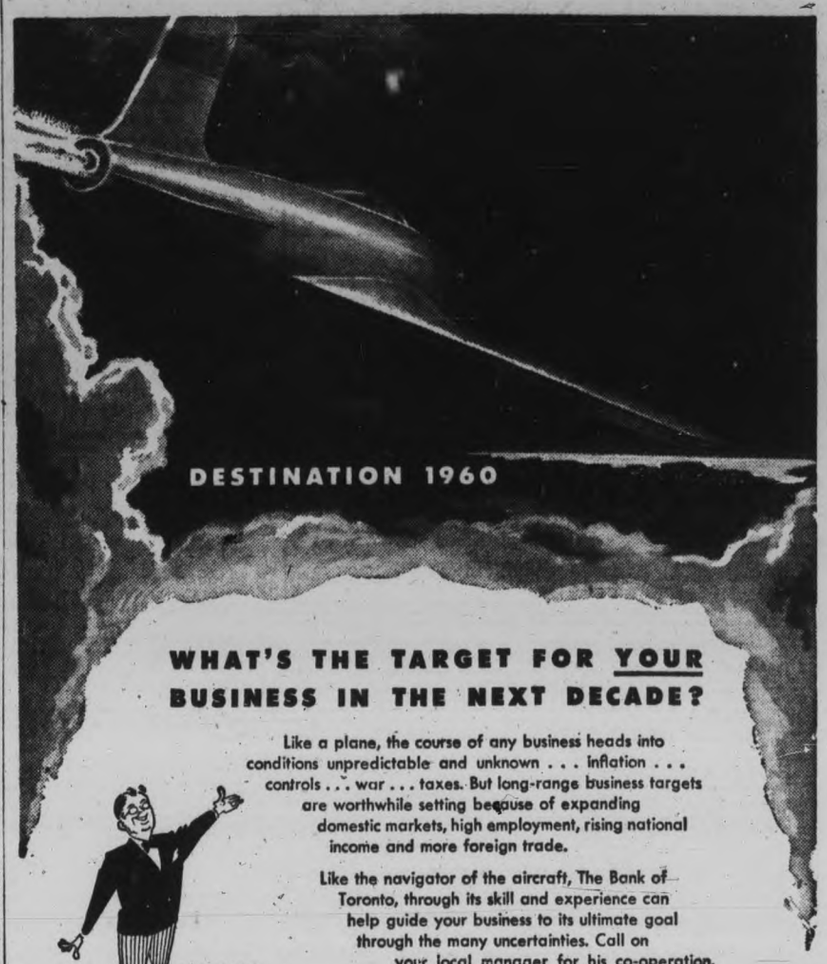
The five-year-old Vancouver company Monday night was complimented by adjudicator Ruben for choosing "Therese." It was a difficult play to do. And considering this he felt they had done "a very good job as a whole."

The play, an adaptation from a story by Emile Zola, centres around the woman Therese who is under the domination of an ailing husband and his mother.

Mr. Ruben said that Daphne Goldrick as "Therese" had an "extremely difficult" role in that "she must portray the rebellion of this woman who is under the domination of a husband practically an invalid."

While he felt Miss Goldrick could have kept her acting a little more "subdued" at the beginning, her performance "grew tremendously" in the last two acts of the play.

Others in the nine-man cast whom the adjudicator mentioned included Mrs. Dorothy Goldrick who played the part of the mother "Madame Raquin" and Jim Dickinson in the role of the artist "Laurent." These, together with Guy Palmer as "Grivet" and Otto Lowry as "Inspector Michaud" showed "poise."



In general, Mr. Ruben found that the actors failed to use enough overtones to heighten the atmosphere of the play, but such technical items were acquired only through experience.

Suggests Shelters

TORONTO, May 15 — (CP) — Persons who build houses should consider constructing atomic bomb shelters, Brig. M. M. Dillon said Monday. Addressing the annual convention of the Building Officials' Conference of America Inc., the London professional engineer and civil defence official said homes being built in possible target areas should have small reinforced concrete shelters connected to the basement and provided with a protected exit.

Canada's Newsprint Said Up 3.2 Per Cent

OTTAWA, May 15 — (CP) — Canada's 1951 production of newsprint is expected to increase by 171,000 tons or 3.2 per cent over last year.

The government disclosed in the Commons Monday that 1951 production is estimated at 5,450,000 tons, compared with 5,279,000 tons in 1950.

In returns tabled in the Commons the department said it has no information as to the average cost of newsprint and has not formed plans to deal with any possible increase in price.

In reply to other questions, it said there are no government quotas or restrictions on distribution of newsprint though in some cases individual newsprint companies, unable to fill customer demands in full, "are understood to be alloting available production to them in an equitable manner based upon their indivdual contract positions."

New Swiss Discovery F "99"

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

EMINENT scientists have discovered that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in the normal diet is one of the main causes of skin diseases, such as Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. The modern type diet and the use of refined fats and oils in which these unsaturated fatty acids are often completely lacking, have brought about a deficiency in a great number of individuals.

These are two of the numerous certified photographs open for inspection at our laboratories.

Paul Douglas Canny Star, Keeps His Money

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, May 15 (AP)—This, said Paul Douglas with a grin, "is a good time not to buy a yacht."

Douglas was referring to the current plight of film actors. More players are being dropped by studios every day and some of them are nearing bankruptcy courts.

"I've seen too many of my friends get in over their heads," he sighed. "Not me."

"But what about that shack of yours?" I asked. He and wife Jan Sterling live in a huge mansion.

"Oh, that," he replied, "that's a deal. Fox rented it to house the vips (very important persons) that came to town. You know—the ones who were too important to put up at a hotel. So I'm just sub-letting it from the studio, at less than half the rent that it usually gets. And I don't have to pay the gardener or water bill."

A Scotsman, Perhaps?

Douglas added that it has become fashionable for movie stars to say that all their money goes to taxes and expenses and they can't save a dime.

"Sure, I save money," he said. "I've had the same business manager since 1932. I've never seen a cheque of mine since I've been in pictures. He puts it away for me. I've got it all tied up in cash. Cash and insurance."

You may have guessed that Douglas is a pretty independent guy. He proved that when he first made a Broadway hit in "Born Yesterday." Even though he was eager to play the film version, he gave it up because he would not agree to the stiff contract terms Columbia offered.

A few weeks ago he again demonstrated his independence when he got out of his contract with Twentieth Century-Fox because he had a better role lined up at MGM.

Lone Wolf

Douglas prefers to free-lance.

"It's too easy for a guy to get typed and then lost in a studio that has to put out certain number of pictures every year. It's hard enough to find one good script a year for yourself, not to mention finding three or four.

"That's why I figured that if you are lucky enough to be in some kind of demand, you will do much better free-lancing."

GET READY, GET SET—Readying for the expected second phase of the Communist assault, Turkish infantrymen sharpen their bayonets and clean their rifles. The enemy appeared to be massing for another offensive.

BONNYVILLE, Alta., May 15 (CP). — An early-morning fire Sunday destroyed four main buildings in this tiny Northern Alberta community. Loss was estimated at between $150,000 and $500,000.

Belleville Minister Dies In Hospital

BELLEVILLE, May 15 (CP).—The Rev. H. O. Eastman, 60, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church here, died in hospital during the week-end. He was born at Arcona in Lambton County and attended London Normal School and McMaster University.

Mr. Eastman had charges at Burk's Falls and Collingwood before coming to Belleville in 1941. He is survived by his widow and one son, the Rev. Nile Eastman of Galt.

Food Problem To Worsen Without Change

Unless the consumers agree to fair prices for food, unless scientific knowledge of food production is improved and unless inducements are made the farmers to stay on the land and work it scientifically, the present food problem will become more serious, V. S. Milburn told the Rotary club Monday.

Mr. Milburn, a former district farmer, is secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agricultue, Toronto.

He said that the present food problem is serious but that predictions have been made that unless changes are made now, North America in 30 to 50 years will not be self-sufficient as far as food is concerned

In Canada, he pointed out, the population has increased nearly 50 percent since 1920. During the same period the dairy cows which produce the butter, cheese and milk have increased only seven per cent. The ability of cows to produce has been increased slightly, he admitted, but the downward trend shows that there is now 500,000 less dairy cows than in 1943.

Mr. Milburn said that the formula suggested to stop and reduce the inflationary spiral is to provide cheap food.

"This is a challenge to agriculture because it must lower its prices first."

Actually, he explained, the net returns now in agriculture are 12 per cent lower than in the peak year, 1948. At one time in Ontario the population on the farms amounted to 50 per cent. but is only 16 per cent today, 11 per cent actively engaged in full-time farming.

But while the manpower reduced more than 25 per cent, the food production was raised 45 per cent

Comparing wages and prices of food in 1901 and 1951, Mr. Milburn said that the relations are not high, except only in one place, that in meat. Employing the figures that the average wage in February, 1951, was $1.05, he pointed out that in 1901 when the wage was 23c, it took 44 minutes to earn enough to buy a pound of round steak and it now takes only 50 minutes. To buy a pound of bacon the work time is now nine minutes less than in 1901, for milk 4.3 minutes less and for bread 1.7 minutes less.

J. E. Weir introduced Mr. Milburn, who was thanked by Mel Turner.

The Case of the Silent Neighbour

I WATCHED in silence as my neighbour walked by without a greeting. He was more than a neighbour. He was my friend . . . or had been. For years we had worked side by side, but since my retirement Jim never came to see me. In fact, he deliberately avoided me.

I understood why. The sight of me taking it easy must surely depress him, for Jim was still tied to his job. No doubt he was envious of the things I was now free to do . . . and the years that lay ahead for me to do them. Worse still, my old friends at the plant told me that Jim seemed tired all the time . . . losing his grip. They even said the boss was keeping him on out of sheer charity. Jim, too, must be aware of that and, knowing him, I was sure his pride must be deeply hurt.

Years ago our insurance man had suggested we both take out a proper amount of retirement insurance. But Jim had neglected his advice. Now he was forced to carry on at his job, but the day would come when that job would end. What then?

Reds Renew Attack Pour Out Of Hills On Eastern Front

TOKYO, May 17. (Thursday)—(AP)—Communist troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night. It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive. The Reds struck from Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, eastward to the Sea of Japan. The attacks came not long after Maj.-Gen. William Hoge, commander of the United States 9th Corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday.

The general said if the Chinese follow their "previous pattern of attacking on the full moon, the blow should come soon. The moon comes full on the 18th of the month. That gives him two days."

(The World Almanac and the US Coast and Geodetic Survey say the full moon comes next Monday.)

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 390,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

Allied Patrols Active

Allied patrols reaching across the 10-mile-wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese build-ups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from selfpropelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners were being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

Peiping radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the "United States is nothing but a paper tiger." The broadcast said the war will continue until "we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea."

Allied troops have had time in a 2½-week lull to thoroughly bolster their defences. A division spokesman said the Allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet. He said they're confident and in good spirits.

Can Attack Any Time

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported that while Allied officers differed on just when the Reds will strike, they agreed:

"The Chinese are loaded and cocked and can explode southward any time they want."

Probing forces hit Wednesday morning on the central and eastern fronts.

Chinese drove UN troops from their positions east of Chunchon on the central front. Then Allied artillery stopped them.

Korean Reds hit southwest of Inje, after reoccupying the highway town on the eastern front.

Porter Proposes Rent Formula For Ontario

TORONTO, May 16 — (CP).—A rentfixing formula on self-contained accommodation was suggested Tuesday by Attorney-General Porter.

The proposal was placed before the Ontario Legislature's Rent Control Committee for consideration.

Mr. Porter suggested that the monthly rent of self-contained accommodation without heat or services and unfurnished be fixed at 1½ per cent of the assessed value, plus the tenants share of local improvement rates.

For new tenancies in heated accommodation, Mr. Porter suggested the rent be 2 per cent of the assessed value, plus the cost of other services and the tenant's share of local improvements.

Mr. Porter said he believed premises now controlled should be left alone. Tenants would still retain their right to appeal before the Rentals Board.

The committee, studying tables based on rentals of controlled and decontrolled houses and apartments, found in many cases controls had been lifted and rent now charged is higher than the Federal ceiling allows.

The Ontario committee will hold the first of a series of province-wide hearings in Windsor May 28.

Tentative plans are to provide hearings in Sarnia May 29, London May 30, Hamilton May 31, and in Ottawa, Sudbury, Kitchener, Peterborough, Brantford, Fort William, Kingston, St. Thomas, Belleville, Cornwall, Kenora, Timmins and Toronto

Good Samaritans Thief Suspects

BELLEVILLE, May 16 (CP) — A story of an attempted robbery, told by an excited Dutch immigrant, sent police on the trail of three Toronto Good Samaritans who had given him a ride.

The Toronto men were caught and held for three hours, and their fishing trip ruined, before the could convince police it was all a mistake.

The Dutch hitch-hiker, Albert Booy, of Aylmer, was picked up east of Toronto by Craig V. Pogue, J. N. Morrison and Harry Cairndriff, one of whom is a Toronto police officer. Along the way a police service revolver dropped from the glove compartment, one of the men picked it up. and Booy thought it was a hold-up.

The party stopped for coffee at Colborne, and Booy escaped through a washroom window and called police. The three men were stopped a few miles west of here and spent three hours in jail until their side of the story was verified.

2 Men Plead Guilty To Bank Holdup

KITCHENER, May 16 (CP) — Floyd Klinck, 25, of Galt, and Philip Reardon, 20, believed to be from Southwestern Ontario's Aylmer district, today pleaded guilty to a robbery charge in connection with Monday's $3,000 holdup of a Bank of Nova Scotia branch at nearby Linwood. They were remanded to Friday.

The two men were brought here Tuesday from Guelph. They were arrested in a field near that city after thir car crashed into a ditch.

After the robbery police said the exact sum stolen was $2,943, scooped from the teller's cage by one of two men while the other held three customers and three bank employees at gunpoint.

Army Seizes Government Of Bolivia

State of Siege Proclaimed Throughout Land

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 16. — (AP)—The army seized the government of Bolivia today. President Mamerto Urriolagoitia left the country and Gen. Hugo Ballivan was installed as president and defence minister by a military junta.

The country immediately was placed under a stage of siege — modified martial law. Strikes were declared illegal and the army command was given authority to order mobilization of both soldiers and civilians to maintain public order.

The political color of the upheaval in this turbulent, tin-rich country was not immediately clear.

Control Minerals

The military Junta, however, issued a manifesto saying the new Government would control the mineral resources of the country and that these would be used "for the benefit of the public and in projects for the progress and development of the nation."

The upheaval took place in an atmosphere of tension after the May 6 elections in which Victor Paz Estenssoro, exiled leader of the country's tin miners, won most votes, but not enough to gain a clear majority which would entitle him automatically to the presidency.

(Paz Estenssoro issued a statement in Buenos Aires saying the coup was an attempt to prevent him from returning to take the presidency. He said his first impression was that the president's

Charge 11 Boys Attacked Girl

TORONTO, May 16 (CP).—One hundred Toronto policemen, under the personal direction of Chief John Chrisholm, swung into a hunt today for 11 teen-aged boys who criminally assaulted a 16-year-old salesgirl Tuesday night in west-central Willowvale Park.

Mayor Hiram McCallum interrupted a meeting of the Ontario Milk Control Board to telephone the chief to take personal charge of the case and to assign 100 officers "to clean up this horrible situation."

The girl said she was seized by a gang as she walked along busy Bloor Street with her 12-year-old sister and was dragged into a clump of bushes where her clothing was torn off. She was held for nearly four hours. The sister, held some distance away, was not molested.

Athabaskan Home After 10 Months at War

Destroyer Drops Sick Sailor Off At Prince Rupert, Heads South

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., May 16 (CP)—The destroyer Athabaskan was back at sea today, continuing her interrupted journey home after landing an ill sailor here.

The warship, en route to Esquimalt, B.C., after nearly 10 months' service in Korea, arrived here Tuesday night to disembark AB Raymond Dean, of Toronto, stricken two days previously by acute appendicitis.

An hour after the Athabaskan arrived, Dean was on the operating table at Prince Rupert General Hospital. Doctors today said he is doing well.

The Athabaskan was nine days out of Korean waters when Dean was taken ill. At that time, the warship was 1,100 miles from her home base at Esquimalt and 600 from Prince Rupert.

Hundreds At Waterfront

Hundreds of residents of this port 400 miles north of Vancouver lined the waterfront to welcome the destroyer back to Canada. It was the first naval vessel to put in here direct from action.

"We hadn't enough fuel to run full speed into Victoria," said Cmdr. Robert Welland, of Toronto, the Athabaskan's captain, "so we headed for Prince Rupert."

"The naval war in Korea was over after the first three weeks," he said. "The North Korean navy was sunk by then and our job was then blockading the coast of Korea and nothmore than a 10-foot sampan could then get through."

The 600-mile coastline was blockaded by 200 United States naval vessels, 40 British, as well as French, Dutch, Australian, Pakistani, Siamese and Canadian.

"There wasn't much excitement," said the captain. "Bombarding was the strong point but the enemy was overwhelmed before he had the chance to fire back."

The enemy, however, had laid a lot of mines. They were the biggest hazard in shallow water. Five United Nations minesweepers struck mines and sank. The Athabaskan blew up 13 mines.

Urge UK-Iran Compromise

LONDON, May 16. (Reuters)—Diplomatic quarters today said the United States has urged Britain and Iran to go to "extreme limits of compromise" in an effort to negotiate a settlement in their dispute over the proposed nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. At the same time the United States is believed to have conceded Britain's right to protect British lives and property if these are endangered. The British government is still awaiting final comments from Washington before sending her next vote to Tehran. Britain may propose sending a ministerial mission to Tehran, it is understood, to handle any future discussions with the Iranian government.

Hint of Force

A hint of the use of force has been achieved by Britain without any direct official link with the critical situation in Iran.

The war office—in what is now regarded generally as an "inspired leak"—let out the news that the 16th independent parachute brigade group was being put on the alert. For what purpose, the war office still has not said.

But putting the paratroopers on an emergency footing was quickly linked by most observers with Britain's resistance of Iran's oil nationalization.

If troops should be sent to Iran, most sources here believe forces now stationed in the Suez canal zone would be used. The paratroopers might then go to the Canal zone as replacements.

The Iranian newspapers today sounded a chorus of threats defying Britain to send troops to protect British oil interests in Iran.

One paper claimed that every drop of oil in Iran would be set ablaze if the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company made trouble.

Racing Sheet Publisher, Operator Found Guilty

HAMILTON, May 16. (CP)—A racing scratch sheet published in Hamilton and distributed in several Western Ontario cities was described Tuesday as an aid to illegal betting. The building where the sheet, Sporting News, is published "comes within the definition of a common betting house," said Magistrate Beamer Hopkins.

He convicted the publisher, William A. Shaver, on six counts of keeping a common betting house, publishing information and disseminating information for use in betting.

Arthur G. Taylor, telegraph operator for the paper, charged jointly with Shaver, was found guilty on three counts—keeping common betting house, supplying betting information and receiving by telegraph information relating to betting.

Shaver was sentenced to three months in jail and to fines and costs amounting to $200. Taylor received a two-month sentence.

Defence Counsel Harry Hazell said an appeal likely will be launched.

Mr. Hazell criticized the committee for permitting Inspector William Tomlinson, head of the provincial police anti-gambling squad, to testify at the Toronto inquiry, since he was one of the chief crown witnesses in the Hamilton gambling case.

Equipped For Betting

Magistrate Hopkins replied that he had carefully refrained from listening to, or reading about, the committee's proceedings.

In handing down his decision, he said Sporting News "was outfitted and equipped to assist in betting on racing in the United States and other places outside Canada."

"It had telegraph service and a telegraph operator, Taylor, for

Fighting Fire Ex-Ranger Dies

LAKEFIELD, May 16—(ENS)—Fighting a fire he started accidentally Tuesday afternoon, a retired forester, Thomas James Kennedy, 71, Queen St., N., Lakefield, collapsed and died.

Mr. Kennedy had started to burn out nests of tent caterpillars in front of the home of his sister, Miss Emma Kennedy.

Some of the burning material fell into the grass and started a grass fire. Cecil Little, who had been hired to help clean the grounds of the house, rushed to help put out the flames. Miss Kennedy phoned the village fire department, but before it arrived, Mr. Kennedy collapsed. Dr. H. E. Gastle arrived and pronounced him dead.

Mr. Kennedy retired two years ago from the forestry branch of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests where he had served 26 years as a forest ranger, scaler and appraiser.

He was educated in Peterborough and Warsaw and lived in Peterborough, Burleigh township and Sudbury before coming to Lakefield in 1949 to live with his sister when he retired.

In Poor Health

Mr. Kennedy, who was the son of Patrick Kennedy and Ann McDonnell, had not been in good health since 1945. He was a mem-

Carry Out Roundup

PANAMA, Panama, May 16 (AP).—Police carried out a new roundup today of members of ousted President Arnulfo Arias' cabinet, as the death toll from last week's bloody rioting mounted to 17.

Arias himself is in jail and will stand trial May 25, charged with abusing his constitutional powers.

District Attorney Dario Sandoval said he had ordered the five ministers' arrests because they were co-signers with Arias of the decree scrapping the 1946 constitution—the act which touched off the violence and brought the president's downfall.

Spectacular Midnight Blaze At Moldaver Co. Cause Not Yet Discovered

Alarm Turned In By Several People As Soon As Flames Appeared, Brought Water 16 Feet From Creek Bed

A spectacular $25,000 fire shortly after midnight destroyed the two-storey storage shed of the Moldaver Lumber Co., Lansdowne St. east. The shed contained four boxcar loads of the best kiln-dried lumber, two trucks, a carload of fibreglass insulation and a quantity of plywood. Cause of the blaze has not been discovered. There is no watchman and everything was in order when the business closed at 5 p.m., more than seven hours earlier.

The alarm was first turned in by Harry McGinness of McGinness Trailers. He noticed the flames and told Jack Wineberg, Club Aragon proprietor. Mr. Wineberg relayed the alarm to the fire department and Mrs. Samuel Moldaver, wife of the owner. At about the same time several other passersby rang the fire hall.

At the height of the blaze at least 300 people, mostly city residents attracted by the red glow in the sky, gathered to watch city firemen and volunteer workers fight the fire.

Firemen were handicapped by a lack of water The city water mains do not extend beyond the Locks Bridge, and once the four pumpers were exhausted, there was a temporary lapse in the water supply.

3,000 Feet of Hose

Three thousand feet of 2½-inch hose were laid along Lansdowne St. and up the Armour Rd. to Crebar's Creek. There under the direction of Assistant Chief Virgil Carr a wire fence had to be cut and water pumped up 16 feet from the creek bed.

A pressure of 200 pounds per square inch was required to maintain the supply of water. The larger line was split into two 1½-inch lines at the scene of the fire.

Marriage Annulled For Dutch Girl

BREDA, The Netherlands, May 16 (CP).—The marriage between Jungle Girl Bertha Hertogh and Mansur Adabi, her Malayan school - teacher, was annulled Tuesday by a civil court.

The pair was married in the midst of a fight for the girl's custody which touched off Moslem riots in Singapore last year. Brought up as a Moslem, the 13-year-old girl was claimed by both her mother and by her Indonesian nurse, Che Aminah, who claimed the child was given to her in 1942.

Custody was awarded to the parents by a Singapore court. Annulment proceedings were brought by The Netherlands Government on the grounds that the child was a Dutch national and a minor.

Senate Inquiry Broken Off Over Bradley

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) —The Senate inquiry into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal was broken off today by a hot argument over whether Gen. Omar Bradley should tell about his private talks with President Truman.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, refused Tuesday to tell what he and Truman said to each other prior to the firing of the Far Eastern commander. Today, the White House said Truman does not want Bradley to do so.

Some Republicans on the inquiry panel—made up of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees — were insistent that Bradley should tell.

While Bradley sat silently in the witness chair for more than two hours today, the Senators argued heatedly.

Excused Till Monday

In the upshot:

1. Bradley was excused as a witness until Monday.

Burglar Alarm Rings At Tower

LONDON, May 16 (Reuters).—The alarm signal flashed today from the jewel room in the ancient Tower of London where the crown jewels are kept.

Troops sprang into action.

All exits were closed.

Five cars loaded with Scotland Yard detectives roared into the grounds.

Then an official explained shamefacedly that an alarm test had been sounded before scheduled.

In 1673 an Irish adventurer known as "Colonel Blood" got as far as the gate with the crown before being brought down. Impressed with the Irishman's daring, King Charles II pardoned him and gave him a royal pension of £500 a year.

A $25,000 LUMBER YARD FIRE raged early today in the storage shed and yards of Samuel Moldaver, on Highway 7, east of Downer's Corners. Five carloads of expensive kiln-dried lumber and some loose piles, two trucks, a quantity of fibreglass and plywood were consumed by the blaze. The alarm, sent in about 12:30 a.m., was answered by four Peterborough Fire Department pumpers. Lack of city water mains—there are none east of the Lock's Bridge—made it necessary for the department to lay 3,000 feet of hose from Crebar's Creek on Armour Rd., three-quarters of a mile from the fire. The loss was partly insured. In LEFT photo, two firemen work close in to a blazing pile of lumber, one of the burned trucks is shown in the background. Jebb Pledges UK To Stand Behind US

Britain's Record In Korean War Strongly Defended

NEW YORK, May 16. (CP) —Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate to the United Nations, pledged on Tuesday night that Britain will stand "whole-heartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Jebb defended Britain's record in the Korean war and her trade policy toward Communist China in a speech before the New York City Bar Association.

"Everything we can do, short of fatally weakening our main position, to assist the general effort, we shall do, even if that results, as it may well result, in some lowering of the standard of living in Great Britain itself, which has been so laboriously built up since the war," he said.

Britain early in the war had halted exports of strategic materials to Communist China, particularly petroleum products, but not rubber. Now, rubber shipments also were embargoed.

The British diplomat predicted that the UN general assembly will adopt far-reaching embargo recommendations later this week. The 60-member assembly political committee meets Thursday to open debate on the embargo plan.

Urges Agreement

Jebb urged that Britain and the United States get together on four general principles to end the Korean conflict and avert a third world war. They are:

1. "We should not take any action which conceivably might result in a quick ending of the war but which might equally well, if not more probably, result in a wide extension of the conflict."

2. "...A world war, even though it may be forced upon us, should not be allowed to occur through any deliberate action on our part."

3. "...The word appeasement should be avoided since it can be interpreted as excluding any kind of negotiations even for a cease-fire."

4. "...We should, by resolute and determined action in Korea, seek to bring the Chinese to a conference table at which, first of all, a Korean settlement, in harmony with the declared principles of the United Nations and involving the withdrawal of all non-Korean troops, will be negotiated and, this having been done, other subjects of obvious interest to the Chinese will be debated."

Lumber piled in the storage shed was of the best kiln-dried variety. It retails between $120 and $165 a thousand board feet.

Lumber Loss $18,000

Loss on the lumber alone is set at $18,000. The two trucks, parked one behind the other in the centre of the building, were worth $5,000. And the destruction of a quantity of corrugated steel, a boxcar load of insulation and the plywood brings the loss to a minimum of $25,000.

Samuel Moldaver, president of the company, was away in the Niagara peninsula on business when the fire broke out. He arrived home at 2.30 a.m. today to find part of his business going up in flames.

A southwest wind favored the firemen who were battling the piles of blazing lumber. The main office and mill to the left were untouched, but had the wind been strong and in the opposite direction during the period of low water supply, the whole business might have been destroyed.

Irving and Allan Moldaver, brothers of the company president, assisted firemen by helping to lay hose and salvage lumber that was threatened.

Under Control In Hour

The alarm came into the fire hall at 12.34 a.m. and the blaze was under control from about 1.30 a.m. on. By conserving their water supply the firemen were able to isolate the 12-foot high pile of burning lumber, snuffing out the flames when they attempted to spread to outer piles.

Captain George Gimblett was in charge of firefighting operations until relieved later in the night by Assistant Chief Stewart Foster. A watch was kept on the smouldering ruins of the shed all night, and no further outbreaks were reported.

Fire Chief George Smith is investigating the cause of the outbreak.

5 Major Points Outlined For Salesmen

Five major points of salesmanship were given members of the Sales and Advertising Club Tuesday night at their annual stag dinner.

The speaker was Glenn Drake, New York public relations expert.

The five points were: appearance, voice quality, vocabulary, the ability to be a good listener, and attitude.

Topic of Mr. Drake's talk was "Personality in Action," and he defined good personality—as far as the salesman is concerned—as "doing and saying things that please people."

He mentioned four faults common among salesmen: presenting an appearance of being all "straight lines," pretended enthusiasm, being timid, and being belligerent.

A salesman should do all the things the prospect expects him to do, said Mr. Drake. The salesman should have a line of attack planned and carry it out, changing it to meet a changing situation.

Mr. Drake was introduced by former club president Bob Gamble, and thanked by Howard Doolittle. Master of ceremonies for the floor show after the speech was Harley Weir.

The club's new executive, which will take office June 1, was introduced by former president Percy Dallin. The officers are: President, H. B. Cowan Jr.; vice-presidents, Russ Baer and Lionel Browne; directors, Cliff Vincent, Paul Irwin, Harry Tewsley, Bud Fortner, John Madden and retiring president Don Loucks.

It was the club's final meeting until the fall.

Says Half-Peace Better Than War

OTTAWA, May 16. (CP)—Defense Minister Claxton said Tuesday night that the present "uneasy half-war half-peace may go on for a generation."

"I hope it will if that is necessary to prevent an all-out war," he said. "That will be much better than having to win a war."

In a CBC broadcast, Mr. Claxton said that in the last week more than 6,000 men have applied to serve in the 27th Army Infantry Brigade being recruited for service in Europe.

"Our program requires the strong support of people from every part of Canada," said Mr. Claxton. "We need the support of men working in industry for increased production of defense equipment. We need a steady flow of men for the active force and the reserve force.

Children's Aid Pays Tribute To Rodger

"We would like to thank you sir for the efficient service and splendid contribution you have given in Children's Aid work in the city of county of Peterborough."

This statment was made to retiring president, T. T. Rodger by Mr. William Grady at Peterborough Children's Aid Society board of directors meeting Tuesday afternoon.

In this tribute to the retiring president, on behalf of the board, Mr. Grady stated that Mr. Rodger came to Peterborough approximately 12 years ago with a wealth of knowledge and experience in Children's Aid work. He soon joined the Peterborough society and gave a great deal of time and energy to its work.

He was secretary for several years and six years ago was elected president.

"Through his leadership, the society has advanced and prospered," Mr. Grady concluded.

Mr. Rodger leaves next week for a trip to Scotland.

Child's Eye May Be Saved; One Removed

EDMONTON, May 16. (CP) — Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone said Tuesday his two-year-old daughter, Moira, now has a "50-percent chance of survival" and partial vision in one eye.

The commander of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, said the eye will be treated by radiation. Moira's other eye was removed last Thursday because of cancer.

The colonel, who flew home from Korea at the week-end, said the radiation treatment now planned likely will take 3½ or four months, if Moira lives.

He said his possible return to Korea "won't be discussed now."

Reds Renew

Action Stepped Up

Skirmishing stepped up on the western front, too, with several sharp clashes about 17 miles north of Seoul. The Reds turned anti-tank guns on one armored American reconnaissance patrol.

"It looks as if they are just about ready and will be on their way down to us pretty soon," one officer said.

Randolph reported all signs seemed to point to the final moves before a typical Chinese offensive.

Fighting early Wednesday was heavier than the customary patrol actions, but none of it reached battle size.

Bugle-blowing, whistle-tooting Chinese struck at 1:30 a.m. east of Chunchon. UN troops withdrew under the grenade-throwing attack supported by automatic-rifle fire.

After the UN withdrawal, big American guns opened up, inflicting heavy casualties on the Reds.

Driven Out

The Reds penetrated Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, but were driven out.

Communists also used artillery heavily in the eastern sector, supporting an unsuccessful attack east of Inje. Heavy use of artillery is customary before a Communist offensive.

Randolph reported both Allied officers and recently-captured Reds disagreeing as to when the big assault would come. Guesses ranged from between now and Monday to early June.

Monday night will bring a full moon, favorite time for Chinese offensives.

Randolph said indications were that the Reds would strike all along the 100-mile front with their heaviest blow down central Korea's Pukhan River valley through Chunchon.

Hospital Employees Ask For Certification

Branch 19, National Organization of Civic, Utility and Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL), has applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board to be the certified bargaining agent for about 120 Civic hospital employees.

The union claims to represent at least 90 of the bargaining unit.

Last Friday the membership decided to take this action and application was made Tuesday on their behalf by T. F. Stevenson, national secretary-treasurer.

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) is championing the attempt to the union to get a contract with the Civic hospital Board of Governors.

Hospital employees, unlike industrial workers, can be declared outside the provisions of the Ontario Labor Relations Act if the Board decides to pass a bylaw.

Minister Of Health Visits City Hospitals

Hon. McKinnon Phillips, M.D., Ontario's new Minister of Health, visited Peterborough's two hospitals Tuesday. He was accompanied by Hon. H. R. Scott, some of the members of the council, and Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH.

The minister was reported greatly impressed by the hospital accommodation Peterborough has developed, not only in its modern facilities, but also in its apparent sufficiency for the present needs of the city and district. It was just an informal visit, but Hon. Mr. Phillips spent considerable time at each hospital, and stayed for tea at Civic which was second on his list.

TO HOT!

Crime took a holiday during the fine weather in Peterborough. No accidents were reported to city police Tuesday and Wednesday morning and neither provincial nor city police arrested anyone. Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, quickly disposed of two old cases. One joyriding charge against a youth was dismissed when no evidence was offered and a reckless driving charge was adjourned to June 4. Then he knocked off.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Jim Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, and his assistant, D. W. Kingdon, are attending the regional conference of the local Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce being held at Trenton today. Mr. Fraser is co-chairman of the afternoon's question box session. Attending from this district will be representatives from Lindsay, Omemee, Lakefield, Norwood, Hastings, Marmora and the Rice Lake Tourist Operators' Association.

Pat Patrols Probing Enemy Lines

Editor's Note: The following account by Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent with the Princess Patricias, of a patrol into enemy territory in Korea has just been released by censorship. The dispatch sharply censored, reports a sortie of a week ago. Boss is not permitted to identify the unit or to name individuals.

By BILL BOSS

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, May 9 (delayed)—(CP)—Tanks again today drove far into territory that nominally is Chinese-held.

The force included Patton tanks, artillery and mortars.

"We certainly pack a lot of fire power," said the force commander as his bristling convoy sallied forth from base positions early today.

Though the force bit deep into the enemy's area, as did similar patrols working forward elsewhere on the United Nations front, and took up more commanding positions and held them longer than heretofore has been the case, the sortie today developed into little more than picnicking the hard way in a risky area.

It was an eerie experience being perched astride a gun on the command tank leading the force penetrating a familiar countryside which a fortnight ago bustled with military traffic and now was altogether silent.

Only once in a while did the force pass a peasant family still tilling the fields, its children dashing to the roadside to hail returning United Nations troops.

Best Kind of War

One soldier marching alongside commented: "This is a better way of going to war." He did not know that the commander had assigned his platoon the longest march up the highest mountain—2,000 feet —before occupying the day's position.

Many young soldiers in the platoon had their first sight of enemy dead as they made their way to the foot of the mountain. They passed 35 Chinese felled along the roadside, apparently by an air strike.

In weather the hottest it has been for days, it was a long climb for troops who had been operating at lower altitudes for the last few days. Only at the top when another platoon, below and to the west, reported hearing Chinese commands over its walkie-talkie.

Indeed, it was only minutes later that another patrol operating to the west struck the enemy and a brisk fight developed.

It was an all-around relief when the commander agreed to a suggestion that the platoon take a short cut down the mountain to meet the transport on the road and be carried back to the tank harbor.

Again astride the gun of a tank, whose even speed and beautiful suspension rode the bumps "like a limousine," as one man observed, it was like a train ride home to re-enter the defence perimeter —and swim off the accumulated dust in the nearby river.

Men Volunteer As Tradesmen

More than 25 per cent of the 44 district men who have volunteered for Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade are tradesmen, Capt. Frank Frape, recruiting officer, said today. This response is "very good."

So far after a week's recruiting three clerks, eight drivers, an armament mechanic and a business machine mechanic have been sent to Kingston for the brigade. During this drive the army is taking men who are tradesmen up to 45 years.

Today Capt. Frape arranged for seven more recruits to be sent to No. 5 personnel depot, Kingston, to bring the total to date to 44. These men were: P. F. Lowes, 1013 High St.; F. J. Crowe, 727 Young St.; H. V. Lackie, 668 Stormont St.; Stanley N. Hager, Hastings; R. P. Robinson, 309 Louis St.; W. S. Johnston, 380 Dobbin Ave. and P. F. Demontigny.

R. P. Robinson is the third member of the 50th HAA Regiment to volunteer for the brigade. Previous recruits were Charles Bowen and Donald Edwards. Lieut. Demontigny is being sent to Kingston for further interviewing. He is the first from the 28th Technical Squadron (RF), RCEME, to be recruited and is now attached to the reserve unit from the Royal Infantry Corps.

The Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment is attracting most of the recruits who are allowed to make their choice of the units being recruited for the brigade.

Prices Edge Higher In Quiet Trading

TORONTO, May 16 (CP). — Prices edged slightly higher in extremely quiet trading as the session progressed on the Stock Market today.

In industrials papers and liquors showed a majority of gains. Steels, constructions, banks and refining oils were lower and the rest of the board was about evenly balanced. Price changes were mostly in small fractions and many issues were unchanged.

Base metals tended a little higher as most leaders added fractions. United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Consolidated Smelters and Falconbridge were ahead. Hudson Bay was an exception as it bucked the trend for a $1.75 loss and Noranda was down ⅛.

Western oils were mixed.

Golds attracted little interest.

resignation and flight from the country was "part of a deal with the army" to keep the nationalist revolutionary movement, which Paz Estenssoro heads, out of power.)

The Junta's manifesto said "certain political quarters" had been trying to provoke anarchy in Bolivia and cause bloodshed. It did not say outright that the Communists were behind this, but declared that Communism was a danger to "order and human dignity." It indicated that a stroke against Communist plans was involved in the upheaval.

Family Help Saving Farms

TORONTO, May 16 — (CP).—Ontario dairy farmers have been forced to use unpaid family labor to continue operating, Roy Lick, secretary of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, told the Ontario Milk Control Board on Tuesday.

Mr. Lick was presenting the case for Owen Sound district milk producers seeking an increase from $4.12½ to $5.50 a hundredweight for milk sold to four dairies in the Georgian Bay city of 16,000. The retail price of milk sold by the dairies is 19 cents a quart.

The last increase granted milk producers in the Owen Sound area, in 1950, failed to cover existing production costs, Mr. Lick said. It now costs the farmer $5.12 a hundredweight to produce milk.

Producers sympathized with low-income groups in urban centres, he said, but "we strongly reject any argument that the question of raising our price should be decided on the basis of the lowest income group"

The hearing is continuing.

Telephone calls to the paper, which numbered in the thousands each week, were not for amusement purposes, Magistrate Hopkins said, but for illegal betting. He recalled that there were 1,099 calls in one day.

"People would find the scratch sheet useful in placing bets and it would be useful to bookies, too," he said.

Acquit Driver On 2 Counts

Charges of drunk driving and careless driving resulting from the same accident in which Vernon D. Ferguson, 651 Gilchrist St., crashed into a car parked in front of the home of the owner, Major Harry Everitt, of the Salvation Army, 565 Elm St., about three a.m. April 21 were dismissed in police court.

Constable William G. Scott and Robert Menzies testified that Ferguson was not at the scene of the accident when they arrived, but he walked to the scene three or four minutes later.

Both testified that Ferguson was drunk. Major Everitt said he thought Ferguson wasn't drunk. "I noticed him walking pretty straight," said the major.

Constable Scott said there were wheel marks on the road leading directly to Ferguson's car which indicated Ferguson had driven in a straight line about 250 feet veering from the north side to the south side into the parked car. There were no brake marks.

Harry Mather, garage operator, called as a witness for the prosecution, said he tested the brakes of the Ferguson car about a week ago and found that the front right wheel grabbed, pulling the car to the right.

George Moncrief, head mechanic for another garage, called by the accused, said he tested the car on the lot where it was impounded by police and found that at a slow speed the left front wheel grabbed, pulling the car to the left.

Ferguson said that as he was driving up the Elm St. hill, he turned out for two cars parked on the north side of the street about 100 feet from the Everitt car. As he was approaching the Everitt car, he touched his brakes and the left front wheel grabbed and pulled his car into the major's car.

A friend, James Roche, Elm St., whom Ferguson was driving home, corroborated Ferguson's evidence. Ferguson denied that he was drunk.

Constable Scott testified that cars on the north side of the street had been parked off the street.

Representing Ferguson, Gordon H. T. Farquharson argued that there had been no evidence of when the accident had happened. There had been only evidence as to when the constables investigated. He said that in a charge of drunk driving time was extremely important.

On the careless driving charge he argued that when Ferguson's front left brake grabbed it prevented him from turning out to avoid the parked car.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw argued that the marks on the road indicated the car had gone in a straight line and no brakes had been applied.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he would give Ferguson the benefit of the doubt.

Senate Inquiry

2. The Senators agreed to vote Thursday on whether to insist that Bradley tell them about his conference with the President.

Inviting Bradley to return this morning, Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.-Ga.) told him: "I don't know whether you will have a chance to testify or not."

Russell, presiding at the inquiry, evidently was referring to the possibility that Bradley's refusal to talk on that one point might touch off a long argument among members of the committees.

Before the argument broke out, Bradley had strongly advocated sticking to the administration policy of fighting a limited war in Korea. While he said no one will promise it will produce decisive results, he lined up with Defence Secretary Marshall in holding out hope that if the Communists are badly mauled they may agree to a negotiated peace.

Nearing End Of Search For Indian Bill

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP).—The Commons Monday neared the end of the road in a five-year search for a new bill of rights for Canada's 135,000 Indians.

It approved 110 of the 124 clauses in the new Indian Act, which had its beginnings in 1946 when a parliamentary committee opened study of means to give the red man more control over his own affairs.

Several committees and a half-dozen parliamentary sessions later—it opened final study of the remodelled Indian Act Tuesday. The legislation still has to go before the Senate, which participated in the earlier committee examinations.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) urged the establishment of a royal commission to investigate grievances of the Indians, many of whom, he said, felt that treaty promises made to them had not been carried out.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, felt that the legislation did nothing more than improve an unsatisfactory situation. Basic rights of the Indians should be protected and they should be given opportunities of full citizenship.

Plan Conference

Citizenship Minister Harris, sponsoring the legislation, said his department plans to call a conference of Indian representatives within the next two years to study the effects of the legislation.

The chamber voted down several amendments which opposition members suggested would improve the legislation.

The chamber also took the first step towards accepting two gifts left to Canada by former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who died July 22 last.

It gave first reading to bills providing for the administration of property bequeathed to the state by Mr. King. His Ottawa home, Laurier House, is to be made available to students for historical study and research, while his summer place, Kingsmere, will become a public park and wild life preserve and a summer home for prime ministers.

Stage Designs Seen At Festival

LONDON, Ont., May 16 (CP)—An exhibition of stage design by outstanding French artists gave Dominion Drama Festival enthusiasts a chance to talk shop today.

As casts of competing troupes pored over their lines, visitors here to see the show toured the exhibit sent to the festival by the French government.

One of the designers—Toronto-born Rodolfo Nicoletti—was on hand to offer his impression of what's doing in modern French theatre. The slim, dapper artist who served with the Royal Canadian Navy in the last war, is known best perhaps for his work in filming "Meet the Navy."

The exhibition is one of three displays at London Public Library, where the three-day Canada Theatre conference opened yesterday.

There also is an exhibition of Canadian theatre design. Among the pieces are models from four Western Ontario productions by Simcoe Little Theatre, St. Mary's Little Theatre, London Little Theatre and Woodstock Little Theatre.

The third exhibit is a collection prepared to illustrate the elements of stage design and lent by the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

Newspapermen May Withhold News Source

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Legislation to provide that newspapermen, magazine writers, radio and television men need not reveal in United States federal courts the source of their information was introduced in the House of Representatives Tuesday by Rep. Louis B. Heller (Dem., N.Y.).

His resolution provides an exception when in the opinion of the court the disclosure of information is necessary in the interests of national security or to avoid concealment of a crime.

Body Of Youth Found Drowned In Lake Erie

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 16 (AP)—The Coast Guard Tuesday night recovered the body of [redacted]-year-old Canadian, missing after an eight-foot boat capsized in Lake Erie.

The Coast Guard said the body of William Biggins, 18, of Fort Erie, Ont., was recovered near the Buffalo harbor.

Biggins and Herb Plato, 42, also of Fort Erie, had set out from Windmill Point, Ont. The capsized aluminum craft and oars were found off Rose Hill, Ont.

The search for Plato will be resumed today.

Cobourg Doctors Plan Housing Development

COBOURG, May 16—(ENS)—Housing construction is on the march again in Cobourg. Several new dwellings are in the process of being built and two doctors have requested council for permission to open up two new streets to serve housing developments they are planning.

Dr. W. E. Wilkins has furnished the town council with particulars of his housing plans for which he requires a street to serve building lots which he has drawn up. His property is located at the north end of the town on Elgin and D'Arcy streets. Dr. A. R. Richards has asked the council for permission to build a street to serve building lots on King St. east. Dr. Richards offered to turn the street over to the town at a later date.

RCAF Girl Recruits To Don New Uniforms

OTTAWA, May 16. (CP)—A brass band and a backdrop of a modified North Star aircraft against the blue Gatineau Hills Tuesday ushered in one segment of the re-entry of women into the armed forces—the clothes.

The Air Force, soon to announce terms and conditions for its "Wids" erected a dais in the middle of Rockcliffe Airport and held a fashion show.

Professional models pirouted across the raised platform, displaying an array of wardrobe more streamlined, varied and practical than used by the women's division of the Second World War.

Chief attractions, from the purely feminine viewpoint, seemed to be nylon stockings, khaki slacks and—naturally—a new hat. The blue hat is a modified wedge cap adorned with a gold eagle.

Report 64 Cases

COBOURG, May 16—(ENS)—Sixty-four new cases of communicable disease were recorded by the Northumberland and Durham counties health unit for the week ending May 12. Red measles led the list with 33 new cases of which 21 were in Port Hope. [redacted] cases of German measles were recorded in scattered parts of the two counties. Three cases of chickenpox, five of mumps and two of scarlet fever completed the list.

Manpower And Recruiting

Allocation of manpower and methods of recruiting for the armed services are two issues which have been the basis of considerable criticism aimed at the Federal Government. The great bulk of this criticism has been from Opposition circles, as was to be expected. These issues are vitally important in the present national defence situation, and the Opposition is discharging its duty to the nation by criticising whenever it considers criticism justified. Yet latest reports on the manpower and recruiting situations generally leads to the conclusion that both are being dealt with adequately at the moment.

* * *

There have been no reports from industry of genuine emergencies created by poor distribution of manpower. It is true that there have been minor instances of dislocation and poor placement which might have been averted by rigid allocation of manpower, but Canadian opinion generally, we think, regards such allocation as a full-scale-war measure. At present, public opinion appears content to await the submission of the Federal advisory committee on manpower, a non-political body expected to report in the near future. After that report has been received and considered, a framework may be set up for the guidance and placement of manpower throughout the Dominion.

* * *

In the matter of recruiting, there was considerable criticism when the Canadian Army found it necessary to discharge from ten to fifteen per cent. of the men recruited for service in the Special Force for Korea. Under the dual spur of emergency and Opposition criticism that the Force had been hastily recruited it was not surprising that there should be rejections later. If anything, the surprising feature was that the rejection rate was as low as it was. And the Army apparently is determined to make sure there will be even fewer rejections following the recruiting for the new 27th Brigade currently in progress.

* * *

The rate of recruiting for the new brigade is well behind that for the special Force at a comparable period from the beginning of both recruiting campaigns. This is said to be largely due to the Army's own policy of making haste slowly, and it may be significant that while the number of recruits is some 650 fewer at this point in the present campaign than in its predecessor, the number of applicants still "in process" is some 1,500 greater. By the time decision is reached on these applications still under consideration, the recruit totals may be more nearly in balance than they now are. A satisfactory feature of April recruiting, incidentally was the fact that more men went into the RCAF during that month than into the army and navy combined. Since it has been decided that Canada's major contribution to western defence should be made through air power, the division of recruits should help further that policy.

* * *

It should not be forgotton, however, that the present manpower situation may be radically changed in the near future, or that the present system of recruiting may prove inadequate. For that matter the current recruiting campaign itself may show the system inadequate to meet the requirements of the armed services. If either of these changes take place, re-examination of the entire manpower and recruiting situation will obviously become imperative.

Is The Press Sensational?

At a recent meeting of the Anglican Synod of Montreal there was some criticism of the press for its sensationalism, and what the assembly believed to be its failure to present the news of the day in a manner most likely to elevate newspaper readers.

Such criticism is not uncommon, and no honest newspaperman would assert that the press does make a continuous, daily effort to uplift those who read it. It has been the experience of newspaper publishers that papers published with the express purpose of uplifting the public suffer a loss of public support; we could name several which have ceased publication because of a complex of ailments, among which a relentlessly uplifting spirit was prominent. We know of only one paper which subordinates all other interests to the advancement of a specifically religious point of view, and that is the Christian Science Monitor; the continued existence of that paper is made possible by heavy subsidies which other papers do not enjoy. We assert, however, that there are many newspapers which are founded upon the highest principles which are compatible with a notably difficult business; the publishers of these papers will feel no shame as a result of the criticism of the Montreal Synod because they know certain things about the newspaper business which the Synod does not know.

They know, for instance, that during the last fifty years the general tone of newspapers has been improved out of all recognition. Slanderous attacks upon politicians, the publication of veiled libellous matter concerning private citizens, the publications of disingenuous advertisements—these are things of the past. The accuracy of news, and the quality of comment upon the news are vastly improved. The venality of the press, which was of staggering proportions in the days when every newspaper was a political propaganda organ, disappeared when newspapers divorced themselves from unfailing party allegiance. Anyone who questions these claims may verify them by an hour's research among the newspaper files of any good library.

As for sensationalism, it is a commodity in which few papers care to deal, but in a discussion as to what treatment of news is sensational and what is not, the clergy and professional newspaper men may well hold different opinions. But we ask those of our readers who can do so to cast their minds back a quarter of a century, and recall the newspaper treatment of the famous "Peaches Browning" case, and then compare it with the newspaper accounts of the present divergence of opinion between Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan; is there not a difference? Newspapers rarely seek to be sensational; but unlike certain other agencies of opinion, they cannot be dull without also going out of business.

In closing we call attention to the fact that the Montreal Synod is itself under criticism at present because it has refused to permit women to appear as lay delegates at its meetings. This criticism, however, has not come from the press, which has refrained from comment upon this somewhat sensational adherence to an ancient bias.

Overweening Presumption

The American magazine Time publishes without comment a letter from a reader in California. It runs as follows:

Sir:

Re the French-German agreements: I wish to present an amazingly simple solution to end the agelong rivalry and bloodshed between these two nations:

A law that French men must marry German women and German men must wed French women. The possibilities and implications for world peace in this plan are unlimited.

Unless it is intended as a joke, of which we see no sign, it would surely be very hard to match this letter for its combined ignorance, arrogance and impertinence. We do not suggest that it is the considered opinion of all Americans, nor do we suggest that all Americans are unbearably arrogant. We know them too well for that. Other nations have also been subject to unjustified feelings of superiority, but at the present moment Americans are somewhat apt to set themselves up as the chosen people and look upon the rest of the world as being peopled with inferior beings with inferior rights. What would be the reaction of Americans if a scheme to marry American men to Russian women and Russian men to American women were mooted? While they are about it, why should there not be compulsory marriages between whites and negroes in the States as a solution to the racial problem? If Americans wish to treat human beings as counters in other countries they should set an example by applying the same principles at home.

The United States has in a comparatively short space of time reached preeminence in world affairs. Her wealth and power are greater than anything that has been known before. She holds, though not alone, the dread atom bomb. She can bring relief to stricken countries and scarcely notice the effort. Her life and institutions are studied and copied assiduously all over the world. This phenomenal rise to power has brought with it grave dangers and responsibilities. America needs badly a feeling of humility and dedication. She is riding on the crest of the wave, but if she rides over the feelings of nations she is asking for trouble. While we do not sympathize with "Bevanism" and its many parallel manifestations on the continent of Europe it is probable that they are fostered by American arrogance of the sort displayed in the letter which we have quoted.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Tyrone Power says English girls have the nicest legs; they stand a lot without weakening.

President Truman has been awarded the Gold Medal of the Mozart Town of Salzburg, Austria. Could this be on account of his daughter's singing?

Ian Hamilton, who stole the Stone of Scone, complains that he was charged 3/6d (53 cents) for a miserable breakfast. It couldn't have happened here; he would not have got off so cheaply.

ON THE MARGIN

A Remarkable Autobiography

AUTOBIOGRAPHY, and SECOND INNINGS, by Neville Cardus (Collins).

THESE two volumes comprise the autobiography of Neville Cardus, a writer little known in Canada, but none the less worthy of note for that. Discriminating Canadians will be wise to make his acquaintance through these books as quickly as possible, for this is the best autobiography that has come into the hands of this reader in several years. It is that rare thing, an exercise in self-revelation by a man who really knows how to write.

Autobiographies are of several sorts. There are simple narratives, written by simple people who have done interesting things; these are often first-rate. Then there are works of self-justification, which are not so good, and books of self-praise, which are intolerable. There are restrained records of a life, like those of Edmund Gosse and Logan Pearsall Smith; there are factual and honest accounts, like that of Anthony Trollope; there are works of art, like the autobiography of Sir Osbert Sitwell; and there are attempts at complete candour, like Wells' "Experiment in Autobiography." But Neville Cardus has not sworn to tell us all about himself (we learn nothing about his wife, even her name); he has decided to make a work of art but not to enrich it with much ornament; he has determined to be frank and yet he is never frank at the expense of anybody else. In short, his book is his own, and leaves the reader with the impression that he has spent several hours in the company of a remarkable man.

Neville Cardus has been for the greater part of his life a writer on the Manchester Guardian; he combines the tasks of critic of music and critic of cricket. His knowledge of music is broad and deep, but its roots are firmly in the soil of the late nineteenth century, and sometimes a lack of sympathy is apparent in what he writes about modern composers. His knowledge of cricket is also broad and deep, but he is not a cricket fanatic. He looks upon the game as an art, and refuses to be meanly partisan. It is interesting, even for those who know and care nothing for cricket, to read his descriptions of the giants of that game. They want to win, it appears, just as much as the most raucous partisans in baseball, and grieve and complain just as much when they lose—but they do not make these feelings known to the public. Cardus makes it clear to us that cricket is a way of life—and a passionate way of life. Anybody who really thinks cricket is a bloodless game and a sacrifice to the god of Good Form, should read these books; they will be surprised to learn the truth.

Cardus [illegible] many handicaps. His family were very poor, and cannot even be described as "poor but honest," for his mother and his aunt were prostitutes, and his grandparents dreary failures with feeble pretensions to morality. He was an illegitimate child, almost wholly neglected. Let those who talk of the influence of environment upon a child look inside these covers; young Cardus lived in a home which should, by rights, have turned him into a juvenile delinquent. But instead it turned him into a very bookish boy, who scorned school as soon as he could read, and spent all his time gathering knowledge in the public libraries of Manchester. Although unathletic by temperament and physique, and seriously short-sighted, he was handy with a cricket ball, and it was as a cricketer that he made his first step toward a better life, when he got a job as professional coach at Shrewsbury School. It was not long until chance threw him into the job of secretary to the headmaster, the Rev. Cyril Alington, who later became headmaster of Eton; it was Alington who showed young Cardus that knowing a lot is not enough in itself; one must bear one's learning with a certain gentlemanly restraint. After Shrewsbury he was able to get on the Guardian, then, as now, one of the greatest newspapers in the world, and utterly dominated by the editor, C. P. Scott.

Cardus was quite content to be a Guardian man. And, to a journalist, what could be a better fate? In time his two specialties, cricket and music, fell under his direct command, and there he stayed, chronicling great cricket and great music until the outbreak of the last war, when cricket and music virtually ceased, and he went to Melbourne to serve in the same critical capacity there.

IT is not his description of the external happenings of his life which makes Cardus' autobiography so well worth reading; his is not the kind of success story which is remarkable because the hero begins with nothing and ends with a million. Cardus has never been a wealthy or directly powerful and influential man. But he has been influential as a critic and as a writer, and his life has been a great and significant adventure. He began at the very bottom of society; he might have been a rascal, a criminal; he might have become a financial success and a spiritual failure. But instead he has become a very wise, very learned man. What better thing can a man become, unless it lies in his power to be a great creator or a great saint?

It is this adventure into learning and wisdom which has given shape and significance to the life of Neville Cardus, and which makes his autobiography a wonderful book. It is of deep significance also that this man's experience has given him no sympathy with the modern trend toward general education. He says: "I have stored my mind and heart with good things; if I live another fifty years there will not be enough time to explore and savour to the full this harvest. Such harvests need to be jealously preserved, and we should offer constant thanksgiving for them. I don't believe in the contemporary idea of taking the arts to the people; let them seek and work for them." This is wisdom; for the arts do not reveal themselves to those who have been flogged or coaxed to kneel before their altars; they may be seen only by those who have fitted themselves for the revelation and the glory.

Let me repeat, this is a remarkable autobiography, in which a truly remarkable man reveals himself, not in utter nakedness, but only so far as he believes himself to be of interest. Such books are rare and in the words of a notable critic—"when found, make a note of."

KNOWS THE ANSWER

The benevolent old man was trying to instil the spirit of ambition into an obviously unenthusiastic office boy.

"My boy," he said, "do you know the secret of success in life?"

"No, I don't," the lad replied. "But I'll bet there is a catch in it. I'll lay you a hundred to eight it's something to do with hard work."

BILL AND THE BULL

New Cheese Contract With Britain

From TORONTO TELEGRAM

THE cheese contract negotiated by the Ontario producers' marketing board with the British Food Ministry at a figure seven cents per pound higher than was received last year on the British contract is likely to exert a beneficial effect on the price of all milk sold off the farms, for there is a direct relationship between cheese and butter prices. Because more milk is required in the production of a pound of butter than a pound of cheese the price ratio is customarily two to one. Consequently with the rise in the contract price for cheese it is likely the farmers will receive increased prices for butter.

Ontario is the foremost cheese producer in the country, though it takes second place to Quebec in butter production. It is said there are 450 cheese factories operating in Ontario, most of them owned co-operatively by the farmers who deliver milk to them. The Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board which has made the new contract with the British is, therefore, the agency of the farmers. This is the first occasion that a producers' organization in this province has made a commercial deal with the British Food Ministry, all previous cheese contracts having been negotiated by the federal Department of Agriculture with the buying organization in the Old Country.

The manner in which the United Kingdom buys its foodstuffs is a matter for the British to settle themselves, but so far as Canada is concerned it is preferable that the arranging of contracts and the settling of prices should be done by the producers individually or through their own marketing agency, rather than through a government department or a state-appointed agency. If the Wheat Board had been purely a producers' agency, and not a government-appointed board, it is unlikely that the loosely - drawn British wheat contract would have been made in the terms it was. Certainly the public treasury could not have been called on to pay $65,000,000 to the wheat producers. The fact that the wheat contract was made by Agriculture Minister Gardiner on behalf of the Wheat Board brought the Government into the deal, likewise the federal treasury.

Every Barn A Station

(Hamilton Spectator)

Donald Gordon, head of the nation's giant publicly owned railway system, finds highway competition a number one headache, but he does not believe in any attempts to "stifle" the opposition.

He thinks the railways should tackle the problem constructively by improving their service and reaching a suitable arrangement with highway operators.

This is an old dispute and it's going to be with us a long time. Whatever evolves, it is doubtful if the public appreciates the vast growth of truck transportation. Not long ago the picture was graphically presented in Hamilton by G. M. Parke, president of the Automative Transport Association of Ontario.

In Canada, in 1915, there were only 533 trucks. By 1949 there were over half a million. Today people engaged in the driving and maintenance of Canada's trucks are only second to agriculture as the largest employers in Canada. It is estimated that last year 650,000 people (three times the number employed by Canadian railways) secured their bread and butter from the driving and maintenance of Canada's fleet of trucks. The investment in equipment and warehouses was in excess of $700,000,000. Over 70,000 people are employed in the production of trucks, tires, parts and petroleum products.

The extent to which trucks serve our agricultural needs is clearly shown by the following:

Close to 100 per cent. of the milk consumed by Canada's largest cities is transported direct from farms to dairies by trucks. Of the 3,000,000 head of livestock received at Ontario's packing plants and stock yards, close to 2,000,000, or two out of three, arrive by truck. Some 90 per cent. of Ontario's fruits and vegetables move to market by truck.

A prominent agriculturist was not exaggerating when he remarked that today "every barn has become a railway station."

Cultivating Forest To Help Trees Grow

(Saskatchewan News)

Cultivating the forest to make trees grow is the basis of an unusual experiment being conducted in northern Saskatchewan this spring by the department of natural resources.

Ordinarily, brush from logging operations is scattered over the ground as the trees are felled, but last winter, in a 100-acre stand of jackpine in Nisbet forest near Prince Albert, logging operators piled the brush. This spring, the ground in between the stumps and standing trees will be scarified or cultivated with a specially designed forestry plow and then the brush will be scattered over the area.

Normally seeds are retained in jackpine cones for six or eight years, and when they do drop most fail to germinate because they fall on a dry carpet of needles and forest litter, but cultivation of the forest floor is expected to ensure greater and more rapid germination. Cost is estimated at between three and five dollars an acre, but forestry offcials point out that, if successful, this will be a cheap price for regeneration of cut-over areas. It will be several years before the real value of the experiment here can be assessed, but similar experiments in the eastern United States have been successful.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his lovingkindnesses. For he said, Surely they are my people, children that will not lie: so he was their Saviour....

Look down from heaven, and behold from the habitation of thy holiness and of thy glory....Doubtless thou art our father, though Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledge us not: thou, O Lord, art our father, our redeemer; thy name is from everlasting. (Isa. 63: 7, 8, 15, 16.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands....

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 100: 1, 3.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures. (James 1: 17, 18.)

For Egg-Sample

[illegible] Record)

When you hear a rooster crowing these days and he skips a note or two you can be sure he has heard about that arrival of a shipment of eggs from Holland. Even the stevedores who witnessed the unloading of hundreds of cases of eggs at Montreal are reported to have blinked their eyes as they likened it to bringing coals to Newcastle.

Still, the importation of eggs from Holland is no more unusual than bringing in New Zealand butter or ice from our neighbour to the south. The "trade" winds perform strange antics when things are topsy-turvy.

An importer says it is cheaper to bring the eggs into Canada from Holland than to purchase the domestic variety. And it takes only 10 days for delivery to be made.

It's a case of a foreign product being able to undersell our own. That's it eggsactly.

Tattooed Love On Wane

(New York Times)

George Burchett, a tattoo artist in London, inked the names of United States soldiers on the arms of British women during World War II. Today he is kept busy removing the names and, in some cases, substituting the names of new lovers.

A tattoed chest is no longer the boast of men alone, Mr. Burchett adds, according to the London Daily Mail. In his records is the name of a peer's wife who asked to have a snake tattoed on her chest. In another case, a woman had a serpent tattoed on her ankle. She wanted it to show through her nylons.

Scottish City Aids French Museum

(UNESCO Features)

The port of Brest in Western France, seriously damaged during the war, is being helped in its reconstruction and recovery efforts by the City of Glasgow in Scotland, which "adopted" it after France's liberation. Recently, for instance, Glasgow decided to assist Brest's museum which had been completely destroyed. The City's Art Gallery Committee and its municipal museum officials assembled a large collection of works of art and examples of Scottish handicrafts and presented it to the new Brest museum.

Two Unknowns Favored To Win In Preakness

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, May 16 (AP).—Two modest racing stables with comparatively-unknown trainers are in the threshold of possibly knocking each other out of fame and fortune in the $75,000 Preakness.

Crossing each other in Saturday's big Pimlico race will be Hampton stable's Alerted and Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repertoire.

The two are just as likely to be favorites come Saturday as any other entries. Which points up not only the wide-open aspect of the 75th Preakness but the whole three-year-old situation as well.

Neither Alerted nor Repertoire was thought well enough of at birth to be nominated for $10 by their owners. But they later were sold and their new masters made them supplementary eligibles for $2,250.

Repertoire and Alerted are by far the best colts ever owned by Frank Stout of Malden, Mass., and Mrs. Mikell of Dover, Del. Repertoire is only the fifth horse owned by Mrs. Mikell, while Stout has been in the turf sport only three years.

Stout bought Alerted last Sept. 18 at Belmont for $10,000 from Calumet Farm, which failed to come up with a Preakness horse this year. Stout acted on the advice of Jimmy Penrod, who was promptly hired as trainer. Penrod, 42-year-old former steeplechase rider, has virtually lived with Alerted ever since.

Repertoire was purchased by Mrs. Mikell for $4,000 at the Saratoga yearling sales. His trainer, 45-year-old Al Jensen from Denmark, used to train show horses and, like Penrod, does everything but brush Repertoire's teeth.

A friendly feud has grown up between the two outfits after three meetings this spring in which Repertoire twice beat Alerted by a head and once by 5½ lengths.

"We're going to catch him one of these days," declares Penrod, and without trying to hide it, thinks it should happen Saturday.

Alerted took the measure of two of the other Preakness probables, Brookmeade's Bold and King Ranch's Sonic, in Monday's prep. Repertoire has been resting here since being 12th in the Kentucky Derby. Six of the Preakness probables are on deck, Greentree's Big Stretch and Hall of Fame pulling in yesterday. Three more are expected to be put into the entry box Friday.

St. James YPU Wins

In the first game of the Peterborough Presbytery YPU in which teams are mixed with at least four girls on each squad—one girl doing the pitching—St. James YPU beat Mark St. 20-8. They had 27 to 13 hits. June Northey pitched for St. James after Daphne Northey was hurt in a collision early. Peggy Noyes tossed for the losers. The league is in three sections, Eastern of Havelock and Hastings; Northern of Bridgenorth, Fairview and Lakefield; and City of St. Andrews, St. James, Mark St., Knox and George St. Teams:

St. James: R. Brown, A. Dolman, S. Wood, R. Pullyblank, B. Piercy, R. Davis, D. Northey, O. Clarke, T. Chapman, W. Piercy, J. Northey, W. Cunningham.

Mark St.: F. White, C. Noyes, J. McNeely, E. Gandy, A. Howson, M. Pomeroy, J. Cooper, P. Noyes, W. Wakeford.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

No professional wrestling bouts here next week, nor indeed until about next October. Last week wound up the mat season in these parts, though the merry grapplers of moneyed ranks will perform in various other centres through the summer. Apart from a couple of weeks vacation when Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens are closed down for renovating and house-cleaning. Belleville, Kingston and Oshawa are cities in Central Ontario which have mat shows only in the spring, summer and first half of the fall—their arenas being in hockey use the rest of the year. Peterborough is strictly a winter wrestling town, the fans preferring to go outdoors for their sports in the warm weather.

* * * * * *

Petes' senior ball club is shaking down this week in preparation for the opening game in Toronto on Saturday. Petes play Staffords at four in Millen Stadium, following a game between Kingsway Lumber and Oshawa Merchants. Manager Ed Whitehill still isn't saying much about his starting lineup, but then ball skippers are always coy right up to the last minute. They don't want a list published and then find several changes are necessary. He is pretty well set as far as a battery is concerned, and isn't worrying too much about his outfield, but he hasn't settled definitely on the infield as yet. However, we'll know more about that soon.

* * * * * *

Lacrosse In Belleville?

A clip from Belleville indicates some lacrosse interest down that way. John Pickard and Wally Bent—former local resident and last year puck coach of the Quinte Redmen—would like to revive the gutted-stick game in Bella Villa in intermediate company. The item adds: "It has been intimated that the Peterborough OLA squad might send players here to bolster a Belleville team." It's a thought for the overflow of intermediate or senior talent here, and Bent may be reached at the YMCA in that city. We well recall when Belleville and the Petes used to meet in boxla battles, when aces like Ira Dundas, Doug Miller, Pete King, Buster Whitton, Red Creighton and a bunch more wore lacrosse livery for the Liftlock crew.

* * * * * *

Hamilton Tigers have a number of last year's OLA-ers back, including playing coach Jack Gair and his assistant, big Merv McKenzie. Also Doyle, Dorney, Edmunds, Grainger, Love, Lee, Masters, Goalie Doug Favell and others, plus several newcomers from that district, boys stepping up from junior and intermediate ranks. No telling how good the Tigers are till they've been seen in actual combat, and we'll see them in the league opener here this Friday p.m. as they oppose Don Crowe's bolstered Petes. Given decent weather, that one should really draw the customers.

* * * * * *

Committee Room Stuff

Senior lacrosse committee has held up Ralph Speck—goalie here last year—from going to Fergus. He had previously planned to play for Owen Sound, but that club folded. Mimico lost out on Red Hartley, Pop Chard, Zip Venner, Hal Downer and Frank Allwell of Weston, and they must play for the strong Weston-Toronto Combines. St. Kitts kicked about Wipper and Don O'Hearn coming here and Leo Teatro being approached by the Torontos. Ike Hildebrand can't play for the Petes until he gets a release from the British Columbia lacrosse association, but that should be forthcoming. Coaches this year are: Brampton, Jerry Kendall; Mimico, Art Harrison; Hamilton, Jack Gair; Toronto, Jack Camplin; St. Catharines, Joe Cheevers; Fergus, Tank Teather; and Petes, Don Crowe.

* * * * * *

Final organization meeting of the Civic Softball League has been called by President Dennis Traynor at the bus barns on Tuesday next to close entries. Teams expected in are: Bell Telephon, Bus Drivers, Firemen, Foresters, Kesco, PLC, Police, Utilities and maybe a few more. Playing fields are Ashburnham Park the first four nights each week, and Morrow Park on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Umpires are being lined up and a large and lively season is expected. Most of the clubs have been busy bolstering in recent weeks. Bell Telephone are the present title-holders.

Learn Golf From The Stars

Woods Easier Than Irons So Game Should Be Better

By SAM SNEAD

Correct mental attitude on wood shots is necessary to a successful game.

This applies especially to woods used on the fairways, as most golfers have reconciled themselves to woods off the tee.

Actually, woods are easier to use than irons. For one thing, they generally are used off the tee or from good lies in the fairway.

A good wood has a wide, flat sole designed to right the club to some extent if it is swung too deeply into the turf. There is no such sole on irons. Hence, with the right mental disposition, your wood game should be up to, if not excel, your iron game.

The ball should be left of centre. I like to play my drives off my left heel, with each of my other woods up to No. four moved slightly toward centre. I recommend a slightly closed stance, right foot back an inch.

Generally, when a golfer picks up a wood he has visions of hitting the ball a country mile. He tries by brute force in his swing. He forgets that each club is designed to break his back on a 250-yard drive.

Most professionals agree you get more distance out of woods when you are relaxed.

Always relax and swing easily. Balance throughout the entire swing is an important feature. Develop the swing gradually. Don't rush it. Practice for timing, smoothness and rhythm, which in turn will provide accuracy and, finally, distance.

Remember that your hands work as a team. When you start the swing, bring the club back with both hands—never with either hand alone.

Keep in mind that you are swinging the club. Don't lift it or you may lose some of your precious balance.

HARMON-IZING — Claude Harmon demonstrates the proper stance for wood shots, slightly closed with ball off the left foot, hands working as a team, head down.

Giants Extend Win Streak, Belt Royals 5-2

By The Associated Press

Ottawa Giants, newest entry in the International League, are right in the thick of the pennant scrap today. The Giants got off to a poor start, but are moving at a fast pace at the moment with six victories in their last seven starts.

George Bamberger, down from the parent New York Giants, pitched the Giants into a second-place tie with Syracuse Chiefs last night.

Bamberger turned back the league-leading Montreal Royals 5-2, while the Chiefs suffered a 2-0 setback at the hands of Baltimore Orioles.

Score In Second

The Giants scored all of their runs in the second inning on four hits, two walks and an error. Bamberger allowed only four hits and held Montreal hitless after the third inning.

Steve Ridzik blanked Syracuse on four hits. The Orioles collected only four hits, but two Syracuse errors allowed them to score two unearned runs.

Springfield Cubs ended Rochester's seven - game winning streak by trouncing the Red Wings 12-2. Frank Lamanna scattered eight Rochester hits. Lamanna aided his own cause with a three-run homer in the second inning. Fred Richards also homered for the Cubs and Charley Kress whacked one for Rochester.

Leafs Humbled

Buffalo smeared Toronto Maple Leafs 16-3. The Bisons pounded out 23 hits, including home runs by George Moskovich and Frank Carswell. Rookie Tom Acker and Al Carrasquel checked Toronto on five blows, including home runs by Charley Grant and Lew Morton.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Just so that bowlers will know what is going on, today we will deal with the open tournaments scheduled for this district for the coming season. The first tournament is set for Lindsay June 13 and the list runs through till October 6 at Whitby

There are 44 tournaments in all—rinks, doubles, trebles, mixed doubles and mixed trebles. As for this club, there will be four open events. We always lead off with the Stratton Trophy, men's rinks. It is set for June 27. This is probably the oldest lawn bowling trophy that is competed for.

Then on July 11 we have the big Lift Lock Gold Trophy, men's doubles. This tournament is now recognized as the largest and best of its kind in Ontario. Last year the entry was over-subscribed, and chairman Robert Gamble says that he has already received many entries.

The Black Memorial Trophy, mixed doubles, will be played for on August 29, and it is now classed as the outstanding event of its kind in the province. Last season this event was also over-subscribed and William W. Jeffries, chairman of this tournament, says that he is receiving entries right along. And then the last open tournamet is on September 13 for trebles.

So as far as open tournaments are concerned, one can take his choice. There are lots of them, and a big variety.

PS—This does not include the ladies' tournaments. We have no information from them as yet.

Williams Bangs 300th Homer Against Chicago

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ted Williams cracked his 300th home run. Only nine others had accomplished that feat.

Ewell Blackwell and Vern Bickford hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that produced only three hits. Only twice before in the last 50 years had there been games in which fewer hits were made.

Yet, these dazzling exploits were forced to take a back seat yesterday to a bizarre stunt pulled by rookie Manager Paul Rapier Richards of Chicago White Sox.

Shift Pitcher

With his team leading Boston Red Sox 7-6 and southpaw-swinging Williams leading off in the last half of the ninth, he replaced right-hander Harry Dorish with lefty Billy Pierce. But Dorish did not go to the bench. Instead, Richards benched third-baseman Orestes Minoso and moved pitcher Dorish there.

Pierce got Williams on a high pop fly to the shortstop behind second. Richards then returned Dorish to the mound, Pierce back to the bench and sent Floyd Baker to third.

The Red Sox got their tying run anyway, but the White Sox won in the 11th when Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer for a 9-7 victory. It was the first of Fox's big-league career. Williams' 300th homer and seventh of the season came in the fourth.

One-Hitter

In one of the tightest pitching battles ever waged, Blackwell threw a one-hitter as Cincinnati earned a 1-0 victory over Boston Braves. Vern Bickford, the loser, allowed only two hits. The two righthanders, shooting for their second big - league no - hitters, went into the fifth before Bob Elliott doubled off Blackwell for the first hit of the game.

Bickford surrendered his first hit in the sixth—a double by Connie Ryan. Cincinnati's second hit won the game. It was a home run by catcher John Pramesa in the seventh.

The victory moved the Reds out of the cellar into sixth place. Back again into the basement fell New York Giants, who dropped a 7-3 decision to Bill Werle and the Pirates in Pittsburgh. Two homers, good for five runs, featured the Pirates' 10-hit attack.

Brooklyn strengthened its first-place hold with an 8-4 victory over the Cubs in Chicago. Two homers by Gil Hodges, a grand-slammer by Duke Snider and another round-tripper by Jackie Robinson, accounted for all but one of Brooklyn's runs.

Phils Win

pinch single by Bill Nicholson with the bases loaded in the ninth gave Philadelphia Phils two runs and a 5-4 victory over the Cards in St. Louis. The win moved the Phils into a third-place tie with Pittsburgh.

Detroit handed Sandy Consuegra his first loss as the Tigers pounded out 14 hits for a 12-4 victory over Washington. Hal Newhouser spaced nine hits for his third win. Pat Mullin and Steve Souchock, who shared the left-field position, got five hits between them and batted in seven runs.

St. Louis Browns won a free-swinging battle from the Athletics in Philadelphia 11-8 as the two teams banged out three homers, three triples and three doubles. Gus Zernial hit two homers for the Atheltics for the second straight game. Don Lenhardt drove in five Brownie runs with three hits. Ned Carver was the winner.

The American league--leading New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians were not scheduled.

Graduation Cuts Queen's Squad

KINGSTON, May 16 (CP). — Graduation will cut sharply into the ranks of Queen's University football team this year.

The university stands to lose as many as 21 athletes, either through graduation or departure from Queen's.

The graduating army includes Hal McCarney, Pete Salari, Hank Simola, Doug Woolley, Rod Montrose, Bill Burgess, Murray Bulger, Moe Richardson, Bob Cole, Des Clements and Bobo Penner. Captain Jim Charters will be in his final year of medicine and probably will not participate in sport.

58-Mill Rate Set By Council

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16 — (ENS)— Campbellford will have a tax rate of 58 mills for public school supporters and 53 mills for separate school ratpayers it was decided at a special meeting of council held to strike the rate.

Councillor W. A. Kingston explained that the council's surplus from 1950 available for the reduction of the tax-rate was $7,400, and that on account of the close figuring on the estimates this amount should be left intact. The estimates, not including the use of the surplus, worked out to 59.5 mills for public school and 54.5 mills for separate school supporters.

The increase in the levy asked is $2,067 over last year. Increased grants estimated at $1,100 represent a total increase in revenue needed at $3,167. Increased expenses include salary increases of some $4,700 plus the purchase of all text books for the pupils of the schools, in addition to the cost of surfacing the playground. Thus, $6,400 of the cash surplus at the beginning of the year will be eaten up.

Dr. W. W. Baker, chairman, and Sid Hopping, vice-chairman of the Public School Board, were present and explained the budget demands of the board.

Councillor Macmillan favored reducing the tax-rate to at least last year's level. The following is the basis for the 1951 rate:

For public school supporters only: Public school trustees, 11.4 mills; public school debenture, 3.1 mills; total, 14.5 mills.

For separate school supporters only: Separate school trustees, 9.5 mills.

Rates common to all: County rate, 8.8 mills; public library, 1.5; relief, hospital, charity, 3.7; high school area board, 5.2; local improvement debentures, 2.4; Memorial Hospital debenture, 1.6; Wartime Housing debenture, 1.4; town rate, 18.9; total, 43.5 mills.

Hangman's Tree Sinister Scene

LILLOOET, B. C., —(CP) — Gaunt and sinister, a hangman's tree stands on a bluff overlooking this Fraser Valley town.

Just who was hanged there, and when, seems to be unknown but six unmarked graves at the foot of the twisted pine are a grim reminder of what may have been early Caribou justice, carried out when the town was a roaring mining camp.

The hills round Lillooet once were covered with bush, but when the miners came they cut it all down for firewood and building material except the lone pine. The tree has become a tourist attraction, but only in daylight. Not many take the lonely trail past the grim relic in the dark.

Standing in the spring sunshine the old pine keeps its history to itself.

$500 Engineer's Prize

KINGSTON, May 16 — (CP) — Gordon E. Baynham, of Prescott, recently graduated from Queen's University in electrical engineering, has been awarded the Brookland Prize, valued at $500. The prize is awarded annually to the student in electricl engineering considered most likely to make the greatest contribution to radio in the future.

Union Urges Canada Start Own Seaway

TORONTO, May 15 (CP). — Formation of a conference of Ontario municipalities and voluntary organizations to stir up public opinion in favor of an all-Canadian St. Lawrence seaway was proposed last night by the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CIO-CCL).

Council President Murray Cotterill said the Canadian government can wait no longer for possible United States co-operation, and it is time to end talks and take action.

The seaway is being blocked by wealthy US interests who did not want to see expansion in the province, he said.

Within 10 years of completion of the seaway, there would be a solid metropolitan area stretching from Oshawa to Hamilton with a population of five million. The development of power would enable Canadian industry to compete with that in the United States.

Canadian Army Units Hire Houseboys At $5 Monthly

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 16 —(CP) —There's one way to make soldiering in Korea easy: Get a houseboy.

A good one is worth every cent he earns: usually $5 a month.

A poor one is no trouble at all. Simply turn him loose and pick another in a country full of candidates.

The houseboy is the one touch about this theatre which makes one wish armies always campaigned in countries like Korea.

There's nothing at all to soldiering—except the actual fighting—when there's someone to polish your boots, wash your clothes, make your bed, clean your tent (if you have one), brew tea or coffee at intervals during the day, and generally anticipate most of your personal needs. Hot water for shaving in the morning, for instance.

May Clean Weapon

And when he cleans your weapon, or keeps your vehicle spotless and well maintained—including greased and checked regularly—you've got a gem.

And all for 30,000 won ($5) a month.

There are many who don't get even that. Happy to come along as part of a unit, working their passage in return for food, clothing and a "home" in time of war, they would be embarrassed at accepting money from men by whom they now are accorded the status of fellow soldiers.

Individual riflemen, naturally, haven't their own houseboys—whose ages vary from 15 to 25. But usually there's one to each platoon and three in each company kitchen.

More self-contained parts of a battalion, however, like the intelligence section, the headquarters of the mortar, machinegun and pioneer platoons, the pay office and the signals office, do keep their own.

As do a few favored individuals such as RSM Les Grimes of the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, who comes from Edmonton.

No Extra Rations

The battalion draws no extra ration for the boys, but army food is plentiful in the theatre and their presence is no embarrassment. But real scrounging is needed to equip the lads with army gear—and the resulting turn-outs are a cross between Canadian, American and Korean army uniforms.

But the boys appreciate anything that differentiates them from "civilians" and helps them to feel they "belong." They aren't allowed to wear regimental badges or flashes but anything else their "masters" can get for them is allowed.

Distinct among the Patricias' boys is 14-year-old Cho Nam-Soum, special pride of a section at battalion headquarters led by Cpl. Garvin (Bud) Smith of Vancouver. Cho, a neglected refugee from the Chongju area, first appeared in the battalion area as a conscripted "riceburner" or bearer. Smith's section decided he was too small for hill-climbing with heavy loads and adopted him as houseboy.

New Outfit

Cho so endeared himself by his industry and willingness that Smith decided to make a little Canadian of him. He asked his mother in Vancouver to get him a complete outfit for the boy, and today Cho swaggers about battalion headquarters in a suit of blue denim overalls touched off with a scarlet neckerchief, Canadian running shoes and he has a whole range of underwear, socks and shirts.

When not working, Cho, in straw hat and overalls, follows the CO around as his "armed guard," a US Army carbine over his shoulder—but without a magazine.

Pte. Mel Canfield of New Westminster, BC, is completing Cho's get-up by having a couple of cowboy-type six-shooters sent from home for him.

A more warlike role is discharged by the other, older, boys, such as Yong Sang-Rock, known as "Pete," 24, and Moon (Joe) Pyong-Hee, 17. They also started off as riceburners, but after palling around with the machine-gunners under Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver were taken on as platoon houseboys.

Goes into Lines

Pete and Joe would not tolerate being left behind whenever the unit went into the line. They got togther their own equipment, went forward with the platoon, regularly dug their own slit trenches and manned them.

And when the Patricias were surrounded April 24 and fought the Chinese spring offensive to a standstill in the West Central sector, Pete and Joe between them killed 10 of the enemy.

Said Pte. Pete Boldt of Simcoe, Ont., afterward: "They're part of us now. We wouldn't lose them for the world."

Carmen Miranda To Make Money As Cowboys Do

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 16 (AP)—If Roy Rogers and Gene Autry can do it, so can Carmen Miranda.

I don't mean that the Brazilian Bombshell is going to hop on a pinto and head thataway. But she may copy the commercial cowpokes in their business ventures.

Already there is a Carmen Miranda coloring book for kids. Plans were underway for a Carmen Miranda doll, but got sidetracked. Other ventures may be reaching the sales counters. At any rate, Carmen says she is ready for them.

"People have made enough money from things I have dreamed up," she remarked. "So why shouldn't Carmen make something, too?"

All Big Hits

Among the Miranda inventions which others have capitalized on are platform shoes, fancy turbans and heavy costume jewelry.

"These things made a tremendous hit when I first came to this country," she recalled. "All over New York they were copying my styles. They had big windows in the stores with my picture in them."

Tall Men

I asked her how she conceived her famed trade marks.

"The platform shoes came about because I liked tall men," she replied. "In Brazil, I always liked the big boys from the beaches. But whenever I danced with them, I couldn't see over their shoulders. I couldn't tell if they were flirting with another girl while they were dancing with me.

"One day I saw a woman walking in the street. She had a shortened leg, so one shoe was built up to make her walk correctly. That gave me the idea. I went to my shoemaker and told him to make me two builtup shoes."

Car Sales Hit March Record

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP)—Despite increased prices, sales of new motor vehicles in Canada hit a record during March.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday that 49,404 units were sold in that month to set a record monthly volume of sales. This record was achieved despite the fact that the average purchase price for a car climbed to $2,353 from $2,005 in March, 1950.

March sales had a retail value of $116,245,475, compared with 35,324 units with a value of $70,816,689 sold in the corresponding month a year ago.

Sales of new passenger cars climbed to a peak with 37,885 units retailing at $89,537,155, com-330,828 in March, 1950. Sales of new commercial vehicles increased to 11,519 units from 7,698, and pared with 27,626 units at $54,the value to $26,708,320 from $16,485,861.

It's a terrific hit. Just like the used trucks available at dependable J. K. Hughes, where your dollar always buys one hundred cents worth of transportation value. Here's a partial listing:—

What is this Thing Called Shine on Furniture?

Now you can give your furniture the amazing O-Cedar Dri-Glo beauty treatment — a smear-free shine that requires no hard rubbing and lasts for weeks and weeks — so hard, so dry, spills and fingermarks wipe off easily.

In polishing furniture and woodwork there are several kinds of shines—greasy shines that smear—shines that are here today and gone tomorrow — shines that require a lot of rubbing — oily, moist shines that attract dust.

Now with O-Cedar Dri-Glo you get a shine that has none of these faults. Entirely different, O-Cedar Dri-Glo contains magic, non-oily silicone.

Just wipe O-Cedar Dri-Glo on—let it dry—wipe it off! Thrill to the appearance of the loveliest shine you've ever seen. A mirror-like finish that lasts for weeks and weeks. A smear-free finish so hard and dry that dust cannot cling to it as it does with any ordinary polish.

Enhancing the natural beauty of your furniture, O-Cedar Dri-Glo Silicone Furniture Polish also preserves and protects it. The thrifty, 98¢ container will last you a long, long time because you won't have to polish nearly so often. At grocery, department and hardware stores. SFP-01

A natural thief?

Not at all! The raccoon is not the robber his appearance leads you to think he is. The mask of dark fur across his eyes makes him look like a bandit. But even though he does most of his prowling at night, the raccoon lives almost entirely on small turtles, clams, crawfish, and other inhabitants of fresh-water streams and lakes.

The truly thrifty one for '51...you save on gas, you save on upkeep

Best by test in actual gas mileage

In this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, a Studebaker Champion got the best actual gas mileage among 26 "standard classification" cars that competed—two to six miles more per gallon than the other largest selling lowest price cars. Two Studebaker V-8s finished second and third, surpassed in actual miles per gallon only by their Studebaker Champion team-mate. All three Studebakers used regular gasoline and were equipped with overdrive, optional at extra cost.

District Churches Observe Mother's Day As Family Day

District churches for the most part observed Mother's Day with the service prescribed by the Ontario Council of Christian Education. The council's Mother's Day service is known as Family Day.

BETHANY (ENS) — Mother's Day Sunday was observed with a special service in the United Church, which followed the order of worship for Christian Family Day as prescribed by the Ontario Council of Christian Education. A. H. Monk, superintendent of the Sunday school, led the opening devotional period. The Rev. James Hampson took his text from the book of Ruth . . "I treat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

A mother's choir led the song service and sang the anthem "Oh Happy Home." A junior choir sang "Fairest Lord Jesus," and five girls of the primary Sunday school class, Dianne Mulligan, Phyllis Bristow, Leone Jordan, Jane Fallis and Sharon Capstick, sang "Praise Him, All Ye Little Children." Norman Lowes, Oshawa, presided at the organ for the entire service. The church was decorated with spring flowers which were arranged by the intermediate girls' Sunday school class.

OMEMEE (ENS)—Family Day was observed in Trinity United Church Sunday with the Sunday school attending the morning service under the leadership of Superintendent Garnet Pogue. The program included a baptismal service conducted by the Rev. V. E.R. Zufelt, when eight babies were baptized: Winnifred Frances Hazel Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Shaw; Thomas Hector Rowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Rowan; Shirley Elizabeth McFadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McFadden; Gary James Brooks, so of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks; Donald Ernest David Eggleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eggleton; Leith Elliott Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Rhodes; Barbara Joan Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Parks, and Barbara Ruth Hickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hickson.

Mr. Zufelt spoke briefly from the text: "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them tha ask Him?"

Miss Dorothy Connell, Mrs. L. Casey and Mrs. W. D. Weir sang a trio "When Mother Prayed."

At the evening service a mothers' choir provided special music, and Mr. Zufelt, by request, spoke on the significance of infant baptism.

COLD SPRINGS (ENS)—The sacrament of baptism was observed at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's United Church on Sunday. The following children were baptized: Janice Marie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Minifie; Carmen David, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Buttar and Barry Richard, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer May.

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Mother's Day service was observed on Sunday in all the churches in the village.

In St. Paul's United Church the Sunday school and church congregation combined their services with the Rev. H. G. Lester and the Sunday school superintendent W. Grant Allen, leading the large congregation in the Mother's Day program as supplied by the Ontario Religious Educational Council. The Rev. H. G. Lester chose as his text "Christ the Head of the Home." The junior choir of 25 voices with Mrs. Douglas Knight, church organist and choir leader and Mrs. Glen Hancock at the piano, led in the musical numbers and also sang two special anthems entitled "Children of Jerusalem" and "Birds Are Singing."

At the baptismal service four infants were baptized: Larry Elwood Skinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Skinkle of Norham; Janet Evelyn and Joan Helen, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Partridge, Warkworth; Ruth Anne Plumton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Plumton, Norham.

In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the Rev. J. M. Ritchie chose as his sermon "Christian Discipleship and the Home" and the Mother's Day printed program was followed.

An all junior choir of 20 voices with the church organist, Miss Alice Nelson, led in music, the choir singing the anthem "When Mother Prayed" and a vocal duet entitled "Whispering Hope" was sung by Misses Jacqueline Potter and Wylanne Hermiston. Two children were baptized: Nancy Jane Hermiston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hermiston and Mary Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrel.

In the Free Methodist Church, a capacity audience gathered for this special day. The Rev. A. B. Moffatt baptized Robert Claude McNutt, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McNutt.

One special feature of the Mother's Day service included the presentation of a beautiful flower at the service to Mrs. Stanley McNutt who was the oldest mother at the Sunday school, being over 75 years.

Raw Materials, Skilled Labor Plague Industry

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Some factories faced the threat of closing down because of want of raw materials, while others are finding it difficult to carry on because of a shortage of skilled workmen.

This is but a further illustration of the complexities of transition from ordinary peacetime to partwar production.

J. C. Armer, president of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, says that scarcity of the materials with which to make goods is a danger to Canada's industrial economy.

At the same time, surveys by the National Employment Service find that some manufacturers are finding it hard to get skilled tradesmen, particularly machine shop workers.

Farm Out Jobs

Mr. Armer said that manufacturers who get contracts can help industries threatened by idleness for want of materials for civilian goods by farming out sub-contracts as much as possible.

It is not surprising or even alarming that there are difficulties, for they are inevitable and have been expected. In fact, to a degree they are a tribute to Canada's industrial expansion of recent years and but emphasize what a tremendous job Canada is equipped to do.

It becomes a matter of continued planning to see that every plant and all manpower is used to good advantage, and that the flow of raw materials is stepped up.

Demand for raw materials will mean a renewed drive to open up Canada's resources; and if we have had difficulty in the last few years in keeping pace mentally with Canada's growth, we shall likely have to sharpen our mental processes still further in the time immeditely ahead.

It's the part of the picture of a democracy in action which, to date, has compalined, grumbled, worked and achieved.

MORNING COUGHS and Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? Do you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalising symptoms may be recurring attacks of Asthma or Bronchitis. In such cases, the very first dose of MENDACO usually starts right now, working through the blood and thus reaching lungs and bronchial tubes, to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the chest, then helps Nature loosen and clean out thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Ask your druggist for MENDACO. Satisfaction or money back.

Divorce Filibuster Stalls Parliament

OTTAWA, May 16. (CP) — A filibuster continued Tuesday night in the Commons against the bulk passage of bills granting divorces to couples from Quebec and Newfoundland.

Only three of 130 divorce measures on the order paper were passed. Similar filibusters were carried out last Tuesday and Friday.

Leading the attack were members of the CCF party which wants to see divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland—the only two provinces without their own divorce courts—transferred from parliament to the courts.

The party has suggested that the Exchequer Court be used if the two provinces do not want to establish their own courts.

Bill Asking Consent Of Indians Defeated

OTTAWA, May 16. (CP)—John Charlton (PC-Brant-Wentworth) Tuesday introduced a proposal in the Commons urging that consent of Indians concerned would have to be obtained before the government could declare that the Indian Act did not apply to them.

The proposal, later defeated by a standing vote of 63 to 23, was made during study of a bill making a sweeping revision of the Act.

Don Brown (L-Essex West), chairman of the Parliamentary committee which studied the bill, said the Indians had had ample opportunity to make their views on the legislation known. They had been brought from all parts of the country and went over the bill clause by clause.

Caterpillar Plague End Seen By 1952

Lands and Forests Department Sees '51 Bad Year

Tent caterpillar skeins are blossoming on bushes and trees throughout the district at a rate that foretells of a tree-stripping plague this summer.

However the Department of Lands and Forests, said today that in most parts of Peterborough and Haliburton counties, "evidence indicates that 1951 will be the last year in which this pest will appear in large numbers."

The eggs of this insect have been hatching during the past two or three weeks. The hatch is usually timed with the opening of the poplar leaves.

10 Year Cycle

The tent caterpillar appears in epidemic stages in 10 to 15 year cycles said the department. It is eventually brought under control after the third or fourth year by natural parasites, both insects and diseases.

After its decline the pest usually disappears for eight to 10 years. 1952 should be the first year of the decline, the department says.

People can help to control the caterpilars by spraying with wettable DDT on trees and shrubs, as well as the trunks of trees and cottages and building posts.

VOL. CII. No. 115 — WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1951

Summer Staffs Named To Playgrounds

Three playground supervisors have been added to the summer playgrounds staff of the Peterborough Recreation Commission, Alex Sinclair, recreation director, reported Thursday night. This brings the staff of instructors, lifeguards and swimming instructors to 20.

Mr. Sinclair said that probably another, a boy, will be added to the staff. From last year will be Blair Thomson, Don Barrick, Bryan Young, Ted Cranfield, Jeanne Stewart, Marilyn Hollingsworth, Beverly Pidgeon, Marilyn Hamilton, Margaret Rodgers and Ethel Fine.

Mary Craw, who has had three years experience on the playground staff, will return after a lapse of a year. Verna Rose, a school teacher, and Joan Krogh, a Peterborough Normal student, were the other appointments.

Name Lifeguards

The water program will be at Inverlea park this year, the commission abandoning the Riverside park beach which has the Lions club pool. Lifeguards will be Gerard Armstrong, Barry Hollingsworth and Donald Wood while the swimming instructors will be Betty Thomson, Mary Rutherford and Lorraine Derry.

With the exception of two girls who will received $30 a week, all will receive $25. That is all the commission can afford to pay under this year's budget.

The main problem in securing more experienced workers this year, said Mr. Sinclair, was the low salary offered. He added that university trained students would receive $10 less in Peterborough than in other places.

Farmed All Day

John Moore of Reaboro, picked by festival adjudicators as the outstanding performer of Tuesday's session for his baritone solo was up at 5 a.m. driving a tractor on his farm. He worked up until evening when he came to Peterborough to sing. His class was called at 10.20 p.m. Mr. Moore has competed in the Peterborough Kiwanis Festival every year since its inception five years ago.

YM Membership Rates Increased

Rising costs at the YMCA have prompted the board of directors to raise the membership fees for the second time in the past 20 years, Charles Forsyth, general secretary, said today. He expected that the change will be made gradually beginning immediately with all changes completed by the membership drive in the fall.

Peterborough YMCA membership rates, he said are among the lowest in Canada. With the proposed rise which will average about 15 per cent, it will still be among those with the lowest rates.

Mr. Forsyth said that the general feeling was that the membership should pay more for the services rather than ask the public for more money through the Red Cross and Community Fund. This year the YMCA asked for $17,350.

The most noticeable changes will be in the business professional and business mens' departments. The new rate for the professional men will be $30, an increase of $4, while the business men will pay $3 more, the present rate is $18.

The senior group, 21 years and over, and the young men's department, will pay $2 more as will the rural, social and bath, and social.

The collegiate and normal students who are now paying $8 for a membership will pay $9 under the new rate. All the boys' groups, intermediate, juniors, juveniles and pioneers will have their rates raised by $1.

The last previous raise in rates was several years ago in a few of the memberships.

RESIGNS FROM COMMISSION

Mrs. James Wharry, chairman of the Recreation Commission's handcraft committee, submitted her resignation Tuesday night, effective June 1. She will remain with the commission, but only in an advisory capacity.

City Invaded By Youth Of Rural Schools

Group singing and verse speaking day at the Kiwanis Club Music Competition in Murray St. Baptist Church has resulted in an invasion of Peterborough by approximately 600 children ranging in age from 5-14.

This morning youngsters waiting to take part in the festival took over the church and collegiate grounds and Confederation Park for playing grounds. Some of them overflowed to the shopping district as they jammed confectioners' stores for ice cream and pop.

For some of the children from 28 town and rural schools outside the city, it was their first trip to Peterborough.

One school in particular is making the most of its trip to this city. The Gelert School, Haliburton has pre-arranged plans for a tour of the city which they have followed during the day.

A look at their program might suggest that performing at the festival was only of secondary importance in their day's activities. These youngsters have visited the fire hall, the Quaker Oats Co., the city waterworks and the lift lock. Also on the agenda was a picnic lunch at Riverside Park.

For this, these children have travelled 75 miles. They left the Gelert School at 6.30 a.m. to arrive in time for their class at 8.45. Most of these children were wakened at 5 this morning to make the trip.

Transportation was by car with three drivers, Orville Francis, Edward Francis and Gordon Sharpless dividing the 18 youngsters among them for the trip. Miss E. Audrey Chase, teacher at the Gelert School, accompanied her pupils.

Another interesting item has arisen from today's festival program. Children attending the Curve Lake Indian Reserve school balked when they heard the selection they would be required to sing if they entered the festival. So exercising musicians' prerogative for temperament, they put their collective feet down and refused to enter.

PLANING MILL AND BUSH FIRE in Apsley on Tuesday morning caused a reputed $10,000 loss to Hugh McColl. In LEFT photo, Mr. McColl (left), discusses the tragedy with his cousin Percy who came nine miles to assist. The burned mill site, CENTRE, showing tractor, which was said to have caused the blaze, is being damped down by Provincial Constable Bert Howden, Jack McFadden and Richard Jeff. Lone mill operator Leslie McColl, son, is shown at the RIGHT. Twenty-five calls through the rural phone exchange were made by Mrs. Stewart Brown, Apsley, operator, ABOVE. Basing Rents On Assessment Fails To Get United Support

Attorney-General Dana Porter's suggestion that rents be based on assessment brought some mixed comment from Peterborough businessmen today. William Tinker described the suggested figure of two per cent for a heated apartment as "absurd" and "impossible."

T. E. McKay of the Victoria and Grey Trust Co. said that to base rents on assessments was the only equitable way of doing it, if rent controls are to be used.

Mr. Porter suggested to the provincial legislature's rent control committee that monthly rent for self - contained accommodation, without heat or services be fixed at 1½ per cent of the assessed value plus the cost of other services and the tenant's share of local approvements.

Rent for new tenancies in heated accommodation would be based on 2 per cent of the assessed value, with the conditions mentioned above.

The yardstick the committee is seeking to be applied to decontrolled housing and new tenancies.

Ald. E. C. Braund said he would have to study the proposal before giving an opinion on it.

Fair For Large Centres

City assessor, J. E. Davis, remarked that the suggestion would provide a fair basis for large centres to base rents on, but it wouldn't be as good for police villages and villages.

Some of the smaller municipalities don't have good assessors; they won't pay high enough wages.

"But for a municipality where assessments are kept up to date, it would be the best way. It would probably work out well in this county."

In 1950, he said the basis for assessment was 40 per cent of 1950 sales values, equal to about 80 per cent of 1940 sales.

"There are some inequalities here, such as on streets where services have been added and the assessments have not been brought up to date, but they are the exception," said Mr. Davis.

Said Mr. Tinker: "I heard about it over the radio this morning and it seemed to be such a small percentage that nobody would consider it. It seems absurd that two per cent should be charged on heated apartments.

"I don't think a person could operate apartments on two per cent of the assessment. It would be impossible."

Mr. McKay pointed out that it would be difficult to provide a province-wide basis for rentals, as assessments vary from municipality to municipality. "A base figure, corrected for each municipality, would have to be used. How they would arrive at the base figure, I don't know."

Mr. McKay said "assessment would be a fair basis to use to arrive at rentals. The problem would be to find a percentage to use for the various municipalities. They might be able to take a sample of the rents in the province —say an average of the rents in 50 municipalities—and figure out the charge per square foot of living space."

Tuesday's High 82 Degrees

How long is it since you complained of the cold? Do you take it back now?

Did you complain last Friday when at noon the temperature read a chilly 45 degrees?

Today the official temperature recorded by James Harrison at the filtration plant was 76 degrees. That's a jump of 31 degrees in less than a week.

Tuesday, the noon temperature was exactly the same as today. But during the early afternoon, it climbed to a peak of 82. The chances are that by the time you read this you will have sweated your way through an even higher temperature.

Just a week ago you were complaining because by noon the mercury was staying at 57. Last week men were regretting that they had taken off their heavy underwear and had caught the sniffles as a result.

But cheer up, the forecast for tomorrow is cloudy and cooler. This is just an appetizer heat wave. There are bigger and better ones to come. And before they arrive you're probably going to be shivering for a few days.

Reaboro Youth Acclaimed An Outstanding Performer

John Moore of Reaboro gave the outstanding musical performance at the opening day of the Fifth Annual Peterborough Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival in Murray St. Baptist Church according to Adjudicators John Clements and Gordon Thorne. In his rendition Tuesday night of the operatic aria Cavatina from Gounod's Faust, (Class 39—baritone solo) Mr. Moore gave a beautiful musical performance Mr. Clements commented. The adjudicator made special note of the excellent quality and melodic line in Mr. Moore's singing.

"My one main criticism," Mr. Clements stated, "is that this particular aria, chosen by Dr. Healey Willan, Toronto, is not suited to the singer's voice. His voice and style tends more to a bass aria."

Mr. Moore was awarded first place in his class with 83 marks. His sole contestant Norman Watson, Bobcaygeon, was awarded 77 marks.

A total of 17 classes were adjudicated during the opening day. These included both vocal and instrumental solo classes. Mr. Clements adjudicated at the morning session (reported in Tuesday's Examiner); Mr. Thorne, the afternoon's session and both were present at the evening's session.

Four classes had only one contestant. There were class 197—cornet solo, under 15 years, in which Glen Workman of Port Hope was awarded 78 marks for his rendition of Falcon by Cooke; class 36—Mezzo operatic aria, Connais-tu le pays from Thomas' Mignon—Dorothy Cunningham of Orillia, 83 marks; class 35—soprano operatic aria, Il est bon, Il est doux from Masenet's Herodiade - Etheland Skill of Cobourg, 75 marks and class 196 - Cornet Solo under 18 yrs. - Jean Waltz by Brechtel-Alfred Bone of Port Hope, 76 marks.

Penny Sparks, Peterborough with 82 marks stood first among seven contestants in class 130 - piano solo, under eight year — Russian Cradle Song by Berlin. Eleanor McClelland, Port Hope came second with 81 marks and Margaret Monk Peterborough third with 80 marks.

The six contestants in class 96-boy's solo under nine years - The Canoe by Rowley, was headed by Billy Potton, Toronto with 83 marks. David Norgan, Toronto placed second with 82 marks and Carey Wilkins, Port Hope, third, with 75 marks.

Jane Hutton, Port Hope with 86 marks was awarded first place ahead of 16 contestants competing in class 59 - gairl's solo under 11 years —The Dream Man by Bury. Second and third place went to two Lindsay contestants—Beverley Moore with 85 marks and Dorothy A. Guest with 84 marks.

In Class 128 — piano solo under 10 years — The Zoo Suite by Melleci with 13 contestants, Catherine Ovens, Peterborough was awarded first place with 85 marks, Pamela Townley, Fenelon Falls, second with 84 marks and Bonnie Elmsley, Peterborough, third, with 82 marks.

Donna Hopkins, Fenelon Falls placed first with 86 marks ahead of 18 contestants in class 57 girl's solo under 15 years—The Country Road by Pitfield. Lorraine Coppins, Cameron was second with 84 marks and Altamae Thomas, Bobcaygen third, with 83 marks.

There were only two contestants in class 171—violin solo under 17 years—Bagatelle by Reed. Robert W. Hutchinson. Peterborough came first with 78 marks and Kenneth McKague, Woodville second with 76 marks.

Also with only two contestants entering was class 30 — soprano oratoria — Rejoice Greatly from Handel's Messiah. Etheland Skill, Cobourg came first with 78 marks and June Kilborn, Peterborough, second with 76 marks.

Patricia McIlraith, Cobourg competing against five other contestants came first with 78 marks in class 142 — Haydon or Mozart Sonata, under 19 years. Lois Holman, Peterborough, was second with 77 marks and Shirley Pritchard, Peterborough, third, with 75 marks.

Mrs. W. J. Bingham, Norwood with 80 marks led in class 20 — soprano — Solveig's Song by Grieg. Dorothy Jane Connell, R. R. 4 Omemee place second, with 79 marks and Lorna Ruth Stewart, Peterborough, third, with 78 marks.

Norway Increases Spending On Defence; Navy Neglected

OSLO, May 16 —(Reuters)— Norway is to spend nearly 700,000,000 kroner (about $100,000,000) on defence this year. But her admirals complain the navy is being neglected.

As chief of staff in the admiralty, Commodore G. Hovdenak has officially protested that the navy's share of the defence budget is too small. In a survey of Norway's defence problems, he argued that the main weight of any invasion attempt would come by sea.

But the defence ministry has decided the main emphasis will be on building up the land and air forces.

Too Expensive

Gen. Ole Berg, chief of the defence staff, has explained that under the Atlantic Pact plans, Britain and the United States will bear the main burdens of naval defence because it is considered too expensive for a small country such as Norway to build, equip and man big naval units.

Norway, with only 3,000,000 inhabitants, has a large territory to defend. From the north cape to the southern-most point of Norway is nearly 1,100 miles and in the far north, Norway overlaps neutral Sweden and has a common frontier with Russia.

Two Fronts

Norway's defence tasks, as discussed with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on his recent visit, are concentrated on two main "fronts":

1. The 150-mile frontier with Russia in the north which stretches from the Arctic Ocean near Petsamo down the wider part of the Pasvik River.

2. The southern flank, the outpost of which is regarded as being in Germany.

Norway has declared she will not permit the establishment of foreign military bases on her territory in peace time. The main task of her forces in the event of an attack will therefore be to hold up the invaders until help can reach her from Atlantic Pact allies.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR, whose heavily gold-braided military cap had become the symbol of his personality, wears civilian clothes for the first time in twelve years as he attends a baseball game in New York. The military cap is replaced by a grey homburg, but the sharp eyes, and strong facial lines remain as commanding as ever.

Posters Help Boost British Churchgoing

ABERDEEN, Scotland—(CP)—Walk down any university road here and you will be confronted by a large Canadian poster.

Depicting a tiny country church it bids: "Come to church—every life needs an altar and faith for testing times."

The posters were presented to Britain when a British billposting company could not get permission to buy them in Canada.

From many parts of Britain, requests for copies are reaching church officials in Aberdeen.

Authorities believe the posters will help boost the recent "Back to Church" movement.

King's Homes Maintained By Government

OTTAWA, May 16 — (CP). — The Commons Tuesday took preliminary steps to implement part of the will of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada for more than 20 years.

Members adopted resolutions to Bills providing for the maintenance and administration of the property bequeathed to the state by Mr. King, who died July 22 last.

One Bill provides for the upkeep and administration of Laurier House, Ottawa home of Mr. King and his predecessor, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The home will be administered by the Dominion archivist and, in accordance with Mr. King's wishes, will be available for use by students engaged in historical study and research.

Mr. King left $225,000 to assist in the maintenance and care of Laurier House.

Won't Cover Bill

In reply to a question Prime Minister St. Laurent said it was not expected that the amount would cover everything. The public works department will be responsible for the upkeep and heating of the property and the Federal District Commission will maintain the grounds.

The second Bill provides for the upkeep and administration of Mr. King's properties in Kingsmere, Que, about 15 miles north of Ottawa. Mr. King expressed the hope that his summer home and part of the Kingsmere property would be set aside as a summer home for Canadian Prime Ministers.

The legislation authorizes the government to establish a summer home for Prime Ministers on the property. No indication was given as to when such action might be taken.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

what goes out must first come in!

Whether you call it "salary" or "take-home-pay", the greatest part of what you earn buys the food your family must eat, the clothes they must wear, and the home they must live in. Food, shelter and clothing depend on income and income depends on earning power, which some day will end.

Life Insurance is the only sure means of replacing income when earning power ends. The Manufacturers Life representative in your community can show you how regular savings out of your present earnings will provide immediately for the financial security of your loved ones and for your own retirement.

Vote Recount Upsets Minister

CHARLOTTETOWN, May 16.—(CP)—A ballot recount Tuesday night upset the election of Education Minister F. A. Large, given a majority of two in the April 26 provincial election.

Mr. Large was defeated on the basis of a recount of votes cast in First Queen's. His Progressive Conservative opponent Frank Myers had a majority of four when Judge C. St. Clair Trainor completed the recount.

The revised figures gave Myers a total of 1,493 votes and large 1,489. On election night Large had been credited with two of a majority.

Counties Asked Form Own Civil Defence

TORONTO, May 16. (CP) — Civil defence organization on a county scale is suggested in a letter from Provincial Secretary Welsh to Ontario mayors, reeves and county wardens.

Mr. Welsh, who is co-ordinator of civil defence for Ontario, said most of the larger municipalities have formed civil defence committees. Around these it now is intended to create the county bodies.

"We are recommending that the largest urban centre within the county accept the leadership in county planning, and that a meeting be called of representatives from all communities, and a county civil defence committee be formed to co-ordinate committees already existing within the county, and to encourage the formation of committees where these do not exist."

General Farming Gone

GUELPH, May 16 (CP).—Specialization in agriculture seems to be here to stay, Dr. H. L. Patterson of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said Tuesday. Speaking at a joint conference of the Ontario farm brokers and the Toronto chapter of the Appraisal Institute of Canada, he said the day of the general farmer who grew a bit of this and a bit of that is about gone.

Canadian Patrol Sent To Aid Korea Civilians

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 16—(CP)—Forays into No Man's Land are routine business for infantry patrols.

They're something of a novelty for a lone first-aid team, especially when the distance involved is three miles ahead of the United Nations' line.

Yet one recently was accomplished by a Canadian quintet which jeeped forward of the lines under Cpl. Ross Anderson of New Westminster, B.C., medical assistant with one of the rifle companies.

A patrol sent out by the company—commanded by Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton—had reported clashing with remnants of an enemy patrol in the area but that apart from civilians still occupying small hamlets dotting it, the locality was clear.

Strong Defenses

At the time the battalion occupied strong defensive positions on the north bank of the Han River east of Seoul. The initial onslaught of the Chinese spring offensive had been held, and the position had been prepared to take care of any resumption.

When Anderson heard of the abandoned Koreans' plight he asked permission to go forward and treat them.

Lilley assigned Anderson and a company jeep driven by Pte. John Hoskins of New Westminster, and detailed Cpl. Don Requa, formerly of the RCMP at Regina, as guard.

Anderson gathered the company's two stretcher-bearers—Ptes. P. A. Hurley of Badger, Nfld. and Donld K. Kilgore of London, Ont.—and the group went forward with extra supplies of dressings and penicillin.

Shrapnel Wounds

"We treated 10 of them altogether," Anderson said later.

"Most were casualties from mortar shrapnel. We set one broken leg, dresesd three severe head wounds—two women and an old man—and had a difficult job piecing togther the badly-lacerated face of one woman.

"All had been wounded at least a week earlier and their injuries were suppurating. It was a messy piece of work cleaning them out, let alone bandaging them.

"We used up all our penicillin and were almost out of dressing by the time we had finished."

Referred to by Lilley as his "good samaritans," the group passed word back about its activities so that other army agencies could take over the work.

Often in the course of this campaign Canadians in their advance have come across Korean civilians who impasively carry on their simple lives, farming and toiling, today under Communist occupation, tomorrow under the United Nations. Curiously, few seem ever to get hurt by the fighting that carries the front to and fro over their land.

For the injured and sick among them, Anderson always finds time.

Rita's New Divorce Not House Business

OTTAWA, May 16. (CP)—One divorce case got little discussion Tuesday night when the House of Commons was studying divorce measures.

At one stage, George Murray (L-Cariboo) said the world recently was shocked to read "about the divorce of Aly Khan." (Film actress Rita Hayworth recently announced her intention to divorce Aly Khan, Indian prince.)

Mr. Murray got no farther. Deputy Speaker J. A. Dion interjected with a touch of humor:

"I am sorry but that bill is not before the House."

Citizens Scatter As Sow Strolls Street, Shopping Tour Swan Song For 250-Pounder

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16 — (ENS) — Pedestrians and motorists rubbed their eyes and took a second look Monday as a 250-pound sow grunted her swan song on a shopping spree.

She didn't buy anything; the storekeepers wouldn't let her in. She tried to get into the pool-room, but the manager didn't want to play. Even passersby avoided her and kept their distance.

Disconsolate, she wandered along Front St., tried a bank and a shoe store. Again, Campbellford merchants denied her entrance. After a bit of window shopping, she wandered down a lane by a department store.

Her owner, the villain of this piece, is Charles Little of Seymour township. With the help of his brother, Lou, and Manley Grills, he put her back in the truck she escaped from.

Somebody loved her. She was sold not long after at the community livestock exchange at Hoard's station.

Mother's Day Services Fill Norwood Churches

NORWOOD, May 16 (ENS)—Norwood churches were well filled for Mother's Day services. At the Baptist Church, Marjorie Jeanette Clements, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Clements, was dedicated. The Rev. W. J. Bingham preached on the subject "Home base."

The home base is the most important base in baseball and the action at that base largely determines the action at the other bases. The home base of society is the Christian home and the action there largely determines the actions of clubs, organizations, businesses, etc.

Mrs. William Hubble sang a solo entitled "A Mother's Prayer." The oldest mother, Mrs. Edward Patterson, in her 92nd year, was present with her son.

Mother's Day was observed at Norwood United Church. At the morning service the Sunday school joined the congregation. The beginners and primary and junior choir sang special numbers.

The order of worship was that as issued by the Ontario Council of Christian Education.

"If ye love me, keep My commandments," was the theme on which the Rev. E. E. Pugsley based his sermon.

Your Special-Purpose Menu Satisfying Without Meat

Meatless — but Satisfying and Surprising

Cheese Souffle
Baked Sweet or White Potatoes
Generous Green Salad
French Dressing
Fresh Strawberry Spongecakes
(new recipe—see below)
Coffee

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

Of course, the fresh strawberry spongecakes are the starred course in this meal, but I want to add a few kind words for cheese souffle.

This is a dish that has been overdone in our house and I am to blame. It and a puffy omelette were the first important main course dishes that I learned to make in my first year at cooking school.

My mother, a dear patient soul, used to quietly ask me what new dishes I had learned today—and I invariably came up with cheese souffle because miraculously I did not have any failures with it.

I hesitate to guess but I think I've made hundreds of cheese souffles and now I'm silly enough to teach Marianne how to make them.

I don't care. They are a good standby. Almost any refrigerator will yield up three eggs and a quarter or half pound of cheese at its lowest ebb.

✧ ✧ ✧

Cheese Souffle

First make a white sauce. In top of double boiler over boiling water melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and stir in 3 tablespoons flour, then 1½ cups milk, and stir until thick.

Add cut up processed cheese or grated medium-old or old cheddar cheese. It is is processed cheese add anywhere from one-quarter to one-half pound. If it is cheddar anywhere from one to two cups grated. Let cheese melt in white sauce while you beat 3 egg whites until stiff, then without washing the beater beat 3 egg yolks until very light. Stir the egg yolks into the cheese sauce after removing from heat, then add ½ teaspoon salt, shake of cayenne, and if desired 1 or 2 teaspoons Worcestershire and fold in whites. Pour into greased casserole, filling it not more than 2/3 full as this puffs up. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then increase heat to 325 for 25 or 30 minutes or until it is firmly puffed and golden brown. Serve at once.

A good variation is to lay strips of side bacon over top before this is put in oven.

Fresh Strawberry Spongecakes

The fresh strawberry spongecakes are a good way of making your first few expensive boxes of strawberries stretch further. Make sponge or one-egg cake batter and bake in gem pans or large fluted paper cups. Scoup out centre and put about 1 or 2 teaspoons cream filling in it (like a filling for a cream pie). Top this with about 6 sliced strawberries and to give it a cheap and simple glaze pour 1 or 2 teaspoons strawberry jello before it is set.

This could be varied any way you choose, but can be made to stretch for 12 people this way. They are attractive and tasty.

New Building Given To University

FREDERICTON, May 16—(CP)—The University of New Brunswick was richer today by a new building, the Bonar Law-Bennett library wing, latest gift of the university's long-time benefactor, U.N.B. Chancellor Lord Beaverbrook.

The wing is in memory of two famous New Brunswickers, Rt. Hon. Andrew Bonar Law and Viscount Bennett, prime minister of Canada from 1930 to 1935. Its priceless reference material will include the personal papers of these statesmen.

Rt. Hon. Richard Law, Conservative member of the British parliament and son of the only Canadian to become prime minister of Great Britain, made the presentation Tuesday on behalf of Lord Beaverbrook.

He said the closest co-operation between a strengthened British Empire and the United States is the only security for mankind.

Later, at a dinner given by Lord Beaverbrook, tribute to the host as a planner and leader was paid by John Bassett, president and publisher of the Montreal Gazette and chancellor of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que.

Distinguished Guests

Other distinguished guests at the function included Lady Lloyd George, who presented to U.N.B. a portrait of the late Earl Lloyd George, prime minister of Great Britain in the First World War.

In his presentation address, Mr. Law said that a strong British Empire could again become a guarantee of peace, order and justice in the world. The empire had been weakened by the good intentions of its friends on both sides of the Atlantic.

"We have preferred to concentrate on raising our standards of life, upon material security, upon the early passage from the cradle to the grave," said the British parliamentarian.

"The end of it all is that we stand in danger of losing everything, not only our empire but comfort and security and safety, the very things for which we thought to trade the empire."

Church Must Find Tasks For Women WA Council Told

TORONTO, May 16.—Women's place in the church was outlined by Mrs. N. R. Fallis, speaking at opening sessions of the eleventh annual meeting of the Dominion Council, Women's Association, United Church of Canada, Tuesday.

Delegates from Alberta to the Maritimes are attending the meeting.

Young women are frustrated and older women restless wanting work today, she said. "This is our day of opportunity. We must promote extension by presenting to our women our total program where any woman can find a place to use her talent in a big or a small way."

Many women have sought leadership elsewhere because the church did not use them, said the president. "The WA must find a place and work in the life of the church so that women with leadership qualities can be used," she said. They should know about, and help think through the problems of the church of today in relation to the world of today. "Church boards give us the chance to share in the whole work of the church," she said.

Requirements for effective church work she named as "a spirit of love, a keen mind, the will to work, the discipline of study, and a spirit of humanity in service."

Membershp Increase

Membership in the WA across Canada was reported as 182,249, an increase of 4,858 over last year. Asociations number 5,500, an increase of 101. Receipts of $3,308,218, increase of $290,581, were reported by Treasurer Mrs. C. F. Yeomans. Amount of birthday gift marking the 10th anniversary of the WA was $3,185. Speaking of the need for further effort, she said that "the dollar has shrunk to such an extent that its present value is about 58 cents.

Teenage work has been stressed, associations were urged to consider their responsibility regarding the matter of interesting teenage girls in full-time service to the church and sharing in their training. A resolution to this effect was forwarded to the annual meeting for consideration, said Mrs. R. B. Warringer, convener of girls' work committee.

One of the most thriving conferences is Alberta, for which Mrs. W. O. Thorne reported $155,826 raised by the 6,671 members.

British Materials Displayed At Toronto Trade Fair

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON, May 16—(CP)—At the International Trade Fair in Toronto, starting May 28, Canadian women will be able to view some of the materials that drew royal attention at the British Industries Fair and the Festival of Britain.

For instance, they may see a 60-foot-high stand of wool textiles that drew praise from the queen at the fair. She told manufacturers it is a splendid idea to group exhibits on one massive stand, since viewing was made so much easier.

The queen was interested in the fineness of the light-weight wools, some of which weighed only four ounces. Before leaving she congratulated the trade on its achievements in the export markets.

Queen Mother Mary, dressed in a grey fur-collared coat and characteristic toque, examined a textile pattern book and requested that a copy be sent to Marlborough House, her London residence.

With his love of tweeds, the king was interested in a display of Scottish Glenurquharts and the royal party, as always, showed especial interest in the tartans.

Seek Best Fabrics

Manufacturers find that despite the rise in prices, overseas buyers still seek the best wool fabrics.

Overseas interest is especially directed towards the "country" tweeds of Scottish origin and the Scottish "finespuns" in which the queen delights. The finespuns are made at Auchentroig castle, a half-hour run from Glasgow, and the 12 looms are worked by a staff of disabled war veterans. Among others, there are hopsack velours, facecloths, naps and featherweight saxonies.

In Edinburgh, visitors can tour a store (Forsythe's) in Princess Street where a "confined" line of Orkney homespuns draws much attention. Edinburgh buys the entire yearly output of the Orkney Crofters, all 150 pieces.

Other fabrics that drew overseas comment at the BIF and the Festival of Britain are the fine cotton weaves, so light in weight and finish they can be classed as luxury materials. Many are processed for crease resisting and the floral patterns are bright and colorful.

Girls Head Male Graduates In Law

VANCOUVER, May 16—(CP)—Two girls have licked the habeas corpus out of more than 100 male graduate in University of British Columbia's law faculty.

And another has won the governor-general's gold medal for heading the graduating class for the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Results of the university examinations were announced today.

Only first-class honors won in the entire law class of 120 went to Connie Holmes of Victoria and Shirly Thompson of Vancouver.

"We're very proud of them," said Dean G. F. Curtis. There are 300 men to 17 girls in the law school.

The two girls have led their class each year during the three-year course. Connie took top honors the first year, with Shirley close behind. Last year the positions were reversed. Connie triumphed again this year.

Shirley is articled to D. S. Montgomery of Vancouver, brother of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

Betty Bryson of Victoria, who topped the BAs, said her formula for success is "stay away from boys."

But Betty's cloistered life is strictly involuntary.

Her home in Vancouver while she attended university was a scant block from the western boundaries of the city.

Her boy friend, Ted Ramage, who graduates Thursday in classics, lives close to the city's eastern extremity.

"That's why we study so much," Betty told reporters.

DOROTHY DIX

Profession For Wife Found Hedge Against Bad Breaks

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are ardent readers of your column. We are very happily married, but nevertheless feel that your writings have helped keep us on our toes. So it is not for myself I am writing. My folks always insisted that before I married I should master a well-paying and mentally satisfying profession. That I did, and people have often told me that our marriage was bound to fail because I had entered it with the idea that I did not have to be dependent upon a man who might make me unhappy. It is to these people I wish you would address a column.

Dorothy Dix

You see, we are friendly with a couple who have two children. He is, to sum it up in one word, a rascal, and they are very unhappy together. She has no profession to fall back on and therefore must continue to live with her husband. If she had learned a profession before she was married, things might be entirely different now.

Could you please, for the sake of those young girls who rush into marriage, mention the importance of being able to do a job outside of housekeeping and clerking in a store?

YOLANDA

ANSWER: What a wise family you had, Yolanda, to insist on your learning a profession, and how wise you were to accede to their wishes. Only a very short-sighted person would feel that a marriage was doomed simply because the wife was trained for a job she could fall back on if necessary.

Disaster May Come

Young romance is surrounded by a rosy aura that will not be dimmed by the dark forebodings of disaster that may come later. And these disasters hit the happiest marriages all too frequently. Even if a couple remains compatible and has no recourse to the divorce courts, there is the possibility of a husband's long illness, business reverses, or a call by Uncle Sam, which many young husbands may have to heed ere long. In all these instances, it would be a tremendous lift, financially and morally, if the wife could step into a well-paying job or profession for the period of emergency.

Now let's turn to the cheerful side! Even though you may never be confronted with the material difficulties of matrimony, your training will be a wonderful asset to you. As a professional woman you will enjoy a high standing among the women of your community and will be better able to contribute to the civic betterment of your town or city. You will have a better knowledge of economics, and your home should be more efficiently run than that of an untrained and uneducated woman. If your particular field of endeavor has included schooling in nursing, teaching or psychology, the problems presented by your children will be easier for you to handle. In a multitude of other ways you are well equipped to maintian a happy, healthful and busy household.

While a thorough, professional training does not always turn out a well-balanced woman, capable of making a success of marriage, the odds are in her favor.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I go around with a boy whom I am crazy about and I intend to marry him some day. I am much more intelligent than he is. That is true and not conceit. And I come from a more cultured family. Naturally it is my family's wish to have me marry a person like myself. Do you think if I married this boy that I would be happy?

BEWILDERED

ANSWER: No. I don't think you would have a chance of being happy. Neither would he. There can be no greater gulf between a husband and a wife than that of intelligence.

It is bad enough when the husband is more intelligent and more cultured than the wife, but when the wife has a better brain and a better education than the husband it is a tragedy. Men like to feel superior to their wives, but it crushes a woman to be married to a man who is her inferior. Nor can any man endure the situation with fortitude. He has been the lord of creation too long to be willing to play second fiddle to any woman, even his wife. He soon rebels at his subordinate position.

The feeling that you have for this boy who you know to be your inferior is merely physical infatuation. If you marry him, that will soon pass and then you will find that you have nothing in common. Don't do it for his sake as well as your own.

Hundreds of citizens gathered to witness the ceremony as the Premier pushed a button to start the twin presses which printed a special edition to mark the occasion.

French Company Wins Praise In Festival Play

By KAY REX.

LONDON, Ont., May 16 (CP). —Julien Buisson's 27th birthday turned out to be an especially-happy one — partly because of what the Dominion Drama Festival adjudicator said about his acting.

The young accountant from Three Rivers, Que., was the "stage manager" in Tuesday night's production by Les Compagnons de Notre Dame of a French translation of Thornton Wilder"s "Our Town."

In his remarks at the end of the performance, adjudicator Jose Ruben singled Mr. Buisson out for special mention. Speaking in French, he said the latter did "exceptionally well," playing with aplomb and intelligence.

In fact, the entire cast from the Three Rivers company put on an "exceptionally good" performance for an amateur group. The main fault Mr. Ruben found was in the differences of accents. These, he confessed, "confused" him.

The play, a nostalgic full-length drama of life in a small town, was translated into French by Yvon Theriault, a Three Rivers newspaperman. Entered in the festival under the title of "Ma Petite Ville," it touched the heart strings of the drama festival audience despite the fact that most persons in the well-filled house were not bilingual.

Small Parts Well Done

Mr. Ruben said he was particularly interested in seeing the sfall parts so well played at the beginning of the Three Rivers production.

He mentioned several in the heavy cast who contributed pleasant performances. These included Renee Gagnier as "Emily Webb," Antonio Mondor as "Dr. Gibbs," Philomene Moreau as "Mrs. Gibbs," and Leo Benoit as "George Gibbs."

A double bill awaits today's festival goers. At the matinee, the Junior Theatre of the Ottawa Drama League will present "Pinocchio." Workshop 14 of Calgary tonight will offer Aldous Huxley's "The Gioconda Smile."

Co-director of the Capital City Company is Marian Taylor, one of the organizers of the troupe who also acts in "Pinocchio."

In taking part in the competition, Mrs. Taylor will find herself competing against her son, Christopher Taylor. The 23-year-old University of Toronto graduate is a member of the cast of the University Alumnae Dramatic Club of Toronto which Friday night will produce George Bernard Shaw's "In Good King Charles' Golden Days."

A haven for destiute former professional athletes—with both winter and summer homes — is planned by the Christian Athletes' Foundation. Rev. Stoney Jackson, a minister of the Christian Church, announced two sites have been selected and that baseball will be asked to send the project on its way.

Mr. Jackson said the locations were Tullahoma, Tenn., and Lake Worth, Fla., the former serving as a summer home and the latter for winter.

The home will be known as "Christ's Haven" and will be a refuge for former athletes and also homeless boys, particularly the sons of former professional athletes.

Jackie Keogh, of Cleveland, was signed Tuesday to meet Randolph Turpin, British and European middleweight champion, in a 10-round bout at White City Stadium June 5.

Col. John V. Grombach, American manager of French middleweight boxer Laurent Dauthuille, Tuesday told reporters he has refused an offer of Paris matchmakers for a title fight between Dauthuille and middleweight champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York.

Robinson will fight the French champion, Kid Marcel, in a 10-round non-title bout in Paris May 21.

Chinese Forces Driven Back After Assault On Seoul Front

Britain Sends Iran Stern Note Demanding Talks

LONDON, May 17. (AP)—Britain sent Iran a stern note today reported to call for high-level talks to settle their oil dispute. The note was dispatched to British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd in Tehran. The Foreign Office said Sir Francis would deliver it to the Persian government at the first opportunity. This, however, may not be until Saturday, as Friday is the Moslem equivalent of Western World's Sunday. Informed sources said the note will reject as illegal Iran's nationalization of the big Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. These sources said Britain will offer to send a high-level mission to Tehran to reach a compromise solution.

The note went off soon after Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison conferred with Prime Minister Clement Attlee. Presumably, the note was submitted to Attlee for final approval.

Britain also consulted the United States during the drafting of the note. A foreign office spokesman said Britain has the full support of the US in its move to settle the dispute.

Ani-British feeling mounted in Iran today.

Haiy Zadeh, a deputy in the Majlis (lower house of parliament), said Iran had every right to take over the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and sneered at reports that Britain had mobilized a brigade of paratroopers for possible use in the oil region.

Not Frightened

"Britain cannot frighten us with a few paratroopers," he declared. "They would make a small morsel for our frontier tribes. Britain is mistaken in thinking of turning Iran into another Korea. If they put paratroopers in, a third world war cannot be prevented."

(British authorities have made no threats to use the paratroop brigade abroad. It was put on the alert last weekend—and rumors here and in Britain have said it might be sent to Anglo-Iranian holdings in Iran if it became necessary to safeguard British lives and property.)

Newspaper reports said the Iranian government is expanding a "black list" of Britons who will be accused of spying and other acts detrimental to the state.

The government has also sent a note to all its departments warning that any official who fails to refer to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company as "the former company" will be severely dealt with.

Russia Fails Shift Debate On Arms Ban

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP).—Russia failed today to shift debate on a proposed world arms embargo against Communist China to the United Nations Security Council, where a Soviet veto could kill it.

The question was settled without a vote in the general assembly's 60-country political committee after the Soviet bloc announced it would not participate in the committee's discussion on the ground that the Security Council was the only competent agency to debate the question.

However, Russia's Jakob Malik insisted that he was not asking the committee to vote on the question of competence. Chairman Roberto Arbelaez-Urdaneta of Colombia then gave the floor to U.S. Ambassador Ernest Gross to introduce the embargo proposal.

The Soviet bloc delegates remained in their seats.

Only Opposition

Their refusal to take part in the debate removed the only expected opposition and opened the way for a speedy vote.

The attitude of the Cominform countries made it clear they would ignore any UN ban on arms to the Peiping regime.

The measure calls generally for "an embargo on the shipment to areas under the control of the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China and of the North Korean authorities, of arms, ammunition and implements of war, atomic energy materials, petroleum, transportation materials of strategic value, and items useful in the production of arms, ammunition and implements of war."

Gross explained in his opening speech that the United States and many other UN members already have banned such materials for Red China. The resolution leaves to each country to decide how to control its export.

But Gross also said that if a review shows the embargo is not working, the UN China sanctions committee can recommend broader economic measures.

Plan To Call New Election

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 17 (AP)—Gen. Hugo Ballivian, head of the military junta which took control of tin-rich Bolivia in a bloodless coup Thursday, said Wednesday night that he may call new presidential elections next month.

This appeared to be a new step in blocking from the presidency exiled Victor Paz Eestenssoro, leader of the National Revolutionary Party, who ran far ahead in the May 6 presidential election but failed to secure the necessary majority.

Ballivian promised, meanwhile, that Bolivia will continue to maintain friendly relations with her Western Hemisphere neighbors and will adhere to the "treaties and conventions to which the nation is pledged."

Full Inquiry Planned In Police Setup

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 17 (CP). — A full hearing of complaints against city police department administration by four of the five police constables who have resigned from the force in the past six months will be held May 21, a meeting of the Sault Police Commission decided Wednesday.

Police Chief I. L. Robertson, against whom some of the complaints are said to have been registered, and representatives of the Police Association, will testify. The hearing will be open to the public.

City Council previously had been asked by the Police Association to investigate police constables' complaints which they claimed were not receiving attention from the Police Commission.

Petain Weakening

ILE D'YEU, France, May 17—(Reuters)—Former Marshal Philipe Petain, 95, again confined to bed after his recent recovery from double pneumonia in his prison fortress, today was reported to be weakening. Petain was sent to jail for life for collaboration with the Germans in the Second World War.

Memo To Crooks

Cattle Rustling Pays More Than Bank holdups In BC

ASHCROFT B .C.,May 17—(CP)—With meat prices what they are today, crooks can make a better living rustling cattle than holding up banks.

Some of them already know this. Cattle rustlers are riding the sage-covered rangelands of the storied Cariboo, where an English nobleman once tried to introduce the fox hunt and polo to his cowhands.

One man was sentenced recently to six months in jail for rustling. He was charged with stealing pure-bred steers, dehorning them, clipping their branded ears and swimming them across the Fraser river.

Tom Wilson, president of the Cariboo Cattlemen's Association, said Wednesday that the rustling is costing ranchers thousands of dollars a month.

"We are working closely with the R.C.M.P. to discover whether the rustling is the work of organized gangs," he said.

"We suspect the meat is being smuggled into Vancouver (about 300 miles southwest) by private cars and trucks."

Individual ranchers have lost as many as a dozen head of cattle.

"The rustlers seem to be using cars to take them up the logging roads which criss-cross the rangelands." Mr. Wilson said.

"Following this pattern, they can kill 10 head in a very short time.

"With cattle selling for $300 a head, that means they've accomplished the same as a $3,000 bank hold-up, with very little risk of being caught."

He said the rustlers constantly move their operations.

Ashcroft is the southern gateway of the Cariboo. It sits in the Thompson Canyon where the river makes a 90-degree turn from west to south.

Send US Arms To Canada In Few Days

Move Shipments Secretly To Avoid Sabotage

OTTAWA, May 17—(CP) — Movement of United States arms to Canada will start in a matter of days, even though the government hasn't decided how many types of US weapons the army should adopt and hasn't announced those already adopted.

The northward movement of freight trains loaded with the historic first shipments is to be conducted with as much secrecy as possible, army officials say, because of the possibility of sabotage.

But the secrecy goes beyond that. They are silent on other details because officials say they can't see much sense in telling the Russians about the scope and pace of the army's shift from British-type to U.S. arms.

They aren't sayi[illegible] weapons there will be, where they will go, what they are and who will receive them. Some sort of statement may be made fairly soon, however, about what types Canada has already adopted.

Small Arms

These first shipments are believed to involve largely rifles and machine-guns—small arms. They are the .30-calibre weapons which are replacing the traditional British .303-calibre rifles and machine-guns Canadian soldiers used in the last wear.

Heavier equipment, including tanks, will come later. The arms will replace the British-type weapons Canada has sent to European allies.

Defence Minister Claxton announced the decision to shift to U.S. arms months ago. Recently in Commons he said it would not mean entire acceptance of American weapons, and cited the Sten sub-machine gun, light and cheap, as one weapon Canada is considering keeping. There are others, too, if arrangements can be made to alter them to use U.S. ammunition.

Find Rare Gem Among Jewelry

LONDON, May 17 (Reuters).—A gem picked by chance out of a load of second-hand jewelry in Ceylon has been analyzed as a new precious stone, as yet unnamed.

It has set scientists on the trail of new supplies of a rare metal, beryllium, vitally needed in atomic research.

The stone is a pale transparent mauve, about half the size of a pea.

A Irish jeweler sent it to the British Museum for a scientific report.

World production of beryllium is less than 200 tons, with the United States, Argentina and Brazil the principle producers. It is used as an alloy with copper and in the making of fluorescent lights and X-ray tubes.

But its strategic value is in atomic research. It has been proven as a source of neutrons—tiny particles used to bombard and split uranium atoms in cyclotron machines. It is also effective as an agent to slow down the chain reaction involved in an atomic explosion.

Dynamite Bomb Blast At Union Man's Home

CHICAGO, May 17 — (AP).—A dynamite bomb exploded on Wednesday night in the home of an AFL Teamster Union official, injuring two persons and causing heavy damage to the two-flat brick building.

About an hour later a second—and bigger — bomb wrecked a gasoline station. Police said the two bombings apparently were not related.

The bombing at the Teamster Union official's home followed the bombing Tuesday night of the home of an AFL Milk Drivers' Union official. Both unions are affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Detroit Jeweler Under Federal Indictment Shot And Killed From Ambush At Home

DETROIT, May 17 (AP). — Albert Swartz, 43-year-old Detroit jeweler under Federal criminal indictment, was shot and killed from ambush at his home today

It was the second shooting involving principals in a Federal case against two Chicago jewelers and the Detroiter.

Police gave no theory for the slaying.

Earlier this week John Mundo, 38, was sentenced to a 15-to-30-year prison term in the shooting last November 20 of James I. Marshall, 29, a Detroit jeweler.

Marshall is a witness in the Federal case against Swartz and Kenneth C. Gordon and Kenneth McLeod, Chicago jewelers.

The trio was indicted for possession of $12,000 in stolen photographic film.

18 Valuable Race Horses Burned Or Destroyed In Montreal Track Fire

MONTREAL, May 17. (CP)—Eighteen valuable race horses were burned to death or had to be destroyed when fire swept through a barn at Blue Bonnets Racetrack last night. Two persons suffered slight burns. Only four of the 22 horses stabled in the structure were saved. Fifteen horses died in the flames. Three had to be shot later because of extreme burns. The horses were valued at around $50,000 and the barn at about $15,000. General manager Lucien Chartrand said the 42-day meet will open tomorrow on schedule.

Fire broke out late in the evening and there was general confusion at the scene.

It was feared for a time that the flames might spread to adjoining barns, and hundreds of horses were evacuated and led to the 1⅛-mile oval track.

The animals were frightened by thousands of spectators and by automobiles that sped back and forth along lanes surrounding the track. Some bolted out of the hands of keepers and trotted off the grounds.

Passengers Surprised

Passengers in a streetcar running alongside Blue Bonnets stared aghast when they saw peering at them the head of a horse galloping abreast of the car.

Two hours after the fire began, track officials and handlers still rounded up stray animals as much as five miles away in the city's northwest district.

Among dead horses were said to be Challemain, Tetro, Primus and Indian Barney.

Fire department officials said the barn was razed in a matter of minutes. Cause was unknown, but it was believed dry hay ignited spontaneously.

Jockey Has Burns

A Japanese-Canadian jockey, Hiromi Uyeyama, 19, of Vancouver, suffered minor burns to the hands when his suitcase was burned while he was fleeing from the wooden structure. Also slightly burned was Mr. Smith, who helped grooms lead frightened animals away.

Flames were visible for miles around and cars jammed Decarie Blvd., a main highway leading into the city. The boulevard is lined with roadside restaurants and clubs, two of which suffered extensive damage within the last few weeks in early-morning fires.

Build Huge Air Base On Okinawa For B-36s

OKINAWA, May 15—(Delayed) —(AP)—The United States is building a huge air base that will bring all East Asia within striking distance of mighty B-36 bombers.

A $65,000,000 construction program is rapidly transforming Kadena airfield into one of the strongest outposts of American power in the Orient.

Okinawa's role is to discourage any aggressive move by the Communists, or to help check such a move if and when it comes.

B-29 Superforts based here have been striking at the Reds in North Korea since the early months of the Korean war.

Police Rush Snake Serum

PORT COLBORNE, May 17—(CP)—A ratlesnake bite serum—rushed by a relay of police cruisers from Windsor to Port Colborne—was administered early today to a woman who was bitten by a two-foot rattler.

The woman, 65-year-old Mrs. Teresa Notar, was bitten on the finger Wednesday night when she reached into a nest while collecting eggs in the barn.

Several snake bite treatments were tried out but were not fully effective. Dr. G. N. Black, who treated Mrs. Notar, found there was none of the antidote known as anti-venom available in the Niagara valley. Only one packet was available in Buffalo, N.Y., 15 miles way.

While Mrs. Notar's son drove to Buffalo for the serum, police made arrangements to bring additional supplies from Windsor where it is manufactured.

The snake, later stunned by blows from a stick, was found to be a prairie rattler, common in the marshy area near the Notar home. It had six rattles.

Bevan Warns Attlee Gov't

LONDON, May 17 (Reuters)—Aneurin Bevan, former Labor minister who led last month's Cabinet revolt, warned the government today that its budget would create enemies within Britian as potent as those outside.

Bevan, who quit the government because he believed Britain's arms drive threatens to lower living standards, has won support for his stand from certain powerful sections of trades unions and local labor parties.

In an article published today in the left-wing magazine Tribune, he attacked "the abandonment of the budget as an instrument for cushioning the underpaid from the worst shocks of the cost of rearmament."

Bevan warned against "the endless opportunities for mischief that this situation will present to certain elements in the community which are more concerned with igniting the hot spots than with improving the lot of the worker"

20 Fanatics Held

JERUSALEM, May 17. (AP)—Twenty young Jewish religious fanatics believed implicated in Monday's plot to burn the Israeli parliament building today were sent to a detention camp today. They were among 50 arrested after the plot was foiled.

Britons Promised 10 More Years Austerity Over Meat Supply, Milk May Be Rationed

LONDON, May 17—(AP)—Britons today were promised 10 more years of austerity over the meat counter.

Not until 1961, food minister Maurice Webb said, can Britons expect as much meat, even, as they were able to buy before the Second World War.

Webb explained:

Britan's normal meat sources—mainly in South America—cannot send all that is needed and "there is no magic wand to provide a sudden increase."

That promise of continued austerity was coupled with new doses of restrictions for the British housewife.

She was told:

Milk may have to be rationed again.

Eggs may not come off the ration as expected this summer.

Coffee and clothing prices are going up—clothing as much as 20 per cent.

There was one slightly-bright item. The bacon ration will be increased next Sunday from four to five ounces a week.

Child Missing Police Fear Kidnapping

Watch Across Ontario For Salesman With Boy 5 In Car

TORONTO, May 17. (CP) — Police throughout Ontario have been alerted to watch for a Toronto man who drove off Wednesday night with five-year-old Martin Frenette from the child's westend home. A senior police officer said they suspect a kidnapping.

Police said they have the name and description of the man and have broadcast the information, together with his car licence number. He is described as a salesman for a Toronto company.

Abie Secord, Toronto barber, said he met the man Wednesday and drove with him to several places to introduce the salesman to prospective customers. Secord said they visited the Frenette home and while there he saw the child climb into the salesman's car.

He said the salesman drove off at once.

Didn't Appear

Police said the man did not return to his rooming house Wednesday night and did not show up for work today.

The child is described as three feet tall, weighing 35 pounds, fair with blue eyes and blond hair. His parents said he had a habit of climbing into parked cars.

The child is the son of a carpenter, William Frenette, who brought his family here from St. John, N.B., two years ago.

Hold 6 Youths On Rape Charge

TORONTO, May 17 — (CP) — Five youths appeared in juvenile court today charged with rape, and a 16-year-old boy was charged as a material witness, in connection with Tuesday night's attack on a 16-year-old salesgirl. They were remanded for one week.

They appeared before juvenile court Judge Hawley S. Mott, who said he felt they all should be tried before one magistrate. Judge Mott said he had the power to order any juvenile over 14 to be tried before an adult court.

Two are 16, three 15 and the other 14.

The girl told police she was stripped and raped by 11 youths in westend Willowvale park.

Police combed the west end of the city for at least five other suspects.

End Salary Dispute At Whitby High School

WHITBY, May 17—(CP)—The salary dispute between high school teachers and the district high school board in this town five miles west of Oshawa was settled Wednesday night with agreement on a $300 annual salary increase to all members of the present staff, effective Sept. 1. The increase will be added to the $200 annual increment normally given.

The dispute, which began early this year, resulted in a blacklist of the board by the Ontario Teachers Federation, which charged at the time that the board refused to discuss salaries.

The federation has agreed to investigate the teaching record of one member of the present staff, to determine whether to back the board in its requests that the teacher resign. Five teachers have already resigned this year.

TORONTO, May 17 (CP)—Approval of the transfer of forward Ike Hildebrand from British Columbia to Ontario was announced today by the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Hildebrand, signed to play with Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Senior Lacross League, formerly played with the New Westminster Salmonbellies of the British Columbia Association.

QUEBEC, May 17—(CP)—About 60 soldiers from nearby Valcartier Camp will face a court martial for their part in a series of fights in Lower Palais station district Wednesday. Military police and city police joined forces to quell the disturbance. Police said the group stopped cars and insulted drivers. Tuesday was payday at Valcartier army camp.

Bradley Wins On Decision To Keep Quiet

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Senate investigators upheld today the refusal of Gen. Omar N. Bradley to testify about President Truman's private talks with his advisers on firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The action sustained a decision by Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the Joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee, that Bradley had a right to keep silent on the talks.

Bradley declined on Tuesday to tell the committees what was said at a White House conference April 6 which led to the President's dismissal of MacArthur as Pacific commander on April 11.

A vote to overturn Russell's ruling could have led to a formal demand that Bradley answer the questions or face possible charges of contempt of Congress.

Badley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, objected that his usefulness as an adviser to President Truman would be ended if he told. Truman backed up the general's reluctance to talk.

But Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) served notice he will fight attempts to lower what he called a similar "iron curtain" around State Secretary Acheson, who is to be a witness later.

It was a foregone conclusion that a Democratic majority—with the aid of Senator Wayne Morse (Rep.-Ore.) and possibly Senator Henry C. Lodge (Rep.-Mass.)—would uphold Bradley's refusal to recount actual conversations.

The Senate armed services and foreign relations committees agreed to vote at 1 p.m. EDT on the move to force Bradley to tell what military and diplomatic leaders—including Acheson—said when they discussed MacArthur's dismissal with the president April 6. MacArthur was fired April 11.

The vote in the Senate committees will come on an appeal by Morse of a ruling by Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.-Ga.), head of the combined committees. Russell upheld Bradley's refusal. Morse, who sides with Russell, made the move to force a showdown after his Republican colleagues had urged delay in deciding the issue.

Bradley said he would not recount actual White House conversations, but he said he is ready to disclose decisions made at the conference.

Democrats met Knowland's "iron curtain" charges with the assertion that Bradley has promised to give the committee any "pertinent" information about the conferences preceding MacArthur's ouster as Pacific commander.

Enemy Fails To Break UN Main Line

96,000 Reds Attack On Eastern Sector, Losses Said High

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, May 18. (Friday)—(AP) — Chinese forces struck Thursday night on the Seoul perimeter, but after a 4½-hour assault they withdrew to lick their wounds.

As they withdrew, the Allied commander holding defences north of the Korean capital estimated there were 400 Red dead on the moonlit battlefield.

Allied artillery pounded the fleeing Reds.

The commanding officer said the Reds eventually were trying to withdraw from the death trap in front of strongly-defended United Nations positions ringing Seoul.

Officers said late Thursday night they believed Allied positions in the area were impregnable.

Waves of attacking Chinese Reds failed to break through the main United Nations defence line.

The Chinese smashed a hole in South Korean ranks and streamed through, but Allied troops rushed up and plugged the gap by nightfall.

The actions were along the east-central front, hottest sector of the 75-mile-wide battleground.

Field dispatches said 96,000 Chinese were attacking in the 25-mile-length of the east central sector in the opening stages of an all-out Communist offensive.

25,000 Gathering

Another 25,000 Reds were reported gathering strength on the Pukhan valley invasion route of the west-central sector.

All along the line Red reserves were packed deep behind the bugle-blowing assault units.

Trains Collide 2 Railmen Killed

WINNIPEG, May 17 (CP)—The bodies of two crew members have been recovered from the wreckage of a collision early today between two CNR freight trains at Postans, Ont., railway officials here said. Postans is 80 miles west of Port Arthur.

The bodies were identified as those of fireman George Miller, 35, and brakeman John Chockla, 25, both of Fort William. They were found in the cab of an eastbound engine which collided with a westbound train at 2:22 a.m.

Engineer Charles Seal, 55, of Port Arthur suffered scalds to the legs. His condition is not serious.

Ten cars and the engine of the eastbound train overturned. The freight heading west remained on the track and no one was injured. Railway officials said the line would be cleared in about 24 hours.

Fight For Pensioners

Legion Criticizes Proposal For Aiding Disabled Vets

OTTAWA, May 17 (CP).—The Canadian Legion said today rising costs have ripped an "appalling" hole in the living standards of war pensioners. The legion also sharply criticized a Government proposal to help out certain pensioners who can't work.

Group Capt. Alfred Watts of Vancouver, Dominion president, told the veterans' committee of the Commons that only an increase in the basic pension rates for all pensioners as well as in war veterans' allowance rates will solve the problem.

He attacked the Government's proposal to pay an "unemployability supplement" to unemployable pensioners as a retrograde and alarming step that would run counter to the entire tradition of Canadian pension policy because it would introduce a means test.

(The committee was told last week about 6,000 of the 167,000 pensioners would benefit from the new supplement of $20 a month for single men, $40 for married men. The top pension for a single man is $90, for a married man without children, $125.)

Group Capt. Watts told the committee:

1. Its terms of reference from the Commons are not broad enough to deal adequately with conditions facing veterans, particularly those on pension or war veterans' allowance. The committee should report back to the House and ask for more power.

2. Pension rates should be boosted at least one-third to restore the pensioner to a status other than that of "an individual living on relief with sub-marginal standards."

3. The war veterans' allowance, paid on a means test to aged or needy "burnt - out" veterans, should be boosted too from the present $40 and $70 a month maximums to $50 and $100.

4. The proposal to pay a special supplement to certain pensioners who are unable to work is "an attempt to ignore a debt of honor." It was a "means test on a pension and will be so understood and so administered."

Atomic Missiles May Change Bombing Tactics

NEW YORK, May 17. (AP)—Time Magazine said Wednesday that atomic-armed missiles now being developed "may well spell the doom of conventional bombing tactics."

The magazine's science editor, Jonathan Norton Leonard, described four types of experimental weapons, intended for launching from ground or air against targets in flight or on the surface.

Leonard painted a word picture of such missiles, soaring at incredible speed and height and picking out targets with an eerie accuracy that surpasses the human mind.

But he cautioned:

"There will never be a gold age of push-button war, with the US getting all the victories and the enemy getting all the grief.

Still Need Infantry

"The older weapons, including the small arms of the infantry, will still be needed and must not be neglected.

Leonard quotes missilemen as saying a war of atom-armed missiles would be followed by a war fought with clubs—as shattered mankind reverts to savagery.

He calls the missiles "birds" and says some fly in tests from New Mexico, Point Mugu in Southern California, Patrick Air Force base in Florida and the navy's converted seaplane tender Norton Sound.

These are the basic types of guided missiles:

Surface-to-air—Finned objects aimed from the ground at planes in flight.

Air-to-air—These can be smaller, carry less fuel and can be fired from one plane at another.

Air-to-ground—These could be launched from a bomber at a surface target. Leonard calls them "the bombers' best chance of passive defense," and says they might keep the bomber out of range of air-to-air and surface-to-air missiles. They can be made big enough to strike with atom bombs.

Surface-to-surface—These vast inter-continental monsters—still in development—are far deadlier than the German V-2 of the Second World War.

From the air, such seeking or homing missiles could be launched by a bomber far enough from the target so the bomber, itself, could escape intereception, he said.

Disapprove China Bombing

OKINAWA, May 17. (AP)—Should the United Nations strike at Communist bases in Manchuria? Many United States Air Force men at the big bomber base here—the men who would do the job—are not convinced it's a good idea. They are not sure the benefits of any such move would outweigh the drawbacks. Here is the way many said they see the problem: If American bombers were assigned to hit Red targets north of the Yalu River border of Korea, they could do serious damage to the Communists' war effort. Air Force men agree such attacks would be of tremendous help to the UN armies fighting on the ground in Korea.

If that were the whole story, Air Force men say, there would be no doubt about the military advantages of bombing Manchurian bases.

But there is another side to the purely-military problem of any venture north of the Yalu by Allied air power.

The air experts say that if B-29s flew to Red target areas north of Antung, Manchuria, at the mouth of the Yalu, they would have to travel without fighter escort. Without jets flying cover, the air force would expect heavy losses of Superforts.

Could Not Be Replaced

Such losses of big bombers could not quickly nor easily be replaced, they say. The result would be a sharp drop in Allied air power.

In their initial strikes, US planes could do serious damage to the enemy's war effort. It is at least doubtful whether the air force could long maintain that level of effectiveness—not if they suffered the losses they say could be expected.

The air force is quick to agree that bombing Manchuria would have serious implications. The big question is: Would the Communists retaliate with their own bombers on US installations in Japan and Okinawa? Would bombing Manchuria mean the beginning of a third world war?

The airmen say that is a question for higher authority.

But just on the military merits, many think the present "ground rules" that make Manchuria immune from Allied air strikes may actually operate in the Allies' favor.

Canada Won't Withdraw From Wheat Pact—Howe

OTTAWA, May 17. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday Canada has no intention of withdrawing from the international wheat agreement. The minister gave this reply in the Commons to opposition members who questioned him on whether Canada would take steps to have prices under the agreement boosted because of the rising world price of wheat.

He said the only action that could be taken by Canada—one of the three producer countries in the agreement—would be to denounce the pact signed two years ago.

"Canada has no intention or desire to do that," he said.

Under the wheat agreement, Canada contracted to supply 203,000,000 bushels a year over four years at prices ranging between set maximum and minimum levels. For the current year the maximum is $1.80 in U.S. funds, which now is being received for Canadian wheat sold under the pact. This amounts to $1.89 Canadian, about 35 cents less than returns for Canadian wheat sold outside the agreement.

Urge Change

Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) suggested Wednesday that in view of this spread and higher costs of farm production, Canada try to reopen the agreement to get a higher ceiling price.

John Diefenbaker (PC, Lake Centre) joined in the suggestion. He asked Mr. Howe whether this could not be done without denouncing the agreement altogether.

The minister replied there are 37 consumer countries in the agreement against three producer signatories and Mr. Diefenbaker would be rather optimistic to think the views of the three could prevail.

Brantford School Taken Off Blacklist

BRANTFORD, May 17—(CP)—The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation is lifting its blacklist on the Brantford Collegiate and Vocational School.

The blacklist was imposed when the board and teachers were unable to reach a salary agreement, and the teachers tendered their resignations.

An arbitration board has been named to consider demands of teachers June 15 and the blacklist will be withdrawn when the board's hearing ends. Teachers are expected to withdraw their resignations before the arbitration board meets.

Enemy Fails

Front-line officers said Red strategy appeared to be to hit the centre of the line regardless of losses.

Communists attacked relentlessly. UN planes, artillery and mine fields took a heavy toll.

"We are killing them by the thousands," a UN air officer said.

Artillery batteries fired at a record pace.

The US eighth army estimated Communist casualties Wednesday at 3,582. The fifth air force said it added 850 Thursday.

Heaviest Fighting

Heaviest fighting was on a 25-mile sector of the east-central front from Chunchon to Inje.

The Chinese break-through was south of Inje, north of the 38th parallel. Two South Korean divisions were reported retreating before the Red onslaught. Elements of two Chinese regiments slipped through the gap in the South Korean ranks.

Every field dispatch referring to the break-through was heavily censored. AP Correspondent William C. Barnard on the east-central front reported the break exposed the flanks of other South Korean units. He said these troops were gravely threatened.

South Koreans to the west gave ground under heavy pressure.

Still farther southwest, in the neighborhood of Chunchon, Americans generally held their positions.

South Koreans Fall Back

South Koreans on the east coast fell back before the attack of Communists streaming off mountain ridges.

Six hundred Communists penetrated South Korean lines north of Hangye. Allied troops rushed to plug up the hole. Hangye is 20 miles inland and seven miles northeast of Inje.

Early Thursday afternoon 1,000 Chinese hit a single sector of an American unit. Americans withdrew from a hill and another allied group promptly attacked to regain the hill.

The main US line held.

The Reds used some 1500-mm artillery, anti-tank guns and recoilless rifles. But mostly they used automatic weapons and mortars.

AP photographer Ed Johnson on the east central front reported a reinforced Chinese regiment—about 2,000 men — was cut to pieces in the high mountains by Allied troops defending trails criss-crossing the country.

One UN officer said Allied forces were making an orderly withdrawal before the Red onslaught. He described the situation as fluid.

Air scouts reported heavy troop movement south and southwest of the Hwachon reservoir, directly north of the central front fighting. Bombers and fighters hammered half a dozen towns in the Red buildup area where UN officers estimate the Communists have massed 390,000 troops.

Dollar Lower

MONTREAL, May 17 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 6 5/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/16 from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.06 5/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.97-11/16, down 3/16.

Pleads Guilty

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing $62.50 from his employer, Joseph Devlin, city delivery truck operator, Lavern Doxsee was placed on suspended sentence in police court this morning.

A condition of the sentence was that he pay back the money. Representing Doxsee, J. C. N. Currelly said that Doxsee didn't turn in some collections to stores when he quit Devlin over a quarrel, in an attempt to get Devlin into trouble.

"I think it was stupid temper, more than deliberate intent," said Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, K.C.

So far the only disclosure about weapons accepted is the decision to adopt the .30 Garand rifle, now in general use in the U.S. army, and possibly the 3.5 bazooka.

Mr. Claxton has said that as a start Canada is getting enough equipment and arms for a division. He disclosed that at the end of the war Canada had enough British-type equipment for five divisions. She has sent enough for two to Europe and has committed a third there.

Problems Confronting Church Requires Efforts Clergy, Laity

The problems confronting the Christian church in the modern world require the combined efforts of clergy and laity to resolve, J. L. McKeever Wednesday night told the spring meeting of the Great Chapter, Church of England rural deanery of Peterborough.

One of the purposes of a Great Chapter is to unify and strengthen the clerical and lay life of the church within the deanery.

The membership of the Great Chapter consists of the clergy of the rural deanery, churchwardens and lay members of synod from congregations within the deanery and five additional laymen from each parish in the Peterborough deanery.

Ninety clergy and laymen attended St. John's parish hall and heard Mr. McKeever of All Saints' parish speak on the "Aims and objects of a rural deanery."

"The problems and tasks confronting the Christian church today are more than the clergy can, or can be expected to cope with," he said.

He quoted Albert Einstein, world-famous mathematical physicist, who commented on the problems posed by the discovery of atomic energy: "Our real problem is in the hearts and minds of men. It is not a problem of physics but of ethics. Man's skills have outstripped his morals. His engineering has leaped ahead of his wisdom. We cannot cancel or call back his scientific advances, but we can and must, if the world is to survive, help man to catch up."

Mr. McKeever said the Christian church is the only rock to which bewildered people can cling, and only the practise of Christ's teachings will allow man morality to catch up to his technilogical progress.

Must Go Forward

"The Church must survive, it must go forward, and it must help bewildered mankind towards the serenity, confidence, and feeling of obligation toward one's fellow men that only the message of the Gospels can give."

"It can only do this by the combined effort, the teamwork of both clergy and laity. It follows then, that if the Great Chapter can unify and strengthen the clerical and lay life of the church, it will be performing an exceedingly important function."

Mr. McKeever conceded that laymen are doing a great deal—acting as wardens, sidesmen, parish councillors, etc. — but he thought the rank and file could do a good deal more to advance the missionary effort of the church.

Among those present were the Venerable Archdeacons W. P. Robertson and C. W. Balfour and clergy from the 12 deanery parishes. The Rev. Walter J. Gilling, St. Luke's is the Peterborough rural dean. And Dr. G. Stewart Cameron is the lay chairman

Minor Bills Cleared By Commons

OTTAWA, May 17 (CP)—The Commons tackled a bit of housecleaning Wednesday.

In a day of odds and ends, it cleared a handful of minor bills from the order paper and completed a clause-by-clause study of the new Indian Act, which brings older Indian statutes up to date. The new act now awaits final reading.

Bills adopted include those tightening consumer-credit regulations, increasing workmen's compensation for government employees in the Yukon and implementing terms of the will of the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

What little debate there was developed on the consumer-credit bill. James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said the legislation is intended to plug loopholes in the restrictions imposed last fall as an anti-inflationary weapon.

Beating Regulations

He said that some consumers have been circumventing the regulations by using department store charge accounts to evade them. In other cases, some firms installed electric refrigerators and gave the purchaser unlimited time to pay.

The government had no figures to indicate the effectiveness of the curbs, but it did know that there had been a drop in the number of cars sold on the instalment plan while cash sales of cars had gone up.

The regulations now call for a 50-per-cent down payment on the purchase of motor cars and one-third down on other goods. The remainder of the purchase prices must be paid within 12 months.

The bills implementing the Mackenzie King will provide for the upkeep and administration of Laurier House, Mr. King's Ottawa home, and Kingsmere, his country place. Both were left to the state.

MOH Tells Lions Change Pool Before Opening

The Lions Club swimming pool is going to have some changes made before it can open, this year, said Dr. R. A. Kelly city medical oficer of health at a meeting of the Board of Health Wednesday.

Dr. Kelly said that last year he submitted a list of recommendations to the Lions Club and although he received many promises, only one of the eight changes was made.

Consequently the pool operated illegally without the sanction of the Board of Health which the Ontario Department of Health requires.

"It's something new to me," Doug Anderson, chairman of the Lions swimming pool committee, told The Examiner today.

"The only change asked for that I know of was the enclosing of the chlorinater, which was done. I haven't heard of any other changes asked for." Mr. Anderson said he would speak to Dr. Kelly today.

Dr. Kelly said he could close the pool by laying charges, but he added "I don't want to do that."

"Is it a matter of neglect?" board chairman Ald. John A. Dewart asked.

"I would say so," said the MOH.

Ald. Patrick Anglesey said he understood work was being done at the pool now and added that after talking recently to members of the pool committee of the Lions Club, he was sure they would be more than willing to co-operate. He was named by the board to confer with the committee at its future meetings to get the difficulties smoothed out.

Dr. Kelly said his recommendations and suggestions had been that tests be made daily to check on the concentration of chlorine in the water and the amount of chlorine residue. A check should also be made frequently to make sure the water tested as weak alkaline. The water must also be able to pass as Class A water in a bacteriological test.

Dr. Kelly said the chlorinator in the building should be sectioned off. No more than three swimmers should be allowed for every 1,000 gallons of water in the pool. The final suggestion was that a daily record be kept of the results of the chlorine tests, the bacteriological tests and the alkaline tests.

Find Prices Steadier At Higher Levels

TORONTO, May 17— (CP) — Prices steadied at the higher levels as the session progressed on the Stock Market today.

Industrials chalked up gains ranging to more than a point. Papers led the list with a wide array of issues higher and steels, utilities, agricultures, constructions, banks, refining oils, foods and liquors followed close behind. Textiles, manufacturing companies and retail stores were mixed.

Golds showed signs of breaking their trading slump of the last three months.

Among seniors McIntyre jumped $1.50 and Kerr Addison, Malartic, Dome, Giant Yellowknife, and Lake Shore were up fractions. In the secondary gold group Sullivan, Pickle Crow, Macassa, Macleod, Cockshutt and Cochenour Willans climbed pennies.

Consolidated Smelters was up $1 in the otherwise fractionally higher base metal section. Western oils advanced.

Like Sardines On Japan Trip

HASTINGS, May 17—Canadian troops of the Special Force sailed in a ship to Japan equipped to accommodate less than half the number of soldiers it actually did carry, Sapper Ken McColl of Hastings reported in a letter home this week to a friend, Leo M Petticrew.

Spr. McColl, a veteran of four years in World War II, wrote the letter on the way over.

"We are on a boat that is supposed to hold 1,200 troops. There are 2,850 Canadian and American troops on here and we are packed in like sardines. There isn't the proper amount of food and we can sleep only in relays," he wrote.

He said he was assigned to a compartment which had beds in it for 30. But 122 soldiers were put in the compartment.

"When I volunteered for special force service, I knew there would be hardships, but not this bad. All through the last war we never had it like this.

"I am not beefing but I would like the people at home to know the present travelling conditions in this war."

SPR. KEN McCOLL, Hastings, who arrived in Japan recently, wrote a letter home complaining that he and other Canadian and American troops were jammed into a ship without sufficient food in the trip from Fort Lewis, Washington.

Trucks Collide

NORKOLK, Va., May 17—(AP) — Two ammunition-laden navy trucks collided near here Wednesday, but none of the shells exploded. Reverts To Status Of Two-Room School

BETHANY, May 17. (ENS) — With the closing of the school term in June, Bethany school, which became a continuation school in 1929, teaching grades IX and X, will revert to the status of a two-roomed public school.

This year an arrangement was made for the schools in Manvers township to join the Victoria county high school area and since March of this year, some of the pupils have been transported by bus to Lindsay High School. As this has always been a joint school section with a part of Cavan township, some of the pupils have also attended Peterborough Collegiate, their transportation being arranged by a mutual agreement with the trustees and ratepayers from Cavan, who have a school bus for the township.

The teachers for the coming year have been hired for Bethany School. Mrs. Orlo Wright will teach the Senior Room, grades five to eight inclusive. Miss Velma Thexton will teach the Junior grades one to four inclusive.

The Provincial-Municipal Committee

The announcement by Premier Leslie Frost that a committee to investigate provincial-municipal relationships will be appointed the end of this month will be welcomed by municipalities and municipal ratepayers throughout the province. An investigation of this nature could, and should, prove a preliminary to a revision of certain aspects of such relationships, and local government leaders have long contended that revision is urgently needed in the financial relationships between the province and the municipalities and that revision of functional relationships might also be desirable.

* * *

The change that would be acclaimed by most municipalities and ratepayers would be a revision of grants and taxation which would lighten the present burden of the real estate taxpayer by meeting an increased share of municipal operating costs out of provincial revenue. Premier Frost indicated that the committee would investigate several aspects of the matter of taxation and grants, and that a formula for redistributing the burden of costs would be sought. There is no certainty that a formula will be found, but the fact that a search will be made is encouraging.

* * *

It was indicated that the committee might also take up the matter of municipal control over the budgets of boards of education. A number of municipal officials have protested against a situation in which a council's attempts to economize may be nullified by school board expenditures over which the council has no control.

* * *

Reeve Ann Shipley of Tech Township has suggested that school boards be required to requisition their needs from councils, as a possible solution to the problem. Reeve Shipley added that if this were done, "at least people would know where their money was going."

* * *

Municipalities' control of school board expenditures, we think, is a delicate matter, demanding careful and most serious consideration. While we can fully sympathize with councils in the situation outlined above, it must not be forgotten that boards of education are elected bodies, put in office by popular vote to conduct and transact a municipality's educational affairs. Their responsibility, therefore, is to the voting public and not the municipal council. And, by the action of electing school trustees, the voters confer on those trustees the power to set a tax rate to raise revenue needed for educational purposes. Furthermore, school trustees are required to give an accounting to show people where their money was going." The proposal to require school boards to requisition revenue from councils is highly debatable, to say the least, and the matter will be followed with interest throughout Ontario if it is discussed by the committee.

* * *

Premier Frost pointed out that the preferable method of helping municipalities financially would be to grant them additional powers of taxation. He went on, however, to remind his audience—the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves—that the granting of additional taxing powers invariably was accompanied by duplication of taxation. It was a timely reminder, for the people of this province, and others, are more than sufficiently burdened with duplication of taxation as it is. Every attempt should be made to prevent additional duplication, and it may be found in a system of unspecified grants, with the exception of grants for roads and education, which obviously must continue to be earmarked.

* * *

As far as we have seen, no reference was made to a phase of functional relationship, we would like to see examined by the promised committee. We refer to the procedure by which the province may, in effect, set the wage rate of certain municipal employees in the event of disputes. We do not contend that such disputes should not be submitted to arbitration but we know that dissatisfaction with the present procedure has been expressed on several occasions. It is a fitting subject for a provincial municipal committee to investigate, and we hope it is introduced at the committee's meetings.

Is A Drunk Driver In Control Of His Car?

The Lord Chief Justice of Great Britain, sitting in a divisional court, recently gave an interesting opinion which deserves the attention of everyone in Canada who is concerned about the problem of drunk driving. It was presented to his lordship that a man who was on trial before him was so drunk that he could not be described as "in control of" his car; a first trial court had dismissed the case against him on these grounds. The Lord Chief Justice looked upon this line of pleading as a legal quibble and nothing more; the man may have been incapably drunk, but so far as anyone controlled his car, he was that man. Therefore the full penalty of the law was imposed upon him.

His lordship's interpretation of the law in this matter appeals to the common sense. A man who is too drunk to drive his car properly has nevertheless set it in motion; therefore it is a quibble to say that he is not responsible for what happens under those conditions.

The law of Ontario, however, presents a curious instance of the application of a similar law. Less than a year ago Mr. Justice Aylesworth held that a man who appeared before him was not in control of his car because he had drunkenly rammed it into a snowbank, and could not budge it; therefore he was not "in control of" it. When the police found him he was immobile, and the fact that he was drunk was irrelevant to the charge brought against him.

Most people, we think, will prefer the attitude of the Lord Chief Justice. If a man can start a car and sit at the wheel as it moves, he must surely be considered to be in control of it, insofar as it is controlled at all. Once again we point out the danger of making a plea of extreme drunkenness a favourite one in cases in which innocent people are put in danger or terror. If it becomes safer to be dead drunk than slightly drunk, what hope have we of persuading people to remain sober?

Shakespeare Was Wrong

There is something in a name; at any rate that is the opinion of the majority of people, judging from the frequent changes in place names in the past fifty years. To take one topical example, the headquarters of the Communist regime in China is usually referred to in this country as Peiping, while in despatches from the United Kingdom it is called by the old name of Peking. The suffix "king" indicates in China a capital city, the seat of government, as Peiping was under the Manchu emperors. Under Chiang-Kai-shek the capital was moved to Nanking, and the northern city renamed Peiping. When the Communists decided to make their headquarters in the North they rechristened it (or whatever Communists do in such circumstances) Peking. The British government, having recognized the new government, have of course switched back to the old name; the Americans and ourselves, still recognizing Chiang-Kai-shek, conform to Chinese Nationalist usage. If at any time we were to recognize Red China—an unlikely step at this moment—we would start talking about Peking again.

Leaving aside the countless changes in the names of ordinary towns there has been a considerable number of changes in the names of capitals. At the beginning of this century the capital of Russia was St. Petersburg. During the First World War the name was changed to Petrograd, as St. Petersburg was a German name. At the Revolution it was once again changed to Leningrad, in honour of the St. Peter of the new Communist religion. It was several years before the newspapers of the Western world changed over to the new name, which stuck in many people's throats. In the meanwhile Leningrad had sunk to the level of a provincial town, and Moscow, the old capital, became once again the capital of All the Russias.

The Norwegians changed the name of their capital from Christiania to Oslo, a sensible move that has doubtless saved many tons of wood-pulp and printer's ink. On the other hand the Irish effort at renaming Dublin Baile Atha Cliath has not caught on, even in Ireland, though every letter from the Irish capital is postmarked with this cumbrous name.

Amidst this welter of international changes we almost forgot that the name of our own capital was changed back in 1854. It looks as though we set the fashion.

America's Mood—War And Peace

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNOR

TO generalize about the mood of a country is notoriously risky, and doubly so in the case of so large and variegated a country as America. The following impressions are based on a five-week tour, during which the author visited six cities, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, New York and Boston—and had conversations and discussions with about a hundred people, chiefly journalists, businessmen, and professors, who presumably did not always express only their own opinions but also reflected those of the circles with which they were in regular contact. That is, of course, nothing like a sufficient statistical basis for a scientific public opinion survey. Still, if in dozens of conversations in widely separated parts of the country certain questions, opinions and arguments appear again and again, with startling regularity and sometimes almost in the same phrases, a definite pattern begins to form in the visitor's mind. It may be inaccurate and incomplete, but it comes at any rate nearer the observable truth than assumptions based merely on reading newspapers and magazines, let alone on prejudice and imagination.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE such assumption, very widespread in Britain and Western Europe, is that the Americans are people of bouncing self-confidence, naively certain that they know all the answers, inclined to throw their weight about, and given to hysteria in times of crisis. This assumption, like so many European ideas about America, is probably based on memories of the "jazz age" America of the 'twenties—the last time when many Europeans had an opportunity to travel in America and form first-hand impressions. It is today completely and utterly off the mark.

America lives at this moment in a twilight between peace and war as odd, and as unnerving, as the "phoney war" period in France and Britain in the winter of 1939-40. The atmosphere is quite different from that of Western Europe. Western Europe today is anxious, nervously hopeful, a little escapist. Its real worry is not war but poverty. What it is really suffering from is the new austerity imposed by preparation for a war which, people still fervently hope, may never come.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMERICA does not yet acutely suffer from her new gigantic rearmament effort. Business is booming, everybody has money, the shop-windows are still dazzling and the roads are choked with cars. But for Americans the question is not, as for Europeans, whether the war will ever come. It is whether or not it has already begun.

In Europe the Korean war looks small and far-away. In America it looms near and large. With 250,000 young Americans in the fighting line, with 10,000 dead, 10,000 missing, 40,000 wounded, with every young conscript mentally ready to receive his marching orders for Korea at any time, with the mentally ready to receive his marching orders for Korea at any time, with the casualty lists coming in daily, and some 1,500 American families receiving dreaded telegrams from the War Department every week, this undeclared and unacknowledged war has a terrible reality for Americans. It is invisible, but it is there, in a ghost-like manner. And it makes people rub their eyes again and again and ask themselves in bewilderment: "Where are we? Is this peace or war? And if it is war—how long can we go on pretending it is not?"

✧ ✧ ✧

THE basic American attitude to peace and war has been brilliantly analyzed by Margaret Mead, the anthropologist in her study of the American character. She observes that small American boys are given two conflicting guidances by their mothers with regard to fighting. On the one hand, they are never to start a fight, on the other, they are to be brave and tough. Their way out of this dilemma is to put chips on their shoulders as a silent challenge to anyone to tear them off and thus provoke their wearers to a fight which they have not started, but in which they can prove themselves brave and tough.

This childhood pattern, Margaret Mead plausibly argues, determines the adult American's unconscious attitude to peace and war. America has never started a major war without having clearly put a chip on her shoulder and having had it torn off; the Confederation had to attack Fort Sumter, Germany had to declare unlimited U-boat war, and Japan had to attack Pearl Harbour; then, with the chip torn off and the Americans conscience set at rest, there was no limit to the toughness and settled determination with which America waged "all-out war".

✧ ✧ ✧

KOREA does not conform to that pattern at all. Korea, unlike Western Europe was not clearly a chip on America's shoulder; the Americans surprised themselves a little when in a sudden flash of determination they went to the aid of the Republic of Korea which they seemed to have written off six months before. They are not waging "all-out" war with any of the feeling of fierce release which has carried them to victory in the great wars of their history. They are waging something like an 18th Century European guerre de Cabinet—a limited war which is meant to be just a piece in a diplomatic jig-saw, a thing utterly alien to their experience and character.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF this is really understood, the frequent and disturbing changes in the American mood about the Korean war become less surprising. Every time the pressure of the war rises, the Americans seem to ask themselves: "Is this it? Has the chip been torn off this time?" Then, not receiving a clear answer, angered, teased and frustrated, they relapse into something not unlike consternation. Around the New Year, when the Chinese were sweeping over the 38th Parallel, the country was almost in a Pearl Harbour mood. Two months later, with the military situation somewhat stabilized, it seemed to shut its eyes and try to forget the whole bloody mess. Even now, there is no settled attitude. It would take very great leadership, based on a deep and subtle insight into the nation's mind, to produce and maintain one.

ON A STRICT DIET

Peron And Franco

(By J. HALCRO FERGUSON)

RELATIONS between Spain and Argentina have recently been decidely strained. On the Argentine side there is annoyance at Spain's failure to fulfil her commercial commitments. On the Spanish side there is resentment at Argentina's failure to regard Spain as in any real sense a Mother Country, and dislike of Argentina's assumption of superiority.

But the difference between the two regimes is more fundamental than that. Outsiders often tend to speak of Franco Spain and Peronista Argentina as if they were identical: they see two Spanish-speaking countries ruled by soldiers, both in a more or less dictatorial fashion, both with some considerable support from the local Catholic hierarchy, and both showing some sympathy for certain "Nazi" or "Fascist" ideas and methods.

Here, however, the resemblance ends. Franco achieved power at the end of three bloody years of civil war, and there is very little doubt that at no time has he enjoyed the support of a majority of the population. Peron — however regrettable certain circumstances attending his election — was in fact elected by the majority of the voters of Argentina. Franco draws his principal support from the Army and the big landowners (though he is steadily losing the approval of both); in Argentina an influential section of the Army has always opposed Peron, and the landowning classes hate him bitterly.

When Senora de Peron speaks of her "beloved shirtless ones"—herself dressed in furs and diamonds—it may make foreigners laugh, but it does not make Argentine workers laugh. Whatever may have gone on behind the scenes, Peron's eventual success was assured on the famous "Dieciseite de Octubre" (October 17, 1945) which was a working-class revolution. Peron was swept to power because he opposed a cautious conservative regime. Franco seized power to put back exactly the sort of people whom Peron promised to overthrow in Argentina.

This difference in attitude is equally evident in the references of the two dictators to foreign affairs. Franco, in the same way that he opposes all working-class movements at home, attacks not only Communism but all forms of Socialism abroad. The Spanish Press loses no opportunity of sniping at the Labour Government in Great Britain. With the more capitalistic U.S. Senators Franco gets on extremely well.

Peron, on the other hand, ran for President in 1946 as leader of the "laborista" party, even though it has now been renamed the "Peronista" party. He has told Socialist visitors from Britain that he considers himself a Socialist. And his great bogey—in the press, on the radio, in speeches—is not Russian Communism but "imperialismo yanqui".

Peron's slogan is "Social Justice"—however little it may mean. Franco's is simpler, and perhaps franker — "Franco! Franco! Franco!" For this reason is known in Spain as "el sordo", the deaf man: he has to be called three times.

Here is one of the greatest differences between the two regimes. In Argentina no-one makes wisecracks about the regime, except in private. In Spain everybody does. In the Argentine the opponents of the regime are a mipority, and only the bravest of them, like Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, former editor of "La Presna", dare speak out. In Spain no-one is afraid to say what he thinks.

✧ ✧ ✧

PART of the reason for this is that, as a dictatorship, Franco's Government is in the horse-and-buggy era, while Peron's has all the frightening, streamlined efficiency of the modern totalitarian state. In Argentina you do have the definite feeling that "Big Brother is Watching You". You lower your voice without thinking. You avoid discussing politics with anyone you do not know really well. In Spain you do not worry—people are, of course, imprisoned and shot in Spain (few people are shot in Argentina except "by accident") but they are quite often the wrong people. Spain is the most clumsy, inefficient, arbitrary dictatorship I have ever known.

But there is more to it than that. The Spanish dictatorship cannot be effective precisely because the majority of the people is against it—and despises and laughs at it. No-one is afraid that someone else will denounce them.

In Argentina people are afraid, and, unlike the Spaniards, they will always do what authority tells them, without questioning the morality or the intelligence of that authority. And that is why the immediate future of the Spaniards looks brighter, despite the pseudo-progressiveness of Argentina — and despite the beefsteaks which put her standard of living far above anything Spain has ever known.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities. (Matt. 11: 1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

After these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come. Therefore he said unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest....And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you: and heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you...

And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven. (Luke 10: 1, 2, 8, 9, 17-20.)

Motherhood

(St. Catharines Standard)

It is said that the American woman who originated the idea that there should be a Mother's Day observance in America became greatly distressed in the course of the years when she witnessed that as a day it was being heavily commercialized. Certainly, the remembrance of one's own mother is something that does or should not require any sales talk. And to think of it, the word "Mother" itself is one of the most beautiful in the English language.

There are countless ways of honouring motherhood. It must be left to the individual, to one's own wellspring of goodness. From the fount of all wisdom, the Bible of our forefathers, there comes the injunction quite appropriate: "Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God hath given thee."

The U.N. Bureau of Statistics has published a second edition of a Demographic Directory, giving population and migration statistics for more than 250 countries and territories.

The Directory estimates the total world population at 2,400 millions, representing an increase of 500 millions since 1920.

The mortality rates—including those of infants and of adults at various ages—are presented in a series of tables. Others, showing the rate of international migration, give some idea of population movements.

Hollywood Turns To Bible For Super Films

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Hollywood has rediscovered the Bible as one of the great sources of sp[illegible]ar motion pictures.

The Good Book, virtually untapped since the '20s when "The Ten Commandments," "Ben Hur," "King of Kings" and "The Sign of the Cross" made movie history, has been getting a thorough thumbing.

Leader in the new cycle is the same man who started the first one — Cecil B. DeMille. When the famed director of cinema epics hit the jackpot in 1949 with a gaudy version of the Old Testament story of Samson and Delilah, the race was on.

Now two studios have Bible-based colossals ready for release next fall.

One, "Quo Vadis," a story of Christian martyrdom in Nero's Rome, was filmed in Italy at a record cost of $6,500,000. The other is "David and Bathsheba."

Other producers plan films about Adam and Eve, Mary Magdalene and Jesus Christ.

DeMille, who has brought four Bible stories to the screen, holds no other source combines so many of the elements of drama: love, hate, loyalty, treachery, passion, faith, selfishness and self-sacrifice. He once said: "You can make a film from any 60 pages of the Bible."

In "The Ten Commandments," filmed in 1923 at a cost of $1,400,000, he used 4,000 extras and 6,000 animals. In the climactic scene the Red Sea parted before the Israelites, then closed in on the pursuing army of the Pharoah.

MGM's $4,000,000 "Ben Hur," released in 1926, was no less awesome Its fabled chariot race is considered by many the most thrilling scene on film.

The big scene in DeMille's 1927 "King of Kings" was Christ's crucifixion. It showed some 6,000 actors winding up a tortuous path to the Hill of Golgotha.

Story of the Flood

"Noah's Ark," a 1928 effort by Darryl Zanuck, is remembered only for its recreation of the flood.

DeMille rebuilt ancient Rome for "The Sign of the Cross" in 1933. An added attraction was Claudette Colbert taking a milk bath.

"Samson and Delilah" had Victor Mature slaying a lion with his bare hands and slaughtering an army with the jawbone of an ass.

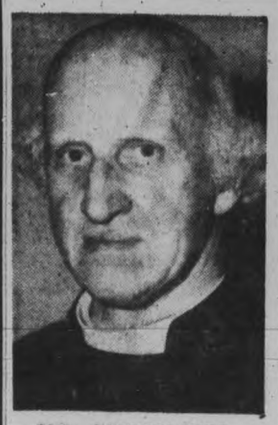
"Quo Vadis" features a scene in Nero's arena with 60 lions pitted against a handful of Christians. "David and Bathsheba" shows David killing the giant Goliath with his slingshot and assaulting the walls of Rabbah with his army.

"King of Kings," the most-played film of all time, has been seen by almost a billion people and is still shown 1,500 times yearly, mostly in churches.

DeMille considers religion the greatest theme in the world and the Bible the "greatest dramatic force."

He doesn't hesitate, however, to sugar-coat his message. Some churchmen objected to "Samson" on the grounds it put too much emphasis on the strong man's love affair with Delilah.

DeMille, although his name is synonymous with Bible films, was no pioneer in the field. The movie industry cut its teeth on them.



Hollywood made scores of them in the early 1900s as did studios in France, Italy and Germany. One of the first was "Star of Bethlehem," produced in 1907 by Thomas Edison.

"Quo Vadis," based on a best selling novel, has been made four times. The French did it first in 1902. A 1902 version produced in Italy ran nine reels and was the longest picture made up to that time. The third, also Italian, starred Emil Jannings.

In recent years the non-profit Cathedral Films, Inc., has turned out more than 30 short features based on Bible stories. It reports demand exceeds the supply and some 4,000,000 people see them weekly.

Distance, Speed Plus Timing But Don't Hurry Downswing

START—As Al Ciuci starts his backswing, the body turns naturally, with the arms and left knee bent slightly. He is Fresh Meadow's famous playing professional.

By SAM SNEAD
Former British Open, P.G.A. and Masters Champion

As the backswing is started on wood shots, your body turns naturally with your arms and the left knee bending slightly.

About halfway back, your wrists start to cock and at the top of the swing the club should be over your shoulders, just about parallel with the ground. Only practice can give you the "feel" when you have reached the top of your backswing.

Never hurry that swing!

Take your time on the backswing, pause when you reach the top. Start the downswing smoothly and unhurriedly.

Some golfers think that if you don't hurry the downswing you will lose power in the stroke. This is not true. Speed and timing produce distance and most of the speed of the clubhead is generated when it is only three to three-and-a-half feet from the ball. This is the point at which you begin to unleash the power in your wrists.

On the downswing and follow through, the weight shifts entirely to the left foot, but at the moment of impact the weight is as evenly distributed as when addressing the ball.

The hands, too, return to the same position they had at the address of the ball. That is the only position for the hands if the club face is to meet the ball squarely.

Always keep your head behind the ball. This will cure many of your faults of trying to force the ball by pulling your body or hands in front of the clubhead.

Just relax and let the club do the work.

NEXT: Putting is half the game, says Jim Ferrier.

Father Played COBL Son Plays Professional

Jack Rutherford of the pitching staff of the St. Paul team of the American Association is a son of Dr. Fred Rutherford of Detroit, and a grandson of Mr. Percy Rutherford of Peterborough.

The St. Paul team is one of eight comprising the American Association, which is of "AAA" rating, in the same category as the International League. His father used to play shortstop with the Peterborough team in the COBL. He is a graduate of the Collegiate Institute and also of the old Cressman team in the local city league.

In one of his recent games, Jack Rutherford stopped a Toledo rally, allowing no hits in a St. Paul win that was credited to the starting pitcher.

The American Association includes Milwaukee, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Louisville.

P. E. Rutherford recently returned from a month's visit with his son in Detroit, and saw his grandson in action.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Golf season officially opens here Saturday with ceremonies planned both at the Peterborough Golf Club and the Kawartha Golf club. Of course a flock of divot-diggers have been out for some weeks, not awaiting the official nod. Big golfing event in this country is the Canadian Open and it'll be held July 4-7 on Toronto's Missisauga course. Again 'tis doubtful if a Canadian breaks the string of 35 lean years by keeping the big trophy on Canuck soil. Top money now is $15,000 and that attracts the best competitive pros from the big-money tourney circuit of the States. That's good pay in any language.

* * * * * *

Canadians face two handicaps when going against these aces who make their living at the game. We can't play during the winter in this country, and then few Canadian golfers can give full time to tournament play. We've had good pros here in Peterborough—Lex Robson won a flock of cups—but these fellows can't take too much time away from their club duties. Same applies to most pros in Canada, while there are far more big-money tournaments across the border and down south to attract good golfers into making it a full-time profession. However, several starry players in this country stand a chance even against the pick of the American pros.

Tigers Playing Petes

Weather being right, Miller Bowl should be filled Friday p.m. at 8.45 when the OLA senior "A" season opens. It's Hamilton Tigers against the Petes. Most if not all of the Petes' new players—as well as the best of last year's squad—will be in action, and fans have been waiting a long time to see how the bolstered Timbermen go this semester in the rugged gutted-stick sport. Tigers have been busy building, too, and will certainly go all out in an attempt to dump the Petes in this first one. Coach Don Crowe will probably be in the lineup on defence. He and his men are in good shape for so early, having gone through a bunch of stiff drills in recent weeks. It ought to be a swell scrap Friday.

The senior baseballers are off Saturday for Toronto's Millen Stadium to play Staffords at four, after an Oshawa-Kingsway game at two there. It's the official opening of the Viaduct Major League, a five-club circuit this semester with each team playing 40 games. Both Oshawa and the Petes will play under the arcs, while Toronto teams will have some afternoon jousts Saturdays and Sundays, and some night contests. Manager Ed Whitehill hasn't announced his starting lineup, waiting until almost game time to settle on several positions. First game here is expected on May 24.

Big Doings At Bethany

Bethany plans a big sports day on May 24. A parade at one o'clock (fast time), races for all ages, tug-of-war, baseball betwixt Millbrook and Bethany seniors, winner to meet Janetville, and girls' softball between Orono and Bethany. Evening entertainment has magician Ted Bradshaw, soprano Frances Margaret Hornsell, Buzz Hornsell in imitations, and the "Four Hoarsemen", one of Peterborough's barbershop quartets. Also a dance, we're told. The old Victoria Day celebration should draw 'em from far and wide—the doings being staged by the Bethany Athletic Association.

Here's a grab-bag on lacrosse items gleaned from various sheets. Bill Killingbeck of Peterborough is with Fergus Thistles. St. Kitts are holding up releases on Harry Wipper and Nit O'Hearn, at least temporarily. Season reserve seat ducats at $10 for 14 games may be had at the CNR uptown office till 10 a.m. tomorrow, but one-buck reserves for single games may be had there up till six p.m. Friday. Junior OLA-ers (who drill tonight at seven) play Toronto juniors in the lacrosse tourney at Alliston tomorrow eve. PMLA juves and midgets have a combinated practice in the secondary box tonight, the peewees go at 10 a.m. Saturday, while there's a twin bill Saturday night starting at seven. Toronto Green Gaels meet the local all-star midgets, followed by Toronto and Peterborough juveniles.

Palm Leaf Manuscripts

NEW DELHI—(CP)—More than 4,000 palm-leaf manuscripts, some of them nearly 1,000 years old, were displayed at the National Museum here. The longest manuscript was 34 inches, written in perfectly preserved black ink on palm leaf imported from Indonesia during the medieval period.

Player Changes Sweeping In Lacrosse

TORONTO, May 17 (CP). — A bewildering series of player changes in the Ontario Lacross Association Senior A circuit, together with the resignation from the league of Weston and the Canadian champion Owen Sound Crescents, promises to leave competition wide open among the seven senior teams.

Two of the top-rated teams meet in the opening game Friday when Hamilton Tigers play at Peterborough.

The Petes have done a building job, and have Lloyd (Moon) Wootton, outstanding Owen Sound goalie last year, in their nets. They have also imported forward Ike Hildbrand from Vancouvr, Ross Powless from Six Nations Indian Reserve near Brantford, and five others from Owen Sound and St. Catharines.

Hamilton will stay with nearly all of last year's third-place team but has signed on two intermediate Hamilton players and a Brampton forward.

New Entry

Fergus Thistles are a new entry in the league, and while they plan to rely mainly on local talent they have signed forwards Bill Mackie of St. Catharines and Bill Killingbeck of Peterborough, and goalie Ralph Speck of last year's Petes.

St. Catharines Athletics, with many of last year's players moved away, plan a year of building, and president Art Brown says two-thirds will be junior-age players, most of them from last year's Dominion junior champs.

Brampton Excelsiors are also relying on young local players. Team official Walt Smart says the team has a few veterans to bolster a number of young, inexperienced players.

Last year's Toronto Riverdales have a new name—West Yorks, and have picked up five players from the defunct Weston squad. They are also trying to sign two St. Catharines forwards, Jim McNulty and Leo Pedro.

Mimico Mountaineers plan to operate with last year's fifth-place team, but plan a deal to get five former Weston players who are now controlled by West Yorks.

Remember When—

Jess Willard, world heavyweight champion from 1915 to 1918, came out of retirement 28 years ago today to sign for a fight against Luis Angel Firpo. Willard had lost his title to Jack Dempsey four years earlier. When Firpo knocked him out, that was the end of the ring for the giant Willard.

With a field of at least 48 entries, they'll run the King's Plate trial at the 1951 opening of the Ontario Jockey Club's Woodbine meeting at Toronto Saturday in three sections. The previous high was two sections.

Fifty-seven horses still are eligible for the plate.

Race followers expect that the three-section trial will serve to clog up the plate, blue-ribbon Canadian racing event which is run a week later. Without use of a starting gate, the track could accommodate 25 horses in the plate. With a gate, it might be held to 18—12 in the regular stalls and six in a half-gate if it is available. The outcome of the trials probably will determine the size of the field in the plate.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, 42-year-old German tennis star, has been refused a visa by the French Government to play in the French international championships in Paris May 22-June 3.

No explanation was given for the refusal, which also extended to another German player named Klenscroth. Fifty-nine foreign players from 20 countries will participate in the tournament.

A four-team round robin series for the Alexander Cup will be suggested at the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association meeting in Halifax next week.

Dr. Sandy MacDonald, president of four-time Maritime champions Sydney Millionaires, said Wednesday night he would make the suggestion.

The winners of the four major leagues would set a sprightly gait for the fans, he said.

One of the biggest betting fights in recent years appeared in the making Wednesday as Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Johnny Bratton of Chicago wound up their training for Friday night's welterweight championship bout at New York.

The odds today still favored Gavilan at 5 to 8½ to win the world title, but prospects were they would shorten to 5-7 or even tighter by the time the two boys enter the ring at 9 p.m. (EST).

At Sunningdale, Eng., Scotsman John Panton fired a sizzling 66 over the 6,519-yard Sunningdale golf course Wednesday to spread-eagle the international field in the first round of the "Daks" 72-hole $5,600 pro golf tournament.

Panton, a candidate for the British Ryder Cup team to play America this fall, was unaffected by the north wind which hampered Bobby Locke, the South African holder of the British open championship. Locke carded a 73, two shots better than the score of Art Clark, the Huntington, West Va., pro.

The Joe Louis-Lee Savold ifght was made a 15-round affair Wednesday. When the fight originally was announced it was a 12-round bout.

The former world champion meets Savold, listed as the world heavyweight in Britain, in the New York Polo Grounds on Wednesday night, June 13. The change was made at the request of Savold.

West German athletes "will not buy their way into the Olympic Games by making concessions to Communism," a member of the West German Olympic committee said Wednesday.

The committee met to consider the international Olympic committee's invitation to take part in the next Olympic Games.

The international group directed Germans of the east and west zones to form an all-German Olymp... committee as a precondition for admitting German athletes to the games. East and West Germany have separate national committees at the present time.

Baker Sparks Chiefs To 6-2 Victory

By the Associated Press.

It appears that life has begun at 40 for Bill Baker, veteran Syracuse catcher in the International League.

Last year Baker sat it out in Chicago Cubs' bullpen as a coach. Back on the active list at Syracuse, he chipped in with a big double to break a tie in Wednesday nigth's game with Baltimore.

Baker, who "celebrated" his 40th birthday February 11, drove in four runs for the Chiefs who snapped a six-game losing streak by whipping Baltimore 6-2.

Both winner Bill Miller and loser Jake Schmitt went the route in a free-hitting contest.

Good Slugger

Little Jackie Collum, pint-sized Rochester lefty, turned slugger to drive in three runs with a double and triple in the Red Wings' 5-3 edge over Springfield. Jackie allowed 10 hits in earning his third win. One of the hits was a homer by Nels Burbrink.

Buffalo outlasted Toronto 11-9 to sneak past the Leafs into sixth place. The Bisons had 16 hits off four Toronto throwers including loser Johnny Hetki.

Fred Hancock, Arch Wilson, and Bobby Wellman hit Buffalo homers, Grover Bowers, Johnny Sullivan, and Lew Morton for Toronto.

Rain washed out the scheduled Montreal-at-Ottawa game.

Sell Dillinger To Sox

PITTSBURGH, May 17—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday sold third baseman Bob Dillinger to Chicago White Sox for a reported $20,000. Dillinger cost the Pirates about $40,000 when they purchased him from Philadelphia Athletics last July. Sale of the 32-year-old infielder cuts the Bucs squad to 27 players, two over the limit which had to be reached by midnight Wednesday.

Zernial On Home-Run Spree But A's Lose To Browns 10-9

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Gus Zernial, the slumbering giant, is on a record-tying home-run rampage.

With six homers in three consecutive games, old "Ozark Ike" goes into the book in such exclusive company as Tony Lazzeri and Ralph Kiner. And he hasn't stopped yet.

For years the Chicago White Sox did everything but stick pins into Zernial's hide. Then a three-way swap involving the A's, White Sox and Indians brought bench-riding Gus to Philadelphia April 30.

With the A's he's hitting at a .366 clip to bring his season mark around .283.

The home-run spurt started Sunday when the A's dumped the Yankees twice. Gus connected twice in the second game. He hit two more Monday night against St. Louis. Then came another pair Wednesday night off the Brownies. Still the A's lost the ball game, 10-9, and tumbled into the American League cellar.

Continues Hitting

Ferris Fain continued his batting surge with three hits, boosting his average to .402, and Lou Klein, former Cleveland infielder, hit his first homer for the A's. The Brownies had bombers too. Don Lenhardt hit two home runs and a single, driving in four runs.

Vic Raschi set a season high with 10 strikeouts in New York Yankees' 11-3 romp over Cleveland. When Raschi's right arm tightened up after eight innings, rookie Tom Morgan mopped up. It was the Yanks' ninth straight at the Stadium, where they have yet to lose.

Mickey Mantle drove home four runs with his first Yankee Stadium homer and fourth of the year. The rookie also chipped in with a bases-loaded single. Bobby Brown hit a three-run homer off Steve Gromek, who followed loser Bob Lemon to the hill in the six-run fifth inning.

The surprising Chicago White Sox knocked off Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park for the second day in a row, 9-5. Joe Dobson went all the way against his old mates. Walt Dropo hit homers in the second and third to drive in four Boston runs.

Eight hits, including triples by Nelson Fox and Jim Busby, in the first two innings, routed Chuck Stobbs and Paul Hinrichs.

Wallop Washington

Detroit kept step with Chicago, tied for second place 2½ games out, by whipping Washington 7-1. Dizzy Trout allowed only four hits. The Tigers hit the jackpot for five in the fourth on three singles and four walks by Al Sima.

In the National League, it's only three games from the last-place Phillies to the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers after Wednesday night's action.

Brooklyn was knocked out by its own weapon—the home run—as Chicago Cubs battered Dodger pitchers for 15 hits in a 14-4 slaughter. Dee Fondy and Ransome Jackson, a pair of rookies, each rapped two homers and Frankie Baumholtz collected four hits.

The Dodgers lost the services of Jackie Robinson, who left the game in the third inning after suffering a recurrence of an old knee injury.

Boston Knocked Off

Second-place Boston also was knocked off by Cincinnati, 4-3, with the Reds scoring three off Johnny Sain in the eighth. It was Sain's fifth loss. He's won only one. Homers by Bob Elliott and Willard Marshall gave Sain a cushion until the eighth when four hits cost him the game.

Jim Hearn found his old Pittsburgh cousins in their usual form and chipped out a 2-1 decision for the Giants. Whitey Lockman's single, scoring Al Dark in the fifth, provided the winning run off Jim Walsh. Leo Durocher was chased by umpire Art Gore in the first inning.

Al Brazle came to the rescue of Gerry Staley in the ninth to preserve a 5-3 St. Louis win over Philadelphia. Staley knocked home two runs to help himself to his fifth victory. Stan Musial homered in the third.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!
"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."
Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. T-822

Page Returned To Minors In Ball Scramble

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP). — Joe Page's return to the minors was the most dramatic move in the last-day scramble by major-league ball clubs to cut down to the 25-man limit.

Page, the fabulous "Fireman Joe" of the 1947 and 1948 New York aYnkee champions, at least has a job and a salary in the $25,000 bracket. He goes to Kansas City to work out the kinks in his arm.

Jack Kramer, another big name of the past, was given his unconditional release by New York Giants. The 33-year-old right-hander is free to make his own connection.

But most of the players to go were rookies. Fellows like Steve Bilko, St. Louis Cards' bulging first baseman, back for another year on the farm—Columbus of the American Association this time.

Even with the cutting of Bilko and thirdbaseman Eddie Kazak who went to Houston, the Cards remained one over the limit. They were given a special 12-hour dispensation due to technicelities involving an already-completed deal with another big-league club.

It Is Legal

The Yankees also wound up with 26, but it was legal. They have infielder Billy Martin just back from the Army, reinstated from the national defence list. According to the rules he retains that status for 12 months. Each club can carry one reinstated national defence list player for each five active players.

All 16 clubs waived on Page who hasn't pitched an innning all year His arm tightened up during spring training. Only lately has he been able to pitch batting practice.

Page, 33, took the bad news with a "You take the good with the bad" attitude. But he obviously was shaken.

"The only thing to do," he said, "is to go down there and get back up here. I am not doing the ball club any good here. I kind of expected it."

Back To Toronto

The Yanks also shipped Max Peterson, 27-year-old right-hand pitcher drafted from Toronto last season. He returns to Toronto without throwing a ball for the Yanks all season.

Detroit lost pitcher Ray Herbert to the army and sent infielder Hal Daughtery to Toledo. That left the Tigers one under, so pitcher Marlin Stuart was recalled from Toledo where he was sent Sunday. Earlier in the day the Tigers traded pitcher Saul Rogovin to Chicago for pitcher Bob Cain.

Dick Littlefield, one of the pitchers obtained from Boston in the big winter trade, was shipped by Chicago to Memphis to make room for third-baseman Bob Dillinger, bought from Pittsburgh.

Washington acquired pitcher Hank Wyse for a little more than the $10,000 waiver price from Philadelphia. The A's sold utility infielder Tod Davis to Los Angeles and returned pitcher Frank Robinson to Buffalo.

Will Seize Cargo

HONG KONG, May 17 (Reuters). — A 750-ton cargo of Malayan rubber destined for Communist China in a Panamanian freighter will be seized ff the vessel puts into harbor here, usually-reliable sources said today. These sources expressed surprise at a report from Singapore that agents for the 2,283-ton Panamanian ship Nor Bay had said Wednesday the vessel fould visit Hong Kong.

See Cricket On Way Out

VICTORIA, May 17 (CP). — White-haired, tweedy Victorians of the breed that gave British Columbia's capital — rightly or wrongly—its designation of being "more English than England" are depressed.

Cricket is on the way out as one of the recognized sports here. The pessimists predict it won't be long before the stumps are drawn for the last time.

One of the chief reasons for the decline of cricket here is that the Public schools do not include it in the list of playground activities.

They used to, but a boy was hit on the head by a ball and his scalp was cut. Cricket was summarily banned as being too rough.

Then there's the question of supply. There is no maker of cricket paraphernalia in Canada, and during the war it was impossible to get it from Britain.

And then there are those upstarts—lacrosse, baseball and hockey. Victoria's Pacific Coast Hockey League team outdraws all other clubs in the circuit. The lacrosse Shamrocks pull in more fans than any other club in the West Coast Inter-City Boxla League.

Six Teams Enter TVL

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17 (ENS).—Campbellford will have an entry in the Trent Valley Softball League this summer, and will be strengthened by Hastings plaryers. The Hastings team has withtdrawn from league competition. There will be some new faces on the line-up when the opening ball is tossed.

Ellis Hoard will manage the local squad. At a league meeting held in Frankford recently, five of last year's entries entered, the champion Trenton Chevies, Frankford, Wooler, Stirling and Campbellford. A new entry, Trenton RCAF will replace Hastings to make up the six team loop.

YONKERS, N.Y., May 17 (AP) —With the inquisitiveness of youth, John Semenetz, 15, climbed 35 feet up a steel tower beside the New York Central's electric tracks Wednesday. Then his right hand came in contact with a high-voltage wire. He was burned, tossed to the ground and broke a leg.

Hockey Lineup Starts Again

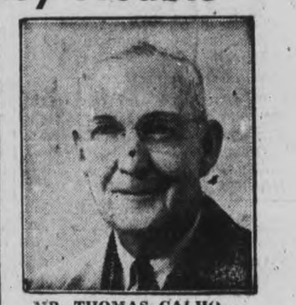
QUEBEC, May 17 (CP).—Next month Quebecers will line up again for hockey tickets.

That is when seats in the Coliseum for the 1951-52 season go on sale. Quebec fans are expected to respond in the style with which they set a possible Canadian hockey attendance record last month.

The night of April 26, when Citadelles, Quebec's Memorial Cup semi-finalists, met Barrie Flyers, ultimate cup winners, the Coliseum bulged with 16,806 fans.

This was better than Montreal Forum's record of 15,780 Feb. 17, when Canadiens fans put on "Maurice Richard Night" for their National Hockey League idol.

Quebecers gave their Junior Amateur Hockey Association team a major-league following all season.



For the 23 home games in provincial junior play total attendance was 222,908—an average of about 9,250 a game. Twelve play-off games pulled in 145,000 more.

Suffered 4 Years With Stomach, Kidney Trouble

Sleep disturbed At Night, Food Caused Gas, Acidity, Sour Stomach, Became Run-down, Nervous. Tells of Grand Relief Obtained By Taking Syntona.

MR. THOMAS CALHOUN

"For four years I was in poor health, but I have obtained just the most wonderful relief by taking a few bottles of Syntona Herbal Compound," said Mr. Thomas Calhoun, 4 Fife Street, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I was so bad that I would be up several times each night to relieve my kidneys, had very bad backache, and rheumatic pains in my muscles limbs and joints. They would get stiff and feel sore to rub. I couldn't eat much of anything because of so much gas, sour acidity, and heartburn afterwards and I would get the most awful headaches and sick dizzy feelings From my sleep being disturbed so much and not eating well, I became very run-down, nervous, and felt tired and wornout even from the time I got up in the mornings.

"But all that is changed since I've been taking Syntona. Now I sleep right through till the time I get up in the morning. beckache and rheumatic pains scarcely trouble me at all, and I am able to eat hearty meals without having stomach distress afterwards. This is a blessing to me, and I feel much better all over, feel more rested and not always tired as I was before."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

LAKEFIELD, May 17 (ENS)—Two tons of paper were collected by the Sea Scouts and Cubs at the recent paper drive and taken to Peterborough for shipment on Tuesday evening.

Skipper Ken Jakins and committee members, Mel Kingdon and Theo Down, have been renovating the "Warspite" and making her seaworthy.

The "ship"—the new clubhouse—has been wired and is almost ready for use.

Thursday night the scouts took part in a wide compass game over a two-square-mile range, featuring the use of a compass in the dark. The only hazards were inquisitive cattle.

John Nicholls' patrol came in first, Rickey Wilford's second and Jim Fraser's third.

At the close marshmellows and cookies were enjoyed around the campfire.

New System Reduces Number Of CPA Crew

VANCOUVER, May 17. (CP)—Crews on Canadian Pacific Airlines overseas flights were reduced by one Wednesday night when CPA began use of radio-telephone.

CPA officials said that when the Empress of Sydney took off from here Wednesday night it was the first time radio-telephone had been used for en-route communications during an overseas flight by a Canadian airline.

The radio operator is no longer required on such flights. Instead, the pilot merely picks up his microphone and talks to any one of the high-powered radio stations along his route.

Previously, all messages received and transmitted by the aircraft were in Morse code. Now they will all be by direct voice communication.

Later he led Australian and New Zealand forces against the Germans on the Somme River.

In 1925 he was made British Army commander-in-chief in India and appointed field marshal. His baronetcy — and a grant of $50,000—was in recognition of his war service.

No Vacate Order Given–Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 17 —(AP)—The Interior Ministry said on Tuesday it has no intention of expelling Canadian Mennonites who settled in Northern Mexico. The ministry said it only wants them to prove they have complied with immigration requirements.

Some 150 families last week complained they had been given 30 days to leave the country. They asked a court order against expulsion but the court has not yet acted.

About 400 Mennonites came to Mexico in 1922 from Western Canada. Others followed until now there are 11,000 of them in 30 villages in Chihuahua State. In their appeal to the court, they estimated they had invested nearly $2,000,000 in Mexico.

Mexican law requires that agricultural immigrants work on the land and invest a certain amount in farming equipment. The ministry said it had asked these 150 families to prove they had complied with these requirements

University Opens Library

EDMONTON, May 17 —(CP)—A dream of years—a complete library for the University of Alberta—was realized on Tuesday when Premier E. C. Manning officially opened the new $2,000,000 Rutherford Library.

The four-storey building was named in honor of Alexander Cameron Rutherford, Alberta's first Premier.

Principal address at the impressive opening ceremony—which featured the unveiling of a giant mural depicting the early history of Alberta—was given by Dr. Robert C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston. Dr. Wallace was president of the University of Alberta when the first Alberta Premier served as University Chancellor.

Until now the university's 110,000-volume collection of books and reading rooms were scattered over the campus. The new library has a capacity of 265,000 volumes and 800 to 900 readers at one time.

Keys to the library were presented to librarian Marjorie Sherlock who came here from Queen's University.

Dr Wallace said there was a special need today for people to know the great books which carried the wisdom of the ages.

"The love of books is a heavensent gift which it is the main business of libraries and library staffs to stimulate and support."

Change Odds

SEATTLE, May 17 — (AP) — Lloyds of London has set 19-to-1 odds against big-enough war developments to stop a June convention. Last December Lloyds quoted 50 to 1 against world war before September, 1951. Dr. Frank Wood of Seattle, president of the Pacific Coast dental conference, said Tuesday the organization is paying $535 premium on a $10,000 policy taken out to cover advance costs and commitments for the June 25-28 conference.

Port Hope Council Rejects Pay Increase

PORT HOPE — Town council turned down a committee-sponsored recommendation this week to give police officers raises of up to $200 a year. Police salaries had been raised last month and the new schedule went into effect immediately.

Police committee chairman Lorne Giddy said members of the department wanted more money. "I think the salaries of our policemen are not high enough," he said, "our neighboring town to the east, I understand, is ahead of us."

The pay increases, if they had met with council's humor, would have made Police Chief C. W. Graham's annual pay $2,900; Sergeant William Smith $2,400; Constable Tom Fourtner $2,300; and Constables Vernon Lees and Donald Henderson $2,200.

They are Bruce Cooke, Larry Sayers and Scott Sayers as pipers and Eleanor Scott, a side drummer who took the place of Bruce Anderson, the latter vacating the drums for the pipes.

Envoys Study Pact Progress

LONDON, May 17 (Reuters)—A closed-door conference of United States envoys opened here today to study progress of North Atlantic Pact defences.

The envoys have come from the various pact members and from Washington for the two-day talks.

They will analyse the progress made so far by the two-year-old treaty organization, review the rearmament programs of the 12 individual powers and prepare recommendations to strengthen the defence and economy of Western Europe. No policy decisions will be taken.

PITTSBURGH, May 17 (AP)—Police accused an admitted numbers writer Tuesday of setting up a cash register on the back seat of an automobile to keep track of his curbstone transactions. After police told a judge that Thomas Mullen, 29, had his numbers business organized like a corner store, Mullen pleaded guilty. He was fined $250 and placed on a year's probation.

Say British Freighter Taking Rubber To Reds

HONG KONG, May 17 (AP)—ters)—A British freighter plowing through the China seas with 3,700 tons of Malayan rubber bound for Communist China—and nothing can be done to stop her official circles said today.

They pointed out that the rubber was consigned from Singapore before the new embargo controls were introduced there.

So far no government statement on the ship, the Nancy Moller, has been made here. But sources point out that Hong Kong authorities can do nothing about it if the ship does not enter Hong Kong waters.

It was disclosed Tuesday that she is bound direct for the Communist port of Whampao, without a call at Hong Kong as planned when the vessel left Singapore last Saturday.

Discuss Report On Education At H & S Meeting

LAKEFIELD, May 17 (ENS)—Principal E. G. Sloan, of Lakefield public school, gave a talk on "Our School" at the Home and School meeting Monday night.

"The purpose of the school," said Mr. Sloan, "is two-fold—to develop good citizens and to train people to earn a livelihood. As times change the pendulum seems to swing first to the citizenship side and then to the side of vocational training. School should do both."

The speaker gave the nine basic aims of the recent report of the Hope Commission which are to develop: (1) Capacity to apprehend and practise basic virtues of honesty and Christian love. (2) Power to think clearly, independently and courageously. (3) Talent to understand the views of others and to express one's own views effectively. (4) Competence for a suitable occupation. (5) Good health. (6) Aptitudes for recreation. (7) Good citizenship. (8) Characteristics for happy family relations. (9) The concept that education is a continuing process beyond the school.

Basically the difference between the old style education and the new style education was that at one time the all important thing was the subject matter; now it is the development of the child with subject matter moulded to that end.

In the aims of the Hope Report, scholastic achievement gets no mention at all in the nine stated aims. The commission however, did not disregard scholastic achievement but saw it only as a means to an end rather than an end in itself.

Mr. Sloan outlined in detail the Commissions suggestion of setting up a school system at four levels and explained the advantages of such a system.

"It would appear," said principal Sloan, "that there are three classes of people: (1) practical, (2) theoretical, (3) practical theoretical. Much of our trouble in the past has been that the schools have recognized mostly the theoretical people. All school authorities are fast making further preparations in school to accommodate and satisfy all three types.

"This business of education at times appears like a very complicated one. I do believe that the new idea of four divisions of school life, plus revised courses, offers two very strong points to recommend it. (1) Every child should proceed at his own speed but be kept within his own social age group by use of enriched courses; (2) the courses offer certain basic subjects which are obligatory, with many options. This allows the pupil to proceed along lines which are suitable to him. The pupil proceeds at his own rate along the course in which he is most successful.

Minister Discusses Guilds Of Old England

LAKEFIELD, May 17 (ENS)—The Rev. Lloyd Delaney, guest speaker at the combined meeting of the Lakefield and Warsaw Guilds, held at Lakefield Parish Hall on Thursday, gave an address on the Guilds of Medieval England.

In the medieval days, said Mr. Delaney, all society and community life was organized in the line of guilds.

The guilds were associations of people with a common interest, formed to work for common purposes. For instance the merchants' guild practically controlled trade and saw that just prices were placed on goods and that no unfair market practices were followed.

The Crattsmen's Guild or fraternity was a group of men or a number of families who would produce a certain type of goods—like the Helmet Makers' Guild or St. George's Guild of Armourers.

In this guild would be young apprentices and qualified artisans or master craftsmen. There were also Parish Guilds whose main purpose was the upkeep of the church, the alleviation of the poverty of the clergy; providing lights for the church and finally providing alms for the poor of the parish.

The guilds had a religious as well as secular purpose. These organizations primarily helped their own brethren then aided in community efforts and helped the needy.

The speaker concluded by speaking of the purpose of the Lakefield and Warsaw Guilds, and these were discussed.

Mrs. L. Quackenbush, president, was in charge of the meeting. Other guests included Mrs. Gastle, Sr., Mrs. J. Mather and Mrs. T. J. Parker.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Hugh Gastle and Mrs. B. Dench.

C of C Hears Report On Civic Improvement

LAKEFIELD, May 17 (ENS)—President James Jones of Young's Point presided at the open meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in Memorial Hall on Tuesday night.

Walter Killoran, reporting as chairman of the civic improvement committee, said an effort was being made to have several old buildings removed, and said the Nepheline Co. will co-operate with the Chamber in cleaning up their lot.

Mrs. L. Leonard's treasurer's report showed $256.89 on hand as of May 15.

Mrs. W. O'Brien was again engaged as booth attendant, on a weekly basis, and the booth will open June 23.

It was moved by Harold Hopkins and Russel Little that the Chamber of Commerce ask the Department of Travel and Publicity for condensed reports on inquiries for Kawaratha districts only.

The deadline for receiving funds to operate the booth was set for July 1 on a motion by Frank Coyle and Capt. Sloan. Mrs. O'Brien was authorized to purchase paint for the booth and have it painted.

The Chamber is sponsoring a Clean-Up Week commencing June 1.

Plans were discussed for the annual dinner in charge of the president. Harold Hamblin was named to arrange for speakers for the occasion.

Calgary's Choice Of Play Brings Criticism

By KAY REX

LONDON, Ont., May 17 (CP)—Noise o fa thunderstorm outside heightened the effect of a "storm" on the stage of the Grand Theatre at the Dominion Drama Festival Wednesday night.

It happened in the second act of a presentation of Alous Huxley's "The Gioconda Smile," by Calgary's Workshop 14. The production was the fourth in the week-long competition which tonight will see the only professional group in the contest, Les Compagnons de Saint Laurent of Montreal, produce "Les Gueux au Paradis" (beggars at the gates of paradise) by Martens and Obey.

As members of the audience fanned themselves with their programs in the sultry atmosphere, a clap of thunder was heard through the open entrances. At precisely the same moment the required "storm" broke in the tensely-emotional drama on the stage.

Lengthy Play

The play, a lengihy one, deals with the confessed weaknesses of a wealthy intellectual and the women who compete for his favor.

While adjudicator Jose Ruben didn't like the choice of play, he complimented the Calgary team for its "painstaking" work.

Had they put such work into a play more worth while, he said he felt their efofrt s "would have been enhanced tenfold."

"By their performance I can tell these players are very sincere workers," said Mr. Ruben. Why had they chosen the play? He felt they must have been swayed by the calibre of Huxley's writing.

The adjudicator felt the author "abuses the patience of the audience" by permitting his play to run such length. The drama is in three acts and no scenes.

Mr. Ruben said he watches an audience as carefully as he watches a performance—because, after all, audience reaction is a most important part of theatre.

Great Attention

"You followed the play with great attention," he said, speaking directly to the comparatively-well-filled house. "Your general reaction must have been gratifying to the ladies and gentlemen who performed the play."

Among members of the cast singled out for special mention was Edward Holmes in the leading role of Henry Hutton. Mr. Holmes gave a good performance, said Mr. Ruben, particularly in the second half of the play.

Doreen Richardson as Janet Spence also gave "a very, very good" performance, and T. W. G. Thomson as Dr. Libbard was "excellent." Others he mentioned as particularly good were Basil Issigonis as General Spence and Patricia Laidlaw as Doris Mead.

Edna Pozer's acting in the part of the nurse "could have been a little more crisp."

The physical aspects—the sets—were "extremely good."

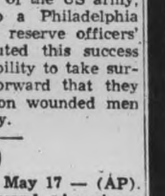
Death Rate Low

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 (AP)—The death rate from Korean war casualties is reported to be the lowest ever recorded in United States military hospitals. Maj.-Gen. George E. Armstrong, deputy surgeon general of the US army, in a speech to a Philadelphia medical service reserve officers' meeting, attributed this success to the army's ability to take surgeons so far forward that they can operate upon wounded men soon after injury.

Save 70,000

NEW YORK, May 17 — (AP).—Seventy thousand Americans were saved from cancer and probably cured in 1950, Mefford R. Runyon, executive vice-president of the American Cancer Society, said Wednesday. Another 70,000 persons might have been saved by present treatments if their cancers were detected and treated early. Cancer killed 210,000 persons in the US last year, or three times the number saved.

More Tremors



GUATEMALA, Guatemala, May 17—(AP) — Earthquake shocks, some fairly strong, are giving Guatemalans the jitters. Twenty-nine have been recorded in less than 24 hours and in some places there are constant vibrations around the clock. Reports of the tremors have come from all over this Central American Republic. So far there has been no serious damage although several buildings were cracked in the town of San Miguel.

May Use Stickers

TORONTO, May 17 — (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett said Wednesday the government is considering the use of windshield stickers in place of auto licence plates next year, because of the shortage of steel. During the Second World War steel shortage, the government issued only one licence plate a year for use on the rear of vehicles.

Will Do Duty

CAPETOWN, May 17 (Reuters) —Prime Minister Daniel Malan said Wednesday that if war broke out between Britain and Russia over the Iranian oil dispute, it would mean world war and South Africa would "do her duty." He added the same would be true if there were an invasion of Yugoslavia if the Russians in Germany broke through to the west.

Stocking Supply Plentiful Women Assured

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Apparently women don't need to worry about the return of the hosiery scarcities of the Second World War.

Assurance is contained in the current issue of Textiles, published by the Primary Textiles Institute, Toronto. It says:

"Unless defence orders requiring nylon yarn are suddenly and greatly increased, there is little danger of running into a shortage of full-fashioned hosiery in the near future.

"With Canada's 42 hosiery knitting mills at present supplying an all-time high civilian demand, there was, fortunately, a reasonably-adequate supply of domestic nylon yarn last year."

According to statistics, each Canadian woman over 15 years of age buys, on the average, eight pairs of hosiery in a year.

It costs a lot of money just to move things about—from here to there.

John A. Marsh, general manager of the Canadian Exporters' Association, illustrated this with some figures in an address Wednesday night to the Canadian Industrial Traffic League in Hamilton. He said:

"It is a surprising fact that of Canada's total trade in 1950 of better than $6,000,000,000, both import and export, transportation and navigation services accounted for $1,682,000,000, or approximately 36 per cent. of all Canadian commerce."

Transportation and navigation services include rail and water freight, motor transport, telegraph and telephone, port charges, marine insurance, and so on.

Hearings Finish On Grain Agreement

WASHINGTON, May 17—(AP)—Hearings on a proposal to allow Canadian vessels to carry grain between United States ports on the Great Lakes ended Wednesday.

The final witness was Gilbert R. Johnson, counsel for the Lake Carriers' Association, Cleveland. Representing owners of U.S. vessels, he opposed the bill saying U.S. ships have sufficient capacity to move the grain.

Foreign vessels now are forbidden to operate between U.S. ports. However, Congress has lifted this restriction on iron ore.

BIG GATEWAY

First ship traffic moved in 1914 through the Panama Canal, 10 years after the U.S. acquired construction rights.

Approve Credits

ROME, May 17—(Reuters)—The Senate Wednesday night approved by a 181-to-96 vote defence credits totalling 250,000,000,000 lire ($400,000,000) to bring Italy's armed forces up to peace-treaty limits. Defence Minister Randolfo Pacciordi indicated the peace treaty limits of 12 divisions would be reached by mid-1952.

Return To Work

KITCHENER, May 17—(CP)—Tire factory workers of the Dominion Rubber Company will return to work today. About 1,300 are affected. A membership meeting of Local 80, United Rubber Workers (CIO, CCL) voted Wednesday night to return to work, stipulating that the grievance committee take up a dispute with management regarding the transfer of an employee to another department.

Judge Gives Pen Terms To Two Men

Third Man Sentenced To Reformatory Uttered Forged Bills

COBOURG, May 17—(ENS)—Bernard Hawkins, John Morgan and Gerald Sullivan, all of Toronto, were found guilty by Judge M. A. Miller in county court late Wednesday afternoon on charges of uttering forged bank notes.

Morgan, who last week was sentenced to 12 months definite and six months indefinite in the reformatory for possession of forged currency, received a concurrent term on the uttering charge of two years less a day in the reformatory. As far as could be ascertained, Morgan has no record.

Hawkins, who has a record, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, and Sullivan, who also has a record, received two years and one month in the penitentiary.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman withdrew charges of conspiring to utter forged bank notes against the three.

Nabbed Near Farmhouse

The three were arrested by Provincial Constable Bill Baluk at a farmhouse near Shelter Valley Road, east of Grafton, on the night of April 11. Before their arrest, police had received a number of complaints that night that bogus ten dollar bills had been passed by three men travelling in an English car. No counterfeit bills were found on Sullivan or Hawkins but 36 bogus ten dollar bills were found on Morgan.

A mysterious man named "Al" moved throughout the evidence of John Morgan, who took the blame for passing the counterfeit bills as far as Sullivan and Hawkins were concerned. Morgan said he met "Al" in a Toronto beverage room and that Al told him that if he would get a car and head east with him he would split the proceeds of genuine money received from people accepting and giving change for counterfeit ten dollar bills.

Rented Car

Morgan said that he got his friend, Hawkins, to rent a car and the three headed east. Morgan said that he and Al passed off some of the phoney money at various service stations as they proceeded east. Hawkins was unaware that they were passing bogus money, he said.

Realizing that the provincial police were on their trail, Al and Morgan drove south of Grafton, telling Hawkins that they had to stop and see a friend. However, they got stuck in the mud and had to leave the car. Al decided that they should separate.

Near Shelter Valley Road Morgan met a man who was waiting for a ride to Montreal and learned his name was Sullivan. Morgan, Sullivan and Hawkins were together when provincial police picked them up, he said.

WEDNESDAY AT THE KIWANIS FESTIVAL was more than a performance for the majority of youngsters who took part. Choral groups totalling approximately 600 children from as far north as Gelert, Haliburton and south to Port Hope took over the church and collegiate grounds and Confederation Park. Two of these youngsters, Betty Gilbert, 11, and Helen Kimball, 10, (Left) both from SS 4, Smith, show how they whiled away the hours between performances—enjoying popsicles. Five pupils from Gelert school, Haliburton (Centre) sit on the church steps with one of their drivers. They are, (from Left to Right): Rennie Currah, Bobby Francis, Sylvia Hoyle, Orville Francis and Jimmy Francis. Billy Petrie (Right), six-year-old student of Woodview school, is quite content to sit on the steps and rest. — (Examiner Staff Photos)

Seek To Combine Two Of City's Health Services

The first steps in another try to combine the health services of the Board of Education and the Peterborough Board of Health were taken at a meeting of the health board Wednesday.

The Board of Health, working on a report of Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health for the city, passed a motion that if the Board of Education still were interested, the Board of Health would meet with the Health Committee of the Board of Education. At such a meeting the board members would try to set up a plan in which the two health services could be amalgamated.

The Board of Education now has three nurses, a doctor and a dentist to look after the health of the city's public school children and pupils at the Collegiate.

Dr. Kelly said he believed with the staff he now has and the new offices his department now occupies on Water St., better service could be supplied with the same amount of money spent by the city.

Met Board's Committee

He said that at the request of the Health Committee, he had met the committee members recently to discuss amalgamation. However, he said, the results had been discouraging. He added he prepared a program outline that could be discussed and it was never considered.

He said that it was in the interest of the city and the children that the services be combined. His ultimate aim was to form a county health unit. In such a unit, the city wold be subsidized to 30 to 33½ per cent of its costs and the townships taking part, 50 per cent, by the provincial Department of Health.

An earlier attempt at amalgamation between the two health services had reached the final stages and then collapsed, the MOH said.

Youths In Car Come To Aid Normal Student

Pleading guilty to assaulting a Normal School girl student and being drunk, Peter Windsor, 25, Apsley, was fined $15 and costs on the first charge and $10 and costs on the second.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw KC said the accused man had been crossing Hunter St. bridge Monday night behind the girl. She heard the footsteps and stopped to let him go by. Instead he pretended he had a gun and stuck something in her back telling her to go quietly.

The girl screamed and three youths passing in a car stopped and collared the accused. They brought him to the police station.

No actual harm was done to the girl, the crown said, except that she was very upset, but there was no knowing what might have happened if the youths in the car had not come along.

Asked by the magistrate what excuse he had, Windsor said, "None I guess."

Dismiss Action For Damages Against City

A suit against the city claiming that Barnardo Ave. in June, 1950, was in a bad state of repair as holes in the road were responsible for a car accident, was dismissed Wednesday afternoon by Judge S. L. Smoke.

The plaintiff was James Jordan, RR 4 Peterborough. He testified that on June 25, 1950 he was driving west on Barnardo, when he ran into a series of holes in the road between Conger and Cluxton Streets.

After hitting the last one, described as about two feet in diameter and three inches deep, the tie rod broke on his car and the steering column became useless. The car went out of control and snapped off a telephone pole on the north side of the road.

Jordan was not injured but it cost $206 to repair his car which received a smashed in radiator, broken fender, and other damage to the front end.

Aware of Holes in Road

A. E. Chalmers, city engineer, said he was aware of the holes in the road but didn't consider them any road hazard to driving. He personally drove over the road two or three times a week at that time and didn't encounter any difficulty.

That year he said the city spent $40,000 on its 90 miles of roads.

Judge Smoke ruled that there had been little evidence, if any, to indicate how long the road had been in that state, and he found that the city had maintained it in "a reasonable state of repair."

The judge dismissed the action, with costs if demanded by the defendant, after assessing Jordan's damages at $206.17.

Robert A. Pringle, KC, Belleville, solicitor for Jordan, commented: "I appreciate that the city paid $40,000 on roads but if it had spent an extra $10 this accident would not have happened."

T. J. Carley, KC, was solicitor for the city.

Lakefield Boy Falls From Truck, Hurt

John Whitney, Jr., 16, of Lakefield, suffered lacerations of the thigh and possible internal injuries when he fell off an American Neptheline Co. truck about 7:30 a.m. today and was hit by a truck following the first one.

He was rushed to Civic hospital where he was reported to be in satisfactory condition.

BEATING THE QUOTA

A local garageman is firmly convinced that the female of the species is more deadly. On two recent fishing outings to Chemong Lake, he noted two girls fishing from the causeway—despite a sign forbidding this practice. On each occasion the girls caught their limit of 12 pickerel but kept on fishing. Subsequent catches were then measured with the previous ones and the smaller dead fish were tossed carelessly back into the water, reducing the pickerel population in the lake and contaminating resort shores.

3 Boys' Choirs Acclaimed By Adjudicator

Adjudicator John Clements chose three choirs for special mention and plaudits at Wednesday's session of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival in Murray St. Baptist Church.

The three choirs were St. John's Choir Boys; St. Andrew's Boys' Choir, and Port Hope Public Schools' Boys' Choir.

"In their performances all three choirs displayed quite outstanding tonal production," Mr. Clements stated. "This beautiful tone resulted in excellent singing."

Wednesday's sessions were predominently choral classes. Commenting on the day's choral work, Mr. Clements contended there was a general lack of interpretation and imagination in the singing

Too Serious

"The children all had what might be termed too pedantic an approach to their singing," he said. "This is particularly noticeable in their faces which were for too serious and lifeless."

"To sing properly," he continued, "there must be a complete understanding by the singer of what he is singing about. If this is the case the facial expression will interpret the selection as well as the actual singing and will in turn affect the tone."

Mr. Clements named one school —SS 5 Harvey—as showing the most life and proper understanding of their selection by their facial expressions.

John Moore, Reaboro, picked by both adjudicators, Mr. Clements and Gordon Thorne as the outstanding performer on Tuesday's program, again received special praise Wednesday evening for his rendition of the aria, Arm, Arm Ye Brave from Handel's oratorio, Judas Maccabaeus. He was awarded 84 marks. The other two contestants in this class (class 33) were James K. Wood, South Monaghan who was awarded second place with 78 marks and Gordon Condie, Willowdale, third, with 75 marks.

Morning Session

S. S. No. 5 Harvey Township with 83 marks stood first among 25 contesting choral groups in class 105 — unison chorus, rural The Swing by Wood. S. S. 3 Cavan township came second with 82 marks and Apsley District Schools, third, with 81 marks.

The three contesting groups in class 108 — Rhythm Band, rural—competitor's own choice, were headed by S. S. 4 Smith with 80 marks. S. S. 11 Smith placed second with 77 marks and S. S. 4 Harvey, third, with 72 marks.

T. S. A. 2 Dummer, Warsaw, with 76 marks were awarded first place in class 96 — girls' chorus —To-day by Watts. The remaining contestant, Harvey Girls' Choir was awarded 73 marks.

Afternoon Session

In Class 106—two part chorus, rural — Grandmother's Dance by Loomis, with 15 contestants, S. S. 17 Otonabee was awarded first place with 81 marks, Apsley District Schools was second with 80 marks and Lakehurst School Choir, S. S. 8 Harvey and S. S. 1 Smith tied for third place with 79 marks.

S. S. 1 Smith placed first with 82 marks ahead of 8 contestants in class 107 — three-part, rural Rising of the Lark (Welsh Folk Tune). Apsley District schools, second, with 81 marks and S. S.

CGE Officeworkers Accept Company's Offer, Increases $6-$11.40 Week

Two-Year Contract Includes $1.20 Week Increase In A Year With Other Benefits Under Plan

An agreement has been reached between 576 office worker members of the International Union of Radio, Electrical and Mine Workers (CIO-CCL), and the Canadian General Electric Co., granting increases ranging from $6 to $11.40 a week. The two-year contract includes an escalator clause, a $1.20 a week increase on the annniversary date, a modified Rand formula, plant-wide seniority, and a pension plan during the life of the agreement. Wednesday night the Peterborough salaried workers, members of Local 599, IUE, voted 158 to 27 to accept the company offer. The vote was reported to be seven to one in favor at the Toronto-Davenport works.

The Peterborough local and Local 567 IUE (Toronto-Davenport) have been in joint negotiations with the company since. Both have been certified within the last six months and are concluding their first collective bargaining agreement.

The contract will likely be signed Friday.

Joe Wirtz, IUE international representative, said today that the increase averaged $7.50 a week, or the equivalent of 18.75 cents an hour.

"We think it's a reasonable contract," said Mr. Wirtz, "particularly in view of the fact it's our first collective bargaining agreement. We still don't think it's sufficient for the salaried workers."

The officeworkers were asking for a straight increase of 19 cents an hour, plus a five-cents-an-hour cost-of-living bonus; time and a half for overtime; double time for holidays, and retroactive pay.

Minimum weekly guarantee is now $4 or 9 per cent of the top rate of the employees' salary range—which ever is larger; plus a $2 cost-of-living bonus.

The $6 to $11.40 spread includes the $2 bonus.

Retroactive pay comes in four ranges: employees earning up to $45 get $50 back pay; up to $55—$57; up to $65—$67, and over $66—$77.

All new employees will be included on the plant checkoff and will remain until 15 days before the anniversary date of the contract.

The cost of living formula is an adjustment of a cent an hour for each 1.3 change in the official cost-of-living index, based on 172.5.

Agreement was reached after the officeworkers at both plants had twice walked off their jobs, impatient with the delay in getting a contract. Both times they were suspended by the company for doing so.

Negotiations were resumed on Monday and agreement reached at a later session. Wednesday night it was ratified by both the Toronto and Peterborough memberships.

In Local 599's negotiating committee were President Orville Martin, Dave Hatherly, John Willock, Gloria Lang, A. Feeley, Len Slaughter and Dave Humber.

Bandits Greet New Manager With Robbery

Charles Brash, former accountant of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, got a rude welcome not long after his arrival in Linwood where he has been appointed manager.

Robbers entered the bank Monday afternoon and took $3,000 at gunpoint. Linwood is northwest of Kitchener.

Mr. Brash, with the branch's former manager, Eric Warneford and teller Barclay Bond, was shoved into the vault. The gunmen attempted to close the door, but it failed to catch.

Not long after, police chasing the bandits fired four shots, which rattled the driver of the bandit car so badly that he swerved off the road and hit a hydro pole. The money was found in the car.

Arrested as suspects were Floyd Klink of Galt and Phillip Reardon of Toronto.

Three Plead Guilty

Pleading guilty to a charge in police court today of being drunk Wednesday night, Harold Paquette, 205 Wilson St., was fined $10 and costs.

Everitt Douglas, 344 Aylmer St., also pleaded guilty to being drunk Wednesday night and was fined $10 and costs.

Frank R. Simpson, Windsor, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk.

Fulham Soccer Team Visits Canada For Tour May 24

LONDON, May (CP)—Fulham, one of five London clubs in the First Division of the English Football League, opens its Canadian exhibition tour with a game in Toronto, May 24.

Following are brief sketches of the officials and players:

Frank Osborne—Secretary general manager of the team. A former English International, he graduated to executive ranks after a brilliant playing career with Tottenham Hotspurs and Fulham. In 1948-49, his first season with the club, he accomplished what other Fulham managers had failed to do in 40 years — lead the team to a First Division berth.

William Dodgin—Signed on as manager in 1950 after several other clubs had sought his services. is regarded as one of England's keenest judges of player talent. Bill formerly managed Lincolc City and Southampton. He was also a member of the great Charlton Athletic team which made history in the 30s by jumping from the Third to First Division in successive years.

Trainer 35 Years

Frank Penn—Chief trainer. Has been with the club more than 35 years, 15 of them as a regular player at outside left. He smiles when reminded of his Vicar of Wakefield days, for that was the name of the team he starred with in his early youth.

Ian Black (goal)—Rated as one of the soundest goalkeepers in the Big Time. A native of Aberdeen, Ian kept goal for Scotland in the International match against England at Hampden Park in 1948. One of Fulham's latest recruits, he was obtained on transfer from Southampton.

Joe Bacuzzi (fullback)—Came to Craven Cottage from Arsenal 15 years ago and has been with the club ever since. A polished player, he is noted for his judgement and positional play. In addition to a number of wartime Internationals for England, he starred for his country against France in 1946.

Powerful Kicker

Harry Freeman (fullback)—A corner-lot discovery. Has been a Fulham regular for 13 years and played with no other professional club. Possessing a keen sense of anticipation, he is also rated as one of the most powerful kickers in the country and can score goals from distances of 35 to 40 yards.

Edmund Lowe (halfback)—A noted newcomer to Craven Cottage. Won three England International caps with Aston Villa three years ago. A six-footer, weighing more than 175 pounds, Edmund is not only a brilliant defender but also aggressive on the attack. He was grabbed off the corner lots by Aston Villa in 1945.

Reginald Lowe (fullback)—Edmund's younger brother, Reg was signed by Aston Villa under similar circumstances. He got few opportunities, however, with Villa's first team, but since joining Fulham has gained popular acclaim for his brilliant play. Is an inch or so taller than his brother and a few pounds heavier.

All-England

Len Quested (halfback) — A tireless player, Len has been tipped as a certainty on an All-England side of the near future. A dogged fighter, with superb ball control, he is the type of player who keeps his forwards constantly on the move without neglecting his defensive duties.

Robin Lawler (halfback)—Acquired from Belfast Celtic in the spring of 1949. A constructive player on defence as well as attack, he is regarded as one of the club's most promising prospects.

Toured Canada

Jim Taylor (centre-half and captain)—Toured Canada with the Football Association team last year and rated as one of the top centre-halfs in England. A strong, resolute tackler, he distributes the ball with great judgement. Jim was a member of the English team at Rio de Janeiro world tournament a year ago and has represented his country in several other international duels, including the match against Argentina this spring.

Archie MacAulay (forward)—Came to the club from Arsenal last spring. Has played for Hearts of Midlothian, West Ham, Brentford and Glasgow Rangers. He was with the Rangers when they won the Scottish Cup and Scottish League Medals. Is a Scottish International and was chosen to play for Britain against the rest of Europe at Hampden Park in 1946.

Arthur Stevens (forward) — Joined Fulham as an amateur in 1941 and signed as professional two years later. Since then has played in most forward positions but has been most successful at outside-right. An opportunist and demon dribbler, Stevens delivers a powerful shot with either foot.

Bobby Brennan (forward)—An Irish International of outstanding merit, Brennan is a recent recruit to the Fulham fold. It cost the club £20,000 (about $60,000) last year to obtain his transfer from Birmingham.

He served only one season with the Second Division club which had lured him from Luton for the same price. A fine field general, Brennan is also a proficient marksman.

Bedford Jezzard (forward) — Signed by Fulham from the London amateur ranks in the fall of 1948. After only a couple of games with the reserves earned promotion to the regulars and had the distinction of playing on a promotion-winning side in his first year. Is among the team's top scorers.

Future Star

Johnny Campbell (forward) — has been hailed an another Stanley Matthews in the making. Obtained for a substantial fee from Belfast Celtic at the same time as Lawler, Johnny is a forward of a thrustful type.

Jimmy Bowie (forward)—The "mighty midget" of the front line, came to the club this season after seven years with Chelsea. Only five feet, five inches, and weighing around 140 pounds, he has added sparkle and drive to the attack with his speed and clever ball.

Bill Pavitt (forward) — Normally regarded as the team's deputy centre-forward, Pavitt this season took on the exacting role of general utility. Has been called to fill almost every position, except goal, and has won general praise for his fine performance.

Bobby Robson (forward)— At 18 is the youngest member of the touring side. Was signed by Fulham in face of stiff opposition from a number of first division clubs. Just under six feet and tipping the scales around 150, Bobby is anather speed demon and unerring shot.

NIGHT WORK—Work continues under floodlights on the Kemano Road, first step in development of a section of northern British Columbia for an aluminum plant, first phase of which will cost $160,000,000. The 11-mile road heads through practically-unknown mountain country.

Use Own Judgment

CALGARY—(CP)—Judge M. J. Edwards in court here warned motorists not to rely too much on the automatic stoplights on the rear of cars in front of them as a signal to slow down.

Cranky Crank

DUDLEY, Worcestershire, England —(CP)— Truck driver Bill Hooper was taken to hospital with injuries received while cranking his vehicle. On his release he tried again, and this time the crank struck him in the face. Now he's back in hospital.

Great Gathering

BROCKVILLE, Ont. — (CP) — Accommodations here will be taxed to the limit when the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders hold their battalion reunion June 9 and 10. Registrations from many parts of the province indicate one of the largest gatherings since the first reunion in 1948.

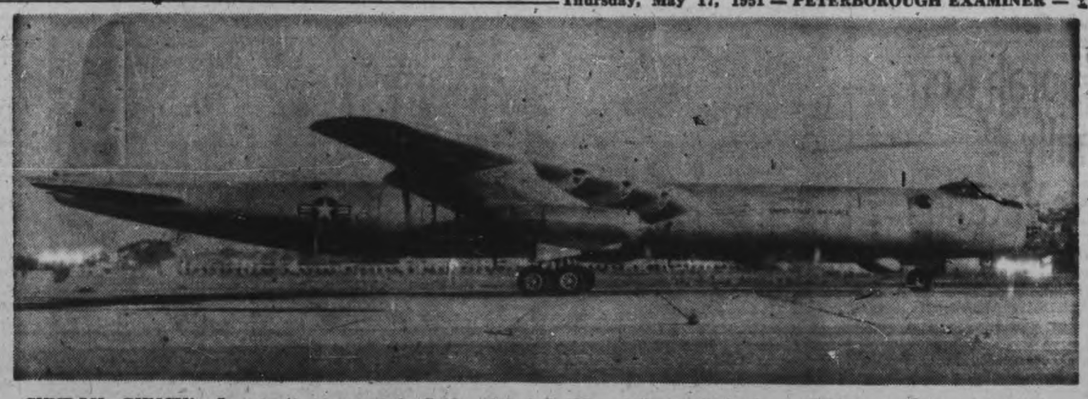
WI Receives Thanks From UK



MILLBROOK, May 17—(ENS)—Mrs. T. Harkness was hostess for the May meeting of the Women's Institute held Saturday. The president, Mrs. J. J. Lunn, was in the chair. The new officers for 1951-52 were installed by Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

Miss Nellie Hetherington, one of Millbrook's nonagerian residents, and Mrs. T. W. Belch were welcomed as new members. Arrangements were made to attend the district annual to be held in Mount Pleasant on May 30.

The following letter of appreciation was received from England and read by Mrs. Allie Fallis. Her name had been on a package in one of the many boxes sent to the old country during the past year. The letter was dated from Stockholds, Herts, and said in part: "You will be surprised, I expect, to have a letter from England. I found your name and address on a package of cake mix. Our WI wanted to raise some money, so we decided to hold a social evening. I was given the three cake mix packages from your precious parcel and by adding some of my own mixture was able to make 110 small cakes in paper cases, which I iced. I must say the mix made delicious cakes. We were able to clear £5 which made us feel quite rich. Thank you so much, I should be glad to correspond with you. Sincerely, Mrs. G. Kearsey."

TORONTO, May 17 (CP)—An investigation of Toronto butcher shops suspected of selling horse meat in hamburg steak has been under way for some time, an official of the food and drug division of the health department said Wednesday night. Slash Film Costs

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP). — Twentieth Century - Fox Film Corporation announced plans Wednesday for slashing $7,200,000 from production costs of 36 pictures to be released next year. Other economies to be effected, including voluntary pay cuts of $2,500,000 annually for top management personnel, are expected to result in a total annual saving of $13,700,000. Declining earnings and box-office receipts have been cited as reasons for the economy program.

Deborah Kerr Finally Gets Vacation

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (AP)—It will take a baby to do it. But Deborah Kerr finally gets a rest from her world-wide film making.

The carrot-topped English beauty is expecting a child. Her discovery of that fact came just in time to excuse her from trundling to Britain to appear in "Ivanhoe."

"But please don't mention in print that I am glad about getting out of the picture," she cautioned in mock seriousness. "The studio will think I did it on purpose."

On purpose or not, this will be Miss Kerr"s first extended vacation at her California home. In the last two years she has become the film industry's most-travelled actress.

Darkest Africa

First, she was sent back to her native England for "Edward, My Son." Then Metro hustled her off into the wilds of Africa in search of King Sol's Mines.

No sooner did she return to these shores than she was dispatched to Rome for the epic —"Quo Vadis." Six months later she came back to Hollywood only to be assigned to "Ivanhoe." Her reprieve came a fortnight ago.

I asked her which of the two big expeditions was worse.

"Funnily enough," she replied, "the trip to Rome was harder. Except for a couple of weeks when it was unbearable, the African trip was not too bad. But we worked in Rome during the hottest part of summer, and nothing in Africa was ever as bad."

Miss Kerr is finishing up the Alan Ladd film, "Rage of the Vulture," and then will take the rest of the year off.

Mrs. B. Ingham New Millbrook H & S President

MILLBROOK, May 17 (ENS)—Annual meeting of Millbrook Home and School Association was held in the school assembly room on Monday evening.

Charles D. Forsyth, general secreatry of the Peterborough YMCA, was guest speaker. He chose for his subject, "The Emotional Needs of Youth." These were he said, the need for affection and comradeship. It was essential both in the home and in the school that favorites should not be played, that one child's progress should not be compared unfavorably to him with the work of another. There should be serenity in the home, a feeling of belonging and happy co-operation.

Mr. Forsyth said there were no problem boys; there were just boys with problems. During the adolescent period young people must learn to make their own decisions. If they do not learn in this period they never will. The parent then should become merely an adviser. The speaker was introduced by the Rev. Harold Heustin and the Rev. A. A. Chote moved the vote of thanks.

Bailieboro home and school members were guests for the evening. The Rev. Bernard Heywood expressed their thanks.

In her annual report Mrs. Ed Nattress, the secretary, told that the membership had practically doubled in the year from 34 to 67. There had been one money-raising function, a fashion show and afternoon tea. Flowers had been supplied for the public school ortaory contest. An attendance prize for parents of children in various rooms had been given each month. Refreshments had been served to the high school district area board when it met in Millbrook April 20. Reports were also given by the other officers and by Mrs. Henry Gray, publications convener, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, program convener and Miss Ellen Kent, social convener. Alex Gilbert reported for the nominations committee. The president turned the chair over to H. V. Kent for the election. Mrs. G. A. Spicer, past president of home and school council. installed the following officers:

President, Mrs. Bruce Ingham; vice-presidents, Alex Gilbert, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy; secretary, Mrs. Ed Nattress; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs; treasurer. Mrs. Stewart Snelgrove; executive committee, the Rev. A. A. Chote, the Rev. Harold Heustin, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Mrs. D. R. Fowler and Mrs. Harold Argue.

Sylvia and Sandra Muspratt of Centreville, sang two duets accompanied at the piano by their mother. Margaret Aiken gave a reading.

The president thanked all the members for their co-operation throughout the year. A vote of thanks to the president was moved by Mrs. M. E. Hobbs. Mrs. G. A. Spicer was at the piano for a singsong.

Construction by-laws are being drafted for walks on the following streets: Grady Street, both sides, from Romaine to Brown Streets; Caddy Street, from Beverley Street to the Trent Canal.

Hazlitt Street, north side, from Ross to Rogers Street; Duffus Street, both sides, from Grady Street to Ford Street; Curtis Road from Parkhill Road to Swanston Avenue.

Authority has been given Percy Edwards and James Baird to build a service station on the south side of Lansdowne Street, adjacent to the right of way of the CNR into Brinton Carpet Co.

Hastings C of C Starts Drive For Membership

HASTINGS, May 17 (ENS)—A membership drive was the topic of discussion at a meeting of the Hastings district Chamber of Commerce held in the council chambers Monday night.

President Arthur Orr was in the chair with 25 members and non-members present. The meeting was opened by Mr. Orr, who expressed his opinion that the organization was receiving too much unfavorable criticism on the street. There are a lot of people, he said, of the opinion that this is a business men's association, and that the business men are runnng it. That is certainly far from the truth. This organization is for everyone in the Hastings district, and it is hoped that it will benefit them all.

The Rev. Mr. Cole who made some very timely suggestions during the evening, took the floor and cautioned Mr. Orr to not take these remarks of the people on the street too seriously.

The problem of a board of directors, and committees, were discussed and it was felt that more members should be added before these positions were filled. A membership committee was appointed to seek as many new members as possible by May 28 when a meeting will be held to fill the vacant executive positions.

The fee of $5 was retained with the hope that in a year or two it could be lowered.

Max Humphreys told of an incident where a man fishing off the bridge caught an under size pickerel. He tore it off the hook and threw it from the bridge to the water some thirty feet below. It was his belief the fish would not survive, and such incidents as these pointed up the need for a deputy game warden in the town. His suggestion was approved and a man is to be selected for this position with application to be made at the next meetng.

Those on the membership committee who will canvass Hastings, are: W. Johnston, H. Youngs, G. Wellman, C. Howse, W. Whitred.

LIEUT.-COL. J. A. DEXTRAZE, of Montreal, commanding officer of the Royal 22nd Regiment, is greeted by a native delegation on the arrival of the Canadian Special Force at Pusan.

453 Visits Made By Children's Aid

The Children's Aid Society staff made a total of 453 visits and held 185 interviews during April.

This statement was made by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society to the board of directors meeting Tuesday afternoon.

She also explained that 174 families, 177 children in care, and 48 unmarried parent cases were known to the society during the month. There were also two requests for investigation in regard to family allowances.

Of these cases, 24 family cases and five unmarried parent cases were brought to the society's attention in April and seven children were taken into care. In April, 1950, 11 family cases and nine unmarried parent cases came under the society's supervision and four children were taken into care.

There were 63 hearings in family court involving 89 attendances by the staff.

Report Farmers Finishing Spring Seeding

Some farmers have finished the bulk of their spring seeding, W. W. Dawson of Otonabee informed The Examiner today.

"Generally, the work got well under way this week in favorable weather. As everybody knows, it is decidedly warmer, bringing on growth and drying up the land.

"Earlier in the week there was some frost at night. Young cattle are getting pasture. I think farmers are pretty well up to schedule. It is time to get the hybrid corn planted, and I expect there will be as much interest in it as in recent years."

Mr. Dawson said the country was looking good. There is considerable moisture.

Some farmers reported that the land was harder to work than usual, caused by the rains of April and also at the turn into May. Seeding operations are reported generally this week in Peterborough, Durham, Victoria and Northumberland.

Discuss Ways To Peace At Fenella WMS

ROSENEATH, May 17 (ENS)—"Ways of working for peace" was the topic of the devotional address given by Mrs. Frank Down at the May meeting of Fenella WMS. The meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Duncan. Following her address, Mrs. Down conducted a litany of dedication. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Laurie Hope.

The president, Mrs. N. C. Leach, presided over the business period. Included in the correspondence read by the secretary, Mrs. L. Hope was an invitation from Coldsprings WMS to attend the sectional rally at St. Paul's United Church, Coldsprings, on June 13 and to be in charge of the offering dedication prayer.

Mrs. George Duncan presented a synopsis of the eighth chapter of the study book.

Plans were made to pack a bale; the members will donate sufficient articles of clothing for the bale to be sent to the presbyterial supply secretary early in June.

Mrs. Carl McNaught was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Jewell and Mrs. Marcus Lonsberry. A Biblical quiz by Mrs. Laurie Hope concluded the program.

Friends Honor Couple Moving To Bridgenorth

SELWYN, May 17 —(ENS)—A social evening was held in the church hall Monday evening when friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. McConkey honored them on their departure. They will reside at Bridgenorth. The Rev. D. P. Norris was chairman.

Those taking part in the program were: Joyce Mathieson, Grace Tully, Sheila Wilson, Beryl and Karen Rosborough, Morley Nixon, Evans and Neil Blewett, Roy Bell, Barry Fitzgerald and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald was the accompanist. She also played for community singing. Mrs. Donald McConkey read the address, while a trilight floor lamp, mirror and box of candy were presented to Mr. and Mrs. McConkey by Irvin Tully, Melville Crapp and Kenneth Sweeting. Both replied and thanked everyone. Refreshments were served and a social visit enjoyed before departure for home.

Those responsible for the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Melville Crapp, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Tully and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McConkey.

Movement Grows

VANCOUVER (CP) — Welfare work which used to be restricted to the poor now is thought necessary for all levels of society, Miss Marjorie Smith told a family welfare bureau meeting. Director of the School of Social Work at the University of British Columbia, she said "there is a need in modern society for agencies where all families can go for advice."

Optimism of Homemakers Adds Zest, Flavor to Meals

By MARY MOORE

The eternal optimism of the homemaker is one of the major forces that makes the world go round.

If she knew—or let on that she knew—that the cost of living were going to continue to rise; or, that that promised raise in her husband's wages kept on being a promise; or, that the motor in the washing machine was going to give up the ghost and would have to be replaced next week—I say, if she knew all of these things beforehand, her constant good cheer would not be quite so spontaneous.

But she doesn't know—or pretends she doesn't—so she keeps believing, friends—and her very optimism flavors the food she prepares and the meals she serves.

When your housekeeping money is so low in your purse that you do not see how you can spin it out to last the whole week—try some very different menus—like our hypothetical optimistic friend does.

For, if you are determined to serve delicious and different meals—though poor—during these high-priced times—there are ways.

This week I bought some spring-run smelts at 25 cents per pound and some Australian rabbit (frozen) at 39 cents per pound. From these two purchases I am going to describe the meals I served, and when you try them too, you be the judge of their quality.

✧ ✧ ✧

Menu No. 1

Rabbit Friscassee
Milk Gravy
Creamed Spinach
Corn Dumpling
Rhubarb Scallop
Coffee

✧ ✧ ✧

Menu No. 2

Smelts, Campfire Style
Casserole of Tomatoes
Oven French Fried Potatoes
Peach Tapioca Tea

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

Since the rabbit was the cause of this Pollyanna column it comes first—it is very similar to the German dish called Hasenpfeffer.

✧ ✧ ✧

Rabbit Friscassee

Eight or ten servings sized pieces of dressed rabbit, ¼ cup fat, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon allspice, 1 medium-sized onion sliced thin, 2 cloves garlic, 2 bay leaves, ½ cup vinegar, 1 10-ounce can tomato puree. Add salt and pepper to flour and roll the rabbit pieces in it. Have the fat hot and fry the meat in it, turning constantly until golden on all sides. Transfer to baking dish, pour fat over, add remaining ingredients, cutting the garlic cloves in halves only. Cover. Bake in oven 350 deg. Fahr. until tender. A young rabbit requires 1 hour. Tastes very like chicken to the unprejudiced. Make milk gravy by adding milk and thickening to fat and crisp bits in baking dish.

✧ ✧ ✧

Corn Dumplings

Make your best tea biscuits. Cut out in 3-inch rounds. On each put 2 teaspoons well-seasoned corn pulp. Bring up edges and pinch lightly together. Steam (or bake) 30 minutes. Good with the milk gravy.

✧ ✧ ✧

Rhubarb Scallop

You'll use this a dozen times this spring. Mix 2 tablespoons melted butter with 2 cups soft breadcrumbs. Mix together 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, and rind of 1 orange. Have ready 3 or 3½ cups well-packed rhubarb. Arrange these 3 things in alternate layers in large casserole, starting and finishing with crumbs. Add juice of 1 orange and ½ cup water. Bake covered at 400 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes.

✧ ✧ ✧

Smelts, Campfire Style

This is very simple. The fishman confessed to me he did not scale his—"only open 'em up and wash 'em out lady." Well, I did that, but had to go a little further and chop off the heads. Then I dried them and brushed them with oil, and dredged them with yellow cornmeal. I arranged them on the broiler pan without the rack and baked them at 450 deg. Fahr. until they curled and were golden. We used lemon on them. They were delicious.

✧ ✧ ✧

Casserole of Tomatoes

Using 1 28-ounce tin tomatoes, put it in alternate layers with 2 cups buttered crumbs in crumb-lined casserole. Sprinkle the first layer of tomatoes with salt, pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar, and 1 teaspoon grated onion. Finish with crumbs dotted with butter. Bake in moderate oven. A short time in a very hot oven will do.

✧ ✧ ✧

Oven French Fries

Pare and cut potatoes into ½-inch strips and soak in cold water 1 hour. Drain and dry. Put in casserole with 2 tablespoons butter dotted over, sprinkle generously with salt and pepper, add ½ cup boiling water, cover and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until tender and tipped with gold, stirring them once.

✧ ✧ ✧

Peach Tapioca

Use the directions on the package of fast-cooking tapioca for making tapioca cream, but substitute peach juice for half of the milk, and use some of the peaches to top the finished pudding when it is in the serving dishes. The peach juice will curdle the milk, but this soon stirs out, and makes no difference to the finished pudding.

DEEP AREA

The "Norwegian Deep" in the North Atlantic between Norway and Iceland has recorded depths of more than 1,500 fathoms.

COLD WATER

The Arctic Sea has an area of about 5,500,000 square miles, of which nearly half is covered by floating ice.

St. James' Mothers Utilize New Ideas In Decorating

Several of the most attractive ideas in decoration yet seen were carried out by the Mothers of St. James' Baby Band for their afternoon tea on Wednesday. Using the dainty color scheme—pink, yellow and white—throughout, they transformed the primary room in Wesley Hall into a garden-like setting.

Pink and yellow paper lattice work and blossom trees marked off a tea room where quartette tables were set with white covers and pretty doilies of pink and yellow lace under tiny bouquets of paper white double narcissus. Around this tea room and on the walls were hung children's pictures in life-like color. These pictures revealed the personalities in children ranging from six months to six years and they had been carefully selected for this appeal. Mounted on cardboard they form a collection that may be added to and which has evident possibilities for future use.

Dolls Display

To show to advantage that three complete layettes had been completed by the mothers since January the display table featured three large dolls dressed in fancy smocked nighties, and pretty sweater and bonnet sets, two pink and one blue, with the piles of hand-finished garments beside each.

These busy mothers did not stop with mission work. They also made a supply of children's clothes and aprons for the sewing table and did a pleasing business with them. This week they concentrated more on baking and candy making and had these tables well supplied for their tea customers.

Three hundred tea tickets had been sold previous to Wednesday and there were a number of cash admissions, so the patronage they received was very satisfying. Proceeds are expected to reach a nice total and will be used in furthering the work of this organization which is now in its second year.

Tea Assistants

President Mrs. C. Davis was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. F. W. Craik and Mrs. H. Bell was at the treasurer's table. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Craik took over as tea pourer relieving Miss M. Bowers who presided during the rush period.

Flowers on the tea table carried out the color scheme, pink tulips, yellow daffodils and white narcissus. A lace madeira cloth set off a large silver tray and beautiful matching tea service and the setting was highlighted by lighted pink tapers.

Servers were Mrs. H. Stewart, Mrs. Don Roode, Mrs. Walter Seabrook, Mrs. Wally Davidson, Mrs. Robert Menzies, and Mrs. Wm. Roode, assisted by Mrs. Haig Bothwell who convened the tea room. Mrs. J. Raines and Mrs. J. McGovarin replenished the tea table and Mrs. J. A. Fife and Mrs. Harold Fife looked after making the tea and supplying cups.

Attendants at the sewing table were Mrs. N. MacMurchy and Mrs. Russ Mader. At the home baking table were Mrs. P. Holmes and Mrs. K. Bell and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. W. Baldry were selling the candy.

US Secretaries Become Professionals

NEW YORK, May 17—(CP)—The secretary is on her way to professional status in tht United States.

In late August she will, for the first time, have the opportunity to become a certified professional secretary, with the right to use the inials CPS after her name.

Certification — culmination of many years of planning and preparation by the National Secretaries Association—will be based on results of a two-day examination to be held across the country. Applicants will be tested for stenographic skill, typing ability, spelling, accounting, business law, office practice and—most important—"secretarial personality."

Members of the association's New York Chapter have expressed general satisfaction that at last the "bulwark of American business," the boss' "good right hand," is about to get some recognition in what they regard as a highly-developed profession.

Two-Way Benefits

Benefits should be two-fold, said Marion Musante, Chapter president. It will provide an easy way for a secretary in search of a job to prove her ability; and it should boost her ego so she will feel she is working on a professional level.

Miss Musante felt the psychological part of the examination was of utmost importance.

"A girl's secretarial ability can't be measured by tapping keys on a typewriter," she said.

"The ideal secretary has to get along with every personality in the office, act as a buffer between all annoyances and her employer, and make everyone who is getting a 'no' from the boss walk away feeling that he is getting a 'yes'."

Mrs. A. N. Reid Re-elected Presbyterial Head

The semi-annual meeting of Peterborough Presbyterial of WMS of Presbyterian Church in Canada was held in Old St. Andrew's Church, Colborne, with an attendance of 86. The president, Mrs. (Rev.) A. N. Reid presided.

The Hastings auxiliary took morning devotions. The report of Synodical held in Orangeville was given by Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Milne and Mrs. Fife.

Afternoon session was opened with devotions taken by Evening Auxiliary of Cobourg. Mrs. E. J. Kennaghan welcomed the visiting delegates and gave a short history of the Colborne church. Rev. A. N Reid brought greetings from Presbytery and Mrs. Reid welcomed all from Presbyterial. Her theme was, "Look forward, not backward."

Mrs. A. McKenzie, Peterborough, presented Mrs. R. McCulloch, past president of Presbyterial, with an honorary life member certificate in recognition of her four years' service. Mrs. McCulloch thanked the ladies of Presbyterial for their thoughtfulness.

Mrs. Harold Tate, Millbrook, introduced the new officers:

Mrs. A. N. Reid, Colborne, president: Mrs. McKenzie, Peterborough, 1st vice-president; Mrs. E. W. McKay, Cobourg 2nd vice-president; Mrs. L. T. McLaughlin, Bowmanville, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. Ritchie, Warkworth, children's secretary.

Mrs. Arthur Pae, Toronto, was introduced by Mrs. McCulloch. Mrs. Pae, president of council, is a most interesting and enlightening speaker, having held many offices in connection with missionary work. She spoke of how badly needed were leaders to teach girls and younger women to follow up work already started in various foreign lands, and also in the vast western field. Her closing words were, "One church in Christ in all the world."

Mrs. F Rowan, Peterborough, speaking for courtesy committee, thanked all who had provided so generously to the comforts and pleasure of the delegates.

Mention was made of the fall rally to be held in Warkworth in October and of a speaker from Toronto to address Mission Band leaders in the three centres of Port Hope, Peterborough and Campbellford.

Helpless Woman May Make Better Wife Than Clever One

DEAR MISS DIX: For the last several years I have been engaged to a fine girl of quiet strength of character, who is well educated and has a good disposition. She has stood by me in illness and great financial stress, breathed new life and courage into me and cheered me up when I needed it. I lean on her and know that she is the only woman I have ever seen whom I wanted to marry. But I have been going out with my secretary, who is young and pretty, and I am reluctant to give her up as she arouses my protective instincts. She is small and helpless. I must make some definite decision between the two women, but am unable to do so in my present mental state, so am asking you to help me.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Contradictory as it may seem I think that the inferior woman is the better choice for you and that her helplessness will aid you more than the efficient woman's helpfulness.

Let Mary Do It

Often we have seen healthy and able-bodied men who married clever capable women sit down on the do-nothing stool and let their wives support them when they found out that Mary could do it. I am not arguing that lazy little Dumb Doras make better wives than fine, strong, intelligent Marthas, but it is a truth that very often the helpless woman brings out something strong and fine in a man that the helpful woman never touches.

It is likewise true that a man no more loves the woman he leans on for support than the cripple loves his crutch. Her strength shames his weakness. Her industry and competence show up his indolence and lack of ability. Her success makes him conscious of his failure.

She gives him the feeling of inferiority. His masculine pride revolts at that, and he hates her for her very perfections. The women whom men love are those on whom they bestow favors and before whom they can pose as heroes and oracles.

There is something about the old traditional relationship between husbands and wives that does not bear upsetting. So I think a man is always wise to marry a woman who brings out the best that is in his character rather than one on whom he will lean for support.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Does a girl always have to worry over whether or not her sweetheart is tired of her? Must she always have that fear in mind? And is there no insurance whatever against it? Can't we do anything else except take it when it happens? People get married every day. They must not have grown tired of each other, even though some of them went together for years and years. This matter really has me worried. MAY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well it may. It is every woman's headache because men are fickle, "with one foot on land and one on sea, to one thing constant never," as the old song says.

Why men change, why romance wears out so quickly with them, why the girls they were so crazy about one day they can't see the next, nobody knows. They don't even know themselves. All they know is that they have just lost their taste for them. And that's that.

Of course, it doesn't always happen. There are many cases in which a man loves a woman more and more as the years go by, but it is all luck whether a girl gets one of these faithful souls, or one who is as changeable as the moon. And there is nothing she can do about it.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Miss Dix: I know two people who have separated several times because of their ill-treatment of each other. They are now divorced and both of them engaged to someone else. Yet they still love each other and are miserably bored and unhappy apart. They have two children. Should they go back together or are they better off apart?

M.W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: They might just as well go back together again; it would be a crying shame to inflict either one of these spoiled nincompoops on someone else. They don't know their own minds now, and never will. Their lives will be spent in separations and reconciliations, interspersed with bickerings, during which they will continue to feel very sorry for themselves. The poor, innocent children are the ones I feel sorry for. They haven't much future with parents as irresponsible as these two.

Show Streamlined New Outfits Of WD Wardrobe

OTTAWA, May 17—(CP)—A brass band and a backdrop of a modified North Star aircraft against the blue Gatineau hills ushered in one segment of the re-entry of women into the armed forces—the clothes.

The air force, soon to announce terms and conditions for its wids, erected a dais in the middle of Rockcliffe Airport and held a fashion show Wednesday.

Professional models pirouetted across the raised platform, displaying an array of wardrobe more streamlined, varied and practical than used by the women's division of the Second World War.

Chief attractions, from the purely feminine viewpoint, seemed to be nylon stockings, khaki slacks and—naturally—a new hat. The blue hat is a modified wedge cap adorned with a gold eagle.

First of the services to recurit women, the air force will dress members in a smart blue worsted, beltless and without side pockets to give the uniform a neat appearance.

There is also a fitted battle-dress jacket in blue which may be worn with skirt or slacks.

Generally speaking, the audience of 400 was predominantly male, and seemed to prefer the models in slacks, which also come in summertime khaki. While the skirted models were neat and smart by service standards, the only whistles they drew were from the piccolo player in the band.

It was different when model Pat Macaulay of Ottawa stepped from the dressing room—the RCAF's C5 aircraft, reserved For Every Important Persons. She was clad in the regulation white shorts and T-shirt which will be regulation for PT work. Unqualified male approval was registered.

Sqdn. Ldr. Sylvia Evans of Edmonton, on temporary advisory duty with the RCAF, took the microphone to describe the uniforms in fashion-show style. The wids pyjamas were not modelled, but it was learned that they are a light blue, similar in color to the summer working dress, a smart cotton job designed for comfort and coolness.

To the regret of male observers they didn't model lingerie either. This is because underthings are non-issued. As in the last war, the airwoman will receive an allowance—so far unspecified—and choose her own.

Mrs. Frank O'Brien Re-elected Head Douro CWL

DOURO, May 17—The annual meeting of St. Joseph's subdivision of the Catholic Womens' League was held after mass on Sunday.

The officers were re-elected for another year: president, Mrs. Frank O'Brien; first vice-president, Mrs. Michael Sheehan; second vice-president, Mrs. Albert Moher; third vice-president, Mrs. John Allen; treasurer, Mrs. Victor Kennedy; secretary, Mrs. J. Leahy, Miss Mae Whibbs, Mrs Frank Heffernan (West).

Mrs. O'Brien was in charge of the meeting. The reports showed a successful and active year. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. V. Kennedy, the secretary's report by Mrs. J. V. O'Connor.

A cheque for $100 was presented to the Rev. J. J. McCarthy to assist in the building of a new hall.

On behalf of the CWL the president, Mrs. O'Brien, presented Mrs. Kock, a recent arrival from Holland, with a rosary. An address of "Welcome to our country" was read by the secretary. Mrs. Kock thanked the members for their kindness.

Showing Summer Fashions By PG & CC Business Girls

While Business Girls of the Peterborough Golf Club daily in the golfing season display fashionable sportswear and summer dresses, their showing Wednesday evening of the summer stock from a local store packed their club rooms with a capacity crowd of 250 business girls and women.

The eight models, Misses Lois Enborg, Mary Sullivan, Betty Meagher, Helen Mathias, Joan Brown and Mrs. Joseph Watson, Mrs. Dave Wilson and Mrs. Hugh Waddell, are all club members as is the commentator, Mrs. Maurice Holt. The pianist during the showing was Mrs. W. J. Gordon.

Bare shoulders rather than bare-top dresses were favored by the audience. Both types used tiny boleros, stoles or waist-length jackets for covering up. The bra tops shown were so designed with boning and varied methods of elasticizing that no undergarment need be worn and a feature of the skirts that made up so many costumes of "separates" is that they need no slip underneath.

Dress skirts were straight lined with pleats for walking freedom and the separate skirts were divided between the pencil slim and those that are very wide at the hemline. Blouses in most combinations matched the skirt in color, or the blouse was black with a colorful skirt. Tacking and "candy" buttons down the front finished the tailored blouses and the casual featured wide, scooped necklines. Practically all were sleeveless.

Every season seems to have its velvet and this summer it is used for a bathing suit. The lush creation of black, water-marked velvet with panels of sheared-out transparent dotted design, over pink nylon, was modelled nicely by Miss Lois Enborg. Another truly lovely suit was of cafe lace lastex lined with pale pink jersey, modelled by Miss Helen Mathias. Terry cloth "blotters" were worn over the suits and in one case a sophisticated all over print sleeveless coat lined with terry.

Cuffed shorts and man-tailored slacks were shown with the popular T-shirts and sweater sets. Four-piece cotton ensembles included shorts, skirt, separte bra top and stole or bolero.

In many cases a flower made the costume outstanding, as a big sunflower on a black blouse with a matching skirt, and some flowers were buttoned into pockets and key-hole necklines.

Steals the Show

Mrs. Waddell was the show-stealer. Every outfit she wore seemed to merit special appeal, though afterward there was indecision whether it was the clothes or the model. She wore the only tailored suit, of white milateen, hand stitched in black on the skirt pleat and one side of the jacket; the only navy dress shown, a tailored frock of very straight lines and partial coat front with white linen used on the side of the skirt and full length in front; the most admired sun dress, of cocoa brown linen with bare shoulders; a very chic ensemble of brown linen tuck-in blouse and skirt with sophisticated cape-stole jacket; a white tailored dress with five full box pleats in the front and one in the back; a silk jersey dress in natural shade with permanent sunburst pleats in the skirt and bodice, completed with a cocoa brown belt of grosgrain ribbon; a sun dress of bold blazing red and black stripes with bare, shirred top and bolero jacket.

The cocktail dresses were lovely in design and color. Mrs. Dave Wilson wore a white pique studded with sequins which had two straps over one shoulder. The one-strap idea was carried out in several ways and a two-piece bathing suit showed one-sided treatment in the bras.

The only toppers were of linen, one very smart box jacket of white linen with balck velveteen notched collar. Flamingo was a nice shade shown in a sun dress.

Seldom are there such valuable door prizes given at such an event and very lucky indeed are the winers. Miss June Stinson received a bathing suit and Mrs. J. K. Brown a dress, presented by Mrs. Charles Levine when their tickets were drawn by club president Mrs. C. G. Graham. Mrs. C. B. Westbrook drew for the draw prizes, a cashmere sweater set, and it was won by Mrs. Riley. Favors to each guest were samples of a new make-up creme.

Miss Loretta Sullivan, BG's president, thanked those taking part for the success of the show. The becoming hair stylings were by Miss Lilian Weiss.

Clever Skit

Hilarious entertainment at the intermision was put on by the club members, and the introductory titles are self-explanatory: Pessimistic Golfer, Miss Eleanor Whittaker; Gibson Girl, Miss Jane Dutton; Scotch Girl, Miss Ella Reed; Alibi Alice, Marge Behan; Honest Golfer, Loretta Sullivan; Feminine Golfer, Wilma Goodwin; Mask for blasting out of sand traps, Marg. McIntyre; Hungry Golfer, Win Davis; 19th Hole Golfer, Trudy Stewart.

The clever skit was produced and directed by Mrs. Hal Bletcher.

Robinson Kisses President's Wife

PARIS, May 17—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the negro middleweight champion, kissed the wife of the president of France four times Wednesday—twice on each cheek—with the enthusiastic approval of a salon-full of France's social uppercrust.

The 30-year-old American was playing the role of goodwill ambassador for the American Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

He handed Madame Vincent Auriol a cheque for $10,000 from the Runyon Fund after making a speech in French.

The presentation was staged in a gilded salon near the Arc de Triomphe. As a social event, it probably will be recorded as one of the most successful, if unusual, of the season.

DAVID SCHULTZ, who arrived in Canada as an immigrant, stands beside his great-grandfather Gustav O'Hara Taaffe who came to the new world one hundred years ago to seek his fortune, and found it. Mr. Schultz hopes he will be as successful. His father and grandfather also came here as immigrants.

Employees Find $500 In Bills

STRATHCONA, May 17—(CP)—Employees of a paper company in this eastern Ontario community Wednesday found $500 in banknotes in the pulp reclamation equipment.

Much of the money was soggy and mutiliated but workers saved a considerable part.

Bill King said he found $85 during the 12 hours the bills floated to the surface of the water-conveying system.

As far the company is concerned, the finders can keep the money. Officials said it would be impossible to trace the source of it.

Consider Change In Welfare Costs

TORONTO, May 17 — (CP) — The question of the provincial government taking over all municipal welfare costs as a move to relieve civic taxes on property owners will be considered by a special committee, Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said Wednesday.

Premier Frost told a delegation of the Ontario Mayors and Reeves Association Tuesday that the committee will be named shortly to study municipal tax problems and the system of provincial grants and subsidies.

Mr. Dunbar said, however, that assumption of all welfare costs by the province has not come up for government consideration.

The first tree was cut on the site of what now is the city of North Bay.

US Flyer Smashes Into Express 11 Dead, 60 Hurt

BRYN MAWR, Pa., May 18. (AP)—Police superintendent Maj. G. A. McLaughlin said 11 persons are known to have been killed in the crash of two famed Pennsylvania Railroad trains here today. Authoritative reports said at least 60 others were injured, eight of them seriously. The Philadelphia Express was coming from Pittsburgh, the Red Arrow from Detroit to New York. Bryn Mawr hospital reported it had received at least 50 injured. The extent of their injuries had not been determined.

A spokesman for the PRR said the crash occurred at 7:38 a.m. EDT, at a peak period of travel on one of the most heavily-travelled rail lines in the east.

The spokesman said train No. 68, the Red Arrow, eastbound from Detroit to New York, smashed into the rear of train No. 36, the Philadelphia night express bound from Pittsburgh.

The Philadelphia express had stopped, possibly for a checkup on equipment.

The accident happened about five miles west of the PRR station in Bryn Mawr, a residential suburb.

Telescopes Car

Eyewitnesses said the engine of the Red Arrow telescoped the rear car of the Philadelphia express and overturned the car ahead. The locomotive itself thrust straight into the air, then collapsed on its side.

Among the passengers of the battered train were several priests who hastened to help the injured and to administer last rites of the church to the dead.

More than 1,000 people gathered at the scene—on a section of Philadelphia's famed "main line" — and some were pressed into service to aid police and firemen.

Eyewitnesses said they saw an electric flash, then flames rising from the telescoped coach. The railroad uses electric engines, powered from overhead wires, in this area. The fire was quenched soon after railroad men turned off the current.

During the early morning hours the PRR carries tens of thousands of suburban residents to their jobs in Philadelphia.

Thus a major snarl in this operation resulted from the wreck.

2 Holdup Men Remanded For One Week

KITCHENER, May 18. (CP)—Floyd Klinck, 25, of Galt, and Philip Reardon, 20, no abode, today were remanded one week for sentence after a 40-minute hearing reviewed their ill-fated looting of a Linwood bank.

The two men pleaded guilty on Wednesday to robbery of the Linwood branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia Monday. After escaping with $2,922, the bandits were captured within 30 minutes following a wild chase.

Klinck also pleaded guilty to two charges of forgery and two of uttering in connection with cheques for $72.55 and $47.53. Evidence on these charges will be heard next Friday, it was indicated.

Today's hearing brought few surprises other than testimony that the gun taken from Reardon at the time of his arrest was unloaded.

Bank teller Barclay Bond, 19, said in describing the holdup that he looked up and saw a gun pointed at him. He identified Klinck as the man holding the gun.

Bond said he was told to back up and ordered from the tellers cage. Bond along with Eric Warneford, manager, and Charles Brash, the new manager, were herded into the vault. Bond identified Reardon as the man who unsuccessfully attempted to lock the vault door on them.

Learn Vikings Enjoyed Crap

LONDON, May 18 (CP)—Archaeologists announced today they have proof that the Vikings who swept into Britain 1,000 years ago were not all pirates and plunderers. Some just wanted to shoot crap.

The same scientists also brought up the theory that the Scotsman's beloved morning plate of porridge may have originated with the Norsemen because they have unearthed a batch of unwashed pots with fragments of gluey ground meal still stuck to the sides.

Excavations undertaken by the British works ministry at Jarlshof, on the southern tip of the Shetland Isles, turned up two acres of peaceful homesites built around the 10th century by Viking colonists from Norway.

Archaeologists said they unearthed some 4,000 items there to indicate the Vikings' way of life. There were plenty of dice, counters and gaming gadgets but the only weapon left by the supposedly warlike Vikings was one iron spearhead.

Two Rescued After Collision

FORT ERIE, May 18. (CP)—Two Buffalo fishermen were rescued Thursday night when their 18-foot motorboat was sunk in a collision with a cabin cruiser near the Peace Bridge.

James Murray of Eden, NY, owner of the cruiser, manoeuvred his craft into position to pull out Stephen Schweichler, 44, and William Mazierski, 55, after the collision. Murray told police the smaller boat was operating without lights.

Schweichler and Mazierski were treated in a Buffalo hospital for exposure and shock.

Planning To Rewrite Post Office Act

OTTAWA, May 18 (CP)—Postmaster-General Rinfret today gave notice on the Commons order paper of a bill which will rewrite the Post Office Act—the legislation governing delivery of Canadian mails and the operation of post offices throughout the country.

W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said that rather than introduce a number of amendments, it had been decided to revamp the whole act.

Some of the changes would be fairly important, he added, but could not be disclosed until the bill is brought before the House.

Scouts Wreck Mansion $40,000 Suit Filed

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP). — About 150 boy scouts wrecked a palatial $7,000,000 north shore mansion to the extent of $40,000, a damage suit filed yesterday in Federal Court said.

Five insurance companies were sued by lawyer John R. Whitman.

The suburban Lake Forest property formerly was owned by the late Harold McCormick and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, once known as the world's richest woman.

Police said about half of the scouts got into the building in May last year and pretended to defend it from the others.

Huge urns and heavy statues were hurled at the invaders, hundreds of panes of glass were broken, and the boys used their little hatchets to smash ornamental doors, floors and walls.

Hear Russia Asks Korean Peace Talks

LONDON, May 18—(AP)—Informed diplomats in London said today Russia has informally suggested to the United States that there be new talks aimed at ending the Korean war and reaching a Far Eastern settlement.

The informants—who can be described only as representatives of both east and west—said the initial American reaction was cool.

The sources said as far as they are aware the Russians have introduced no new proposals for a settlement.

But the fact of a Russian approach, they speculated, could mean: Communism's resources are being strained by the inclusive Korean war.

UN Assembly Passes Ban On Arms

Canada For Embargo But Soviet Bloc Fails To Participate

NEW YORK, May 18. (AP)—The United Nations Assembly today voted an arms embargo against Communist China in an effort to stop strategic materials reaching the Reds from the free world.

The vote was 47 to 0. Canada backed the embargo.

The Soviet bloc asked to be recorded as not participating. Nations abstaining were Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, India, Indonesia, Pakistan, Sweden and Syria.

India's Sir Benegal N. Rau expressed fear the embargo would create another "psychological hurdle" in the path of a peaceful settlement of the Korean question. He urged the Assembly to make a new peace gesture toward the Peiping regime by issuing a formal declaration that UN troops would not again advance north of the 38th Parallel.

Most countries outside the Communist sphere already have halted shipments to the Peiping regime, but sponsors of the embargo measure hoped if would plug loopholes and shut off shipments entirely. It was also intended as another moral judgment against the Chinese Reds.

Significant Decision.

The decision is significant for two reasons: It represents the first time the UN has attempted to apply economic sanctions as a weapon to stop aggression; it may open the way at a later stage for more severe measures such as a naval blockade.

The Soviet objections indicated they will not comply with the embargo.

The Assembly's 60-member political committee voted 45-0 late Thursday to recommend the embargo as the next step against Red China and North Korea, both already branded as aggressors in Korea by the Assembly.

Russia and the four other members of the Soviet bloc did not participate in the committee debate or the voting. They argued that Assembly action on an embargo is illegal insisting that the question must be handled by the Securiy Council — where Russia has a veto and presumably would use it.

Nine countries obstained — Ecuador, India, Indonesia, Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Pakistan, Sweden and Syria.

Tornado Kills 500 In Bengal

DACCA, Pakistan, May 18 (Reuters).—Five hundred persons may have died and some 2,000 been injured in a tornado which struck a remote area of east Bengal last week, authorities said today.

Three hundred dead have already been buried. It is estimated 200 still are missing.

The tornado tore a three-mile wide path of devastation through 25 miles of Faridpur district in east Bengal. More than 25 villages were destroyed.

Officials said damage was estimated at about 10,000,000 rupees (about $3,000,000).

UK Destroyer Intercepts Rubber Freighter At Sea

HONG KONG, May 18 (Reuters). — The British destroyer Cossack intercepted the British freighter Nancy Moller on the high seas tonight and started escorting her back to Singapore with er vital cargo of rubber destined for Communist China, it was reported.

Usually reliable sources said the Transport Ministry in London requisitioned the Nancy Moller and her cargo of 3,700 tons of rubber

They expressed belief this action had been taken under a wartime regulation still in force and transmitted to the master by radio before the Cossack arrived on the spot.

The Nanvy Moller was near Hainan Island when intercepted, it was reported here eManwhile in Singapore, another ship which had sought to deliver a cargo of rubber to China arrived back in port, turned back by British authorities at the Malayan call port of Penang.

The ship, the Panamanian freighter Nor Bay, carried 740 tons of Malayan rubber worth $1,125,000.

Penang authorities refused to clear her for China under the terms of the embargo on trade with the Communist mainland requested last week by the British Government.

Steel Cut Will Hit Canada In July

US Curbs On Civilian Allocations Mean Cut For Dominion

OTTAWA, May 18—(CP)—A steel cut announced in the United States is likely to hit Canada, too, next July.

A government steel official said today that the US cuts in civilian allocations of steel likely will mean restrictions on shipments to Canadian civilian firms as well.

The US cut-back, ordered by the government for July 1 will mean that only about 2,000,000 tons of steel will be available for US autos, refrigerators, washing machines and other appliances in the July-August-September quarter.

This compares with 3,000,000 tons used quarterly before the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25.

Canada normally depends on the US for about 1,000,000 tons of steel a year. Imports in the first two months, however, have been running slightly higher than a year ago to help Canada's defence effort.

Missing Boy, 5 Located In Montreal.

TORONTO, May 18—(CP)—City police said today they hold a warrant for the arrest of Frank Maxwell, 29-year-old Toronto household appliance salesman, charging him with abducting Martin Frenette, 5, Wednesday.

The Toronto boy was found unharmed in Montreal's westend St. Henri district Thursday night. Montreal police immediately launched a search for the salesman after Toronto authorities asked them to take him into custody.

The boy is the son of carpenter William Frenette, who moved from Saint John, N.B. two years ago.

Police said the salesman, drove the child here from Toronto in his car.

Abbie Secord, a Toronto barber, said in Toronto Thursday that he and the salesman drove to the Frenette home Wednesday. While there he said the missing boy climbed into the car. When Secord came out of the house, the boy and the salesman were gone.

Waiting For Parents

Meanwhile, Martin was waiting at the home of an aunt, Mrs. Emile Frenette, in suburban Verdun for his father and mother to arrive from Toronto later today.

Martin's conversation with his aunt went like this after he was taken to her home:

Martin: "The man talked about pots, pans and watches. I saw boats and trains too."

Mrs. Frenette: "Did he beat you?"

"No. I want my mummy."

May Change Milk System

TORONTO, May 18 —(CP)—A Toronto paper says today a fundamental change in the system of marketing milk may be coming in Ontario.

The change would be the introduction of a pooling arrangement, the newspaper says.

Instead of selling to the dairy, the cheese factory or evaporating plant on a direct contract basis, the producer would sell to the pool and would draw his returns from it.

Advantages of this system might include more efficient distribution in summer and winter and possible lower costs.

Last-Minute Rush For Glasses, Teeth

LONDON, May 18 —(AP)—A last-minute rush for free spectacles and false teeth started throughout Britain today. There will be no more, the government announced, after Sunday.

The National Health Service said it will put into effect Monday its new requirement that patients pay half the cost of dentures and eyeglasses they now receive free.

Under the new half-price program—instituted to enable health service appropriations to be diverted to the government's rearmament program—Britons will pay fees ranging from £4 5s ($12.55) for a full set of dentures to 10 shillings—the cost of a monocle.

Armed Police Nab 6 In Payroll Robbery

TORONTO, May 18 (CP) — Police with drawn guns early today raided a west-end rooming house and arrested six men in connection with this week's $1,550 payroll robbery at the National Knitting Mills here.

Detectives said they found $250 hidden in a room.

The suspects will be placed in a lineup later today to be viewed by members of the knitting company staff.

50 French Soldiers Killed 130 Injured In Explosion On Navy Ship

SAIGON, Indo-China, May 18. (AP) — Fifty French troops were killed yesterday and 130 injured—30 of them badly when an explosion ripped the French Navy tank-landing ship Adour. The vessel was loading troops and ammunition off the coastal town of Nhatrang, some 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

French Army sources said there was no indication of sabotage. The Adour had just taken aboard 900 troops for operations against the Communist-led Viet Minh when the vessel was torn by a terrific blast that rocked Nhatrang. The ship was tied up to a small dock on the shore of the resort town.

The blast was believed to have been touched off by an accidental fire in the ship's hold which got out of control and reached the ammunition stored in the hold.

Tragedy Ends Illegal Fishing

KINGSTON, May 18 (CP)—An illegal fishing expedition—blasting by dynamite — ended in tragedy Thursday night when Charles Emmons, 23, of Westbrooke, seven miles west of Kingston, was drowned in a mill pond near Westbrooke.

His companion, William B. Thompson, 40, managed to swim to shore, when their frail craft began to fill with water.

Emmons' body was recovered at 11:30 p.m. by Bruce Saundercook, Collins Bay game warden.

Ross Emmons, father of the victim, said today that his son and Mr. Thompson were using dynamite to get fish. He said it was their second such expedition this week.

Details of the drowning are obscure but Warden Saundercook described their craft as a frail boat generally used for trapping and hardly safe enough for one man.

Pats Ready For Chinese

By WILLIAM BOSS

KOREA, May 18—(CP)—Calm, poised and cheerfully confident, UN mountain troops (The Canadian Princess Patricias) today waited for the newly resumed Chinese spring offensive to reach their sector.

In virtually impregnable positions, these troops today almost prayed that tonight would be The Night.

Walking through their lines today was like wandering backstage on a theatre first night. Every one knew his part, weapons were slickly oiled and ready, and everything was in place for the curtain to lift.

However, unlike on a first night, there was no nervousness anywhere. These troops had the confidence and good humor of men who knew their job.

And the curtain was ready to go up whenever the Chinese said the word.

Can't Find Plane Reported In Crash

PADUCAH, Ky., May 18. (AP) —Searchers combed a wide area of wooded hills near here today without finding any trace of a plane which was reported to have crashed Thursday night.

Coincident with the crash report was word from middle Tennessee that a big meteor streaked across the sky and exploded with a brilliant flash, apparently near Bowling Green, Ky., about 150 miles from Paducah.

Police said the crash was reported by a farmer who lives in the vicinity.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority at the Paducah airport said it could learn of no plane that was scheduled over the area at the reported crash hour.

Floods Threaten Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 18 (AP)—Flood waters, fed by rampaging rivers and creeks, today threatened a 30-block section of Kansas' largest city and harassed new areas in Oklahoma and Texas.

The high waters have caused at least four deaths, isolated many rural homes, and cut transportation and communications.

At Wichita, Kas., a city of 200,000, national guardsmen and hundreds of volunteers sought to control the Little Arkansas River.

The slowly - rising waters threatened to flood a 30-block area of the city.

In Southwestern Oklahoma, Canton reservoir engineers warned residents to prepare for high flood waters—perhaps the greatest in history—from the Washita River.

The hardest-hit city in Texas was Plainview in the northwest part of the state. Approximately 40 persons have been evacuated there.

Flood waters two feet deep spread through the town of 10,000.

Speared Fish ? May Lose Car

BRADFORD, May 18 (CP) — Two Toronto men charged with spearing fish out of season have paid more than $400 in fines, may lose their car and won't even be allowed to keep their three fish—among the largest ever caught in Lake Simcoe.

Sid Dorland, county conservation officer, said the fish are being given to the old folks at the Simcoe county home in nearby Beaton. One of the three maskinonge caught weighed 42 pounds while the others weighed 38 and 35 pounds.

Bradford is 30 miles north of Toronto.

Narrow Escape

BELLEVILLE, May 18—(CP)—Mrs. Beatrice Huggins of nearby Roslin and her 15-month-old baby escaped with cuts and bruises Thursday when their automobile was struck by a freight train at a level crossing near Corbyville, five miles northwest of here. The car, which stalled at the crossing as the train approached was carried 25 feet along the track and overturned.

Indian Council Refuses To Lease Land For School

OSHWEKEN, May 18 (CP)—The Six Nations Indian Council Thursday night at a special meeting declined to lease a 20-acre plot of its property at the eastern outskirts of Brantford to the Brantford Board of Education for a proposed secondary school site.

Only one of the 12 councillors dissented to chief councillor E. P. Garlows resolution that the board's overture be shelved. Councillor James Pawless abstained from voting, having stated earlier he believed the land should be leased but never sold.

"I didn't like the attitude of the Board of Education delegation last Thursday," Chief Councillor Garlow said during discussion of the board's denial that expropriation proceedings were never contemplated as a means toward obtaining the school site.

The delegation from the board a week earlier had assured the council that the board had never contemplated expropriation but that board representatives had attempted to find out whether it had a right to expropriate.

The delegation said the board's motives had been misinterpreted during lengthy correspondence with Ottawa on obtaining the land through some other means when a vote among Six Nations Indians failed to support sale of the whole plot last fall.

Councillor Leonard Staats said Thursday that the rumors about expropriation came after the council had agreed to a lease of six acres to the Ontario Hydro Power Commission as a sub-station site for the 25-to-60 cycle conversion program which would benefit the electrification of the reservation.

The proposed secondary school would not be of very great benefit to the Six Nations people, he believed.

Gain As Much As 20 Miles In Three Days In Deepest Penetration

Trapped US Elements Finally Make Escape Under Spectacular Barrage; Believe This Offensive Mightiest Drive

TOKYO, May 18. (AP)—Communist troop masses attacking with utter disregard of lives today pushed back Allied lines across most of the Korean warfront. The Reds had gained as much as 20 miles in three days and forced United Nations troops out of their last foothold in North Korea. The Allied pullback extended from the east coast for more than 50 miles across the central front. In the west, Red spearheads thrust within 10 miles of Seoul. They were fighting on both the eastern and northern approaches to the old South Korean capital.

Later, correspondent William C. Barnard on the east-central front reported that the American elements which had been "in great trouble" had crashed through infiltrating Chinese to their rear.

A spectacular artillery barrage helped one unit escape through a Chinese block. The big guns ringed the Americans as they moved south and held the Chinese at bay.

Other elements of the American division were holding firm. It was not clear from closely-censored field reports whether the hole through which the Chinese were pouring had been plugged.

Fifth Offensive

This was the Chinese Reds' fifth offensive since they entered the war in late November. And it appeared to be shaping up as their mightiest drive—one aimed, Red prisoners said, to throw the allies out of Korea by the June 25 first anniversary of the Communist invasion.

Chinese pouring through a break in two South Korean divisions were believed to be on three sides of the US division. The South Korean break, south of Inje on the east-central front, exposed both flanks of the American force.

Waves of Chinese infantrymen overran one US unit on the central front and penetrated another. Attacking Reds scrambled over their own dead to reach the US lines.

Communist infantrymen were cut down by the thousands.

But the sheer weight of their numbers forced general UN withdrawals along the entire eastern sector and some withdrawals across the central front. In the west, the allied line north of Seoul held firm.

Leaps From Engine Pulls Child Off Track

BARCELONA, May 18 — Reuters)—A locomotive engineer leaped from his cab today and ran ahead of his own locomotive to snatch a child from beneath its wheels.

Engineer Jose Vila slammed on the brakes when he saw a two-year-old girl playing on the tracks ahead.

As the train slowed, Vila saw that it would not come to a complete halt before reaching her. He vaulted out and made the rescut just before the locomotive ground to a stop on the spot where the child had been standing.

Truman Sets Off New Fireworks Over General

WASHINGTON, May 18—(AP) —President Truman's statement that he had considered dismissing Gen. MacArthur off and on for a year "astonished" the deposed Far Eastern commander and today stirred critics of the administration to new wrath.

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Ia.), a Republican dissenter on official Far Eastern policy, charged Truman had "deceived the people" with previous declarations of support for MacArthur.

MacArthur, in a statement issued in New York, said his astonishment at Truman's remarks bordered on incredulity. He added: "It is difficult to reconcile this with my appointment by him as commander-in-chief of the United Nations command" in Korea. That was last June.

Truman also told his press conference Thursday that the Republicans are trying to overthrow the foreign policy of the United States.

This brought a retort from Senator Owen Brewster (Rep. Me.) a foreign relations committee member, who told a reporter: "We can't overthrow it when we don't know what it is."

The president said he decided he needed a new general in the Far East when MacArthur called on the Chinese Communists in Korea March 24 to negotiate a truce, in advance of a proposed presidential peace proposal.

MacArthur replied to this, too, saying he had twice previously tried to obtain a cease-fire agreement, both times "without conferring with higher authority and without the slightest exception being taken thereto."

Six Missing In Pier Blaze

PHILADELPHIA, May 18 (AP) —A fast-spreading fire ripped through a pier and a tied-up ship on the Philadelphia water front this morning. As firemen sought to extinguish the last stubborn flames a police official said six men are missing. At least 35 persons were injured.

Police said the missing men were: Two crew members of the steamship Pineland, a 4,000-ton freighter registered out of Leith, Scotland; one cargo checker employed by a shipping firm, and three longshoremen.

Origin of the blaze, on pier 46 south, had not been determined at noon when firemen said it was under control after a four-hour battle.

3 Officers, Suspect Killed In Gun Battle

BOAZ, Ala., May 18 (AP). — Three officers and a man they sought to arrest died in a midnight gun battle at a farm near here. A fourth officer, badly wounded, is in hospital.

Five persons are being held without charge pending further investigation.

Those killed were Sheriff E. M. Boyles of Marshall County; Police Chief Leonard J. Floyd of Boaz; Aubrey Kilpatrick, a farmer; and Chief Deputy-Sheriff W. M. Bennett, who died in hospital.

The officers had gone to the Kilpatrick home to arrest him and another man on charges of assault with intent to murder. Officials said charges against Kilpatrick arose from a neighborhood fight not involving any of the officers who made the midnight trip.

Many Refuse To Obey Union Orders

NEW YORK, May 18. (AP) — A union order sending some 5 000 Western Union employees back to work Thursday night met with mixed results.

In Philadelphia, Detroit, and the San Francisco area, workers refused to return to their jobs in a dispute involving a week-old management program of training "excluded" in supervisory employees.

Normal working conditions were restored in Cincinnati, Boston and Buffalo, NY, following back-to-work orders issued by Adolph Brungs, national president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union (AFL) Western Union division.

The "spontaneous" work stoppages began Wednesday in Philadelphia and Cincinanti. They spread rapidly to the other five centres and threatened to affect workers in Chicago and a number of other cities.

In Philadelphia, a CTU spokesman said the walkout "was still in force" despite Brungs' order. The spokesman said union members would not return to work until the company "gives assurance that violations will not be repeated and the word 'temporary' deleted from the offered settlement."

Walkout Illegal

Western Union officials termed the walkout illegal, and said they would postpone the supervisory training program "to avoid any further interference with important defence traffic and the messages of the public."

Union officials insisted their contract bars "excluded" supervisory employees from performing duties covered by the contract.

Brungs charged that management started the training program "in anticipation of a possible national strike on or about July 1."

The union head said some 35.000 Western Union employees had voted 10 to 1 to strike unless the company agreed to negotiate a union demand for a flat 25-cent-an-hour wage boost.

Brungs said Western Union employees now receive an average of about $1.27 hourly.

Abbott Seeking Advice From Ex-Soldiers To Aid Troops In Korea

OTTAWA, May 18. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott seeks advice from former fighting men in the Commons on financial measures to take to aid Canada's fighting men in Korea —or elsewhere. In the Commons Thursday night, he ruled out any over-all exemption from income tax. When Opposition members launched a flurry of protests, he suggested there probably were "other ways" to do what they had in mind. He said he hopes to get the benefit of the experience of members who served in the Second World War. He mentioned a suggestion made previously by Capt. George Hees (PC-Toronto Broadway) that possibly Canadian troops in Korea might get combat pay or some similar remuneration.

The minister made the statement during committee consideration of budget taxation resolutions which produced a sharp debate on corporation taxes.

Fears More Inflation

He expressed the belief that higher corporation taxes would lead to more inflation and said that counting the 20-per-cent surcharge proposed in the budget along with provincial taxes, profits taxes now are more than 50 per cent. This was higher than Canadian corporations paid during the Second World War, when the average was about 40 per cent.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) moved an amendment to substitute a graduated tax on excess profits for the 20-per-cent surcharge. His amendment was ruled out of order.

At the House opening, Fisheries Minister Mayhew said the government will not undertake a general program for supporting the price of salt codfish this year. Conditions in Canada's salt-fish industry did not justify such a move.

The Commons approved Canada's new Indian act after a Progressive Conservative attempt to alter terms was defeated by a vote of 132 to 45.

Last-Minute Change

The last-minute amendment, introduced by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) would have returned the bill to committee with instructions to make changes giving Indians a greater say as to status. Mr. Fulton did not think the new act placed the Indians on a basis of equality with the white man.

Mr. Abbott said the experience of the Second World War led him to believe that tax exemptions for military service abroad were full of inequalities and unfairness. For instance a private would save only $6.85 a month, while a brigadier—the top Canadian rank in Korea—would save $142 a month.

In addition there were administrative difficulties. And such exemptions led to floods of requests by others serving abroad such as welfare workers, firefighters and war correspondents.

To Discuss Matter

After opposition members urged the minister to reconsider, he said he would be glad to discuss the matter with Defence Minister Claxton. He still didn't think over-all tax exemption was the answer, but there probably were "other ways" in which some fiscal reward could be made for those fighting in Korea.

Capt. Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) said the men in Korea should not pay taxes.

Mr. Abbott said he was not arguing there should not be reward for foreign service but it should not take the form of an income-tax exemption which was not fair.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said the conscience of the people was aroused. Something should be done.

Heedless of losses, the Reds attacked in a great offensive which Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, UN ground commander, said was doomed to failure.

Van Fleet made his confident statement after the UN high command announced the Reds had 1,141,000 troops in Korea or quickly available in Manchuria.

Their heaviest weight was thrown against the east-central sector. Up to midnight Thursday they had lost 9,000 men there, AP correspondent William C. Barnard reported.

Bombers Active

Through the night allied bombers and fighters bombed and strafed by the light of flares. Massed artillery fire steadily into swarming Reds.

In one spot east of Chunchon shells burst in a mass of 8,000 Chinese.

This was on the edge of the big Red break-through.

n estimated two Chinese divisions poured through the gap in South Korean lines and fanned out south, south-west and south-east of Inje.

They were reported applying heavy pressure on American flanks.

Communists streamed down the road toward Hongchon, highway hub and American base on the central front.

Americans were engaged in heavy fighting around Hangye. The town is 13 miles south of the 38th Parallel, 20 air miles south of Inje, and 10 miles north-east of Hongchon.

Greatest Penetration

This appeared to be the greatest depth of Red penetration.

But the Reds drove two holes in UN lines in hand-to-hand fighting Thursday morning on the west-central front. This action was roughly 25 miles north-east of Seoul.

All field dispatches were heavily censored. The exact location of any fight was deleted.

Censorship particularly obscured what was happening in the big Red break-through and its potential significance.

Only one thing was completely clear. Communist troops were suffering terrific losses.

Barnard reported that other Reds, exploiting a break-through south of Inje, endangered a South Korean division to the east of the Americans.

Heavy Pressure

These Reds were streaming through a gap cut Thursday in two South Korean divisions. That put heavy pressure on the American flanks. Two Red divisions were exploiting the break. They fanned out south of Inje, 25 miles inland from the Sea of Japan.

Barnard's report on central front action was so heavily censored it was impossible to tell precisely where the "human sea" tactics overran the American unit.

The waves of Reds, said Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet of the overall offensive, are making "another futile attempt to destroy the United Nations forces in Korea."

UN planes, credited with killing 3,570 Reds Thursday, were out in force again Friday.

But the toll scarcely made a dent in the 1,141,000 troops the UN command said were available to the Reds. An army release termed the Reds' overwhelming numbers "a critically-dangerous threat" to UN forces. It said the Communists have an estimated 768,000 men in Korea, most of them on or immediately back of the front, and 373,000 more available in Manchuria.

Other Units Hold

The Reds smashed through South Korean troops or pushed them back. Other Allied units held their lines. Communist smashes north of Seoul were crushed.

Twenty-five miles northeast of the old South Korean capital, the Reds chased South Korean troops across the Pukhan River. UN artillery took a heavy toll of the pursuing Communists.

In the eastern sector, heavy Communist waves rolled back the South Korean lines from the Inje area to the sea of Japan. This 25-mile line through the eastern mountains was the last UN hold in North Korea.

AP correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U.S. Eighth Army headquarters that the Communists have chased almost all United Nations troops south of the 38th Parallel.

On the east coast the South Koreans pulled back to Yangyang, five miles north of 38. There they were supported by the big guns of the recently-arrived U.S. battleship New Jersey.

The greatest Red masses were hurled at the east central front from Inje 25 miles southwestward to Chunchon.

Kiwanis Honors UK Adjudicators

Gordon Thorne and John Clements, adjudicators at the Peterborough Kiwanis Festival, were honored by the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting Thursday.

The English adjudicators were made honorary members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club with the induction ceremony performed by Vince McCabe.

Mr. McCabe explained that Peterborough Kiwanians have made all English adjudicators at their festival honorary members and expressed the hope that Mr. Clements and Mr. Thorne, when they returned home, would get in touch with the other honorary members of this city's club.

"Perhaps sometime in the future all you honorary members will get together and form a club of your own," Mr. McCabe said. If that should happen Peterborough Kiwanians will be glad to go over and visit their club.

Retail Stores To Close May 24

Retail stores in Peterborough will be closed all day Thursday, May 24.

This decision was reached at a Board of Directors' meeting of the Peterborough Businessmen's Association Thursday and announced to the Examiner by acting president Harry Green.

A survey by the Chamber of Commerce reveals that the majority of the city's industries will close on the holiday Thursday and open up again Friday. Three of the bigger industries, CGE, Quaker Oats Co. and Canada Packers are following this plan.

Two or three industries are closing down Thursday and not opening again until the following Monday—giving employees a four day weekend.

Not more than one or two are taking the holiday on Friday for a three-day weekend.

The merchants favored the long weekend but found it was not workable under existing laws.

MOST OPERATIONS

The most operations ever done in a month at Civic Hospital were in April. A total of 357 operations were listed by superintendent John Hornal in his monthly report to the board of governors Thursday night. In March, there were 265 operations.

H.L. Garner Addresses Toronto Lions Club

TORONTO, May 19—A newspaper is a mirror help up over the world, Harold L. Garner, general manager of the Peterborough Examiner, told a luncheon meeting of the Toronto Central Lions Club at the King Edward Hotel. "Thus," he added, "it's main purpose is to report the news rather than create or comment upon it."

The only exception to this, he explained, was the editorial page, which "while not always right, should at least always strive to be intellectually stimulating." Mr. Garner praised the general competency and honesty of news stories and advertising in Canada. He added that the latter reflected the growing realization by business firms that integrity is their greatest asset.

Church Commission Adjourns Till June

TORONTO, May 18 (CP) — A special Anglican Church commission which Thursday began to investigate dissension at St. Barnabas' Church in East Toronto has adjourned and will not sit again until June.

The commission, made up of two lay and two clerical members, was set up by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, to settle differences which have split the congregation into two factions.

Members said the dispute arose after a minority sought the removal of the rector, the Rev. Henry W. Garbutt.

Northern Dams Lowering River

During the past two weeks the rate of flow in the Otonabee river has dwindled to one-quarter of the 12,000 cubic feeet a second peak reached in April. This has been caused by a gradual stoppage of water in the upper lakes region and has resulted in the lowering of river and lake levels below Peterborough.

On Thursday water over the Auburn dam averaged a flow of only 3,326 cfs., about 1,500 cfs. above the normal summer flow. The week's flow opened Sunday with an average of 6,075 cfs. dropping to 5,666 cfs. on Monday, 4,991 cfs. on Tuesday and 3,429 on Wednesday.

The Trent Canal department said today that Sturgeon and Balsam lakes are now at summer levels while Stony lake is at high summer level. Buckhorn and Rice lakes are still higher than normal. A bottleneck at Hastings is keeping the level of Rice lake high because the water can't escape quickly.

All the storage lakes, such as Kenesis, Paint, Crab, Mud and Hawk lakes are full, at maximum spring levels. This water will be used during the dry periods in the summer.

Cobourg Gets $3 Million Army Depot

COBOURG, May 18 (ENS) — Three and a half million dollar ordnance depot for the town of Cobourg was announced Thursday night by the Han. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, climaxing negotiations which had been going on for the last four months. Key figures in these negotiations were the Minister of National Defence, Dr. Fred Robertson, M.P. for Northumberland, Senator William Fraser and Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg.

In the announcement, Mr. Claxton intimated the depot mght be used as an overseas supply point "when the St. Lawrence Seaway is completely."

This was taken as an indication that when ocean-going ships could dock at Cobourg, the depot would be used to send supplies to Europe.

The huge depot, which is to be known as the Central Command Ordinance Depot, will utilize the services of 1,500 male and female personnel of which some are soldiers but most of them civilians. Work will start in two months.

An assembly point for supplies, it will handle everything from tooth brushes to huge items of armoured equipment. Location is at the north-east end of Cobourg. The depot will ocupy one hundred and twenty-five acres.

Use Harbor Facilities

The harbour, which is open all year, will play a vital part for incoming and outgoing material along with rail and highway transport services. The town will supply utilities services of water, sewers and power up to the property in question.

Mayor Jack Burnet said that workers and their families will amount to an increase of more than 3,000 to the population of the town. It is quite possible that the location of the depot here could not only accelerate present industries which would be supplying equipment components but could attract other industries to locate here. The depot would not necessarily stock equipment for the Army alone but conceivably could handle items which were common to all three services such as technical and medical equipment.

The negotiations were cloaked in secrecy, high military and government officials have been in Cobourg from time to time looking over such essential services as water, sewers and power, the ideal location of Cobourg from the standpoint of land and water transportation and its possibilities for air travel were all studied carefully in the visits of the officials and military men here.

GE Independents Get 9 Cents An Hour

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP) — General Electric Company Thursday night agreed to a nine-cents-an-hour wage boost for 40,000 independent United Electric Workers.

It is retroactive to March 15. The independent union originally demanded a 32-cent-an-hour wage increase. The present average wage is about $1.80 an hour.

The wage increase needs the approval of the Federal Wage Stabilization Board to become effective.

What Constitutes Communist Domination?

When a provincial labour board hands down a decision which may effect national security, it may properly be criticized in any other Canadian province, and it is altogether probable there will be considerable criticism of a ruling made by the British Columbia Labour Board last week. It rejected the latest move by the anti-Communist Steel Workers Union to wrest bargaining rights from the Communist Mine-Mill Union at the Trail plant of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation. The refusal to reopen hearings again ignored or disallowed the numerical superiority claim of the former union, but the Labour Board may have had precedent or reason for so doing. We can see no reason, however, for its added statement that "No proof was brought . . . that Local 480 of Mine-Mill was Communist-dominated."

* * *

We do not know whether the fact of Communist-domination may be accepted by a labour board as reason for refusing to certify a union as bargaining agent. We doubt it. Yet the statement was apparently made by the British Columbia Board as at least additional justification for rejecting the Steel Workers latest appeal. And if that was what the Board had in mind, the question arises: How much and what sort of proof must be offered before the fact of Communist domination is established?

* * *

The Mine-Mill district of British Columbia, in which Trail is the most important local is run by Harvey Murphy, a graduate of the Lenin Institute at Moscow. He is not an elected officer, but was appointed to the post by International Mine-Mill Union, long known to be controlled by the Communist Party of the United States. The International Union's steering committee consults regularly with William Z. Foster, U.S. Communist head, and other party leaders. Most of Mr. Murphy's fellow executives are members of the Labour-Progressive Party, and the remainder have been consistently associated with Communist "Front" organizations such as the Canadian Council For Peace.

* * *

The annual wage policy conference of the Mine-Mill Union last year was held in Trail. Local 480 was the host union, and it was ably assisted by Mr. Murphy. Also present were Becky Buhay, educational director of the Communist Party in Canada, and Maurice Travis, well-known Communist and secretary-treasurer of Mine-Mill International. Mr. Travis is permanently barred from entry into Canada, yet despite his size and striking appearance, he managed to slip across the border and stay four days at Trail before being discovered and shipped back to the United States.

* * *

A smelterman at Trail named Clair Billingsley was at one time a strong and valued member of the Murphy-controlled union. Shortly after the organization of the Trail local, Mr. Billingsley was made full time international representative. He soon learned that the post demanded membership in the Labour-Progressive Party. The Communists would not permit anyone other than a party man to hold so important a post within the Trail local's jurisdiction. Eventually, Mr. Billingsley was discharged by the International Union, and he is now the leader of the Anti-Communist steelworkers.

If these facts are not sufficient proof of Communist domination, it will be exceedingly difficult to establish its existence anywhere. Most reasonable Canadians will consider that Mine-Mill's Local 480 is dominated by the Communist Party under its Canadian label, and if that belief is correct, there is cause for apprehension. Canada's first atomic plant is part of Consolidated at Trail, and the huge industrial establishment is vitally important in other ways to the defence of Canada. It would seem no more than an elementary safety measure to throw out the Communist Mine-Mill Union whenever an opportunity offered, but the B.C. Labour Board apparently does not see things that way, or else it was restricted by some regulation or ruling not yet reported.

Hoop-La Diplomacy

Last Saturday in Parliament the Leader of the Opposition took Mr. Pearson to task for some of his recent utterings on the subject of our relations with the United States. The Minister did not have too much difficulty in disposing of the charge that he was "banging the United States on the nose." He was able to quote appreciative comments from several American papers to show that his remarks had been "gently phrased and friendly" and that they demonstrated "a greater degree of unity between Ottawa and Washington than exists between the Democratic and Republican parties." A free and frank expression of views conducted on a good-tempered basis can do no harm; in fact it is a healthy sign.

Mr. Pearson decried what he called "hoop-la diplomacy. By this he meant conducting negotiations in the presence of television cameras and banks of microphones. He told his audience that when exposed to the full glare of radio, television and headlines diplomatists became actors and acted out their parts sometimes to the detriment of their real objective.

An example of this happened some years ago. The Australian parliament decided that its proceedings should be broadcast. The result was that members, instead of addressing the House, began addressing the radio audience, introducing every sort of irrelevancy into their speeches with an eye to vote-catching. Some even used the radio on occasion as a substitute for long-distance telephone calls. The dignity of the House was seriously impaired, and the scheme had to be dropped.

While the old days of secret treaties are over, so far as the democratic countries are concerned, there are signs of a return to negotiations being carried on in secret. When diplomatic negotiations are carried on in the full glare of publicity there is a great temptation to make fiery speeches "for home consumption" which shed more heat than light on the controversy. We are glad to be reassured by Mr. Pearson that he has no intention of conducting the nation's foreign affairs in this manner.

China's Manpower

There is a story dating from the Japanese war of aggression in China. There was a report of a battle in which the Japanese had lost a certain number of men and the Chinese had lost about three times that number. A Chinaman, hearing this, said, "Good. If this goes on we are bound to win in the long run." With a population over five times as large as Japan the Chinese could easily sustain losses that would have crippled their adversaries. To the Westerner, who still believes in the sanctity of human life, this attitude seems unbearably callous, and yet it is dictated by the logic of the situation. The Americans, Westerners par excellence, are chary of sacrificing men while lavish with equipment: the Chinese, on the other hand, are flung into battle with a minimum of training and equipment. Col. Stone, C.O. of the 2nd Battalion, PPCLI, confirms this, when he says that in his opinion the Canadian troops have never met any top-rate Chinese soldiers. They have, he says, a "certain lack of interest in living," but if you kill enough of them, after a while they stop coming.

Reports of a renewed offensive have now proved true after the failure of their last push. It has been estimated that there are 500,000 of them involved in this latest assault. This is a large number to keep supplied with rations and ammunition, even according to rudimentary Chinese standards. Yet even this horde represents only a small percentage of China's huge reservoir of manpower. Put into Canadian terms, 500,000 Chinese would be about the same proportion of China's total population as 14,000 Canadians would be of Canada's total population.

But even China's manpower is not inexhaustible. Already it appears that their best troops, the veterans of the Sino-Japanese war, have been "expended." As the war goes on it can be expected that the quality of the Chinese troops will deteriorate further. More troops may be needed to quell unrest in the provinces. We do not prophesy a speedy end to this war, but even China cannot sustain this heavy "blood tax" for ever. Evidently the leaders of Red China still believe that they can force their way to victory in Korea by dint of overwhelming numbers. The stand of the Gloucestershires may help them to revise their opinions somewhat.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We suppose the old saw that "money talks" still holds true. If so, however, we wish some of it would talk loud enough to give itself away.

It seems timely to call the attention of housewives to a little news item from Minneapolis. A man broke his arm there while beating rugs.

Once again the Kiwanis Music Festival is being held in a local church—might we suggest the Church of the Open Piano?

A dictionary defines a budget as "a financial estimate or plan designed to keep expenditures below income." A more modern definition would be "a plan to buy something you can't afford with money you haven't got."

A survey held recently in the United States reveals that one person out of every hundred has never heard of the atom bomb. Why make them unhappy by telling them?

West Germany's Neo-Nazis

By CYRIL DUNN

WHEN the new State Parliament for Lower Saxony meets here at the end of May, it will contain the first sizeable neo-Nazi Party to get into democratic government in the West German Federal Republic. The Socialist Reich Party, led by Remer, who suppressed the revolt against Hitler in 1944, has sixteen out of 158 seats—no mean share of a House wherein no party has a working majority.

The facts are less saddening than they seem. Only four of the S.P.P.'s 95 candidates were directly elected; the others were thrown up by the system of proportional representation which is here combined with direct election. But 367,000 people, or eleven per cent of those who voted, came out for a party which openly derides the democratic experiment now proceeding in Western Germany.

I went to one of Remer's meetings in Brunswick and found it disturbing simply because it seemed so normal. For some time before the election, the S.R.P. was threatened (ineffectually, as things turned out) with banishment from orthodox politics. With an astuteness which suggests more political maturity than seems to be contained in the published list of leaders, the party quietly dropped its jackboots and fanfares and began overnight to conduct itself on lines admirably copied from democratic usage.

The audience in Brunswick was a fair sample of the citizenry, rather than a gathering of the embittered and dispossessed to whom Remer, or any other extremist, might be expected to appeal. The people listened to Remer's oratory, and to a preceding speaker who mispronounced German just as Hitler did, with fascinated interest. It was as if they were waiting to be caught up by the old magic of the crowded Stadium, the ranks and banners, the old proud certainty . . . One sensed that they were there, not to recover their national self-esteem, but to be told they had never really lost it.

Who has brought the S.R.P. to this minor triumph? There are, of course, the known leaders—Remer, the young militarist; Dorls, the cynical opportunist and Von Westarp, the mystic. These have drawn into the party the incorrigible Nazis who in 1945 "retired" to the pastoral obscurity of Lower Saxony, to Lueneburg and the Harz Mountains. They have been joined by men released from internment camps, where they were allowed to keep the old party spirit alive and the old party relationships in being, while Germans outside the wire were struggling to reconstruct their country, most of them materially, but a few of them spiritually. The old boys' association from the internment camps is able to attack democracy with a vigour unimpaired by doubt, because they know very little, and care less, about German efforts to find a new way of life. And they have won over those ordinary Germans who have not tried to understand the unfamiliar, abstract idealism of democracy.

But one may suspect that the motive forces behind the S.R.P. and similar groups are less obvious than they seem. There is something to be said for considering the neo-Nazi movement in geographical terms. One of its points of origin is the salient Lower Saxony makes into the Russian Zone. There is an abiding conviction here that the neo-Nazis are financed from the East, if not by the Communists, perhaps by East Germans whose interest in the profits to be won from inter-zonal trade is greater than their ideology. It is significant that when some unknown hand tried on the eve of the Lower Saxony poll to stage a split in the S.R.P. by producing five S.R.P. members willing to renounce their allegiance at a press conference, their theme was that the S.R.P. brand of totalitarian belief was not Nazi but Russian.

Lately it has been plain for all to see that West German Communists have been curiously inactive. In fact, the S.R.P. and adjacent splinters are playing the Communist game so well, whether they intend to or not, that there is no need for more direct intervention from the East. The S.R.P. although blatantly military, preaches a kind of inverted neutralism, by saying either that Germany should be strong enough to stand alone, or at least that it should dominate the defence of the West. This idea is far more effective in its impact upon the German people than more rational forms of opposition to German rearmament, because it couples the German belief in their own military importance with the comforting assurance that it commits them to nothing practical.

S.R.P. propaganda, deriding Western democracy in terms with which the Germans are familiar, is exactly what is needed to keep Western Germany in its post-war state of uneasy instability. Nothing could be more gratifying to all the forces east of the Elbe.

By winning a "respectable" status in Lower Saxony, the S.R.P. may become a rallying point for reaction in Western Germany. It may be, on the other hand, that its days are numbered as an orthodox political force. As soon as the Federal Government sets up a constitutional court, a decision about the S.R.P. will have to be taken. Meanwhile, it is comforting to dwell on what Remer and his backers have failed to do.

Operating in the Border States, they hoped to capture the main body of East German refugees who live hereabouts such sad and limited lives. But the refugees with enough spirit to be interested in politics have stuck to their own party, the B.H.E. (Refugee Party) and so at one blow have denied to the S.R.P. some of the backing on which it counted and the chance to dominate the policies of the Lower Saxony Parliament.

Even so, neo-Nazism is a menace to those concerned about the solidarity of West European defence and to those Germans who are struggling for the ordinary decencies of life in contemporary Germany. Remer and his mind will hold up the human rehabilitation of Germany for so long as they are allowed to encourage the resentment and destructive criticism to which so many Germans are unhappily addicted.

Freedom In India

(NEW YORK TIMES)

IT inevitably comes as a shock to find Prime Minister Nehru and his Government demanding powers to curb freedom of speech and of the press. This is the same Jawaharlal Nehru who spent the greater part of his life fighting the British for just such liberties, along with India's national independence.

Liberty is indivisible and Mr. Nehru is not going to keep his coveted independence in foreign policy long if he curbs freedom at home. A year ago last April a "Preventive Detention Act" was passed, conferring powers on central and state governments to detain persons without trial. These powers were used extensively against Communists and they were an ironical commentary on India's soft and friendly policy toward Communism in China and Southeast Asia. When it is considered that India still has what amounts to a one-party system under the Congress party, it seems evident that the Government is going too far. A vigilant opposition with the ability to defeat the Government in power by democratic procedures is vital in any country if great powers of repression are not to be abused.
